Mannings contract cancelled

University accepting bids for new food service

By FRIEDA BEATY
Staff Writer for The Cougar

Following months of deliberation by various campus committees and advisory boards, and the recommendation by the University Center Policy Board last fall, UH has decided to terminate the Mannings, Inc. contract and open up for bids for food services at the University Center and UC Satellite.

The call for bids was officially announced at the Student Association meeting Monday night, but the UCPB Foods Committee was informed of the decision February 14, Sharon Sweeney, chair of the Foods Committee, said.

Bill Scott, UC director, said the decision was not announced earlier because the UH did not want to change food services during the semester. He added the reason the UCPB's recommendation to open for bids was rejected last fall was because it was made at the wrong time and because it was too late in the semester to get a new service.

Although the Mannings contract is terminated, Scott said Mannings can still participate in the bidding. "We would have had to negotiate a new contract anyway because the state is considering requiring all auxiliaries (like the UC) to pay for their own utilities, and utilities will be part of the negotiations," he said.

Harry Sharp, vice chancellor dean of students, said he reconsidered and took the recommendation to the chancellor's cabinet.

In a letter to Larry Phelps, area vice president of Mannings, Fred Drake, vice chancellor of finance and operations, said the UH understands the financial problems faced by any food management company in these days of high prices and labor, but the many problems in hours of operation, services rendered, professional personnel, equipment and cost utilities must be faced.

The letter stated the decision was made after long deliberations by the university staff, and many student committee and policy boards, and that the letter was giving Mannings the required 60-day notice of termination.

Companies submitting bids will take a look at the services on campus and make an offer, Scott said. There will be two types of bids: a fee management bid, in which UH would pay the company to manage the service and would receive all the profits or losses; and a P&L management, or profit and loss management bid. In this system, the UH would receive a percentage of the total gross sales.

Scott said the contract calls for a 60-day notice, and the reason for waiting until now to open for bids is because May 16 will be the end of 60 days, and the end of the semester. According to Scott, the delay will eliminate interrupting UH food services.

Scott said specifications will be available for bidders March 20, and he knows of 13 services which will be issued specifications.

In choosing the food service, the foods committee will be involved in eliminating and recommending the best system for UH to the UCPB. The UCPB will in turn send recommendations to the UH administration.

"We are in a good situation, and in the best position right now," said Sweeney. "Now we have something to work with. We want to get someone in without as many problems in the service, and someone who can serve the students better. It's time for a new company to come in."

Watt takes rap for boycott failure

By RICHARD GOLDSMITH
Staff Writer for The Cougar

The Mannings, Inc. food service contract with UH has been cancelled, Students' Association Senate President Ed Watt announced at Monday night's senate meeting.

Watt read a letter dated March 14 from Vice Chancellor of Finance and Operations Fred Drake, informing Mannings of the decision to terminate the contract effective May 16, the last day of this semester.

Before reading the letter to the Senate, Watt apologized for his "vacillating" leadership in the attempted Mannings boycott and took the blame for its failure. But Watt said later he was aware almost a month and a half ago of the impending decision to terminate Mannings.

"I learned about the decision from Harry Sharp (vice chancellor dean of students) a few days before it was announced to the Foods Committee on Feb. 14," Watt said.

Watt told the Senate that the the contract had not been cancelled earlier to make sure that Mannings did not quit before the end of the semester, leaving the University Center and the UC Satellite without food service. Under the present contract, Mannings is entitled to a 60-day notice of termination, but cannot leave before that time is up.

In his letter, Drake said, "This decision was reached reluctantly, but due to the present conditions and climate, it was deemed a necessary move."

Watt later said that he informed Cougar Editor Mark Power approximately two weeks ago of the impending decision because of the many editorials critical of both Watt and the Senate.

"Mannings was a big issue in the SA presidential campaign. Bonnie White could have lost the election on that one issue, but we

Carter wins big; Reagan strengthens lead in Illinois

CHICAGO (AP)— Ronald Reagan captured Illinois Tuesday night and gained all but unstoppable command of the contest for the Republican nomination. President Jimmy Carter won the Democratic nomination in a landslide that dealt a staggering blow to the challenge of Senator Edward Kennedy. Regan defeated Representative John Anderson, the liberal congressman from Rockford Ill., and left former U.N. ambassador George Bush a far-back third.

Carter was swamping Kennedy by a margin of more than 2-to-1 in gaining the greatest prize yet of the Democratic campaign.

The defeat cost Kennedy the very state he once said would be his arena for a come-back against Carter. But Kennedy said in advance he would continue his quest for the nomination.

In Republican competition, Bush's poor showing put in doubt his ability to mount a meaningful challenge to Reagan.

"It's a great boost to move into the industrial Midwest and take a state like Illinois," said Reagan in New Haven, Conn., where he took his campaign in anticipation of New York and Connecticut primaries. He said, "It gives us momentum," and immediately began talking about "the main contest" in November.

Like Kennedy, Bush had once said the contest would be a watershed. Like Kennedy, he said defeat would not force him from the race.

With 42 percent of the vote in precincts reporting, it was: Carter, 65 percent; Kennedy 30 percent; Calif. Gov. Jerry Brown, 3 percent. On the Republican side, Reagan, 49 percent; Anderson, 36 percent; Bush, 11 percent; Rep. Phillip Crane of Illinois, 2 percent.

While the preferential vote ranked the candidates, the competition that counted was in separate balloting for national convention delegates.

With 10 percent of the precincts reporting in the Democratic delegate counting, Carter led 97 to Kennedy's 12.

Ten percent had been counted in the GOP delegate balloting, and Reagan led for 32 nominating votes, Crane with three, Anderson with two.

All told, Democrats were electing 152 delegates,

Republicans 92.

Anderson told his supporters that the primary was only "a phase of this campaign," and said defeat would not drive him from the race.

Administration deserves applause

Rarely are university administrators applauded for having their community's interests at heart. But UH administration has taken a long-awaited step in the right direction by opening bids for food services to the University Center and Satellite.

It has taken a year of complaints, investigation, allegations and refutations, quarrels over services and much ballyhoo to encourage the administration to give Mannings Inc. the axe. But a few questions remain to be answered about the notice given to Larry Phelps, Mannings area vice-president, about invoking the 60-day termination notice of the contract.

Will UH use this clause to give Mannings an opportunity to save face, to make more promises of high quality service and better food? We hope not. This has been allowed in the past, and has come back to haunt UH administration, regardless of the seven percent profit terms that help operate the UC. Competitive bidding is the basis of our American system of business; there is no logical reason why universities should be exempt from the process.

Will UH use this opportunity to allow the situation to "cool off," and make deals with Mannings behind the scenes so they can remain at UH? This must not be the case. Administrators may be reminded of the furor when, over Christmas break without a meeting of the UC Policy Board, the decision was made not to open food service bids. Dealings regarding students must be made in public forums, with opportunity for community response, especially when the UH community picks up the tab.

The administration has realized that recommendations made from within the system are valid and well thought out. Blatant disregard of governing bodies within the university, made up of representative from all segments of the community, will not be tolerated. The real reason that open bids were not announced earlier (i.e. that Mannings might interpret the action as invoking the 60-day termination clause in the middle of the semester) should have been disclosed to the UCPB in executive session.

But with the turmoil, the university has at least made a decision in the best interests of the students, and should be commended.

What is TexPIRG?

Amid a mass of modernization, we as a people often encounter difficulty in finding the time to investigate those issues which greatly concern us, both directly and indirectly, present and future. As modern-day individuals, we are, with the help of media and technology, told what to buy, how to enjoy life, who to vote for, etc. Nevertheless, we as consumers have a right to know how our funds are being spent; we have a right to get our money's worth; we have a right to fight back against consumer rip-offs. With these rights, however, comes the responsibility to make ourselves aware of the issues and problems we face every day.

TexPIRG is a vehicle through which we fight back and increase our knowledge of consumer and environmental affairs. TexPIRG is the Texas Public Interest Research Group, accent on public interest. Where we live and the conditions thereof, the food we eat, the air we breathe, and the cars and bikes we operate are concerns of TexPIRG. We at TexPIRG believe that the key to responsible control over decisions which affect our lives must lie in cooperation between consumer and commercial interests, with the participation of all of us.

In the past, TexPIRG has investigated banks, advertising and availability in grocery stores, tenant rights and auto repair rip-offs. The building of a nuclear power plant 45 miles from downtown Houston is a present concern, and intervention in its construction is in the works.

The beauty of TexPIRG is having someone to fight for you—TexPIRG can do what the individual cannot, since it is part of a widespread body of PIRGs from coast to coast, i.e., CalPIRG and NYPIRG. Since we are you, it follows that we need each other. TexPIRG has grown weary of trying to fight for some 30,000 students with a handful of people. We are as big as you are, folks, but we still need you to get it done. You can get into the citizen participation role beginning with Earth Day '80, April 22nd, the 10th annual nationwide environmental awareness day, which will focus on improving the quality of life on this planet. It is sponsored by TexPIRG. Campus activities will include exhibits, music, art, dancing, speakers and demonstrations. A massive undertaking of this size needs lots of planning, ideas and energy.

TexPIRG, like many worthwhile organizations and groups, suffers from a lack of people-power and from fund malnutrition. We're looking to you, the person on this campus, because you have ideas that we just might not have come up with yet. We're reorganizing our forces and will be making ourselves known more than ever. We're located in the UC Underground, campus organizations mecca, across from the Students' Association. Our next meeting is tomorrow, 3 p.m., in the Cascade Room in the UC Underground. Our number on campus is x3130. Stopping in and talking is the first step towards the positive effectiveness we all can produce.

Castration by any other name...

This has been one of those days where a pall of thick carbonous sludge has hung over my desk, refusing to budge even when I answer the phone politely. It has been a day like those when you wake up with a hangover and someone tells you made a pass at your best friend's mother the night before.

It is the day I took my poor Siamese kitty, Gutz, to be neutered.

I've felt like the Angel of Buchenwald all day. You should have seen his poor little chocolate face when I left Gutz with that bad old kitty doctor. He had homicide in his eyes.

Actually, I don't get that sentimental over cats. These days, neutering your cat is about the best thing you can do. There are too many of the buggers to go around and if you've ever had a male cat spary your house, you have a strong argument for kittycide.

It could be that my own castration anxieties are the reason I've taken this so hard. I certainly wouldn't like a group of cats to haul me off to the doctor with the sole purpose being to turn me into a fat, lazy steer. I even put the operation on kitty off for months because every time I thought about what was to happen I got a pain.

Feminist groups can have a good time with that kind of thinking. To hell with them. They probably don't even keep male cats in the first place.

If the tables were turned, women spayed and men neutred, the world would probably be a better place to live. It would certainly end war, since everyone would be too fat, lazy and even-tempered to get mad. VD would be a thing of the past. Discos would go out of business pronto.

Pornography and strip joints would also pass. The smut shops that dot every otherwise decent street in Montrose would suddenly shift to selling movies and photos of people in various stages of eating and sleeping.

It could be that Hilmer Moore of Richmond, our idiot welfare commissioner, had all this in mind when he advocated forced sterilization for welfare recipients. Maybe Moore is not the flaming fool we all thought. I doubt it, since he was only proposing this favor for a small segment of the population.

But I digress.

I'm sure that Gutz, being the vindictive soul he is, will never forgive me for having his family jewels offhandedly wacked from his supple champion body and tossed down the damper. He will probably harbor hatred for me even if I stop feeding him dry food. And I will continue to have castration fears. I might be next.

Letters

Jump to nuke power 'premature,' endangers next generations' welfare

To the Editor:

I write in response to Robert B. Moore's letter in the March 6 edition of the Cougar, in which he lashed out at those opposed to the haphazard development of nuclear power which this country has undertaken, on the basis that nuclear power would ease the economic problems which our nation now faces. In doing so, Mr. Moore proves himself to be of the same self-serving character as the men who dictate our nations energy policies. Like these men, Mr. Moore's main concern seems to be centered around easing his own short term problems such as high gasoline prices even if it means rushing into a premature solution which society has shown itself unable to control responsibly. We have jumped headfirst, with the "neophyte scientists" in Washington as our leaders, into a technology which, even in its developmental stages, has proven to be chaotic. Imagine the possibilities which we and future generations face if the present course for the development of nuclear power is followed on a large scale. Already, plans have been made for the dumping of nuclear wastes into caverns and salt domes throughout the nation, when indeed no one can begin to predict the long term effects of such a plan. Contracts for the construction of nuclear facilities are awarded to builders on a lowest bidder basis, a practice which results in inferior design and workmanship, with increased chances of major nuclear crises. We build reactors on earthquake prone faults in California, then dump the waste products, potent for many lifetimes, into the oceans. All of this is done with the intent of improving the system and solving these problems as we are able-if we are ever able.

I do not deny that in time nuclear power can, and most likely should be a major source of our energy. However, to rush into it in the interest of making our own brief lives more simple, or to make gasoline cheaper shows a great disrespect for our own abilities and a greater disregard for the welfare of future generations who most certainly will be affected by the choices which we will make in the near future.

Mr. Moore stated that the inability of the anti-Nukes to "see past our noses" will guarantee that gas costs $4.00 a gallon by 1984. It might also be said that the inability of men like Mr. Moore to see past their own lifetimes may guarantee far worse things than expensive gas for our children's children.

Nuclear waste terrible for millenia

To the Editor:

The most unfortunate aspect of character possessed by Mr. Moore and our society, both national and global, is that dollars are their measure of value. It isn't surprising, then, that nuclear advocates are quick to scream how poor is the economic sense of their opponents. The high cost of energy is their battle cry—with tears in their crocodile eyes they speak of preserving the quality of life, but obviously place little value upon it. What's at stake is not life's quality, but its continuance.

There are many reasons, including some economic ones, why nuclear energy should not be in the nation's energy future, but there is one that alone should convince anyone that nuclear energy is unfeasible: plutonium waste. This radioactive, man-made element (it didn't exist until uranium was fissioned) is the most carcinogenic substance known. Plutonium is so toxic, there is no realistic threshold at which it does no harm. It is generally accepted that a millionth of a gram of this substance will produce cancer. One nuclear reactor produces 400-500 pounds of it every year. Once it's produced, there is no way to get ride of it since plutonium has a half-life of about 25,000 years. This means that it's not safe for almost half a million years, a time span incomprehensible to human experience. That's a very long time to insure safe storage. Do we have the right to pass on so terrible a legacy to future generations for the sake of our own energy problems?

There's so much more that could be said, facts like the above, that are far from ramblings by scientific neophytes. For now, though, this will do: Concern for the future of life on earth is not left wing extremism. It is a moral responsibility. Too many people, whether for selfish profit or due to blind, foolish faith in technological solutions, refuse to accept the dangers of nuclear power. Educate yourselves. Your're not being told the whole picture.

THE TRIPARTITE MAN AND THE CHURCH

(this week's topic)

"The Christian life may seem to be individual and private, but really it is not; it is a corporate life, a body life (I Cor. 12:4). You alone are not the Body; you are a member, and you need others as members in order to realize the church life. When we stop trying to do good by ourselves and learn to depend on Christ and live by Him, we are a living member and prepared to be a functioning member of His Body. Then we have to realize the church life by definitely presenting our body to the Lord (Rom. 12:1), having our mind renewed (Rom. 12:2), and by having our spirit on fire, burning fervently (Rom. 12:11).

Iranians allege election fraud

Council demands inquest

TEHRAN (AP) —Iran's Revolutionary Council ordered an investigation Tuesday of allegations of fraud in national parliamentary elections, most of it attributed to the Islamic party that is leading in the contest.

If it dominates the new Parliament, the clergy-led Islamic Republican Party might obstruct President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr's efforts to have the U.S. Embassy hostages freed quickly. It was unclear whether the inquiry would further delay convening of the Parliament.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared an amnesty for several thousand political prisoners and chastised the most zealous of his revolutionary followers for indiscriminate arrests of "counter-revolutionaries."

In other developments, the government was reported to have pledged not to execute the deposed shah if he is extradited, and the United States resumed its case against Iran in the World Court.

It was the eve of the Iranian new year and the 136th day of captivity for 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The new, 270-seat Iranian parliament, or Majlis, is the principal hope for release of the hostages. Revolutionary leader Khomeini says the Majlis must decide the Americans' fate, and Bani-Sadr has made clear he is eager to end the crisis over the hostage-holding.

But leaders of the conservative IRP, which was ahead in first returns from last Friday's elections, generally are more sympathetic to the anti-U.S. tactics of the young Moslem militants holding the embassy. The IRP leader, Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti, backs their demand for return of the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his wealth in exchange for the hostages' release.

First returns showed candidates endorsed by the IRP had won 34 of 79 districts, and supporters of Bani-Sadr had won 16.

Hesitation by Watt blamed for aborted Mannings boycott couldn't say anything during the campaign," he said. Watt actively campaigned for White.

In other business, the Senate passed a bill changing the term of office for students serving on the Student Service Fees Planning and Allocations Committee. Currently, the terms of office run concurrent with the those of the senate and of the SA president, beginning on the first Monday in April. The bill changes the SSFPAC terms so that they begin each July 1. The change was made because the Texas legislature meets every two years, causing every other Student Fees Committee not to be involved in any fee allocations, while the previous committee is involved in two allocation processes.

The committee consists of two elected students and the SA president. The SA president will continue to begin a term beginning in April, but will serve on the committee beginning in July. The next committee will consist of SA President-elect Bonnie White and elected members Sam Baker and Clyde Kiser.

A resolution supporting the news staff of the Baylor Lariat, authored by Watt, was sent to the Student Life Committee for consideration.

With minimal debate, the Senate approved four appointments to several boards.

Bret Thompson was approved for the Health Center Policy Board; Terry Bryten, for the Handicapped Advisory Board; and Craig Thomas, for the Academic Enrichment Council.

Martin Cominsky was appointed to the University Center Policy Board. Cominsky, who graduates in May, is presently the elected chair of UCPB, but wished to switch to an appointed position in order to be able to remain to help new members learn their responsibilities.

Coog baseballers lose in last minutes

The Sam Houston Bearkats waited until the last minute to win two ballgames from the University of Houston.

The Bearkats scored two runs in the top of the tenth inning in game one to edge the Cougars, 7-5. Dale Dennis' two RBI single tallied John Clark and Bill Johnson to break a 5-5 deadlock.

Rick Volz led Sam Houston hitters with a three for six performance. Johnson was two for five, while E. J. Arnold was two for three. Phil Wuthrich picked up the pitching win in relief.

UH scored two runs in the sixth and three in the seventh. David Minielly had two RBIs for the Cougars. Minielly was two for five, while Terry Byrum was two for four. Brent Bentley was charged with the two Bearkat runs in the tenth and picked up his third defeat of the season.

UH jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the nightcap. Bobby Bell's sacrifice fly scored Robbie Von Tungeln, and Dale Oliver scored on an error. Sam Houston starter Bill Knudson shut the Cougar offense down after the second, allowing only two hits and throwing a complete game.

UH starter John Shannon pitched four and two-thirds innings of no-hit baseball before Pat Carey reached base on an infield single. Glenn Wilson's two-run home run in the sixth tied the game for the Bearkats, and Sam Houston moved ahead in the top of the seventh on two Houston errors.

Orienteers take top honors

UH's orienteering club swept first place honors in the ROTC Area II (Texas) Championships this past weekend.

The team, composed of Pete Owen, Pat Clements, Charles Miller and Dan Murray, had to combat injury and stiff competition to post the low time for all categories.

Individually, Owen finished first, Clements second and Miller third. Kathi Woodson finished first in the 23-34 age category with Anne Pena right behind in the second place berth. Larry Wier, a health and physical education doctoral candidate, finished second in the 35-and-over groups.

The win gave the team possession of the prestigious Commanding General's trophy for the year.

Orienteering combines cross country running and land navigation. Participants use a map and compass to look for control points and the fastest runner completing the course is the winner.

Officers offer tips for victims

Secret to stopping a rape: s

By REDDING FINNEY
Staff Writer for The Cougar

The rapist can be stopped.

Remaining calm and showing as little fear as possible is the first thing the victim should know if she is attacked. This is not easy, but it is the first step toward escape, UH crime prevention officer D.E. Bolte said Tuesday.

Although she may not know how, the victim should use her imagination in this situation, Bolte said. No one can predict how they will react during a crisis, he said.

Bolte said there was a case where a victim was in the back of a moving van during an attempted rape. As the suspect started to remove his pants with both his hands, the victim had enough time to jump out of the van. She got away with a broken arm and ribs, but the important thing is she was not raped, Bolte said. He said she could do this because she stayed relatively calm.

Bolte said the number of rapes increase in spring, but the reason for this is not known. He said it may be because both women and rapists are outside with the warmer weather. Rapists look for victims who are in vulnerable situations, such as when they are walking alone at night or in unlighted areas, Bolte said.

Passive and active resistance are the two strategies the victim can use if attacked, Bolte said.

Passive resistance involves using one's imagination to delay the attack while looking for ways to escape, or trying to talk the rapist out of continuing the attack, he said. If the victim chooses this strategy, she should not try to degrade the attacker, but should try to get him off the subject of rape, he explained. When using this plan, the victim should:

- Try to remain calm and show as little fear as possible.
- Talk to the attacker as a person and gain his confidence.
- Continually look for an opportunity to escape.
- Choose tactics that will leave one able to try other things if a particular approach does not work.
- If one's first attempt to dissuade the attacker fails, she should try something else, since different approaches work on different

Passive or active resistance to rape?

Active resistance involves using physical force to repel the attacker, Bolte said. With this strategy the victim should:

- Scream if someone is near enough to hear one.
- If the victim is grabbed from behind, she should throw her head back hard against the attacker's face or throat, jab her elbow into his midriff, crush down on his instep with her heel, press her thumbs very hard into his eyes, and run toward a safe area.

No method is foolproof, and no single method is the best one in every situation, Bolte said.

Bolte said passive resistance is the best because it gives the victim some room to work in and if it fails she has active resistance to fall back on. Also, if a victim uses active resistance first the attacker may go ahead and beat her, he said. By closing alternatives, all the victim does is give the attacker an ultimatum, which could be dangerous and should be avoided, he said.

Once the victim gets away from the suspect she should run toward cars, people, or lights, just get to a place where there is some activity, because "people are nice, and they try to help one another,"

Bolte said.

An attacker does not like to be seen in light because the victim may be able to identify him later, Bolte said.

If the victim must submit to the rape, she should not wash herself afterward because evidence that may lead to a conviction may be eliminated, Bolte said. The victim should try to remember what the attacker looks like, he said.

Bolte said according to the FBI, there are from two to 13 categories of rapists, depending on what methodology is used.

UHPD always has a female officer on duty to talk with rape victims, along with three experts trained to deal with victims, Bolte said. UHPD deals with more crisis problems such as rape than most other police forces, he added.

Although the UHPD no longer escorts women to parking lots due to the expense involved, police will patrol an area a woman is walking in if she calls, Bolte said.

If a person goes out with the intent to commit a rape he is doing it in order to "get back at some one," Bolte explained.

The best way for a woman traveling alone by car to avoid being attacked is by having proper maintenance done to the vehicle, stay cool

Bolte said. He said a woman should have citizens band radio to call for help if she has car problems because CBers are generally safety minded.

"If you car breaks down, lock yourself in it, and do not unlock it for anyone except a police officer," Bolte said. When someone stops to give one help, she should ask the person to call for help and stay locked in her car, he said.

When women are walking alone they should tell people where they are going and stay in well-lighted areas, along with wearing cloths they can run in, Bolte said.

About four out of every 10 rapes are reported to police, Bolte said. Of this number reported, only about 4 to 8 percent of the reported rape cases end up with convictions. Once a rape is reported, many of the victims drop out of the legal proceedings because of family pressure or they are unwilling to talk about their past sex lives, Bolte said. Plea bargaining and the of lack of solid evidence also accounts for the lack of convictions, Bolte explained.

Under Texas law rape convictions can bring 2 to 20 year sentences with $10,000 fine.

Texas has a good conviction record in rape cases because the laws are designed in a conservative manner, Bolte said.

If a female is raped she can get help from the Rape Prevention Center, and should ask for it when she goes to the hospital for an examination, Bolte said.

REPORTING A RAPE

The police can only arrest a criminal if they are made aware of the offense. If you are raped, call the police IMMEDIATELY, and if available, call your local rape crisis center.

DON'T CHANGE CLOTHES OR TAKE A BATH OR SHOWER. All physical evidence, including seminal fluids, hair, blood types, and scrapings of flesh from the victim's nails are used in court.

Information Most Needed By Police:

1. Car license, make or model, color
2. Race of assailant
3. Approximate age, weight and height
4. Hair color and length of hair
5. Color of eyes
6. Clothing
7. Any unusual marks, scars, tattoos, rings, etc.

Practice being observant so that if you are raped or attacked, you will be able to remember and identify the assailant.

Law groups to sponsor talks by atheist O'Hair

Dr. Madalyn Murray O'Hair, generally regarded as the leading atheist in the country, will speak on the separation of church and state and its importance to religious liberty in America at UH Thursday.

O'Hair will give two speeches, the first will be at 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. in the San Jacinto Room at the University Center. Her second speech will be at 7 p.m. in Krost Hall at Bates College of Law.

The issues O'Hair will cover are the favored tax status of churches, the church as a tax shelter for businesses, government land grants to churches, and a law suit filed against the pope.

"O'Hair is a well known speaker on atheistic ideas. She is the author of "Religious Factors in the Vietnam War" and has written several other books," Gayle Bonnon, of the National Lawyers Guild, said.

O'Hair is the founder of American Atheist Incorporated in 1963, located in Austin. O'Hair and her organization are responsible for banning prayer in public schools. She has a Ph.D. in psychiatric social work, philosophy and a law degree from South Texas College of Law.

O'Hair's speeches are sponsored by the National Lawyers Guild and Law Students of Friends of Gays.

Symonds performs portrayal

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW, one-man dramatic reading of the Biblical book at the Nina Vance Alley Theatre. Starring Robert Symonds through April 13.

"The Gospel According to St. Matthew" is a unique, dramatic portrayal of the Book of Matthew in the Bible, performed by Robert Symonds of the Alley Theatre.

Symonds begins by reciting the generations from Abraham to Jesus, and he tells about the birth of Jesus and his life teachings.

Symonds is powerful in the role of St. Matthew and the other characters he portrays throughout his one-man show. He adds variety by using different body positions, levels, and by using the entire stage.

Some of Symonds' movements are repetitious, however, and during Act I, he tends to direct himself more to stage right. This may be due to the set, which is pointed out closer to stage right, where Symonds sits during some part of the first act.

Act II is about the crucifixion of Christ and His rise from the dead. It tends to be more interesting than the first act, probably due to the subject matter and the way it is performed.

The set is minimal. It consists of a chair, stool, table, and an artistic backdrop that hangs near the back of the stage. Changes in lighting show different colors that shine through the drop. At times it appears textured when the light hits it at a particular angle. The lighting, designed by James E. Stephens, adds diversity and dramatic effect to St. Matthew's story.

The text of the play is the scripture, yet some moments are humorous; and as would be expected, some are quite dramatic. Sometimes Symonds is sitting facing the audience, other times he is kneeling; he is forever moving, enhancing the action of the play. He has good voice control, and his performance is quite impressive.

The sound effects do not always work well with what is happening on the stage. Original music, voices of the crowd, and piped-in voices are among the sound that is used. Sometimes it is unrealistic and takes away from the reality of the moment.

Actor to audience closeness needed for this type of production is lost on the large stage. The show would have worked well in the Alley's arena stage. Much of the facial expression and the dramatic surge and vitality that Symonds possesses is lost to audience members who are not close to the stage.

This type of play does not appeal to all audiences because of the subject matter and the way in which it is presented, as an oral history and not a role-playing of Jesus' life. However, it is an intensifying production performed by a superb actor. Past audiences have enjoyed it, because Symonds has already received standing ovations.

The Tax Man Cometh...

...or April 15th is sooner than you think

Beta Alpha Psi, national professional accounting honor fraternity assisted by the Students' Association will hold tax-help sessions for students, staff and faculty March 26, April 2 and April 7 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Pacific Room of the U.C. Underground. The sessions are a part of the VITA (volunteer income tax assistance) program of the IRS.

BAP members attend instructional classes at the IRS in preparation for the program. Technical assistance during the event will be provided by Dr. Jim Pratt, Asso. Professor of Accounting and Taxation.

Betty Keessen, BAP committee chairperson with several years of IRS experience, said, "While we expect the majority of returns we complete will be for individual students and faculty, we are also capable of assisting with simple corporate returns and income tax returns for estates and trusts. Anyone requesting assistance should bring their forms and supporting information."

"Persons who attend the sessions should be cognizant of the fact that we will only be assisting them in completing their returns; no liability is assumed by either the Beta Alpha Psi member or the IRS," Mary Ann Carroll, President of Beta Alpha Psi, said.

VITA is an annual project of BAP. "We are very pleased that the Students' Association offered to assist us with the publicity this year since we think this is a very much needed project for the University community," Carroll said.

Funding for Organizations Available Through COC/SA

Campus organizations in need of funding for projects that will be of value to the University of Houston community should consider COC/SA as a possible source of aid. According to Director of Special and Organizational Concerns, Kay Lynn Harris, the committee was established as a funding source for recognized student organizations with limited financial resources. COC/SA also works to combine the committee members expertise of current campus activities with the goals of the requesting organizations to produce viable student involvement in university life.

Applying for funds is a relatively simple matter of filling out a COC/SA application and returning it to the committee for consideration. The committee meets each Wednesday at 4 p.m. Applications must be received by 3:30 p.m. to be considered on that Wednesday's agenda.

Members of the committee, as specified in the COC/SA charter, include the Director of Special and Organizational Concerns and representatives from Program Council, Organizations Board, Ethnic Affairs, the Student Life Committee. Also included are the Chairman of the Fiscal and Governmental Committee and one appointed student.

The committee is directed by twelve guidelines. Organizations are limited to "no grant or combination of grants...in excess of $500 per semester."

Only recognized campus organizations may request funds and the group must have checked into alternative sources of funding. A more complete list of guidelines may be picked up in the SA office.

Organizations which are in need of help in this area should contact Kay Lynn Harris in the SA office for more information on this service provided by the Students' Association.

AEC Strives to Augment Classroom Learning Experience

The Academic Enrichment Council (AEC) is a branch of the Students' Association dedicated to Academic excellence at the University of Houston. AEC was formed to help students and faculty work together to enhance the classroom experience.

Under the direction of Kay Lynn Harris the AEC is working to help fund research related to the classroom and projects taken on by students as part of their classes.

As with most of the projects that Students' Association is involved in, it is a relatively simple task to apply for funds from the AEC. Applications may be picked up from the SA office and should be returned to Ms. Harris for placement on the AEC agenda.

AEC is made up of five students and two faculty members. The faculty members are appointed by the Faculty Senate and the student members are appointed by the SA President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Grants are primarily for use in conjunction with class projects, but a limited amount of money is available for special projects and research.

AEC investigates each proposal to determine whether alternative sources of funding are available. It is very important that the student requesting funding has looked for help within the department he is working for.

For more information on this vital service call Kay Lynn Harris at 749-1366.
