United States Senate Reflects Rise And Fall Of American Statesmanship

American Type Communism Drives Respected Citizen From The Land Of His Birth

The last sad chapter in the sordid saga of Communism—American style—as applied to Stanley Yankus, respected farmer of Dowagiac, Michigan, has been written.

Mr. Yankus is selling his 100-acre poultry farm and moving his family to Adelaide, Australia, where he hopes to enjoy the freedom which once prevailed in the United States, but which has now been taken away from the American people.

Mr. Yankus fought for years for the simple right to work his land, raise chickens, pay his just debts and support his family in the tradition of good and honorable Americans since the beginning of the Republic.

But he reckoned without the Cossacks in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington, D.C., who hovered over his farm like vultures and who finally closed in and devoured him.

Mr. Yankus never signed up with the wheat program framed by politicians in Washington who never farmed an acre, ploughed a furrow, nor milked a cow in their lives and who acquired their views on "collective farming" from the writings of Karl Marx who, from the quiet confines of the grave, posthumously fathered the agricultural program which now disgraces the statutes of the American Congress.

He never accepted any subsidies under this collectivist program either and by all the rules of justice, common sense and fair play was exempt from its provisions.

But the Washington Commissars figured otherwise and insisted on dictating how much wheat this Michigan farmer could plant regardless of whether or not the amount allotted him was sufficient to feed his poultry from which he produced 52,000 dozen eggs per year to be marketed under our alleged American Free Enterprise System.

They garnisheed his bank account, levied fines against him and hounded him as if he were a common criminal until he was financially ruined and could no longer fight back against the entrenched bureaucrats in Washington backed by millions of dollars of taxpayers' money in their campaign for collective farming in the United States.

So Mr. Yankus has thrown in the towel and is moving to Australia.

The prayers of all good Americans will go with him to his new home in a far-off land along with the hope that he may hereafter escape the persecution which attended him in his attempts to make an honest living from the soil in the land of his birth.

If there is an iota of honesty, fairness and integrity left in the Congress of the United States, its members will not only repeal this Kremlin-inspired farm program but they will make financial restitution to this honorable, hard-working American who is being driven out of his country by their blundering, ineptitude and stupidity.

Meantime, as Mr. Yankus and his family embark on their sad and lonely journey to their new home across the vast Pacific, he will be forgiven if he recalls with bitterness in his heart that the American Republic was founded by colonists who left England to escape similar tyranny by King George and who risked the terrors and uncertainty of a new world in order that they might live forever under the blessed banner of freedom and enjoy the right to work and earn their living without interference by despotic rulers.

Once the Senate of the United States was universally regarded as the greatest and most incorruptible deliberative body on earth. Adhering to the immortal concept that principles are eternal and never change, members of that exalted Chamber did not adjust their convictions to suit the expediency of the moment, surrender their beliefs under political pressure nor swap their votes for the approval of organized minority groups. In other days the Senate stood for cautious, careful and time-tested legislative action which embodied the fullest measure of prudence, wisdom and foresight which it is possible for devoted public servants to contribute to their country's security, solvency and general well-being. Within its hallowed walls, the nation's problems were met and resolved by dedicated statesmen whose first and foremost objective was to preserve, at all costs, the priceless sovereignty, rights and freedoms which were the legacy of American citizens from those who had given their all to the founding of a matchless Republic. The Senate was the nation's anchor in times of storm, stress and strain and its checkrein against the usurpation of power by other arms of the Federal government and the brake which halted ill-considered and unwise legislation originating in the House. Today the most sickening evidence of political degeneracy and national decay is reflected on the floor of the Senate where an appalling number of weak, irresolute and low-grade politicians switch their views and trade their votes as readily as a movie actress sheds her husband. In contrast to vast numbers in that once illustrious body who exacted tribute from all the world for their probity, stability and rectitude, an overwhelming majority of its members now command about the same measure of confidence and popular respect that is accorded the promoters of a floating crap game.

The dying words of the American Revolutionary General, Nathan Hale, reflected this wish: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." Patrick Henry's dedication to the cause of freedom was expressed in this phrase which has rung down through the corridors of time: "I know not what course others may take but as for me, give me liberty or give me death," and the early history of the American Republic was shot through with dedicated statesmanship, loyal service and patriotic action on the part of its leaders which was without precedent and beyond compare.

No American institution has ever been a more impregnable fortress and citadel of freedom in preserving the traditions and way of life of the American people and in upholding Constitutional Government, or has more jealously guarded the inherited rights and sovereignty of the citizens of the Republic than has the United States Senate in days that are gone.

Millions of Americans Think It—The Southern Conservative Says It

As Between Corn And Harry Bridges And Jack Hall May Filth We'll Take Corn Be New United States Senators

We are informed by those who keep up with such things that Red Foley, the star of Jubilee USA, country music on television each Saturday night, is the richest performer in the entertainment world.

* If this is true, it proves that a lot of Americans still have wholesome and simple tastes as against those who go for the trashy programs with which television schedules are surfeited.

The objection to Country Music is that it is corny, and maybe it is, but if so, we will take the simple clean corn of the Ozarks any day in the week in preference to the disgusting, filthy interracial performances which are offered to the public on certain programs and especially on Saturday and Sunday nights.

Perhaps it should be explained to the world that a majority of the members of the Congress of the United States are not crazy. They just act like they are.

One of the worst pieces of legislative folly in human history was witnessed when they reached out nearly to the North Pole and annexed the barren and ice-locked territory of Alaska as an American State.

But that was statesmanly behavior of an exalted order compared to the supreme madness which has laid hold of them now and which motivates them in their determination to reach out half way across the ocean and bring in an Oriental area largely populated by Asiatic Communists as another unit of the American family of States.

Perhaps the most charitable conclusion to be reached in excusing their unspeakable actions in the matter is that most of them are merely pawns of International Planners and they don't realize that they are being used to break up the solidarity of the American Republic and render it more vulnerable to their program for One-World Government.

This country does not need to import Harry Bridges' horde of Hawaiian Communists in order to integrate and stabilize the Soviet conspiracy against the United States. We already have plenty of our own home-grown variety who are performing the job adequately and if evidence is needed, we point to the strong sentiment for the annexation of Hawaii which un-American propaganda forces have built up in both Houses of the American Congress.

Since the notorious Harry Bridges and Jack Hall are leaders of the Communist forces in the Islands, they will probably be illustrious additions to the present liberal majority on the floor of the United States Senate.

Legislative Committee To Probe Monteagle School

The Highlander Folk School at Monteagle, Tennessee, which has been a center of controversy since it was founded in 1932, is finally going to be officially investigated.

Claims that the school is a breeding ground for subversives will be looked into by a committee of the Tennessee Legislature, an action which was authorized in a resolution passed overwhelmingly in both Houses.

Citizens of Grundy County, where the school is located, have protested vigorously against having the school in their midst and are said to be almost solidly behind the proposed investigation.

However, even if the committee should find the charges against the institution well founded, it is not sure that anything will be done about it.

After all, there's always the Supreme Court.

In this editorial we do not mean to imply that there are not great, good and able men in the Senate today because there are, but they are greatly outnumbered. In recent years there have been scores of men whose loyalty, integrity and adherence to the principles of Constitutional Government could not be challenged.

It was a coalition of such men from both major parties who, during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, kept this nation from becoming a total—rather than a partial—Collectivist State.

Since that time their ranks have been tragically thinned by death, defeat and disgust, and by this we mean that some of them have been mowed down by the grim reaper, others were turned back at the ballot box and still others retired out of contempt for their colleagues' failure to live up to their oath to uphold the Constitution and defend the American Republic against its enemies at home and abroad.

Generally speaking, however, the debility, degeneracy and disintegration of the United States Senate first set in with the passage of the Seventeenth Amendment to the Constitution which permitted popular election of its members and as this action was taken at a time when International Socialism first began creeping into American politics, it was inevitable, perhaps, that down-grading of quality and lowering of standards on the part of candidates for the Senate should result.

The Senate was originally set up by the founders of the Republic as a sort of balance wheel or stabilizer against injudicious and unwise legislation by the House of Representatives and as an instrument to preserve and perpetuate the new-found freedom under which they hoped and believed that American citizens would abide forever as a result of the break-away from the tyranny of hated English kings.

It was figured that the members of the Lower House, who are elected according to the population of a State, might, because of sheer numbers, become victims of popular political whims of the moment and be swayed by partisan considerations of powerful voting blocs to an extent that would disqualify them from representing sound, responsible sentiment of the nation as a whole.

(We do not believe, however, that the founding fathers even in their most pessimistic and cautious moments of anticipating pitfalls of the future, were able to look ahead and visualize some of the sorry specimens of humanity who today strut the floor of the House while proposing legislation which must make early-day statesmen wriggle and squirm and turn over in their graves.)

At any rate, the Senate was given a mandate to act as a sort of supervisor of legislative enactments by the Lower House which could only become effective with the Senate's approval and concurrence. Since there were to be only two senators from each State, it was believed that the best available human material would be utilized in filling these positions of trust and that American statesmanship would attain its fullest flower on the floor of the United States Senate.

It was especially the desire of those who wrote the Constitution, and under whose glorious provisions a vast empire was later to be carved, that future lawmakers would steer as far away as possible from the concepts of the out-worn, decadent and paternalistic governments of Europe in framing legislation under which American citizens were to live and operate their economic, political and social institutions.

For approximately a century and a half these exalted ideals were carried out and although—the institution being human—there were occasional rotten apples in the barrel, the list of members of the United States Senate in the distant past represented the best brains and soundest thought of a nation on the issues and problems which beset any country in the perilous and formative years of its existence.

During that period, the prestige of the Senate was jealously upheld by the citizens of the several States who sent only their ablest, best informed and most incorruptible statesmen to serve as their spokesmen in the nation's top legislative assembly.

Today, sadly, that is not true. Seat after seat in that vast auditorium is occupied by low-grade politicians who landed in that soft job because they were unable to make a living in competitive fields which offered comparable compensation and because they were able to sweet-talk support from stupid and unthinking electorates by the simple expedient of promising the voters everything under the sun which could be purchased with taxpayers' money.

The slow but sure disintegration of the American Senate is marked, among other things, by the nature of the subjects which today consume the time, energy and effort of its members and which have no moral or Constitutional right to a place on the legislative calendar of an American lawmaking body.

For instance, where men of giant intellect once pondered such mighty problems as the protection of American industry, preservation of the Rights of the Sovereign States and the peril of American intervention in foreign wars, mental midgets now wrestle and grope with such puny political and vote-getting considerations as paying farmers for not planting crops, compensating laborers for not working and raising the social status and improving housing conditions of winos in Skid Row.

Other and more concrete evidence that the United States Senate is at its lowest achievement level in history is the fact that this nation is hopelessly floundering in debt, racial relations are more strained than at any time since Reconstruction Days and the dark clouds of war loom all over the world. And because weak leaders are the pallbearers of human liberty, the traditional rights and freedoms of the American people are fast drifting toward oblivion.

Every two years one-third of the membership of the Senate comes up for re-election and it is on those occasions when American voters could clean out the dead wood and lift that body to the lofty heights it once enjoyed. With proper and organized effort, they could induce men of principle, of conviction and of integrity to offer themselves for this service and then vote them into office.

The Senate of the United States is Constitutionally the most powerful weapon of restraint in the American system and if, once again, its members should be those who are firm and unyielding in their convictions, possessed of undivided loyalty to this country and concerned primarily, not in the welfare of alien peoples, but in the safety, security and perpetuation of this Christian Republic, we could afford to let Marxism continue to sway the two other branches of Government and the two major political parties—and this nation would still survive.

In summation, it is within the province of the United States Senate either to revive, restore and reactivate surrendered principles just as the chisel of a sculptor brings forth a spirit from the rock, to or provide the epitaph which the hand of time will write on the tombstone of a dead Republic.

Christianity Is Found Without Defenders In Its Hour Of Need

Following a somewhat belated disclosure that professors in the University of Texas are outright atheists and are openly scoffing in their classes at religion as ignorant superstition, members of the Texas Legislature introduced a bill which would require the faculty at State-supported colleges to take a religious loyalty oath.

The ink was hardly dry on the measure when violent opposition to the bill from influential sources developed.

This opposition did not come from actual card-carrying Communists, as might be supposed. That element remained strangely quiet, possibly on the assumption that more powerful and effective friendly forces who always come to the rescue would not fail them in this instance, and their deductions proved correct.

The opposition to the religious loyalty oath designed to keep atheism from being taught in State educational institutions came from so-called Ministers of the Gospel who would normally be regarded as staunch advocates of Christianity and believers in the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

The bill was pronounced by Men of the Cloth as "stupid, childish and in complete violation of all religious principles." It was damned as a measure that "would set off a witch hunt." It was castigated as a device that would interfere with "religious freedom." It was hinted that any teacher who propounds modern interpretation of the Bible might justly be accused of atheism because he would be "shaking childhood beliefs of the student." It was suggested that faith in educators was sufficient and is "more effective than oaths."

These were the views of representatives of five of the large Protestant churches in one Texas city and since religious thinking is now largely collective and is dictated by the National Council of Churches whose leadership is strongly opposed to loyalty oaths of all types, it is predicted that similar sentiment will be found to be prevalent among religious leaders in other Texas cities and that the bill will be defeated.

It is significant that the modern ministers who have surrendered their sacred role as defenders of the Christian faith and enlisted in the fight for the establishment of Marxism in the United States acquired, in the transition, a tremendous amount of political strength and their combined influence is regarded as capable of defeating this and similar legislation not only in Texas but in any State in the Union.

Under the circumstances, it is expected that professors at the University of Texas will continue to instill their godless philosophy in the plastic minds of immature students without fear of interference by the religious leaders of the State.

Integrationists Achieve Part Of Their Objective In Little Rock

Communists and their fellow travellers who advocate the social mixing of Whites and Negroes were unable to integrate Little Rock public schools which were closed rather than take this disgraceful step but they are not altogether without accomplishments in the Arkansas city.

On February 27, Arkansas State Police arrested more than a dozen White and Negro teenagers and smashed what was described as an interracial sex and dope ring which Governor Faubus described as "some of the fruits of integration."

Police said that some of the girls picked up admitted sex orgies between White girls and Negro boys in rooms which served as headquarters for the ring.

Mongrelizers who failed to get integration of the schools there will probably be consoled in having achieved some of their ends at any rate.

The American people are reported to have spent $40,000,000,000.00 on sports and recreation last year. Perhaps if they had spent a portion of that amount on patriotic projects, they would be more likely to be free to participate in sports and recreation in the years to come.

It does not seem quite bright to pay the FBI to flush out Communists and furnish evidence to convict them and then pay the Supreme Court to turn them loose on us again, in the opinion of a Dallas lady, Mildred Bennett Bale. But whoever claimed that those who frame Washington policies are bright? We've known inmates of a feeble-minded institution who were smarter.

A friend in Dallas reports a patriotic writer as remarking: "I would rather have an article of mine in the Southern Conservative for no monetary reward than in the Saturday Evening Post at their highest rate." If we only had the space we would reproduce all the grand material that is submitted to us. But after we get through popping off with our own editorial remarks, there's not much room left for good stuff.

If you are puzzled because more and more white entertainers are singing Negro spirituals, the answer is simple. It is part of the plan to level white persons with colored in preparation for the new world where all skins will be of the same hue. Franklin D. Roosevelt said that nothing happens and that everything was "planned that way" and so it is.

Communists Not Only Refuse To Pay U.S. Debt But Deny They Owe It

It develops that the Russians have not only no intention of paying back the billions of dollars they owe us, but they even deny that they owe us a cent.

This information was carried in a press dispatch from Washington on February 21.

Back in the '40's when this country was engaged in World War II and the Communists were our alleged friends and allies, the New Deal administration in power made "loans" to the Bolsheviks of vast sums, the exact amount of which may never be known to the taxpayers who furnished the money.

Besides the cash there was the $263,000,000 worth of steam and hydro-electric plants, $65,000,000 worth of chemical equipment, $900,000,000 worth of copper and other strategic supplies given to the Communists by Harry Hopkins who held no elective position but who seemed to have unlimited authority to dispose of our war materials.

COMMUNIST-INSPIRED RACIAL RIOTS BREAK OUT IN AFRICA

Those who cannot see that the racial integration movement is Communist-inspired and is world-wide in its scope, are reminded of the racial riots in the British protectorate of Blantyre, Nyasaland in Southeast Africa recently.

According to United Press International, British Royal Air Force planes had to bomb the rioters with tear gas in order to quell the disturbance, while ground troops opened fire on the mob.

Two persons were reported killed at Lilongwe in the central province of Nyasaland where police riot squads turned out in force, another at Chileka and 16 were injured in the rioting there.

All crowds in the area were dispersed and police seized vast quantities of guns and ammunition which had been stocked by the blacks.

Communists are known to have long been active in Africa where savages from the jungle are pouring into towns and cities with demands for "racial equality" in schools, churches, factories and other places of employment.

It is the same type of campaign which is being carried on in the United States with the exception that in Africa, unlike the United States, there are very few weak-minded white persons who have succumbed to Communist propaganda for mingling the races and who are working for mongrelization.

When a Negro makes a speech in behalf of his own people, the press calls it Civil Rights; when a white man does the same thing, it's "racial prejudice" says a Dallas woman patriot.

According to Undersecretary of State Dillon, the United States had offered to settle for $2,600,000,000 and seven or eight years ago the Communists offered to compromise by paying us $300,000,000. Then, apparently, the matter was dropped.

In a closed-door session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee Dillon is reported, in this same press release, as testifying that while Deputy Premier Mikoyan was here recently the matter was called to his attention but the Bolshevik said that as far as he was concerned he didn't think the Soviets had any obligation to pay anything.

The vast grants of funds to the Soviets during Roosevelt's administration was the beginning of the program to take money away from American taxpayers and give it to foreign governments all over the world and it was this policy apparently which first gave the Communists the idea that Americans are fools and simpletons and they have treated us accordingly since that time.

Publicity On Atlanta Bombing Quiets Down

The silence concerning the Atlanta bombing case has been thick enough to cut with a knife since those charged with the crime were acquitted after a jury trial.

It is not believed that those who actually did the bombing will ever be brought to trial. The case has all the earmarks of an old Spanish custom in Communist circles where Reds commit a crime which they hope will be blamed on patriots and engender resentment against them. Sometimes these plans backfire as was apparently the case in Atlanta.

While such outrages should certainly be punished by law, we hope those in Congress who are trying to create more Federal legislation to punish those who should be amenable to the State, make a thorough investigation before they vote.

They may be surprised at what they find.

Any American—man or woman—who advocates abolishing the Un-American Activities Committee of Congress or any other agency concerned with the security of this country is an enemy of the United States and should be dealt with accordingly. There can be only one reason why any person should take such position and that is because they are defenders of Communism—and Communism is a deadly threat to the survival of the Republic.

Shrewd Maneuver By Which Democrats Win Elections

If there are those who wondered why California, which is normally a Republican State, went so heavily Democratic in the last election, the secret has now been revealed.

One Miss Katie Louchheim, vice chairman and director of Women's Activities of the Democratic National Committee, in the January-February edition of Democratic Digest tells how the trick was turned, at least in one voting place in Southern California.

"A Southern California precinct worker reports that she always takes a big bag of marshmallows to the polling place," writes Miss Louchheim. "Each child accompanying a voting mother is offered marshmallows and told: 'Tell your playmates they can get marshmallows, too, if they bring their mothers to vote.'"

There have been many reasons advanced from time to time why American citizens should exercise the right of franchise but perhaps never such a brilliant one as the proposal to stuff the children of the voter with marshmallows.

We think, however, that the system could be improved.

Personally, we would have offered all-day suckers, since marshmallows go down the hatch in one gulp and might not keep the little darling pacified until the mother gets through marking the ballot for the Democratic donors. But an all-day sucker is good for hours and would at least keep the peace until the tired mama got home, got her girdle off and started wondering if the effort was worth all the trouble and if future results would justify her in swapping her ballot for a bag of marshmallows.

Nation's Powerful Legal Body Asks Congress To Curb Supreme Court

In the June, 1954, edition of the Southern Conservative, right after the Supreme Court of the United States launched its massive attack on the Constitution and on States' Rights with its school integration ruling, we said editorially in part:

"Traditionally, members of the Supreme Court of the United States have been set apart by common consent as men possessed of great dignity, of a deep and profound knowledge of Constitutional law and of that certain essential quality of personal integrity which insured that external influence; political pressure or partisan consideration would not be reflected in rulings from the Bench. Currently, that body, through a long, careful and deliberate process of elimination, is composed of low-grade political hacks whose slanted opinions are formulated with the objective of establishing social trends, appeasing minority groups and influencing election returns. Heading it is a cheap California demagogue who didn't look back when he got a chance to swap a rigged judicial decision for a plushy lifetime job."

Ours was only one of the many protests offered by alarmed American citizens who watched with horror as the Court handed down one decision after another which threatened the national security and the abolishment of the revered American principle of States' Rights.

But our protests didn't mean anything. We were merely American citizens concerned about national security and the preservation of Constitutional Government. Ours were only small voices crying in the wilderness.

On February 24 of this year, almost five years later, however, the indictment of the Supreme Court became official.

On that date the American Bar Association, from whose vast reservoir of outstanding legal talent members of the Court were once drawn, passed a resolution at the Chicago meeting of its House of Delegates calling on Congress to step in with tough remedial legislation to stem the tide of rulings from the High Court which are endangering the national security.

The 50-page resolution, prepared by the ABA's special committee on Communist tactics and strategy, charged the Supreme Court has weakened the nation's security by its rulings on 24 cases involving accused Communists or anti-subversive legislation.

The resolution asked that Congress take action and give back to the States enforcement powers which have been taken away from them by Supreme Court rulings.

So far as is known, this is the first time in history that the membership of the Court has been challenged by a powerful nation-wide group for its lack of concern for the safety and security of the American Republic.

There was no denunciation for the Court as an institution, of course, but the judicial conduct of the justices who compose it now stands condemned by the highest authorities in the legal fraternity.

Now that the adult delinquents on the Supreme Court have been officially discredited by an authentic body of legal authorities and held up to the public as a menace to national security, we join millions of others in demanding that they resign in a body before the prestige of our highest tribunal itself is totally destroyed.

Communists Back James Roosevelt's Bill To Take Heat Off Enemy Agents

Contacts in Los Angeles tell us that Communists who have always thickly dotted the City of Angels are doubly active since the Supreme Court ruled that it is all right for members of that party to plan the overthrow of the American government.

Recently these impudent and arrogant enemy agents have been standing on the street corners there and openly soliciting signatures to a petition for the abolishment of the Un-American Activities Committee of Congress, a proposal which Jimmy Roosevelt has been sponsoring in Congress.

Surely this bold subversive action by the Los Angeles degenerates will impress the American people with the indisputable fact that the thinking of members of the Supreme Court and the California congressman is in complete accord with that of the Soviet sympathizers on the West Coast.

Here's an example of statesmanship as applied in this fair land of ours. There is a law, which the Supreme Court has just upheld, which prevents electric light and power companies from claiming tax exemption for ads they put in newspapers in which they inform the American people of the discrimination of Congress in favor of TVA and other Socialistic power projects. But the Socialist co-operatives like TVA are tax-exempt in all their operations and don't pay any taxes at all.

The vagaries of politics are forcefully illustrated in the case of Wisconsin. It seems incredible that the people of that State who were permitted a United States Senator as vigorous, aggressive and dynamic as the incomparable Joe McCarthy could have ever settled for the colorless person who followed him.

Words Of Praise Which Smooth The Way For Us

In the type of work which we are trying to do, there is little compensation other than that which comes from the approval and gratitude of those of our fellow Americans who have not been tarred with the black pitch of "liberalism."

If it had not been for the thousands of letters which have flooded our mail for the almost ten years of existence of the Southern Conservative from Americans in every walk of life and in every State of the Union, giving us heartening encouragement, we should probably have folded up long ago.

Occasionally we receive one which goes overboard and flatters us far beyond what we deserve, but we eat it up and pretend that we are worthy of such commendation.

Such a one is the following from a Seattle, Washington, business man dated February 18:

"I'm in receipt of the January number of the 'Southern Conservative' and have just finished reading your front-page article entitled 'Is the American Republic Heading for the Cemetery of Dead Nations?', but before going further must pause long enough to commend you for your masterful indictment of the terrible wrongs that are being perpetrated against our people, our nation, and our states by our elected representatives in Washington."

"It has been said that the pen is mightier than the sword, and since yours appears to be by far the mightiest that is being wielded in the cause of America today, it may well be that if our once great nation is finally to be saved from the throes of violent political death it will be none other than the pen of a grand lady by the name of Ida M. Darden who will have done an extremely large part of the saving. The world has produced some mighty potent and courageous women from time to time throughout the ages that have passed, so it is altogether possible that we have another Joan of Arc right here among us in the person of yourself who will eventually save America."

"Of course, should America fall, all the rightist nations in the world will fall with her and the world will once more be shrouded in darkness. Therefore, I say: God bless you and sustain you in the wonderful work you are doing in the cause of all humanity."

Hollywood is still fighting World War II and killing off Nazis by bringing back moving pictures which were shot during, or soon after, that great conflict. What worries us is when are they going to get around to the Communists, our present enemies. So far as we can find out, there is not a single Nazi in a government job, in the school systems or in church groups while Communists, or Communist sympathizers, are thick as fleas. And still Hollywood carries on its relentless battle against an enemy which does not exist, while closing its eyes to one which threatens every day to take this country over.

American Physicians And Surgeons "If You Live In Government-Owned To Hold Annual Meeting In Ft. Worth House The Government Owns You"

The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, a grand organization of doctors who devote a large part of their busy and useful lives to the problems of government, will hold their annual meeting at the Hilton Hotel in Fort Worth April 2, 3 and 4.

This will be the sixteenth annual gathering of the organization whose influence in legislative circles in Washington is becoming a factor to be reckoned with.

On the evening of April 4 a banquet at the Hilton will close the three-day session at which time the Honorable Bruce Alger of Dallas who, although a Republican, is fast acquiring recognition throughout the State for his fine voting record in Congress, will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Mal Rumph of Fort Worth is president of the group and Dr. Ernest Anthony, also of Fort Worth, is program chairman.

Members of the Texas Medical Association have been extended an invitation to attend the sessions and the public will be admitted to the lectures and to the banquet.

Dr. Robert D. Moreton, of Fort Worth, will give the address of welcome and Dr. Howard O. Smith of Marlin, president of Texas Medical Association, will also speak as will several others prominent in the medical profession.

There Is No Longer A Free Nation On The Face Of The Earth

There is not a country in the world today which is not operating either as a full Dictatorship or under a Socialist Government of one type or another.

In other words, there is no such thing as a free nation anywhere on the face of the earth and the world's population is held in varying degrees of slavery according to the measure of despotism exercised by those who rule the several nations which make up the earth's surface.

All this in spite of the fact that we have had fourteen years of the United Nations and notwithstanding that our "statesmen" in Washington have been self-proclaimed "world leaders" for about that period of time, either one of which facts should insure that there would be freedom somewhere.

Of course we in the United States kid ourselves that we are free because we can vote for either of two candidates for President. But the catch is that both candidates always turn out to be Marxists who promote Socialistic policies from the day they take office, no matter how loudly they may have repudiated such ideologies from the stump.

Except in less than two dozen States of the American Union, a man cannot even earn a living for himself and his family in the leading trades and crafts without paying heavy tribute to a labor union for the privilege of doing so.

No farmer is free to grow the crops he wants or needs and must practically get a permit from Washington before he can scatter seeds in his own turnip patch.

No American receiving a salary has the privilege of holding the money he earns in his own hands before part of it is snatched away and transported to Washington for division among the foreign beggars who can deliver the hottest line or whisper the most touching sob story in the President's pink ear.

Freedom has gone from the face of the earth and we here in its last great stronghold have helped to vote it out of existence.

"When the government owns the house you live in, the government owns you," says Mrs. M. Conan of Phoenix, Arizona, who charges that Public Housing is a Communist scheme for the Federal government to get possession of more private property.

As evidence she calls attention to William Z. Foster's book "Toward A Soviet America" in which he lists Rent Control as step No. 1 and Public Housing as Step No. 2 in the movement to Sovietize America.

"In a government-owned house you will do as you are told, vote as you are told or soon find yourself without shelter," Mrs. Conan charges, and adds:

"If you must borrow money, let it be from a private firm or individual. The government now owns over 25 per cent of all the land and through public housing and Soil Bank schemes is rapidly acquiring more.

"Our brave forefathers fought and died that we might enjoy freedom under God. Let us show some gratitude and work to hold on to it."

American People And Those In Small Swiss Village Face Similar Danger

On February 16, the Associated Press carried the story of a doomed Swiss village called Herbrigen which will be destroyed when a spring thaw sends a million tons of rock, earth and ice hurtling down from a mountain peak 3,000 feet above.

This frozen mass is on top of the Nadelhorn Mountain and will become a thundering avalanche when it reaches the edge of the precipice toward which it has been slowly creeping.

Most of the villagers are resigned to losing their homes and belongings and have moved out of the danger area, but some of them have refused to budge and are praying that the catastrophe may be averted by Providence who, they believe, may cause the avalanche to split up and fall harmlessly in many directions.

The incident has reminded us of the situation here in the United States where a similar condition exists.

Anxious Americans realize that a terrible avalanche of subversion, composed of the enemies of Constitutional Government, is hanging above the nation they love and that, unless a Merciful Providence or an awakened citizenship intervenes, their country faces the same danger of total destruction which threatens the peaceful little village in a Swiss valley.

From a long-time personal friend: "Not only from reading the Southern Conservative but from personal acquaintance with you, I have learned that you are familiar with the unsavory records of many Americans whose subversive connections are unknown to the general public. Often I have mentioned the name of some well known personality to you only to be greeted with stony silence on your part which I have learned means disapproval. Tell me this: Does it not make you unhappy to know these things about so many Americans?" Of course it makes us unhappy but our unhappiness stems from the fact that there are so many traitors to the country to which we all owe so much. We not only wish we didn't know these things. We wish they were not true.

"There are two ways of insuring that people are ignorant. One is teaching them nothing and the other is to teach them only those selected facts that will lead them to incorrect conclusions under their own intellectual steam. The latter method is the one we have used. The selected facts that have infected the American mind are those taught in the high schools concerning the sins of our capitalistic economy. These are the assassins of self-reliance in the American character."—Excerpt from article by Fred G. Clark in Human Events.

Any Labor Bill Will Not Be Worth The Paper On Which It Is Written

No matter how much corruption, thievery, blackmail, and skulduggery in general the McClellan Committee has turned up against the labor unions, it is foolish for the American people to expect remedial legislation to be passed by the present Congress.

The principal measure which is said to be more likely to pass than any other is the Kennedy bill which is little more than a joke insofar as any restrictive measures on labor unions are concerned.

Kennedy is a slick politician who has only one objective and that is to get the Democratic nomination as President of the United States on the Fair Deal ticket.

His principal support is expected to come from labor unions to whom he has deferred and kowtowed since he first entered public life, and there is not a ghost of a chance that he would take any action that is not privately approved by Walter Reuther.

The Republicans, also with an eye on the labor union vote in 1960, have a bill which is approved by the Eisenhower administration but it is little better than the Kennedy measure.

Like it or not, we have to face the fact that there are not enough men in either House of Congress who will dare defy the AFL-CIO and put through a bill which protects the public from the strong-arm tactics of labor unions.

After all, how many Barry Goldwaters can you count in Congress who will wade right into Reuther and his goons and whip them down to size?

Russian Communist Speaks At Event In Houston Church

The Friends Service Committee which has a long and unsavory record of booking subversive speakers into various towns and cities of the United States, was sponsor of a conference in Houston recently at their "Institute of International Relations."

One of the speakers was the Russian delegate to the United Nations, Buorov, who is reported to have shocked even some of the left-wingers present at the meeting when he roared "No" when asked from the audience if he believed in God.

The attitude of the Russian Communist in itself is not amazing for the atheism of the Soviets is well known to all the world. The shocking aspect of the matter lies in the fact that this conference at which a Russian Communist was a participant was held in a Protestant Church of Houston where, presumably, the Gospel of Jesus is taught to the communicants rather than the Social Gospel of Karl Marx.

The church where the Friends Service Committee was allowed to hold their meeting and present their Russian Communist to the audience was the First Christian Church of Houston of which Rev. John C. Knowles is pastor.

Americans Getting Fed Up On 'Brotherhood' Racket

Slowly, but surely, the American people are realizing that the "Brotherhood" propaganda which has swept the country and caused the setting aside of certain days and certain weeks in which to observe "Brotherhood" is a sinister movement which was "planned that way" by internationalists and one-world mongrelizers.

Back of this unholy gospel is racial abnormality which is to be ultimately extended to the black peoples of the earth with the resultant inter-breeding of the races in the hope of submerging white people into one degenerate global mass of half-breeds.

Every Christian has the responsibility to be kind to his fellow men in normal and casual contacts but there is no obligation whatever to team up with those of every race, creed and color who may, or may not, be dedicated enemies of this great country of ours and plotting for its destruction.

Those who do so are rank hypocrites and in their hearts they know they are.

We believe rank and file Americans are becoming fed up with the "Brotherhood" racket which was carefully planned and thought out by those who have an ulterior motive in the movement and who are far smarter than the stupid victims they have enticed into the trap.

Those who are brimming over with "love" and looking for a place to bestow it might devote some of it to their country which is sadly in need of a little devotion at this particular time of national peril.

Major Criminals In The United States Are Of Foreign Origin

The crime rate is many times higher in the United States than in any country on earth, and is increasing almost by the minute.

In nine cases out of ten, those who are engaged in underworld activities and who comprise the hoodlum element of the country have foreign names that are all but unpronounceable.

Which reminds us that we have 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 illegal aliens in the United States and not only are they not being deported, but the Reds in this country are constantly trying to break down our immigration bars and allow additional thousands of undesirables to enter our borders to add to the criminal element already here.

How is it and by what authority do we consider that our politicians in Washington are "world leaders" and capable of managing the whole universe when we can't even rid our own country of the international trash which constantly floats across the ocean to land on our shores?

Until we clean the filth from our own premises, we should pipe down on instructions to other nations as to how they should conduct their affairs.

Movement To Enable Criminals To Escape Punishment Being Pushed

Like a heavy percentage of the movements which have been started in this country in the past decade or two, the one to abolish the death penalty in various States is of Communist origin. There is nothing that fits in better with the plans of the Commies than to have the criminal element of American citizenship turned loose to run at large and commit more crimes.

They shoot their own criminals without a trial, but favor laws in this country to exempt murderers, thieves and rapists from paying the supreme penalty. After all, the more lawless persons there are in a country, the easier it is to spread the evil seeds of Communism.

Hollywood has, naturally, gotten into the act and has released a production entitled "I Want To Live," based on the life and execution of a cold-blooded murderess. Of course murderers want to live; so do those victims of such murderers who are shot down without mercy.

Another advocate of abolishment of capital punishment is "Lawyer Welch" of Massachusetts who hammed it all over the place during the McCarthy hearings and evidently acquired the idea that he possessed histrionic ability. He has appeared on television in recent months pleading, not for abolishment or lessening of crime, but abolishment of the electric chair for those who commit crime.

Self-Appointed Masters Must Be Reduced To Public Servants

How can the people back home lick Communism by trusting in God and in individual effort if Congress continues its 25-year record of betrayal by voting us deeper and deeper into spiritual, moral and financial bankruptcy by way of more bureaucratic enslavement, inquires A. G. Heinsohn of Knoxville, Tennessee, who has a long record of propounding disconcerting questions to politicians which these politicians are unable to answer.

"Set us an example by removing your party nose-ring," Mr. Heinsohn challenges the bureaucrats. "Stand up on the floor of Congress and announce your belief that the moon was hung by God—not by politicians or bureaucrats—and that you consider the survival of your country more important than your re-election or the success of an unprincipled political party."

"Prove your repentance by calling for the orderly repeal of the Socialist-Communist laws that have robbed us of our freedom such as the Federal income tax, wage and hour control, control of agriculture, social security, public housing, foreign throwaways, civil rights, Tennessee Valley Authority, United Nations and other Socialist devices and introduce legislation that would re-impose Constitutional limitations of power so that today's self-appointed masters would be reduced to their intended role of public servants."

Sending Troops To Little Rock Was Disgraceful In Any Event

According to the Washington bureau of the Houston Post, troops were sent into Little Rock in 1957 on request of Little Rock mayor, Woodrow Mann.

According to the Post article, Mann sent a telegram to the President on September 24, 1957 urging the immediate need for Federal troops in the Arkansas city on the grounds that mob violence was imminent.

While Mann is said to be the type who would have no scruples in demanding Federal troops to handle a strictly local matter, there are many who doubt that troops were sent to Little Rock simply because he requested it. After all, a mayor has no authority to call out Federal troops. Only a governor of a sovereign State can make this request.

Since bitter resentment against sending troops there to intimidate the citizens with bayonets has been nation-wide, and not confined to the South, it is believed that this latest alibi blaming Mayor Mann is merely a ruse to take the administration off the hot-spot.

Why Are Our Relations With Philippines Now Strained?

The relations between the Philippines and the United States which have always been on an extremely friendly basis are now reported in the press to be definitely strained.

So far as we have noted, this condition has not been blamed publicly on Charles E. Bohlen who was recalled as Ambassador to Russia and sent to the Philippines as a representative of this country in the Islands.

However, remembering the bitter opposition expressed by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy to Bohlen and in view of the fact that later events have proved that the Wisconsin senator was always right in his deductions, perhaps the relations between Manila and Washington would be improved if Bohlen were recalled and someone else sent to represent us in this Pacific outpost.

"This is a Senate of equals, of men of individual honor and personal character and of absolute independence. We know no masters, we acknowledge no dictators. This is a hall for mutual consultation and discussion." — Daniel Webster in a speech to the Senate on January 26, 1830. Oh yeah? It was then, of course, but he should see it now. As to "dictators" what about the AFL-CIO, the NAACP, the NEA and the ADA?

Sympathy of the World Goes to Secretary of State

There is universal sympathy for John Foster Dulles who was stricken with cancer for the second time and prayers for his recovery are going up all over the world.

He is as much a casualty as if he had fallen in battle for his devotion to his work has caused him to physically exert himself beyond the call of duty and beyond human endurance.

Personally, we think most of the trips he made over the world were unnecessary and that we would be better off if he had stayed at home, which makes the sacrifice of his health all the more tragic.

However, he was working for an administration which is Internationalist in its scope and as concerned in the welfare of foreign nations as in the security of the American Republic and his loyalty to his employers is commendable.

Great concern is felt over his successor in the event it is found that he is unable to continue to carry on.

With the President's almost unfailing penchant for appointing the worst possible person to high office, alarm over the situation is understandable.

Florida Is Suffering From Extremely Weak Leadership

The Dade County School Board of Miami, apparently succumbing to Red influence in that area, has ordered four Negroes to be admitted to white schools next September, but several members of the Florida legislature have other ideas about the matter.

The action of the board was handled in characteristic manner by those who advocate integration. The order was passed at a routine meeting and no advance information had been given that the subject was to come up.

Those who are familiar with Communist instruction concerning integration will remember that it is advised that the step be taken quietly so as to escape public notice and thereby engender as little opposition as possible.

However, influential members of both the House and Senate at Tallahassee insist that Florida schools which have always been white will remain so.

The great State of Florida has been handicapped by the weak leadership of Governor Leroy Collins who is neither this nor that and who wiggles and squirms and twists whenever the subject is mentioned.

And when he is faced with a showdown, he appoints a "commission to study the matter" which, in our book, is the cowardly way out of any situation.

No body needs to "study" whether or not white and colored students should be mixed in schools. All informed Americans who know what the experience of integrated schools has been, know that they should not be mixed.

Communist Party And Supreme Court Are In Unison On Integration

Concerned Americans who have been amazed at the similar positions of the Supreme Court and the American Communist Party in behalf of integration of the schools in the South should not fail to read a government document recently released.

While the document referred to makes no reference to such similarity and merely develops testimony from witnesses under oath in a routine manner which it has been pursuing for years, only a blind person, after reading the records would fail to note that Communists and the Court are in accord on the subject.

This document is called "Communist Infiltration and Activities in the South" and reports hearings before the Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, Eighty-Fifth Congress held in Atlanta, Georgia, last July.

At this hearing, one impudent, arrogant and dirty Communist after another appeared before the Committee and, although the Committee had documented evidence that they had been a part of the Communist apparatus for years, they refused to answer questions and practically defied the Committee to do anything about it in view of Supreme Court rulings in their favor.

One brazen Communist agent who had previously been identified as a Party member by an undercover agent of the FBI, didn't even bother to take the Fifth amendment when asked if he were a Communist but replied instead: "I am standing on the Watkins, Sweezy, Koenigsberg and other decisions of the United States Supreme Court which protect my right and the Constitution as they interpret the Constitution of the United States, protecting my right to private belief and association."

At another point a letter was produced by the Committee written by the same witness which had been broadcast widely asking those addressed to oppose the passage of bills in the 85th Congress curbing the Supreme Court's rulings in favor of Communists in which he said in part: "It should be pointed out that these bills to validate State sedition laws are only a part of the attack on the U.S. Supreme Court. The real and ultimate target is the court decision outlawing segregation. Won't you write your two senators and your Congressmen asking them to oppose S. 654, 2646 and H.R. 977. Also ask them to stand firm against all efforts to curb the Supreme Court . . ."

When he had finished reading this letter in its entirety, Committee Counsel asked the witness if he was a member of the Communist Party at the time he signed that letter to which the witness replied, "I refuse to answer on the same ground previously stated" (Supreme Court decisions).

A character identified as a Communist by the FBI agent refused to answer every question propounded to him including whether or not he was a Communist, whether he was editor of "The Southern News Letter" (a publication of propaganda for integration of the races) and even where he was born.

Testimony was developed showing that Communists with degrees from colleges and universities are sent into the South to work in menial positions in factories and industrial plants where they carry on their activities as "colonizers" for the Party. One woman "colonizer" identified by the FBI undercover agent as high in Communist Party circles admitted that

At Least There's No Doubt Where This Candidate Stands

We do not know Mrs. Kate Walker of Oklahoma City, but we have been informed that she owns property and conducts a business in a district of her home town which, if Urban Renewal legislation now before the Oklahoma legislature passes, will be taken away from her and used for whatever purpose Urban Renewal overlords may decide is best.

Several candidates have offered for the job as Mayor of Oklahoma City but Mrs. Walker didn't exactly admire their wishy-washy stand on Urban Renewal so she hauled off and announced for the job herself and will finance her own campaign.

The platform of this intrepid lady is a gem in reverse psychology. We hereby reproduce it below:

KATE WALKER FOR MAYOR HAVE MONEY—WILL FIGHT

For Urban Renewal, Graft, Greed and Corruption.

Since theft is now legalized by the Urban Renewal Law, I want to get in the city government and steal the people blind.

If I am elected Mayor under Urban Renewal, I can use the law of Eminent Domain to condemn any property I want, seize it and sell it for profit.

I will condemn homes, throw the people out in the street and promote Juvenile Delinquency.

I can be bought! If anyone sees any goodies such as their neighbor's property that they covet, they can come to me with a thousand dollars or so and I'll see that they get it.

I am a business woman. I have been in the grocery business, the real estate business, the laundry business, the decorating business and failed in all of them. I am now in the Junk Business and doing fine, but I am greedy. I want more money.

I am a mean character! I have divorced three bums and I'm glad! I have been accused of being a Communist, threatened disinheritance for voting the Republican Ticket, and am registered a Democrat.

I am a family woman. I have an Irish terrier dog and an idiot sister. If I am elected Mayor, I'll see that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer!

Why be quaint? On with progress. Down with honesty!
Vote for me and let's have a ball.

If you don't like what is happening in Washington write your congressman and two senators and tell them so. As an American citizen, that is one of the few rights still left to you.

Those who think that there can be Federal Aid without Federal control should consider the Federal price supports which are Federal Aid, and what the government is doing to those farmers and ranchmen whom they regard as violating the rules laid down in Washington.

she had a bachelor of arts degree from Cornell, graduate work at Syracuse University and had taught at the latter institution. And yet she was working as a spinner in a Southern textile mill, and changing jobs every few months in order to contact the largest possible number of persons.

A man who was a graduate of the University of North Carolina and had had graduate work at Washington and Lee and whom the FBI agent had identified as a Communist "colonizer" was employed as a bobbin boy in a cotton mill, a floor sweeper, a sheet metal worker and a rubber grinder. In refusing to say whether or not he was a Communist he pleaded the "Watkins ruling."

One female Communist with a very foreign name accused the committee of having called her to testify because "of the strong position that I have taken for a number of years on the question of integration in the South." For this charge she was vigorously rebuked by committee counsel.

Any American who doubts the Communist origin of the integration movement, should send for this report and read it.

Every good American should read "The Pentagon Case" by "Col. Victor J. Fox" which is obviously not the real name of the author. Although the author claims (probably for purposes of preventing libel) that the book is fiction, any student of Communism knows that this claim is fiction and that the material in it is authentic.

A group of mothers of the airmen who were shot down by Communists on last September 2 have written the President and asked him to go to Russia to try and find out the fate of their boys. They point out that he should risk his own personal safety for those men who risked so much for all of us.

Retired Army Colonel Frank Kowalski charges that extensive manpower is being wasted because thousands of enlisted men are acting as houseboys, maids and chauffeurs to top brass. Col. Kowalski believes that if this practice is stopped it might even permit an end to the draft. He says thousands of dollars are spent training a man to be a combat soldier only to have him wind up as a servant for an officer.

From a subscriber in British Columbia: "As a Canadian it is perhaps not for me to express opinions on American politics but I do think that you are doing the most powerful writing on fundamentals of government that it has ever been my privilege to read."

Bill Seeks To Freeze Teachers To Positions

A bill which would freeze school teachers to their jobs on the order of the Civil Service monstrosity in effect in Washington has been introduced in the Texas Legislature.

For a long time now educators have been squawking about "tenure" and "academic freedom" and more and more it has become harder to rid an educational institution of an undesirable instructor as a result.

This bill which is titled H.B. 589 would make it practically impossible to dislodge a school teacher no matter how earnestly local school boards and school authorities might wish to terminate their service.

It is understood that the bill was introduced on instructions of the National Education Association which is tightening its hold on local public schools throughout the nation and undertaking to dictate all policies and practices having to do with the education of the nation's youth.

After a teacher has a two-year toe-hold on the job, they could not be suspended, demoted, reassigned or dismissed except for "marked inefficiency" or "grave immorality." Just plain inefficiency would not do and common immorality also would be insufficient for dismissal. The inefficiency would have to be "marked" and the immorality "grave" before action could be taken to fire such teachers.

Also, the charges against a teacher of "marked inefficiency" and "grave immorality" would have to be preferred in writing "with full specifications of reasons" as well as ten days notice.

No protection is thrown around the public, the school, the children and the parents in the bill, but the teacher may demand a hearing which it is compulsory on the board to grant with legal counsel for the accused and a lot of other tommy rot.

The people of Texas have been asked to strongly protest this vicious measure and to write their representatives in Austin to defeat it.

Because of increasing cost of everything connected with publishing a newspaper, we have had to remove the names of all those who were behind in their dues. We hope those who do not get their paper will re-subscribe but we are unable to carry them any longer without payment of the regular subscription rate of five dollars per year for two subscriptions.

Independent Elector Plan Being Pushed in the South

At the $100 per plate fund-raising dinner of Fair Dealers in Washington on February 28 where the main topic of discussion was the Presidential election of 1960, the best material the slap-happy participants could offer were "Soapy" Williams of Michigan, John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Stuart Symington of Missouri, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Robert Meyner of New Jersey and Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

In view of the fact that the fabric of which potential Modern Republican candidates are constituted is equally shoddy, it looks like lean times and long, hard winters are ahead for proponents of sound government.

Meantime, however, there is a quiet movement on in the South which is said to be gaining momentum as the prospects inside the two major parties become more dreary.

This movement is known as the Independent Elector Plan whose objective is to help bring about the election of a Constitution-minded President to the end that the South may get recognition and consideration from the Executive Department of Government which has been denied it by Congress and the Supreme Court.

It is claimed that the legality of the proposed procedure is unquestioned and that Constitutional lawyers have pronounced it as being specifically authorized by the Constitution.

Article 2, Section 1, Paragraph 2 of the Constitution provides: "Each State shall appoint in such a manner as the legislatures thereof may direct a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in Congress."

This means that the State legislatures may elect or appoint electors in any way they decide and the Independent Elector Plan contemplates freeing the electors from any commitments and leaving them free to vote for any man they consider qualified.

This matter is being pushed in all State Legislatures in the South in order that they may pass necessary laws to insure that electors are free and un-committed to any candidate.

Once this is accomplished, it is proposed that the States subscribing to this plan meet in convention and write a platform to which the electors of all the States involved could subscribe.

This could result in throwing the election of a President in the House of Representatives and whatever the action of that body, the candidate thus produced would be better than either of those expected to be nominated by the two major parties.

A recent Gallup poll disclosed that Governor Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas was the only office-holding Democrat to be voted one of the ten men most admired in the United States. This should prove something or other to the fat-heads who are constantly assailing him.

Some Plain And Fancy Graft Is Turned Up In Nation's Capital

The disgraceful scandal which has been revealed in Washington in which new members of Congress are padding the government payroll with their wives, husbands, sons, daughters, mothers, aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews and cousins, has stirred up a lot of public indignation but it will probably blow over and nothing will be done about it.

After all, what steps can consistently be taken by Congress to stop this petty racket?

This same Congress annually votes for legislation which gives billions of dollars to total strangers on the other side of the ocean, so why wouldn't freshmen members with a yen for a fast buck figure that it would be no worse to dish out a little of the gravy to their own brood?

Corruption breeds corruption and it stands to reason that a new man taking his place in the House and learning that it is not considered immoral for his colleagues to rob the taxpayers would naturally get a few ideas himself and decide that it can't be any worse for him to latch on to a little of the stuff to feed the kitty and sweeten his own family pot.

Possibly the most startling disclosure was the case of the Iowa schoolboy, son of recently elected Congressman Steven V. Carter of that State, who was put on the payroll at a salary of $11,873.20 per year. When he is not attending classes at a Washington university he will act as public relations counsel for his old man who, it would seem off-hand, is going to have serious need of improved public relations and especially with his constituents back home, judging from reactions in the Iowa press.

Equally notorious is the case of the wife of freshman Congressman Leonard Wolf, also of Iowa, who has been put on the payroll for $13,334.00 per year as her husband's office assistant. But in this case perhaps Congressman Wolf is smarter than might appear on the surface and maybe he had a method in his madness. With this cozy little sum tucked away in her sock, it's a cinch his old lady won't be tempted to frisk his pockets in the middle of the night in order to get spending money.

Although declaring privately that they were shocked over the situation, members of the House who have not been guilty of engaging in this small-time con game, expressed the opinion that nothing could be done about it.

Congressman Omar Bureson of Texas, Chairman of the House Administration Committee, is quoted in the press as predicting that his committee would take no action and added: "The relation of one Congressman to another is a highly sensitive thing."

That's all right, brother, but what about the "sensitivity" of the taxpayers who happen to be the big stiff who are providing the money which their public servants in Washington are strewing around like confetti?

Have they no spokesman in Congress—no friend at court?

IS AMERICAN JUSTICE AVAILABLE ONLY TO COMMUNISTS, NEGROES, FOREIGNERS?

"Apparently nobody can get consideration of his Constitutional rights in this country from the present Supreme Court unless he is a Communist, a Negro or a foreigner."

This was the conclusion of J. Evetts Haley, one of Texas' most outstanding citizens and champion of States' Rights as reported in an interview in the Dallas News recently.

Mr. Haley's understandable disgust stemmed from the action of the Supreme Court in reversing a decision by Judge T. Whitfield Davidson at Dallas last fall in a case in which Haley's son was penalized $506.11 for planting wheat on 43 acres of his own land to feed to his own cattle. Judge Davidson, being an ethical, and not a psychological judge, held that the authority of Congress did not cover wheat consumed on a farm where it was produced.

Young Haley, like his father, is a good conservative American patriot and so the Supreme Court reversed the decision which Judge Davidson had rendered in his favor.

We have been claiming within the editorial pages of the Southern Conservative for years that only Communists, Negroes and foreigners had a ghost of a chance for justice at the hands of the nation's three branches of government and almost every day brings vindication of this charge.

It is not only the Supreme Court which is involved. The Congress and the White House are equally guilty of favoritism toward these three elements of the nation's population.

What the fate of white, loyal, native Americans is ultimately to be under this discrimination, only the future will tell.

Congress Obsessed With Idea That Physicians Are Paupers

It has taken the leading physicians and surgeons of the country several years to hammer through the thick skulls of Congressmen that the medical fraternity does not want, does not need, and will not accept social security benefits.

And now some nitwit in Washington has introduced a bill in Congress which would exempt doctors from paying income tax on amounts up to $2500 "in order that they might lay aside something for old age."

Ye gods and little fishes!

If they are determined to enact class legislation and discriminate in favor of one group, how about doing something for the poor saps who are patients of the physicians and surgeons and who have to sometimes spend months and years getting square on their doctor bills?

We simply adore members of the medical fraternity and nothing on earth is so satisfying as to see the face of the family physician appear in the door in time of illness.

But all this aside, we can't see why our statesmen in Washington insist on trying to make them wards of the government and treating them as if they were all on the verge of going to the poorhouse.

Personally, we don't know of a medical man anywhere who is on relief, selling pencils on the street corner or who faces burial in the potter's field when he dies.

In fact, all those we know anything about are financially in the class of brokers, bankers and master plumbers and would be in better position to stake our insolvent government to a few thousand bucks, rather than the other way around.

So please, Mr. Congressmen, lay off the doctors who not only have more money, but more initiative, common sense and independence than you give them credit for possessing.

"Russia may beat us to the moon with a Sputnik," says Tom Anderson of Farm & Ranch, "but I bet we'll get there first with Foreign Aid."

Black men from Jamaica are flocking into England by the boatload — most of them destitute — where they are put on relief and given all forms of national assistance. The English people are said to be burned up over the situation and especially over the immorality and corruption which follows in the wake of colored emigration but, under English law, are unable to deport the undesirables. We hate to say it serves England right, but we do remember much harsh criticism on their part about the handling of the "racial problem" in the Southern part of the United States. They have a problem right in their own lap now which will keep them too busy to criticize others.
