CASE NO-BILLED

Coeds absolved by jury

Two UH coeds were no-billed Tuesday by a Harris County Grand Jury. They were charged with administering an injurious substance to a minor.

The defendants, Patti Tyser, 23, and Gwendolyn Hartin, 27, both sociology undergraduates, now face trial for the same charges before the UH Student Court. They allegedly spiked with a laxative a chocolate cake served at a sociology department party.

Dr. James Whitehead, associate dean of students, did not indicate when the case would come before the court, although one of the defendants said she was told the case would be heard January 25.

Charges were filed with the Harris County District Attorney's office after a complaint was made to Traffic and Security (T&S) by a person in attendance at the party.

Following a pretrial hearing, the case was turned over to the Harris County Grand Jury, and was subsequently no-billed.

Meanwhile, the Student Life Committee (SLC) recommended at a December 21 meeting that the pair go before the Student Court on the same charges, Helen Cassidy, SLC chairperson said.

Should the Court find the women guilty of the charges, they could face suspension from school, Whitehead added.

Following the December 14 party, some of the people who ate the cake developed stomach cramps, nausea, and diarrhea, the T&S report indicated. A City of Houston Health Department analysis of the remains of the cake revealed traces of phenolphthalein, a chemical used in making laxatives.

UH Rx to dispense medicine next month

A student-operated pharmacy located in the University Health Center should be open next month, Helyn Patterson, Health Center office supervisor, said.

Due to a law passed by the Texas Legislature regarding the pharmacy at the University of Texas at Austin, the UH pharmacy will serve only UH students.

The pharmacy will provide students with prescriptions at lower prices than commercial pharmacies, Patterson said. She added that prescriptions would be issued to students if a Health Center doctor or an approved physician authorized them.

Approved by the State Pharmaceutical Licensing Board, The UH pharmacy will be the first of its kind in this area, Patterson said.

The Space Allocation Committee has approved the space, and construction is the only delay to operation, she said.

Equipment and furniture for the pharmacy are presently up for bidding by outside contractors, Bob Carter, Facilities Planning and Construction architect, said.

"Since the space has been allocated, we are now waiting for Facilities Planning and Construction to get someone to do the remodeling in the ward of the Health Center set aside for the pharmacy," Dr. George Webber, pharmacy professor, said.

U.S. may cut funds if bias exists at UH

By TONY CANINO

The threat of losing federal funds due to possible violations at UH of federal civil rights statutes may lead to a government agency conference, Students' Association (SA) Vice-Pres. Debbie Danburg said Wednesday.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare conference would be held with interested administrators, faculty and students to inform campus leaders of possible infractions.

The most important statutes in question are Executive Order 11246, which deals with job discrimination and Titles VI and IX of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. These statutes deal with discrimination in programs receiving federal assistance.

Last November, federal funds to Rice University were withheld following an investigation of personnel hiring practices.

Danburg said HEW first contacted UH November 16. Several representatives came to the campus and talked about the possible conference with several UH leaders, including Julius Gordon, coordinator of Ethnic Affairs at UH.

As a result, letters explaining the conference were sent to organizations all over Houston in an attempt to make participation in the proposed meeting citywide, Danburg said. Response to those letters was minimal, she added.

In a letter to HEW Branch Chief Miles Schulze, Gordon said the topics he would like to see covered include:

- The rights of the non-resident and international student at a state university,
- Athletics: dealing with female and non-athletic students,
- Financial assistance and

- grants,
- Equal employment opportunities
- Curriculum changes
- Possible conflict with civil rights legislation by sororities and fraternities, and
- What to do about violations of university subcontractors.

Danburg said HEW would like to correct any problems of this type without governmental intervention.

She said she and "many other people" at UH strongly favor this conference and called it, "A great opportunity for us."

Inside the Cougar

The release of a student's records for off-campus use is now prohibited without the student's permission except where required by law. Details on Page 2.

New 55-mph limit

The new 55 mile-per-hour speed limit goes into effect at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. Department heads of various law-enforcement agencies said tickets will be issued for speeding in all areas where the new speed limits are posted.

John Lipscomb, Texas Highway Department Traffic engineer, said the new speed limits should be posted on all state highways by Friday.

Harris County engineers were not certain the new speed limits would be posted by Sunday on all county roads.

THE FIRST sun of this year brought these students out to play on the ropes and wire spools by Shasta's cage. This acrobat was one of the afternoon's outdoor attractions.

EDITORIAL

Screwed again

It was during the holiday fire in the Faculty club that a student, standing off to one side watching firemen clamber around on the roof, said it was typical of UH that all the important events happened during the holiday breaks when the Daily Cougar was not publishing.

At the time everyone thought this was pretty funny. But all the laughter died at the January Board of Regents meeting when they raised the Building Use Fee with only a perfunctory kiss to the student population. This type of action is not new to the administration or the Board.

In the distant past, trees have been razed and administrative actions taken when the Cougar and other students were not around to raise any stink. However, the regents and the administration had recently appeared to have foregone that type of clandestine action and begun to deal openly and honestly with students on issues which involved students.

The regents and administration actually seemed concerned about student opinion on university matters, going so far as to place students on the University Council.

To a large degree, this is what makes the fee hike so noxious. It was done in the face of this apparent new understanding between student and administrator.

Now it seems we were naive to believe the administration truly wanted student input into university matters and cared to listen to the student voice.

The decision to raise building use fees could have stood a little more discussion, specifically involving more student input. Who knows, it might have been truly justified.

To the Editor:

The students of this university are being polled in order to ascertain whether or not the physical education department requirement should be dropped. I would like to express my appreciation to those responsible for giving the students of UH an opportunity to indicate their desires and attitudes regarding the P.E. requirement.

Personally, I feel that the only real benefit from the required P.E. courses is the brief increase in physical fitness for the average student.

But this result is really of no consequence unless the student continues to exercise and keep in shape for the rest of his adult life. And I believe that those who will do this are those who exercise regularly anyway; therefore, they should not need the P.E. in the first place.

As for the sports events involved, few, if any, students will continue seriously to play football, basketball, or run track. Some may play tennis, myself included, but here again these are probably those who already play or will learn the game elsewhere.

Whatever their feelings about this may be, each student should fill out the poll form and turn it in. Please make the most of this opportunity to change the academic machine so that it may serve you better.

Cushman. The 'Cruising to Help a Cougar' van may soon be recalled.

DEALER RECALLS

Coog van to cruise no more

Think of it this way—we haven't lost an old van, we've gained a new one.

The only problem will be surviving without the red and white Chuck Davis Chevrolet van 'cruising to help' the Cougars until 1975.

The former Chuck Davis Chevrolet, now Letson-Davis Chevrolet, requested at the end of the fall semester that Traffic and Security (T&S) return their 'helpmate' van which was on loan to them.

This was the second such van over a period of four years which Davis loaned to T&S for campus use. "It has been an immeasurable help to us," said Lt. R. V. Johnson of T&S. "It provided so many facilities to the students."

Some of the most important services the van and the work-study students who drove it performed were escorting handicapped students around campus or to the airport in the rain, and providing a stretcher and oxygen for heart attack or fainting victims.

The van carries extra water, jumper cables, and fire extinguishers, and van attendants help change tires, but only for females. "If it's an able-bodied man of average intelligence, we instruct him and let him do it himself," Johnson said.

Johnson, who also sponsors the Cougar guard, said the van was even used occasionally to escort Shasta to games.

Joe Letson, vice-president and general manager of the company, offered several explanations for the "Indian giving" incident.

"They've been having problems getting vans. Since we were under allotment, we weren't able to let the van remain in service."

Letson said.

In order to qualify as a tax write-off, the van had to be on loan, rather than given to UH. "It was a '72 model, and we weren't able to get a '73 model for you as they were all sold so quickly. The years are passing on it and it was just depreciating too much," he added.

Letson hopes to be able to place an order in June for a 1975 model van for UH.

In the meantime, those much-needed T&S services that once brought so many letters of thanks are suffering. Boxes are being attached to several of the old Cushman scooters, but oxygen can no longer be carried and handicapped students, especially those with electric wheelchairs which cannot be folded, cannot be aided in transit across campus, Johnson said.

Johnson feels the scooters have been offering "fair" service. "So far we've been lucky," he said.

FBI concedes taps; socialists sue feds

To publicize their upcoming lawsuit the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) at UH sponsored a UC information booth Wednesday.

The lawsuit, sponsored by the Political Rights Defense Fund, is directed by YSA and Socialist Workers Party (SWP) against top governmental officials and key federal organizations.

SWP and YSA are unincorporated political parties with members throughout the United States. Both organizations seek to replace capitalism in the U.S. with socialism, a spokesman said.

YSA and SWP are filing the suit because of the alleged violation of constitutional rights of those organizations and their members, Pedro Vasquez, YSA member said.

The Houston Chronicle reported January 11, the federal government had admitted "electronic surveillance" of SWP and its members from 1945 to 1963. The government also acknowledged a "Socialist Workers Party Disruption Program," conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation from 1961 to 1969.

Some of the higher federal officials involved in the suit include Pres. Richard Nixon, John Mitchell (former U.S. Attorney General), and three former Nixon aides, John Dean, Robert Haldeman, and John Erlichman. Also included are other high government officials.

Representing SWP and YSA in the suit is Leonard B. Boudin, partner in the New York City Law firm, Rabinowitz, Boudin and Standard. Boudin earlier served as defense counsel for Daniel Ellsberg.

The suit seeks damages of $27.9 million.

Cougars face Centenary

By NORMAN GRUNDY
Sports Editor

Houston's 6'10" center Maurice Presley and the rest of the Cougar squad face one of their biggest challenges of the season tonight, as they go against the Centenary Gents and seven-foot Robert Parrish in the Shreveport Golden Dome.

The Cougars, 9-5, must battle one of the nation's most potent offenses in Centenary. The Gents average 93.9 points per game, and if not for probationary action taken against them by the NCAA, would undoubtedly be ranked high in the national polls.

Parrish, whom Cougar coach Guy Lewis calls one of the most dominating big men he has ever seen, leads the Gents with a 19.4 points per game average. He also pulls down over 15 rebounds per game, and is the major reason Centenary boasts a 10-0 record.

The Cougars currently rank tenth nationally in scoring with an 88.9 mark, and are led by All-

American Louis Dunbar, who averages 23.8 points per game.

Presley averages 14.5 points while senior forward Sidney Edwards is canning 15.1 per game.

The Coogs hold a slight rebounding edge over their opponents so far this season, but expect the battle of the boards with Centenary to be as tough as ever.

"He's really strong," Presley says of his opponent who stands two inches taller. "He gave us a lot of trouble last season, and we know that it will take a team effort to control him. However, with the type of offense and defense we play, he'll have his hands full most of the time, with few one-on-one opportunities. We figure if it takes a team effort to control him, then that's what we will have to do."

Presley, who has been plagued with foul trouble this season, will have 6'8" David Marrs in reserve to fill any gaps.

Marrs averages 9.7 points per game and has proved very effective in recent games, coming off the bench to aid in the front court when Presley got into foul trouble.

The Gents expect a sellout crowd for this the first of two meetings between the two powerhouses.

Houston won a pair from the Gents last season winning 89-85 in Hofheinz Pavilion, and squeaking by 90-89 in Shreveport, when Parrish missed the tail-end of a two shot foul line trip with no time left on the clock.

The game will be broadcast live beginning at 7:50 p.m. with the Guy Lewis show on KPRC.

Pomeroy qualifies

Freshman Lance Pomeroy became the first UH swimmer ever to qualify for the AAU swimming championships yesterday when he completed the 200-yard backstroke in 1:58.8.

Pomeroy now holds the eighth best time nationally.

COUGAR CENTER Maurice Presley (15) hooks for two in last year's 90-89 victory over Centenary in Shreveport.

UH netters look to playoffs

By HORACE BUTLER
Sports Staff

One good bounce of the ball might be all that coach Paul Christian and his UH tennis team need to swing through the conference and into the playoffs this year.

The UH netters were tagged number four among the nation's college tennis powers last year behind the talented play of Bob Ogle, Lee Merry, Dale Ogden, Richie Ley, Jim McNairy and Tom McArdle. To the regrets of Houston's opponents, that same six-man machine is back.

Any college coach that has ever wielded a racket would be smiles for days to be in the UH mentor's sneakers, but not Christian—at least not yet.

To pocket the conference win, Christian realizes that Houston has to deal with SWC's defending throne keeper SMU. And that is where that "good bounce of the ball" comes in.

SMU is not only holding the keys to the conference title, but finished last season with a national rating of "four" stamped to its racket to give Houston some company at that slot.

Also, last year the UH swatting machine had compiled an impressive 13-6 slate in dual match competition including back-to-back shut-outs of TCU and Baylor before SMU turned the service on the Coogs, blanking them 7-0.

The Houston netters went on to place second in conference play, but number two finishes do not get you into the NCAA playoffs, and that is why Coach Christian has not unzipped his smile yet.

Tugging at that zipper will be the powerful doubles combo of Merry-Ogden that ran their '73 season win mark to 20 while dropping only six, and a quintet of singles players that posted a .500 season slate or better.

Golfers go international

By MIKE STACY
Sports Staff

Houston golfers take on a flare for international travel as Dave Williams and his linksters prepare for the 1974 golf season.

Trips to Scotland, Mexico and two jaunts to San Diego, Calif., highlight the Cougars' quest for their 13th NCAA team title in the last 19 years.

Williams, now in his 23rd year at UH and the most successful collegiate coach in history, said this season is a crucial one for the youthful Coogs.

"We play some of the best golfers, not only in the United States but also in the world this year, and our kids will be severely tested."

Houston opens the spring golf schedule February 2 as they play host to St. Thomas and University of Texas at Atascocita Country Club. February 14-16 finds the UH golfers in Monterrey, Mexico for the Pan American International Intercollegiate. Two weeks later, February 28 through March 1 and 2, the Cougars return to the border town of Laredo for the Border Olympics.

The west coast sees UH for the first time in 1974 at the Aztec Intercollegiate March 14-16. Then on March 31, Williams and his talented golfers depart from New York for Scotland and six days of golf at the famous St. Andrews Country Club. The tournament is the fourth annual International Intercollegiate Team Championship and concludes April 6.

Houston then comes home to defend its crown in the All-America Intercollegiate Invitational April 17 through 20 at Atascocita. The SWC championships follow then. Later in the summer, June 19 through 22, the NCAA championships at San Diego wrap up the 1974 schedule. (Whatever happened to the energy shortage?)

Scowling Morrison shows potential in listless concert

* et cetera

By LEON BECK
Cougar Staff

If Van Morrison conducted his recording sessions like he did his concert Wednesday night in the Houston Room, his status as a rock entertainer would, in all probability, be nil.

Dressed in black, never smiling, never talking, Morrison presented a grim figure on stage. The ever-present scowl became his trademark for the night. As one concert-goer commented, "He looks like he's mad at the world."

His early show consisted of marathon rambling and mumbling with all his numbers possessing that familiar Van Morrison sound. But, except for the lyrics, it would be difficult to differentiate between songs.

With the exception of a few numbers like Dylan's "Just Like a Woman" and "Here Comes the Night," the concert lacked the electricity of a live performance.

Yet, for die-hard Morrison fans, it was their night. Evidently, the crowd was pro-Morrison, even though the ones I talked to really didn't recognize too many of his songs.

"Domino" was Morrison's best number of the evening. It brought the packed house off the floor and onto its feet. After the dancing stopped and the stage was empty, the crowd wanted to see their star again.

Morrison encored with "Caravan," but I kept waiting for the little "Brown-Eyed Girl" to show up. She never did.

VAN MORRISON, who wrote the rock classic "Gloria" in the late 60s, presented a grim countenance to the audiences who attended his Houston Room concerts Wednesday night. TONY BULLARD—Cougar Staff

The opening act, the New Caledonia Soul Orchestra, seemed lost after their first number, like a where-do-we-go-from-here kind of situation. A six- or seven-man group (depending on how many were on stage at a given time), they picked up momentum once they got started.

The lead singer described the music as a "gospel revolution." The girl singer was a semi-Tina Turner type. . . she came on pretty strong. Her brassy voice and gyrations commanded the audience's attention during Sly's "I Want to Take You Higher" and "Neither One of Us."

OUSTED BY FIRE

Faculty club needs new home

The Faculty Club is looking for new headquarters. The club lounge was destroyed in the December 13 fire in E. Cullen Building, Marion Nelson, executive committee president of the Faculty Club, said.

"The club will use the UC Coffeehouse during the spring semester," Nelson said. Nelson said the club has approximately 300 members who pay $20 annually. The fourth floor of the E. Cullen Building was the informal meeting place for members to meet together, eat with their guests, play pool, ping-pong or bridge for 24 years, Nelson added.

She said the club was under financial strain even before the fourth floor lounge was destroyed. "Due to the increase in expenses and a decrease in membership, we do not have the financial support we once had. The decrease in membership is due to the overall growth of UH. "We have to get a larger membership to merit future headquarters,"

UH creates new council

A Council for Development is being established to act as an advisory structure for the UH Victoria Center in planning future academic and physical growth.

Composed of 83 members selected from the surrounding 15 counties, the council will be chaired by P.K. Stubblefield, president of Victoria Bank and Trust.

The council will be responsible for legislative assistance, solicitation of resources for the library, buildings, equipment and academic program planning.

UH Victoria Center, now in its first year of operation, enrolled 360 students for the fall semester.

Nelson added.

A study will be conducted to find permanent quarters for the club. Moving to an off-campus house or obtaining space in the Continuing Education Center are suggestions the club has considered, Nelson said.

The Faculty Club use of the Coffeehouse will not mean an exclusion of students, Nelson said. "That would not happen because students pay a building use fee and the faculty does not."

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT

Reading Speed drastically increased 4 to 10 times original rate.
Improved Comprehension eliminates unnecessary rereading.
Retention Techniques give students valuable tools for efficient academic work.
Mature Reading Skills promote greater self-confidence and reading enjoyment.
Reading Speed Flexibility brings efficient use of reading and study time.

The YMCA approach was originally designed in college to enable college students to do a better job with the reading required for their courses. Students have consistently improved their grades after taking the course. Physicians, lawyers, engineers and others report that they use the skills on their technical reading. Our files include many grateful comments from people in all walks of life.

A carefully planned step-by-step process leads each student into a whole new level of reading efficiency in ten-two hour sessions held once a week.
