Soviets reported killed in Angola war

Cape Town, South Africa (AP) — South African troops attacking black nationalist guerrillas in Angola last week killed and captured Soviet military officers, Defense Minister Magnus Malan said Tuesday.

"There can be no doubt that the terrorist organization, SWAPO, South-West Africa Peoples Organization, is controlled by and given ideological and material support by the Soviet Union," Malan said.

A Soviet warrant officer was captured, said Malan in a statement issued here and carried by the South African Press Association news agency. A spokesman at defense headquarters in the capital of Pretoria would not say where the prisoner was being held, and there was no word on the number of Soviets captured or killed.

SWAPO's black nationalists have for 15 years been fighting a low-level bush war from bases in Angola and elsewhere in an attempt to end South Africa's control over mineral-rich South-West Africa.

The Pretoria government insists the SWAPO guerrillas were the sole objects of its four-pronged raid on southern Angola last week. Angola says South Africa means to turn Southern Angola over to UNITA, an Angolan group opposed to the Marxist Luanda government.

South Africa said Tuesday it still had soldiers in Angola, their withdrawal hampered by land mines on roads out of the country, according to reports by the South African press.

In an Angolan radio interview monitored in Johannesburg on Tuesday, Angolan Defense Minister Pedro Maria Pedale confirmed that Soviet-built SAM missiles were deployed in Angola before the South African attack.

The United States on Monday vetoed a U.N. Security Council resolution condemning the South African raid. The United States said it opposed the action because Cuban and Soviet presences in Angola were not included in the criticism.

The estimated 20,000 Cuban troops in Angola have been a major source of concern to the West since they arrived in 1975 to help the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola MPLA defeat rival groups in a civil war and establish a Marxist government. There have been no reports of contact between the South Africans and Cubans.

Malan said that besides the most recent skirmishes "providing indisputable evidence of the Russian involvement, an enormous amount of Russian propaganda material was found in SWAPO headquarters, clearly indicating the Russian aspirations with southern Africa."

"Earlier, it was generally believed and acclaimed that Soviet Russia was only indirectly involved, but now the opposite has been proved, namely the direct involvement of military personnel on the lower levels of terrorist movements. This is a new tendency that gives rise to questions," he said.

The South African defense force said it knocked out radar and anti-aircraft installations in the raid, and killed at least 400 Angolan soldiers and SWAPO guerrillas.

Military officials denied Angolan claims that 45,000 South African troops were involved in a full-scale invasion. Informed sources, who declined to be identified, said 4,000 soldiers was a closer estimate.

But the defense force last Friday said 27 Soviet advisers — 20 men and 7 women — had fled a house in Xangongo, 60 miles north of the border, two hours before the South African raid.

SA's first session set for September 7

By MIKE MONSON
Writer for the Daily Cougar

The Students' Association Senate meeting was yet another victim of the rain Monday. Weather permitting, it will hold its first regular meeting of the fall semester Monday, Sept. 7 in University Center.

According to Speaker of the Senate Robert Lusk, the agenda for next Monday's Senate meeting will be to approve the budget for the fall semester and to decide upon which method to use in allocating funds for student organizations. Student organizations can request funds from three areas; The Council of Ethnic Organizations, the Program Council and SA.

The money in SA's budget available to the organizations comes from the student service fee that is paid by every student upon enrollment. According to Lusk, a method is needed to make sure that all money allocated benefits the average student who paid the fee. Lusk said that a committee would probably be formed to oversee the allocations.

SA is the UH student government. It is comprised of three branches: Executive, Legislative and Judicial.

The executive branch is the student-elected President and Vice-President. The president is Steve Yaney and the VP is Tony Esparza. The Senate has 25 members, at least one elected representative from each college and up to five depending on the college population. There is also a Senate-at-Large, consisting of eight campus-wide elected representatives with a senate speaker, Lusk. The judicial branch's six justices hold a quorum in the University Court, the highest board of appeal for UH students.

UH Women's Network plans first luncheon

The University of Houston Woman's Network will be having its first luncheon of the year Friday noon, September 4, in the U.C. Center Parliament Room.

Madelaine Lowe, UH visiting assistant professor of industrial technology and president of UH-WN, said the group wants to pool ideas and feelings with other professional women.

Attorney Donna Thomas will speak at the luncheon about the legal overtones professional woman face. "We're not a 'bra-burning' organization," Lowe insisted. "Both men and women are invited to attend."

"UHWN was one of the first of its kind," said Lowe, "and now we're excited at the prospect of becoming nation-wide." Lowe explained that the group has been invited to send a few of its members to the woman's network in New England this October.

"Our network has been so successful that we're sort of the

'how-to' network", says Lowe. "We'll be helping the network in New England to get moving in the right direction."

Lowe said that the luncheon will be limited to 50 persons because of space. The cost is $4.50 for members and $5.50 for non-members. UHWN will also be preparing its new directory so they hope all members can stop by for that.

For reservations call Madelaine Lowe at 749-4851.

As an old joke goes

Reagan follows well-worn trail

Washington (AP) — There's an old joke that Washington veterans are reviving as President Reagan tries to cope with the growing political furor over high interest rates.

The outgoing president hands his successor three envelopes marked No.1, No.2 and No.3, with instructions to open the appropriate one after each year in office if the economy is souring.

One bad year goes by, and the new president opens the first envelope. The contents say: "Blame the previous administration." After another poor year, he opens the second envelope and reads: "Blame the Federal Reserve Board." After a third year of gloomy economic developments, he rips open the last envelope and finds the message: "Prepare three new envelopes."

With five months left in his first year, Reagan gives the impression that he peeked into the first envelope. Whenever he and his aides are asked why interest rates are persisting at record and near-record levels, they lay the blame at the feet of the Carter administration.

"We're paying the piper for four years of stop-and-go economic policies," presidential spokesman Larry Speakes recently said.

And, Reagan already has started to put some distance between himself and the Federal Reserve. One gets the feeling that, if interest rates stay in the stratosphere, it's only a matter of time before he follows the advice of envelope No.2 and turns on the nation's central bank.

"The Fed is independent, and they're hurting us in what we're trying to do as much as they're hurting everyone else," the president told a group of California Republicans.

Spokesman Speakes quickly explained to reporters that the "they're" referred to high interest rates, not the Fed, and that the president has "complete confidence" in the bank. But the hint of criticism came through.

At this point, Reagan has no legitimate complaint with the Fed's tight-money policy, because that's exactly what he ordered to fight inflation.

For years, it was government policy to risk rising inflation to keep interest rates low and stable. Now, the government is risking high interest rates to bring inflation down. Both Reagan and Fed Chairman Paul Volcker say they see eye-to-eye on this policy call.

The Fed, which regulates the nation's supply of money, has been keeping a tight grasp on the growth of credit in the belief that too rapid an expansion is inflationary. However, the combination of a tight-money policy that restricts supply and large budget deficits that increase demand for credit produces persistently high interest rates.

The administration's plan called for the Fed to stick to a tight-money policy while the White House cut spending en route to a balance budget by 1984. In February, Reagan aides were predicting that the high interest rates they inherited from Carter would plummet by summer but that has not happened.

Editorial

Redistricting fiasco typifies Legislature

The State Supreme Court on Monday axed the redistricting plan for the Texas House of Representatives. In its unanimous ruling the court reiterated a stand taken ten years ago, saying the legislature could not engage in "wholesale cutting" of county lines.

The plan was an example of "wholesale cutting" — and "wholesale buffoonery."

Both Democrats and Republicans haggled for their share of the redistricting pie during the regular session of the legislature. They succeeded in doing nothing more wasting enough time to force a special session to clean up the detritus lost in the melee — insignificant issues like the state property tax system, college construction financing and Congressional redistricting.

Since the duly elected gerrymanderers failed to do their jobs, it will now be handled in true Texas style — by the good ol' boys on the Legislative Redistricting Board. There will be a few fire detectors go off when the LRB carves up the votes in smoke-filled rooms.

Texas will never approach the one-man-one-vote principle until the redistricting process is brought out in the open and no longer relies on "wholesale buffoonery."

Recent events show move towards the big one

By BRIAN M. CHRISTOPHER

Two U.S. fighter planes destroy two Libyan warbirds in an apparent muscle play by our reigning administration. Four clean-cut heroes hold a post-skirmish press conference describing the incident using props, diagrams and charts.

A supersonic U.S. spy plane on a 'routine surveillance mission' eludes a North Korean missile. The U.S. Air Force will not reveal the type of mission the jet was on.

Terrorist attacks on American military and civilian positions in several countries are on the rise.

War.

The symptoms are worsening, a prescription is due at any time.

The Reagan hierarchy is supposedly struggling over the decision which would determine the type of missile system which will protect our sacred shores. This delay may or may not have anything to do with the fact that the Russians have been found to be working on weapons which would be able to destroy our missiles as so many Libyan fighter planes.

What's a country to do?

Peace would not be a bad suggestion, but in these times not very likely. With the problems in South Africa and Angola, the ever-rambunctious Israelis and Egyptians, not to mention those fiery but fun-loving Latins, President Ronnie's militaristic views seem to be what all the modern leaders are wearing this year.

If you overlook all the people who would be snuffed and the families which would be demolished, not to mention the ideologies and creativity which would cease to exist, war isn't really that bad of an activity.

And how about the bucks you need to start up one of these things, it's not exactly a tea party on the veranda you're planning here, Ronnie. The funds for this grandiose affair have to be coming from somewhere.

Budget cuts, and only in the best places. Social program budgets, NASA's budget and just who needs art. Certainly not the good ole U.S. of A., according to Mr. Reagan. Come Haig or high water he is seemingly determined to make us ready for any evil in the world.

It turns out the money sure as Hell won't be coming from any type of industry which will be helping the looming war effort, such as the oil industry. It sure would be a shame if they had to get by on anything less than 120 per cent profit this year.

Defense is needed, but come on Mr. President. I think you have been watching too many old football movies, the best defense is not always a good offense especially when your home field is becoming in dire need of repairs.

The spectators, some of whom will become directly involved in this little khaki Super Bowl, may just not show up when the season starts and it may not be because they want more money, shorter hours and a free agent clause in their contract. Think about it, Coach.

Tell Mr. Reagan where he can put his missile...

Graduate students spend summer getting a taste of life in Mexico City

CORINNE JIMENEZ
Writer for the Daily Cougar

Three Chicanas who attend UHCC were recipients of scholarships to study at the Colegio de Mexico in Mexico City this summer. The three recipients were: Sylvia Sanchez, doctorate student in bilingual education; Mary Lou Trevino, graduate student in bilingual education; and Yolanda Villarreal, graduate student in public administration.

The program, which ran from June 11 to Aug. 7, 1981, was sponsored by the University of Houston's Mexican American Studies Program in collaboration with Consejo Nacional de Ciencias y Tecnologia, a government agency which is dedicated to enhancing research within Mexico.

Jorge Bustamante is founder and coordinator of this program which was begun in early 1978. Bustamante, a sociologist, received his Ph.D. in Sociology from Notre Dame, and has taught at various universities in the United States. He is a research scholar and a leading expert on Chicanos and immigration.

Since its beginnings, 75 Chicano students have participated in the program. Of these, 10 have been from UH.

Dr. Tatcho Mindiola, director of Mexican American Studies, describes the program as a chance to "expose Chicanos to their roots."

This is done by providing courses in which the Chicano learns and studies about the pre-colonial and contemporary history of Mexico. Also included is a course on the contemporary problems of Mexico, which focuses on economic, social conditions, women, educational, etc. problems. Having numerous guest speakers is another unique aspect of the summer program. This summer some of the guest speakers included: Carlos Tello, economist in Mexico; Eduardo Matos, anthropologist; and Victor L. Uriquidi, president of the Colegio de Mexico.

One criteria for the selection of the scholarship recipients is that the student have a bachelor's degree from a university. The student must also have an ancestor of Mexican descent and be involved in the Mexican American community and the Chicano Studies Program.

Villarreal, encourages other Chicanos to apply for the scholarship, and said, "It was an enjoyable, and great learning experience to learn about the politics of Mexico."

Trevino, described the program as a means in establishing better relations between Mexicans and Chicanos — a beginning in getting to know each other better.

"The summer program proved to be a cultural and academic experience — dramatic, so inspiring," Sanchez said.

Studying at the prestigious institution for these three Chicanas was a rewarding experience. All three were able to learn a great deal not only about Mexico's history but about its culture and people. Trevino said, "after participating in the program I was able to become aware and familiar with Mexico and its culture."

Mindiola hopes that in the near future Mexicans will be able to study here in such an exchange program.

Some students required to take proficiency exam

By ALLISON BECK
Writer for the Daily Cougar

Students who have not completed English 1301 or an equivalent course in English composition prior to Fall 1978 are required to take a writing proficiency examination. This exam is needed to fulfill the requirements for graduation, Assistant Provost Guadalupe Quintanilla said.

The writing proficiency examination was developed because in the mid 1970's, the UH community felt that the writing skills of many its students were inadequate, Quintanilla said.

According to a report prepared in 1976 on English 1300 by Jeanette Morgan, assistant professor of English, the Undergraduate Council (whose members are elected representatives of the various colleges), recommended to appoint faculty members to serve on an advisory committee on English proficiency.

As a result of this committee's work, a junior level writing proficiency requirement was instituted by the university in August 1978, according to the report.

The proficiency requirement applies to "students who graduated in May 1980 or later and who have not completed satisfactorily freshman English prior to the Fall of 1978."

In 1978 the Advisory Committee became the Committee on Writing Proficiency to clarify the proficiency requirements and design the writing proficiency examination. Quintanilla is chair of the committee.

"Anyone who has taken freshman English before the Fall of 1978 is exempt from the proficiency requirement, because we needed to give the students already enrolled the chance to graduate," Quintanilla said.

The writing proficiency requirement was implemented to help students develop proficiency, not to penalize them," Quintanilla said.

Quintanilla said the exam should be taken in the junior year so students will have time to retake the exam they do not pass the first time.

Ads are run in the Daily Cougar before every testing session to remind students of the requirements, Quintanilla said. Registration can be done in person at the Counseling and Testing Office, Student Life Building, or by calling the office at 749-1734, she said. There is no examination fee.

"We are trying to incorporate the dates of the examination into the class schedule so that they will become fixed," Quintanilla said.

There are two parts to the Proficiency Examination: an essay and a standardized multiple choice test, Quintanilla said. New topics are generated for every exam by the Writing Proficiency Committee, she said.

Quintanilla said the exams are usually scored by three different readers on a first impression basis. The reader reads the essay and scores it on a four point scale, which deliberately leaves out a middle point, she said.

Students are given the opportunity to pass the test twice, with three month waiting period between tests, Quintanilla said. A student failing the exam twice is required to enroll in a special section of English 1300, with satisfactory completion of the course fulfilling the proficiency requirement, she said.

There are two testing sessions per semester; one at the beginning and one at the end of the semester, and two sessions in the summer, Quintanilla said. Students must pre-register for the examination at least one week in advance, she said.

"Response from the faculty has been very supportive, faculty members throughout the campus are selected as readers. Each essay is read by three different readers to give students every possible chance," Quintanilla said.

Quintanilla said the program has been very difficult to implement, but it has also been very successful.

Many universities across the country are interested in implementing similar programs, and are using UH's program as a model because of its success, she said.

At California State University in Long Beach, which has a similar program, 50 percent of the juniors who took the English exam in 1980 failed it, Quintanilla said. At UH, 17 percent who took the exam failed it, but 11 percent were international students.

This policy should make a degree from UH more valuable. I'd like to give credit to the Undergraduate Council for recommending the policy, and to members of the Writing Proficiency Committee and the faculty for giving their time and working effectively on the policy," Quintanilla said.

The Writing Proficiency Committee developed a special coding for the computer to make sure that those students exempt from the requirements to get credit, Quintanilla said.

One committee member is responsible for generating computer print-outs in order to find the names of students who haven't taken the exam, Quintanilla said.

There is an Appeals Grievance Committee which hears cases of students who feel the proficiency requirement should be waived, Quintanilla said. Students should submit grievances and appeals in writing to the office of the Assistant Provost, she said.

Grimes part of family

By PAT DILLON
Sports Writer

Picking cotton is no simple task, never mind the boll weevils of the Southwest Conference.

UH football Head Coach Bill Yeoman puts his team through two-a-days, two weekly written tests and five practices a week. And all this before the first game is played. Soon will come the 11:00 p.m. bedchecks six nights a week.

"I wish the public knew what we went through. They don't have any idea," offensive guard Bobby Grimes said.

Grimes, a junior from Cleburne, has been through the UH routine before. He begins his second year as a starter for the Cougars after two years on the sidelines learning the system.

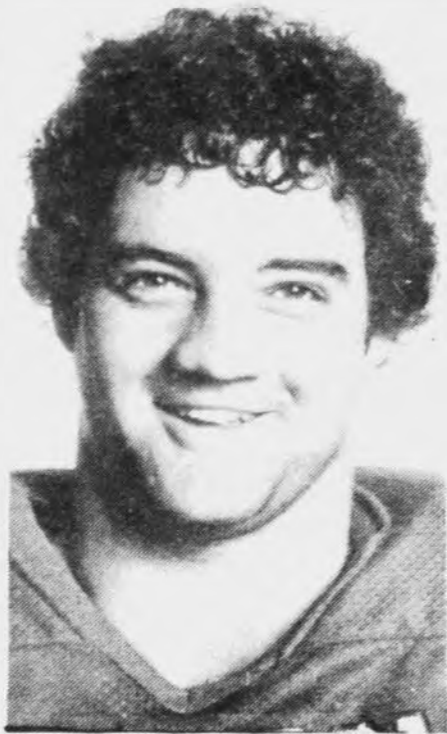

Grimes knew the frustration which came with last season's 7-5 finish. "We read our press clippings too much last year and that handicapped us," he said. "I think there's more togetherness on the team now. We're one big family. We're together twenty-four hours a day."

Grimes doesn't mind the constant togetherness. "In fact, I think I'll miss them later when I graduate," he said. The only free time Grimes and his teammates have is after games on Saturday night.

Grimes came to UH because he liked the city of Houston and respected Bill Yeoman. "He's the best coach in the Southwest Conference," Grimes said. He first got interested in UH when he saw the Cougars whip Maryland 30-21 in the 1977 Cotton Bowl on television. Grimes, then a junior in high school, decided to attend UH after he graduated.

Grimes gets along with the rest of the student body, even though his impressive size (6-foot-3, 240 pounds) makes him stand out in class.

Grimes said he will stay in college past his football eligibility, if necessary, to obtain his degree in business. Professional football would be nice, but Grimes wants something more solid to fall back on.

People often assume that athletes only pass courses because they are recognized as school heroes. Grimes said he follows a degree plan and takes regular courses just like every other student. If he does get inside information about easy classes, it comes from other students who have already taken the course.

One special treatment which Grimes and all other football players receive is their own line at the dorm cafeteria, which feeds them as much as they want. After all, they are just growing boys.

Grimes, along with many of his teammates, thinks that it is too early to predict which team will win the SWC title this year and go to the Cotton Bowl. The general feeling is the team which remains healthy will win. Grimes says the Cougars first game of the season, with New Mexico on Saturday in the Astrodome, will tell a lot.

Cougar Notes: UH opens its 36th season against the Lobos having compiled an 18-15-2 record in season opening games. The game Saturday will be the first time since 1977 that UH has opened at home. The Cougars beat UCLA 17-13 in that opener...Yeoman has a 12-7 opening season record...The Cougars have opened a season seven times in the Astrodome since moving there in 1965. UH lost to Tulsa 14-0 on Sept. 11, 1965 in the first college 'Dome game, but the UH has won the last six times it has opened a season there...UH begins its 17th season in the 'Dome and has compiled a 70-16 regular season mark.

Director grills the Snake

Houston (AP) — Warren Welsh, National Football League director of security, questioned Houston Oilers quarterback Ken Stabler Tuesday concerning Stabler's alleged association with a convicted gambling figure.

Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog and head Coach Ed Biles joined Stabler for the interview and said Welsh returned to New York following the session.

"Kenny answered the questions without hesitation or reservation," Herzog said. "Welsh was here as a routine followup to Sunday's story in the New York Times."

The Times story reported that Stabler had been seen with Nicholas Dudich of Perth Amboy, N.J., on a number of occasions beginning in 1976.

Herzog said Stabler had been offended by the article and did not want to talk about the situation.

"The most unfortunate part about this situation is that when Kenny throws an interception inside the 20-yard line, these questions will pop up," Herzog said. "It's extremely unfortunate."

Herzog said an earlier investigation of Stabler's associations had turned up no improprieties.

"Kenny's extremely hurt by the insinuations and allegations," Herzog said. "He feels he's contributed an awful lot during his football career and now his image has been tarnished somewhat."

Herzog added that Stabler did not want to talk about the allegations. The Oilers, meanwhile, continued preparations Tuesday for Sunday's season opener at Los Angeles.

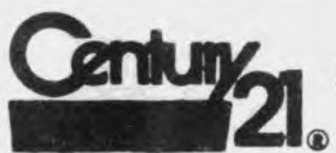

"We're looking forward to having the distractions behind us," Herzog said, "so we can turn our full attention to our game against Los Angeles Sunday."

Astros get All-Star

Houston (AP) —The Houston Astros traded three minor league players to the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday for All-Star second baseman Phil Garner, although Garner's eligibility for post-season play remained unsettled.

Under baseball rules, only players on a team's roster before Sept. 1 are eligible for postseason play. Representatives of the commissioner's office and the National League could not make an immediate decision on Garner's status.

In exchange for Garner, the Astros will send pitcher Randy Niemann, infielder Johnny Ray and a third minor league player to be named later to the Pirates.

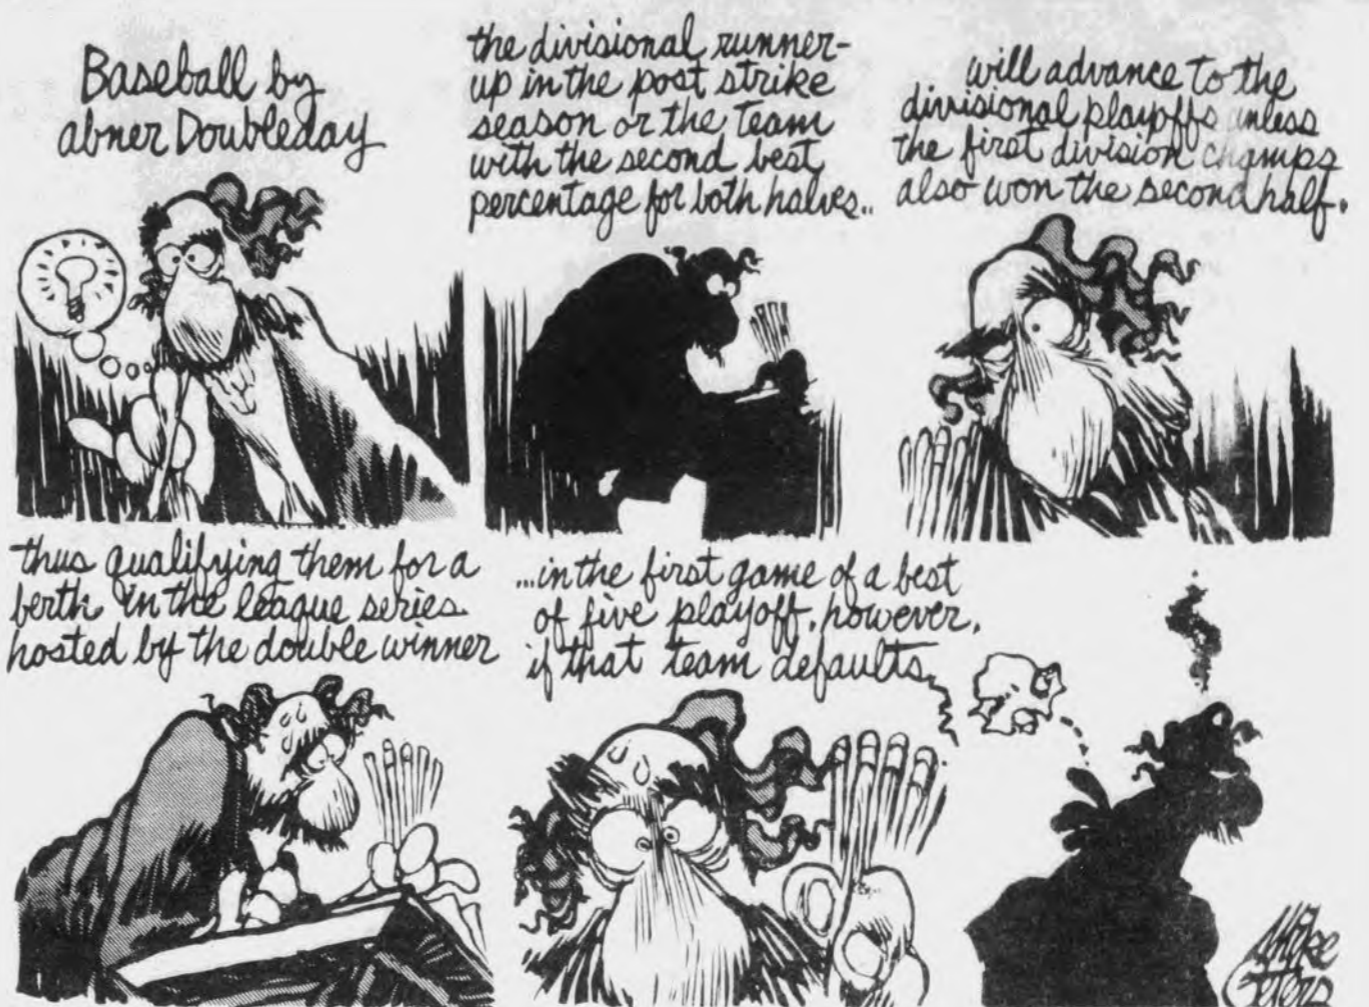

Garner, 32, is eligible to declare free agency in the fall after contract negotiations with the Pirates broke off Monday. Garner's attorney, Dick Sayles, had met with Pirates officials for five days.

Garner has a career batting average of .268, among the best averages among major league second basemen, and has made the All-Star team three times.

The Astros have used Rafael Landestoy, Dickie Thon, Kiko Garcia and Joe Pittman at second base this season. Pittman has been the most consistent, batting .278.

"I've been working on this move for a long time, it's one I've really wanted," Rosen said.

"We are delighted to be able to obtain a player of the proven caliber of Phil Garner to help us in our quest for the National League pennant and the world championship," Astros majority stock holder John McMullen said. "We are involved in an extremely tight race in the west division at the moment and we are doing everything possible to be able to bring a title to the Astros and to Houston."

Kids wanting to play will have to pay

Pittsburgh (AP) — High school football teams will soon be defending the athletic honor of Lions and Tigers and Bears across the land. At halftime, marching bands will swarm on the gridiron in high-stepping splendor.

Off the field, math club members will twist Rubik's Cubes, and choruses will begin practicing for Christmas concerts.

Extracurricular activities are the icing on America's academic cake. In most communities, they are taken for granted.

But in suburban Bethel Park, students this year will pay to play.

For the first time, kids who want to participate in various activities are being charged users' fees.

"Why? Our taxes are very high and we're trying to do anything we can to avoid raising them further," athletic director Joe Lodge said.

"Some school districts have flat out eliminated their extracurricular activities because they simply don't have ways to fund them," he added.

Lodge was referring to Massachusetts, where voters approved Proposition 2½ last November. That tax-cutting measure has reduced municipal revenues by $500 million this year. In the schools, non-academic activities and courses are bearing the brunt.

"We're trying to avoid that panic situation. We thought it would be a good idea to get a jump on what appears to be a trend," Lodge said in a telephone interview.

The fee varies with the activity. Football is the most expensive at $35 per student. Boys' basketball is $32, girl's volleyball $10. Most non-athletic programs, like the astronomy club and the student newspaper, cost a nominal $1 or $2.

Lodge said the amount of equipment and supplies used was the criterion for setting the rates.

Frank Lavallo, director of business affairs, said Bethel Park spent about $265,000 on non-academic activities last year. The figure includes salaries and supplies.

The fees will bring in an estimated $15,000 to $18,000. "That was enough to be significant, but not so much in an opening year that it would be outrageous," Lodge said.

The Bethel Park School District, which has a student population of 6,400, is located in an affluent community in the rolling hills south of Pittsburgh.

Parents look upon the district's education and recreation program with pride. The school also excels in athletics. The football team, 9-3 last year, was the western Pennsylvania runner-up in its category. The basketball and baseball teams won their conferences and both the boys' and girls' swimming teams won the state championships last year.

Despite groom's denials

Officials say Manson clanswoman will not wed

Ontario, Calif. (AP) — There will be no wedding today for former Charles Manson follower Susan Atkins, a prison official says, but the groom from Greenville, Texas, disputes that.

The marriage of Atkins and Donald Lee Laisure was to have been Sunday, but was then postponed until today, supposedly because of the wait required for blood tests.

Laisure denied a statement from the prison the marriage was off.

The watch commander at the California Institution for Women in Frontera, where Miss Atkins is serving a life sentence for her role in the bloody 1969 Sharon Tate murders, said Sunday the marriage was off. She would not elaborate or identify herself.

Superintendent Sylvia Johnson also told Los Angeles Radio Station KNX that the ceremony in the prison's Catholic chapel had been scrapped with no new date set.

But a man who identified himself as the 52-year-old Laisure insisted that was untrue, as did a self-described psychologist who said she visited Miss Atkins Sunday.

"Apparently you're being highly misinformed. It's totally untrue. We are getting married Wednesday at the prison," Laisure said. He was reached by phone Sunday night at the downtown Holiday Inn in Ontario, a San Bernardino county community bordering Frontera. Clerks earlier said Laisure had checked out.

However, they later referred calls to him and a woman who identified herself only as Miss Richards.

"I visited with Susan this evening and this is not true," the woman said before hanging up.

In this Sunday editions, the Ontario Daily Report quoted Laisure as saying the wedding originally scheduled for Sunday had been postponed because California Law requires a three-day wait after a blood test.

Miss Atkins was convicted of murder and conspiracy along with Manson, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten in the murders of Miss Tate, heiress Abigail Folger and three others, as well as the subsequent killings of grocery store owners Leno and Rosemary Labianca.

While on trial, Miss Atkins, now 33, gave grisly details about stabbing the pregnant actress. Laisure told the newspaper he was convinced she didn't kill anyone but that he was willing to take her punishment.

"If they would give me an ironclad contract, if they would trade me for her, I would stand in front of a firing squad, forget the blindfold," he said.

Houston will be topic of UC forum

"This Is Your Houston," will be the topic for discussion at a local forum here during the month of September.

Civic leaders and public officials will be the featured speakers on subjects ranging from transportation and business issues to social and educational issues facing Houston in the coming years.

This forum, sponsored by the UH Student's Association's Ideas and Issues Committee, will be held in the World Affairs Lounge at the University Center. The general public is invited to attend and participate in discussions.

SHAPE THE FUTURE OF ENERGY TECHNOLOGY

It is a tall order. Yet, it is a challenge that must be met. Our future as an industrial society depends on our ability to find more efficient ways to use our limited fuel resources. At Fluor, we are working hard to find the answers.

For over 60 years, we have helped the energy industries by designing and building modern refining, petrochemical, chemical and natural gas facilities. During that time, Fluor engineers have been in the forefront of energy related technology.

At present, we are applying new methodology in the extraction of oil from tar sands and shale, coal gasification and the refining of high sulphur feedstocks. This is a challenging, exciting time for engineers who are interested in solving complex problems.

Graduates with degrees in Chemical, Mechanical, Civil or Electrical Engineering or Computer Science are invited to help us shape the future of energy, technology. For complete career information, talk to our campus recruiter, or write to:

KUHT gets money for documentary

Public television station KUHT has received a $27,947 grant from the Caesar Kleburg Foundation for Wildlife Conservation to produce "Descent Into The Past", a documentary film about man and the San Marcos River.

The one hour film is a co-production of KUHT-TV and Texas filmmakers Ron Coley and Tom Taylor. Scheduled for completion in January 1982, "Descent Into The Past" will be offered to the Public Broadcasting Service for national TV.

Additional grants have been awarded the film from the Texas Commission for the Humanities and the Mitchell Energy & Development Corp.

Recent archaeological discoveries made on the San Marcos River strongly suggest the area may have been the site of North America's first sedentary culture — that of the Clovis Indians from as early as 10,000 B.C. Dr. Joel Shiner, the SMU anthropology professor who unearthed over 50,000 Clovis artifacts from the river's bottom says: "History told us that the headwaters of the San Marcos River was the most likely place to look for the remains of prehistoric civilizations. Common sense tells us that it is ideal location for any civilization."

After the Clovis Indians came the Spanish explorers and missionaries, then the Texas pioneers, and now modern-day Texans and tourists keep the area busy. Descent Into The Past will examine all the cultures and the ways man and river have influenced each other for centuries.

By gathering and utilizing the expertise of a special group of historians, anthropologists, artists, writers and representatives from state and local government, Descent Into The Past will focus on society's relationship to the San Marcos River from a social, political, economic and cultural perspective. KUHT-TV, Ron Coley and Tom Taylor believe that a widely-distributed film on man's long and valuable relationship with the San Marcos River will increase public interest in natural resource management as well as foster appreciation for this unique Texas heritage.

RANDOM NOTES

Bob Kafka, coordinator of handicapped student services, has been awarded the 1981 Governor's Citation for Meritorious Service from the Harris County Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. Kafka was cited for his efforts in educating general public about the handicapped.

Sophomore Willie Queenan was a unanimous choice to receive a $1,000 broadcast journalism scholarship from the Radio and Television News Directors Foundation. One of five national winners, Queenan will receive the Richard Cheverton Scholarship at the Radio and Television News Directors Association meeting in New Orleans, Sept 10-12. Queenan wrote a 15-minute television news documentary script on new problems facing public health facilities, such as Ben Taub Hospital, based on his own research.

Students John Hoffman and Will Clark brought back six medals, two gold and four silver, from the National Wheelchair Games in Seattle. Hoffman set a national record in winning the club throw and placed second in the discus, 25-meter freestyle, 100-meter freestyle, and medley relay. Clark was a member of winning 400-meter relay team.

Dr. Guadalupe Quintanilla, assistant provost, received the Americo Paredes Award from the Texas Association of Chicanos in Higher Education at the association's seventh annual conference in Dallas in July. The award is given to the member of the Hispanic community making an outstanding contribution to higher education.

Dr. Harb Hayre, electrical engineering professor and director of the Wave Propagation Laboratory, presented a paper, "Pattern Recognition Applied to Speech Spectrum for Personality Parameter Detection," at Oxford University last April.

Robert Leeds, drama department graduate, was one of the eight students selected to receive a diploma from the Ecole Internationale de Minodrame - Marcel Marceau in Paris. Leeds entered the school in 1978 after receiving training in mime from UH Mime Troupe director Claude Caux.

Martin Cominsky, 1980 graduate and student assistant in Campus and Community Relations, received the outstanding MBA graduate award from SMU this month.

Dr. Barry C. Pelton, associate professor of health, physical education, and recreation, addressed the Texas Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation summer retreat at Padre Island; a retreat designed for physical education and athletic directors. Pelton's presentation was "Assessing the Needs of Teachers of Health, Physical Education and Athletic Coaches."

Dr. Michael T. Matteson, professor of organizational behavior and management, addressed area business and industry representatives at a "Good Health is Good Business" conference. Matteson emphasized that stress and stress management are areas of growing interest and concern for business.

Wood grand jury ready to reconvene

San Antonio, Texas (AP) — The federal grand jury reconvenes Wednesday to question a convict about his conversations with two key suspects in the 1979 murder of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Calvin Wright, 32, an inmate at the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kan., made a brief appearance before the grand jury on Aug. 19, but refused to testify until an attorney was appointed for him.

Court-appointed attorney Roy Barrera said he expects the government will grant Wright immunity from prosecution on Wednesday.

Barrera said Wright met convicted narcotics trafficker Jimmy Chagra at Leavenworth, before Chagra was moved to the federal penitentiary at Marion, Ill., and that the two men had frequent conversations.

Wright also had telephone conversations with convicted hired killer Charles V. Harrelson about a week before Wood was killed, again about three weeks after the assassination, and a third time after being sent to Leavenworth last year, Barrera said.

Federal attorneys suspect that Chagra hired Harrelson to kill Wood, who was shot to death outside his San Antonio apartment on May 29, 1979.

Some photo classes in the School of Communication are still open.

Journalism 3330, on Monday and Wednesday at 10-11:30 (Sec. 1565) is taught by Jim McNay, assistant chief photographer on the Houston Post. The class covers operations of the camera as well as black and white developing and printing.

A few seats remain unfilled in the same course taught on Tuesday and Thursday from 11 to 12:30 (Sec. 6405) by Sandra Shriver, an award winning photojournalist who has worked for the Associated Press, the Worcester Telegram and the Houston Post.

The classes work on people-oriented assignments. The students learn to take pictures with a candid approach.

For students interested in color photography, Journalism 2330 (Sec. 1572) taught on Tuesday and Thursday from 10 to 11:30 is available. This course is designed for the beginner. The class stresses photographic communication rather than the technical aspects of the camera. During the course the students shoot color slides for their weekly projects.

Ken Kobre, who wrote Photojournalism: The Professionals' Approach, will teach the color class. Kobre who is represented in New York by Black Star picture agency and shoots assignments for U.S. News, The New York Times, US magazine, Business Week and others.

The quickest way to get emergency money.

These days a trip to the college bookstore can reduce your available funds to some small change. Luckily, that's about all you need to make the one phone call that can replenish your depleted funds in a couple of hours. Here's what to do:

1. Call home. Report the situation, and tell the folks they can get emergency cash to you fast by phone.

2. Ask them to call Western Union's toll-free number, 800-325-6000 (in Missouri, 800-342-6700), anytime, day or night. They charge the money and service fee to their MasterCard* or VISA† card. A Western Union Charge Card Money Order, up to $1,000, will be flashed to the Western Union office or agent nearest your emergency.

3. Pick up your money—usually within two hours—at the local Western Union office or agent. There are 8,500 nationally, except in Alaska. Conveniently, about 900 locations are open 24 hours. It's that easy.

Be sure to remind your parents about our toll-free number. It's all they need to back you up at the bookstore.

*The MasterCard name is owned by Interbank Card Association.
†The VISA name is owned by VISA International.

Young girl survives 4 days in wilderness

Clatskanie, Ore. (AP) — A 5-year-old girl kidnapped last week apparently survived alone in the outdoors for four days with only wild blackberries to eat, police said.

Mary Miller was found Monday night in a wild blackberry patch less than a mile from her home by two patrolmen in a canoe searching Conyers Creek for her body.

She was taken to St. John's Hospital in Longview, Wash., where she was treated for mental and physical exhaustion and released.

"Do you know how many little girls survive outside that long?" Police Chief David Nelson asked. "It's a miracle."

The chief said, "Apparently, from what little we've been able to find out from her, all she had to eat was blackberries."

The girl was found about three-quarters of a mile from the mobile home where she lived in Clatskanie with her mother, Sheryl Miller, and 4-year-old brother.

Nelson said police believe the girl was released shortly after she was abducted from her home late Thursday night.

The patrolmen who found the barefoot girl, Larry Clow and Randy Nelson, the chief's son, said they thought they heard the voice of a child, but received no response when they called. They found her in a clearing in the middle of a thicket when they began searching the creek bank.

"She was just standing there, talking very rapidly to herself," Chief Nelson said.

The girl was wearing the same tank top and panties she had on when she was abducted four days ago, Chief Nelson said.

The chief said there was a suspect in the kidnapping, but no arrest has been made. He declined to give any other details.

The girl disappeared from the mobile home about 11 p.m. Thursday during a 10 minute period when her mother drove a babysitter home, he said. When Mrs. Miller returned, she told police, she found the door forced open and her daughter gone.
