Smith Lectures To B. A. Classes Tuesday Evening

"Sell Personal Services" was the subject Mr. H. R. Smith's speech to the Business Administration class last Tuesday evening at 7:15. Mr. Smith, who is the District Manager of the Jefferson Life Insurance Company of Houston made an interesting speech to the students.

Assets to finding positions with local offices were brought out to the fullest extent. The three main objects one must face according to Mr. Smith are as follows: "Personality" which deals with the confidence in the person himself, and the entering and leaving the office by the individual "stenographic ability" which includes accuracy, neatness and "ingenuity."

"Do your work well and there will be no criticisms," he said. "The most vital moving force in working is praise."

"Apron Strings" To Be Presented By NCDS Cast

"Apron Strings," three act comedy by Dorrance Davis, will be presented by the Red Masque cast of the National Collegiate Dramatic Society at the KTRH Playhouse Wednesday, May 19. Tickets are now on sale at twenty-five cents for students and thirty-five and fifty cents for adults.

Mavis Anderson, as Barbara Alwell, and Stillman Taylor, as Daniel Curtis have the leading roles in the play. They are assisted by Nat Davis and Edythe Reddick as Mr. and Mrs. Alwell; Hester, a maid, by Miriam Smith; Sally Powers as Inez Wakefield; and Eugene Snapp as Ezra Hunniwell.

The story concerns a young man who has been tied to mother's apron strings since birth. When his mother dies, she leaves a letter telling how to act under all conditions. His bride-to-be objects to this procedure and refuses to marry him.

Complications that occur because of the bewildered man's attempt to obey his mother's instruction to the letter make this a very humorous play. He finally discards the letter and decides to live his own life. And the moral is: Lovers must work out their own difficulties.

This is the last production of the Red Masque Players this year and the second one composed entirely of National Collegiate Society members. Their first play "The River" by Carl Springer placed fourth in the Intercollegiate One Act Play Contest at El Paso last month.

L. Standlee Mitchell is directing the play. He is assisted by Robert Talley. Carl Lieb is stage manager.

Dr. Werlin Speaks At D. A. R. Program Over Station KTRH

"Conquering the Enemy Within Gates" was the subject for an address given by Dr. Joseph S. Werlin, professor of sociology, on the monthly program of the Daughters of the American Revolution over radio station KTRH this morning at 9:30.

"There is indeed cause today for satisfaction and self-congratulation. How different is the panorama of our national life at this moment from just four short years ago. The breadlines and the soup kitchens, the queues of hungry and desperate men and women before the relief offices, the bonus armies and the armies of the unemployed, the riots and the near-riots, despair and dejection, hopelessness and pessimism—these all, like bad dream, have vanished with the new day but are not forgotten," said Dr. Werlin.

"Yes, with respect to the crisis we have just traversed, there are many things for which we should hang our heads in repentance, and many things for which we should be proud and happy.

"Let us draw the appropriate moral and the suitable lesson, and may the future see us truly worthy and truly representative of the great generation that brought forth this wonderful nation with its manifold blessings for every deserving citizen," he concluded.

ONE-ACT PLAYS ARE PRESENTED BY STUDENTS

Spanish and German classes of University of Houston presented a group of one act plays in the San Jacinto Auditorium, Wednesday night before a large audience.

"La Luna De Milo" by Pablo de Parelloda was the play presented by the Spanish classes combined with the Spanish club El Foro Espanol. The play takes place in a railway station and in a train. The plot deals with a couple of newlyweds on their honeymoon, chaperoned by a priest appointed by the bride's mother.

Considering the training and the material, the plays were a success. The best bit of acting in the show was done by Edythe Reddick who played the part of the old Spanish priest. Lolita Wood and Roy Much were a fine pair of lovers; Mills De Walt as the bride's mother added color to the show; Ed Jones the conductor sounded more like a Spaniard than any of the other players. Credit for the direction goes to Sadie Williford.

The play presented by the German classes under the direction of Louis Kestenberg was "Der Fahrende Schuler Bant Der Teufel" by Hans Saehs. It is a medieval German comedy dealing with life in a peasant home.

Clarine Vaden as Die Bauerin, the peasant's wife, turned in one of the best pieces of work in the play; Harold Leon as the priest and devil went over well; LeRoy Herbrig played the part of the traveling student, Der Schuler; and Jack Oden was the peasant who returned home and surprised the devil a la priest.

Between the two plays the audience was entertained by a duet played by Darting Miller and Hilda Svestka, readings were given by Ursula Heesche and John Marquet.

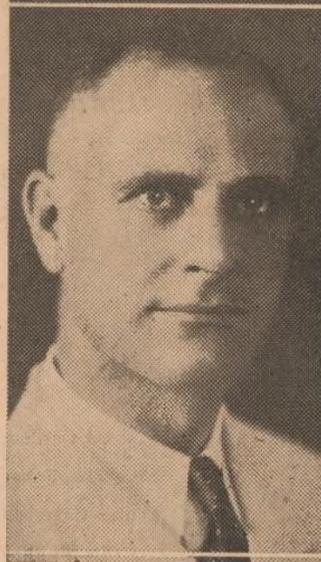

Squire Members Hold Stag Party To Discuss Plans

Tuesday night the Squires met at an informal stag party at the Lyric cafe, to discuss future affairs. Plans were made to have a dance at McGregor Park, May 15. This will be for members only.

Activities of the Squires were continued last week with a dinner dance at the Lamar Hotel Saturday night. The dinner began at 7:30 and was climaxed by dancing to the music of Garth Green and his orchestra.

Members of the club met at the home of Gus Japhet to finish the regular business Thursday night. At this meeting, those whose dues remained unpaid were dropped from the roll of the club. "We have given every member sufficient time to pay his dues. It is not the purpose of the club to take advantage of those who are unable to meet their obligations. They will be given every consideration," stated Don Miller, treasurer.

At present the Squires are passing a petition among the students to have an official Field Day, one which the day and night college might both accept. The student body is urged to sign.

EMPLOYMENT CHANCES

Employment prospects of this year's college graduating classes are only a little less favorable than those of the 1929 graduates, and substantially better than the June, 1936, classes experienced. This evidence of continued employment improvement is revealed in announcement today of the results of a survey just completed by Investors Syndicate, of Minneapolis.

Engineering, business administration, teaching and general business classifications are offering employment in greatest volume, according to J. R. Ridgway, president of Investors Syndicate, in announcing the results of the study. Law, journalism and investment banking are near the foot of the list, he said. These conclusions are based upon analysis of questionnaires returned by 218 leading colleges and universities which account for nearly half of the total enrollment of male and coeducational institutions.

In volume of recruiting among this year's graduates, General Electric, Du Pont, Procter & Gamble, Westinghouse and various American Telephone subsidiaries are leading, Mr. Ridgway said. "More than half of the June graduates of 185 institutions replying to the questionnaire are expected to be on payrolls before the end of the summer," said Mr. Ridgway. "Within a few months after graduation, seventy per cent of more of the graduates of 163 institutions are expected to be at work. Twenty-eight universities report that more than 90 per cent of their June graduates would be employed, while 13 say that they expect prompt employment of fully 85 per cent of the June classes. One hundred fourteen institutions declared that employment would exceed that of 1936. Eighty-nine replies expressed the opinion that this year would be about on a par with 1936, while nearly 30 per cent of the answers predicted a volume of employment exceeding the peak year of 1929. Engineering jobs were in the lead in 96 instances, with 83 placing business administration in top position. Teaching topped 65 lists, and general business classifications were in fourth place.

"Scholarship, personality, campus ability and popularity, character, leadership and general ability, in the order named, were most frequently given as qualifications being sought by prospective employers. Fifty-one and four-tenths per cent of the replies ranked scholarship as the first qualification for successful job-seekers. Personality was given first place by 19.7 per cent of the institutions; character, 5 per cent; campus popularity, 3.6 per cent; leadership, 2.3 per cent; and general ability, 1.4 per cent. Some replies listed as many as seven qualifications, others only one or two."

The leading corporation in each industry is usually most active in recruiting college graduates, Mr. Ridgway said. Also, recognizing continually changing employment demands and conditions, many colleges are either inaugurating placement bureaus or are expanding existing ones.

Tribute to Motherdom

So you bought a bouquet of orchids!
Throw the damn thing away—
If you're only giving it to her
Because Sunday is Mother's Day.

Are your kisses commercialized,
Labled, "For a National Holiday?"
Or do you shower her with them
daily
In the tender Hollywood way?

When is a kiss not a kiss?
When you must be reminded.
It doesn't possess that ethereal punch
That should always be behind it.

But the kiss that you tenderly steal
As she flavors an evening meal—
That is the kiss that reaches her heart,
That, she sincerely feels.

Flowers and candy are very nice
As expressions of your affection.
But they have become a national fad.
That's the primary objection.

She's one in a million—your mother.
But soon she must go away.
While she's here to love and care for you
Make every day her day.

Over a national network
That swings from coast to coast,
Someone should create a symphony
Or propose an immortal toast

A tribute to all motherdom
To the world whom they gave birth
Who nurtures him and nurtures her
And then lays down to nurture the earth.

Proof Is Needed As Local Boodler Tells The World

Ancient Greeks had a word for it, but we call it "boodling." Time was when a kiss was a kiss, but the meaning of the word has been altered. During the flapper stage, and as late as 34, 35, and 36, the noun "neck" was stretched to the verb "necking," and sufficed.

In the Victorian age, a young man's kiss usually meant the real thing, you know—A proposal or the "she got her man" idea. (gone are the good old days or words to that effect.)

Now, the word "Boodling" has been coined and moderns nonchalantly take or leave the art in their stride.

Eskimos probably have found the word "Noosing" suited to their particular type of kiss. Silly thing—give me a little nose rub.

"This year's crop of Boodlers don't seem the same," but you know how is goes—in this changing world.

Mother's Day Program Planned for Regular Meeting of N.K.D. Club

A Mother's Day program will be presented by three members of the N. K. D. Public Peaking Club tonight, at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the organization.

Dorothy Hohl will read several Mother poems written by Edgar A. Guest. "My Mother" is the subject of a speech to be delivered by Roy Much. Mr. R. D. Hallinger will be heard in a vocal solo, entitled "Mother."

The entire program is a tribute from the class to "Everyone's Best Friend, His Mother."

Plans Are Discussed At Regular Meeting Of Dramatic Society

Members of the Red Masque cast of the National Collegiate Dramatic society met at the home of Algerine Allen Saturday night for the regular meeting.

Following the business meeting, in which plans were made for the production of "Apron Strings," a review of the most popular plays now showing on the legitimate in New York, was given by Stillman Taylor. Mr. Taylor named the shows and gave a short criticism of each, telling who had the leading parts and how they were suited to play the parts. A very humorous radio skit was given by Al Gardner, who was in charge of the program for the meeting. A program chairman is appointed for each meeting and some very interesting programs have been planned. Sally Powers is in charge of the program for the next meeting, which is to be held June 5.

The meeting Saturday was the last regular meeting of the group before they present "Apron Strings." The cast of the three-act comedy is made up from members of the honorary society. The show is in rehearsal now and will be given May 19, at the KTRH playhouse. Tickets may be bought from any member of the Red Masque Players. Students will be admitted for twenty-five cents.

The Society plans to continue throughout the summer. One three-act play will be given and several socials will be given for the members. Five new members will be initiated into the group from the Red Masque Players before the term ends.

The Bosses

I've taken my jobs where I've found 'em;
I've drudged an' I've played in each one;

I've had my pick o' positions
An' three of the lot was great fun.
One was a stockbroker's office;
One was a place in a bank;
An' one was a real estate company,
'Twas there that I found the most swank.

Now I wasn't a good judge o' bosses,
When I first started out in the fight,
For you never can tell till you've tried 'em,

An' then you're most likely not right.

There's times when you think that you know 'em;

There's times when you're mighty perplexed,

But the things that you learn from each one in turn

They'll help you a lot with the next.

I first went to work for a lawyer,
So handsome and black-eyed and tall.

He had quite a way with the ladies
And thought he could capture 'em all.

I knew I'd be leavin' there shortly,
For I don't like that kind of film,
But I counted it valuable practice
For I learned about bosses from him.

An' then was a high-hatted banker,
Who officed from ten until one,
But the work that he gave me the while he was there

Kept me busy till set of the sun.
He thought that no people were count

Unless they were rich, old, and grim;

So I gave up the place—he was off o' his base—

But I learned about bosses from him.

An' one had just come from the country;

Thought he was the chief man in town

For he'd bought a big car and a Spanish style home,

Though instead of payin' up he'd paid down.

So he lorded it over the office
Until I got tired of his whim

An' told him I was tired—then he said I was fired,

An' I learned about bosses from him.

The next was a hard-boiled old duffer,

Until I had learned all his ways.
Then he got mild, an' sweet as a child,

An' never said nothin' but praise.
An' because I worked hard and steady

He helped me get into the swim;
Showed me the way to promotion and pay,

An' I learned about bosses from him.

So I've taken my jobs where I've found 'em;

The punk ones along with the best;
An' the things that I've learned into use I have turned

An' they've helped me along with the rest.

For the more that you know about all men

The easier it is to please one;
They are all kin, and under the skin

Each wants to be thought the big gun.

HIGH SCHOOL QUEEN

EVELYN LESIKAR CHOSEN QUEEN OF RECEPTION

Evelyn Lesikar, petite brunette from Sam Houston, was selected to reign as "Queen" of the tenth annual University of Houston reception last Thursday night at the City Auditorium.

Twice, the five beauties representing each of the five high schools, paraded across the stage while the judges deliberated. As Al Cron announced the winner, the capacity audience burst into frenzied applause.

The selection of Miss Lesikar as Queen marks the ninth time in ten years that a girl representing Sam Houston has been awarded the coveted title.

Queen Lesikar was escorted from the stage by Elmer Hamilton, president of the University of Houston Student Association. Following the Grand March, during which the royalty departed from the stage, a dance was begun.

The five girls who competed for the title of Queen were Mary Louise Jones from Reagan, Dell Louise Chambers from Jeff Davis, Evelyn Lesikar from Sam Houston, Francis Stephens from Milby, and Annette Piehl from San Jacinto.

SURVEY CLASS HEARS LECTURE BY W. L. BAKER

Warren L. Baker, editor of the Oil Weekly, delivered a lecture to the Petroleum Survey class Thursday night on the subject of "Petroleum Resources of the United States."

The lecturer pointed out many interesting facts about the future sources of motor fuel, dividing the subject into broad divisions that are available from petroleum, of which there are several categories; that supply that may be derived from so-called substitute, such as shale, coal agricultural crops, etc.

Subjects discussed in the lecture covered the wide field of oil reserves touching on known and unknown petroleum reserves, extent of undeveloped area, deeper drilling, producing and refining possibilities and form products.

At least the next generation, and more likely many others, need not worry about an exhaustion of United States' petroleum resources. Moreover, whenever, in the far future, the nation runs short of oil, the cessation will be gradual and it will have sufficient time to turn to either coal, shale, or agricultural crops as its source of motor fuel. These latter sources offer an eternal supply sufficient to meet all demands," Mr. Baker stated, in conclusion.

Next week, Cecil Hightower, safety director of the United Gas and Public Service Company, will lecture on Operations of Safety in Oil Companies. The lecture is open to the public and all who are interested are invited to attend.

Jim Notes

Ever notice what a dude that HUGH HARPER is? Always dressed in the latest . . . We have nothing against any particular one of the RED MASQUE PLAYERS, but we can't help noticing how self centered they are. When two of the Players get together, all talk of mundane matters ceases, and an outsider hasn't got a look in. Well, maybe it's just as well . . . STEWART GERMAN is without doubt the ugliest boy in the world. We don't see how he can stand himself . . . Are the SQUIRES going to live up to their early promises? We doubt it. They have been run by a dictator so far, and lost many promising members, who don't quite like the idea of the way things are being raliroaded. Too much TREASURER . . . ELIZABETH GREASY seems to be quite an affectionate lass, or at least she was when we saw her Sunday at Galveston.

The University has some pretty high class students, in case you didn't know. Imbibers of champagne, no less, who sniff it up no little and quite some, in the words of Runyon. The boy they call "DOUBLE UG" missed his chance though, by not recognizing the real McCoy . . . We nominate for oblivion: Those chiseling cuties who haunt the various popular meeting spots in the school and vulture cokes out of the too polite males . . . We're sure fed up with this good old malarkey sometimes called "front." There are several people in the University who think they have the public fooled as to the cost of their clothes, their consumption of beverages, and their general prowess. They'd be insulted if we mentioned their names, but maybe it's a good idea. For instance, DON MILLER puts on the big businessman act, FOSTER MONTGOMERY acts terribly reserved, MAVIS ANDERSON is the Ultra Sophisticate, BOB HOLBERG is the man about town, and so on.

PROFESSORS aren't immune from this disease, there being several in the University who blow themselves up considerably. Obviously we can't name them, but we know one who is constantly bellerin' about acting natural, and who is undoubtedly the worst ham actor in these parts. However, with all our faults, maybe we better shut up . . . The Juniors have contributed wonderfully to the year's entertainment, don't you think? No? My, my! Oh well, let it go.

GUS BORGSTROM (of the crimson countenance) got that red face from something other than the Galveston sunshine. At the high school reception, GUS wandered through a door very plainly marked "Ladies." He exited rather hurriedly . . . JOHN McMILLAN has garnered a few laurels for himself, and indirectly for the school, by tying for second place in the heavy weight division of the state wrestling tourney. You're huslin', JOHN.

These goodlooking guys like "Hollywood" Bauer sure lay 'em out in the aisles. We come upon a note (unsigned) from a female admirer, which is pretty complete. It says:

"Do you know who Howard Bauer is? I think he is the cutest thing I ever looked at. I wish I were about 2 years younger and 3 inches shorter and I sure would try hard to make him. If I ever have a boy I hope he looks just like Howard, but I could never be that lucky. He will probably be snagged tooth, cross eyed, as well as just plain ugly. I can't think of anything else to say." Oh well, personality is much better than looks . . . So long.

Snapp To Head Newly Organized Education Group

E. A. Snapp was elected president of a newly organized group representing the Health and Physical Education departments at a meeting held Wednesday, May 5.

Elizabeth Dale will serve as vice president; Juanita Doniphan, secretary, Harris Lodge, treasurer, Dorothy French, publicity agent; and Paul Guilder, sergeant-at-arms.

No name for the organization has yet not been selected, but a committee appointed by the president will submit one for approval at the next meeting. The club is for the benefit of those in Health and Physical Education field. An interesting program for the remainder of the school term is being arranged.

At the first regular meeting of the club, a committee to draw up a constitution was appointed with Dorothy French as chairman. Catherine Newnham is chairman of the committee for nominating officers. The next meeting will be held Monday at 6:00 p. m.

P. E. STUDENTS JUDGE JR. HIGH SWIMMING MEET

Students of the Physical Education class in swimming were given a practical test in officiating at a swimming meet Thursday when they acted as judges in a meet between Lanier and Johnston Junior High Schools. The meet was held in the Lanier pool.

Fifty contestants participated in fourteen events, and each student judge was given an opportunity to act in all officiating roles; starting, judging finishes, dives, and timing. The meet was held to give the P. E. students practical experience.

Those participating were: Marjorie Anderson, Dorothy Billings, Margie Brown, Jonnie Pace, Mrs. Lester Pickle, Kay Sampson, and Mary Caroline Sanders. The class is instructed by Miss Virginia Clampite.

Miller Announces General College To Be Permanent

Murray A. Miller, assistant administrative director of the day school, Thursday at assembly spiked reports that there would be no General College next year.

"There will be a day school next year. Any reports to the contrary are false," he declared. "We're going strong now and we're not going to stop."

Comprehensive examinations for day school sophomore student will be held May 20 and 21, Miller also announced. A full schedule will be issued in a couple of days.

The Music Study Club program which followed the assembly consisted of another of the popular radio broadcasts. Ira Clarkson, portraying chemistry professor Johnston, was the dial-twirler, and Harry Johnston and Roger Jeffery were the radio stars. They impersonated many famous radio personalities, including Ben Bernie, Al Jolson, Walter Winchell, Morton Downy, Jack Oakie, Tony Wons, and others.

Jinx Continues As Day Schoolers Lose Close Game

With Willie Buschardt pitching six-hit ball and the infield turning in an air-tight defensive, catcher DeYoung and the day school outfield Monday night at Lubbock Field threw away the best chance they've had of winning a game this year. The score was 6-4 in favor of the Houston Packing Company.

The University club took a 4-1 lead in the first inning, but with the aid of numerous errors the Pacing team over-took them in the final stages of the game.

It was a heart-breaker for Buschardt to lose. He pitched well enough to win most games, but his team-mates support was poor.

The day school team obtained six hits, the same number as did the Packing aggregation. DeYoung, catcher, who let in the winning runs of the victors, atoned somewhat for his miscues by clouting out a home run in that big first inning.
