

Masquers Click As "Stage Door" Plays To Capacity Crowd

Loughridge, King, Chiasson, Walker Take Acting Honors

Scoring a success with the initial production of the season, the Red Masque Players presented "Stage Door" to capacity crowds on Wednesday and Thursday nights in the old auditorium.

After a slow first scene in which about half the personnel of the dramatic organization made somewhat ineffective entrances and exits, the show progressed into a well-timed comedy, directed by L. Standlee Mitchell.

Inspired by the acting of Vera Mae Loughridge and George Chiasson, who came up to their usual best which has made them favorites of the Red Masque presentations, the largest cast of bit players ever assembled in one show by the Masquers gave creditable performances when they were not in the occasional throes of stage consciousness.

While Miss Loughridge advanced into ever-acting in some of her climaxing, she met her dramatic climaxes and made them convincing.

U. Singers Contest For Symphony Pass

"What Music Means to Me" is the topic of themes being written by members of the University Singers in competition for the season ticket to the Houston Symphony programs offered as a prize. The themes are to be from 300 to 700 words in length and are to be submitted to Mrs. Charles C. Perry, director of the Singers by November 1.

Roger Erwin was elected business manager, and Jane Davis, social chairman for the coming year, at a meeting held last Tuesday.

Additional members for the committees are: Hill Feagin, and Louise Webb to assist Roger Erwin; and Alice David, Mary Joyce Frank, and Bob Cox as assistants to Jane Davis.

The Singers are planning a party in October with specific plans to be announced later.

Vernon Kelly Heads Engineering Group

Newly-elected officers of the University of Houston Society of Engineers are Vernon Kelly, president; Gayle Whitten, vice president; Eddy DeYoung, chief engineer; and Edwin Stockwell, secretary-treasurer.

Activity calendar for the USHE is now being made and will be announced when complete.

Notice

President Tom Yerxa of the the Sophomore class has called a meeting of the class for 9:30 p. m. Wednesday in Room 110. All Sophomores are urged to attend the meeting so that important business may be discussed, Yerxa said.

Sophomores Plan "Campus Night" As Regular Attraction

Tentative plans are being made by Sophomore officers for the class to sponsor a "Campus Night" program, it was announced today.

The plan which has been used by various colleges to promote keener school spirit will be used this year for the first time if definite plans are made by the class at a meeting Wednesday night.

Following is an excerpt from a letter to the editor of the Cougar explaining the plan for the event:

"The plan as it is now is for a monthly "Campus Night" to be put on by the students with student talent. A "Campus Night" leader will be elected along with an assistant, and their duties will be to select all talent and to serve as master of ceremonies for all shows. Shows will be put on once a month on a regular night set aside for this purpose and each student will be permitted to bring a guest. The University of Houston will be inaugurating something which in years to come will be an occasion to which students will look forward.

"Admission will be free. No definite arrangements have been made, but the idea is new. All students interested in working out programs or appearing in them are asked to notify Tom Yerxa before Wednesday, Sophomore meeting date."

Collegian Dance Planned October 28

Tickets are now on sale for the first Cougar Collegian sport dance to be given in the girls' gym beginning at 9:30 p. m., October 28.

The sport dances are a regular feature of the Collegian calendar each year. Tickets can be purchased from members of the club for 25 cents.

Formal initiation of new members will be held at 6 p. m. Sunday at the home of Mickey Sloan, 2315 Oakdale. At a meeting following the initiation, committees will be selected to complete the social calendar.

New officers elected this week include Louise Butler, vice president; Dot Hohl, secretary; Vera Mae Loughridge, historian; Virginia Christianson, publicity chairman. Lorine Butler is president.

Student Interest Needed at U. of H.

By Marion Charpiot

Certain students have become disgusted with the whole student body of the University of Houston, and refuse to participate in the school activities being conducted. They have taken the attitude that no one else participates, so why should I.

The greatest reason why more students do not take interest in the school activities is not because they are not interested; but because about seventy-five per cent of the student body do a full days work before coming to the university in the evening, and thus they are usually too tired to attend the class meetings which are commonly held after the last lecture.

Students, we must take more interest in school activities in spite of their inconvenience, because they need our attention.

If we want to graduate from an institution that is well known, we must put it forward. No matter how hard the load might be, if we put hard enough we will move it to its destination.

Are we students in the University quite as friendly as we should be? Or do we gather in small social groups, and take a selfish attitude toward other groups and individuals?

It is very rude, indeed, to accuse anyone of being selfish; but this has been done. We want the privilege of socking that fellow in the nose who accuses us of being selfish.

Throughout the nation several colleges of distinction have fallen behind other colleges, because of selfish attitudes that were taken on questions of minor importance.

Out of the numerous students who have been attending the university for two or three years, it is hard at election time to tell who would be eligible to hold a class office, because of the fact that many of these students have only been taking one or two subjects, and thus have not acquired enough credit hours to be officially sectioned into any class.

This question was raised in recent class elections.

It is true that these particular individuals were the choice of the majority of their class, but would it cast a reflection upon the dignity of the class to carry on in this manner? Would it be better to right this mistake now while this question is being discussed, and thus settle the complications that might arise later?

1938 Freshman Ball Tentatively Set For November 18; Virginia Christianson And Ed Davis To Handle Arrangements

Jules A. Vern Wins Laurels As French Writer and Actor

Jules A. Vern, University French instructor, is widely known as a writer, paleontologist, and actor.

Mr. Vern has produced twelve plays in Texas and many more in France, and has taken leading roles in these and other plays. He founded the French Little Theater of Houston in 1938 and directed many of its productions. In 1934 he was made an officer in the French Academy. Since then he has written "Ballades du Texas," published in 1937, and "Swing," published last month. "Ballades Archaiques" and "Ballades de mon Bayou," written in old French, will be ready for publication by the end of this year. During the past summer Mr. Vern spent most of his time writing poetry in old French, and has also been publisher of a literary magazine, "Le Bayou." He uses the anagram pen name Jean Sulver.

Contributions of fossils, flint, and tools to museums of natural history have been made by Mr. Vern.

When asked where he found time to do all of these things, the genial professor laughed and said that he had "plenty of time and would have more than ever since the French Little theatre will not be active this year."

Hockey Club Will Meet

With the opening of the ice rink still fresh in their minds, University hockey players were soliciting players today for the 1938 edition of the University of Houston hockey team.

The club will be entered in the amateur hockey loop.

Gerald Schlieff, enthusiastic member of the group forming the club, has notified all interested parties to be on hand tonight in Room 110 at 6 o'clock for organization of the team.

Among those who have notified Schlieff of their intention to join the club are: "Punky" Spencer, Fred Tofte, and possibly Ed Chermoski, Raymond Lee and others.

Date Must Have Sanction of Office To Be Official

A tentative date for the Freshman Ball, highlight of the early University social season, was set Monday night, at a meeting of the Freshman class, for November 18.

The date for the dance must have the sanction of the office before becoming official.

William "Punky" Spencer was elected Student Council representative at the meeting, and Frances Beatty voted treasurer. These offices were not filled at the first meeting of the class.

Ed Davis was appointed chairman of the social committee for the 1938 season. It will be the duty of the committee to arrange dates and social events for the class during the coming year. Davis will select his committeemen.

Virginia Christianson was appointed chairman of the arrangements or dance committee. The task of the dance committee will be to arrange for Halls, orchestra, and decorations, for all Freshman events,

HELP

Does anyone know someone who has, or knows someone who has, or knows someone who knows someone who has a wagon suitable for hayride?

If someone does he is asked to notify Ted O'Leary, Sophomore president; Mary Jo Emmert, Soph secretary; or P. J. Sterne.

A NOTE ON THE DESK'S WORTH TWO IN THE NOTEBOOK

Some Fancy Notes On Note-Taking Strikes the Keynote For Skip's First Lecture of the Year—Are You Listening?

Good evening, class. Tonight I will really offer an informative lecture entitled, "How to Take Lecture Notes." I hope I will be able to clear up a problem that I realize has been puzzling the largest part of the student body for some time.

Now in taking notes, it is the usual procedure to start with a few simple pieces of equipment; preferably, paper and either pencil or pen. However, I must admit that I know a boy who did very well by writing his notes on his desk.

He had some difficulty in getting his homework, as he had to take a screwdriver to school when he wanted to take his notes home, but despite this slight problem, he always made very good grades on examinations. He seemed to NEVER miss a question. (I hope I haven't put ideas in any student's heads).

To take good notes, the student must concentrate on every word the professors utter. Tit-tat-toe is absolutely out. Also, it is not a very good idea for the student to demonstrate his cartooning ability while taking notes. That little picture labeled, "professor" just MIGHT happen to fall into the wrong hands, and unless the professor happens to be quite an art enthusiast, he might not be in one of his best moods when he records the term grade of the "artist."

Careful attention should be given your professor, or you might turn out a set of notes somewhat similar to the ones I set down in my

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

An hour's debate by the Student Council Monday night on the eligibility of two class officers to hold their elected positions ended as it should—in the clearing of the records of both officers.

But something more important than the decision of official eligibility will now be before the Council, and their action will determine whether future elections will bring the same difficulty or even greater dissention.

It has been clearly pointed out that immediate action must be taken to make regulations governing student activity, especially class and organization elections, definitely outlined so that no future hearings will be necessary. The embarrassing situation created in the class and officers in question and the Council this week will be prevented only when the latter organization makes definite statements of regulations which appear in the student handbook—set up as authority, but containing little.

SPECULATION

Speculation is rife concerning the group of little boys who attended our student assemblies and plays and whistle at girls and make funny noise.

Some say that students shouldn't enroll when they know they are too immature to appreciate the older ways of college men and women, and some insist there must be a mistake somewhere, because college men are too dignified to stoop to such childish antics as these.

Maybe if they were spanked and sent to bed without their supper or punished in any other way suitable to small children, the regular University student could enjoy the plays and assemblies without the customary rude interruptions.

CO-OPERATION

Co-operation is deemed a necessity in this fast moving life cycle of today. Without this, an individual has perhaps one chance out of a thousand to realize his ambition.

When your aid is asked for the purpose of producing something for the good of the majority, your helping hand will be good insurance on your receiving help when you are forced to send out the SOS.

Much co-operation is necessary to bring the University within the pattern mapped out for it. Your help will trace the pattern more clearly and even place a brick in the foundation of Greater University of the future.

SMOKING

Last week, several notices were posted against smoking in the school. This includes the halls as well as the classrooms. Some of the students still insist on disobeying the rules—so one last effort is being made to prohibit any further practice of it.

The law forbids it, and the school must abide by city regulations. Fines will be assessed on those breaking this ordinance so remember —NO SMOKING in the building.

Houstonian Staff Selects Cover, Theme

Covers for the 1939 Houstonian were selected at a meeting of the annual staff Monday night. A maroon cover embossed with the University seal and the year of the publication featuring the word

"Houstonian" in white script was chosen. The University of Houston of the future was selected as the theme of the book. Dedication will be to Dr. W. W. Kemmerer, University vice president. A co-ed's ambition is to look younger than she is and to act younger than she looks.

"Skip"—

Geology course last year. One excerpt reads something like this; "The characteristics of the mature streams are numerous and distinctive. The stream beds are U-shaped and Lehigh 1706 is the number of a "swell-looking blonde."

So help me, I can't for the life of me figure out how that last line slipped in those notes. It really is on the level though, and one of these days I might get around to giving the number a ring.

Now there are a few hazards to be encountered in taking lecture notes. The male student is always in danger of breaking a pencil point and unless he has a spare pencil, must face the dreary prospect of sitting through the rest of the lecture without taking notes. The co-ed is more fortunate, and can finish her notes with her lipstick . . . probably turning out a neater job than she does on her lips.

A few statistics might come in handy at this point to illustrate another danger to the student taking notes. In 1937, exactly 731,948 students looked over the shoulders of fellow students to get words they missed in the lectures. 2,526 students were injured; 18 seriously.

The above figures represent only those students attempting to see the papers of fellow sufferers during lectures. Of course, the percentage on examinations will be much higher. For these statistics, write the Federal Bureau of Statistics for Students Cheating on Examinations and Tests in American High Schools and Colleges.

Well, that about concludes the lecture for to-night. Will those who took notes on my lecture to-night please raise thier hands? . . . Maybe you didn't understand me. I asked those who took notes on my lecture to please thier hands . . . ah, NUTS! Goodnight!

"Stage Door"—

treked so often across the stage were Franklin Walker, cast as the Hollywood director. Credit goes to Virginia King for her beautiful second-act scream.

Lela Blount, Virginia King and Louise Kost deserve special mention for the capable handling of their roles.

Written by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman the story a stage and screen success, concerns the trials and tribulations of a group of girls belonging to the Footlights Club in New York City who starve and sacrifice for the sake of the theatre.

Others appearing in the play were Marjorie Landreneau, Nina Ellis, Kitty Lou Dawson, Antoinette Cowart, Elsie Dial, Maxine Easton, Rosemary Summers, Doris Jean Johnston, Abbie Jane Hunt, Bettie Hays, Gwen Hart, Josephine Hightower, Virginia Brunner, Elizabeth Weaver, Mary Faye Tynes, Edythe Reddick, Joseph A. Camp, Fred Larkin, Joe Potter, Fisk Dysart, Don K. Miller, Nathaniel Davis, Paula Frantz, Douglas E. Carter, Gay Calkins, and Baldwin DeYoung.

Special lighting arranged by George Boyington added to the effectiveness of the presentation. Included in the technical staff for the production of "Stage Door" were Jack Palmer, stage manager; Roy Much, James Rice, and Henry Taub, assistants; Edwin Stockwell, advertising; Lorine Butler, proeprty manager; Louise Webb, assistant; Mary Jo Hogan and Frances Redeker, prompters; June Carter, Della Bell Collier, Jane Ellis, Betty Jinks, Miriam Korff, Mickey Marsh, Frances Russ, and Katherine Salzer, ushers.

CAMPUS CHATTER

FLASH . . . W. J. Meier has decided that his nurse girl friend may have been double crossing him—for lack of a better way to check up he is entering Memorial hospital for a serious operation—he probably will be able to have company by the week end . . . Understand that the so called romance of Charlie Patton and Helen Ford has been broken up, the person who caused this break might be interested to know that Helen is engaged to one Bill Dawson of Waco . . . Jimmy Grant has been showing great interest in the orchestra class—the reason appears to be Grace Doss . . . It seems that everyone in school but Bill Kirk knew that Mary Jo Emmert was practically engaged—he found out the other day—poor boy . . .

Harlan Pritchard said goodbye to the University Monday night and left for Randolph Field—good luck, fellow, you'll need it . . . One of the more intelligent profs gave three reasons for missing a class: 1: Sickness, 2. Death, and 3. A hot Date . . . Where was Ted O'Leary one night this past week when Jackie Hart was making the Rounds of the tables at The Huddle? . . . Certain stores in the downtown district have displays of students wear—they have pennants in the window from every school but ours—you that trade with them should do something about that . . . Did you know that a bachelor is a man who has been successful in love? . . . Louise Pridden had a zipper on the front of her dress the other day and was protecting it with all her might—well it was a rather hot day . . . Understand a certain Demon is going to throw dirt in one Jimmy Goddan's face for nominating someone out of turn . . .

At the play was one of the past writers of this column, who incidentally was THE best one; he is Harry Johnston and if you noted that cute girl with him, forget it; she is Buck McDaniels Harry's future wife . . . Another ex. at the play was Louis Gerard who no doubt came to see Gwen Hart do very well in the part of Susan . . . Also noted Bumpy Reed paying much attention to Louise Webb . . . As usual Vera Mae Loughbridge had the show all for her own; however, her boy friend—on and off stage—did excellently—I am referring to George Chiasson . . . At least one romance seems to have developed out of the play and that is the Gwen Hart-Joe Potter affair, another on-stage combination that gave someone ideas . . .

We note that one Arboy Land has been haunting the gym at four o'clock in the afternoon—it seems that one of the managers interests him to no little degree . . . It might be noted that a very poor way for a freshman girl to start the year is to break a date with a popular upper classman such as Jack Palmer is—how about that, Frances Russ? . . .

It is true what they say about Dixie? Heaven only knows but the situation couldn't possibly be more complex than the Betty Orr tie-up. Miss Orr is seen hanging around with a half-dozen laddie bucks at least. Current among the top-flighters are Raymond Lee and Jimmy Manley.

For just plain nosing around we could tell you of the Bently-Much two-some at Shangral Inn last Satnite . . . Or the Bob Holberg—Charles Malyn dear hunt the other night . . . and then there is always the coming date Tom Pulley and the blonde babe in the prexy's office. Imagine Tommy.

Who has the latest on Della Belle Collier's life-lighter? Is it still . . . uh . . . still . . . uh . . . uh?

The rumor is rife that in spite of Fred "The Great Lover" Tofte is strictly in the throes of something or another with a diminutive darling of Heights (net). This eliminates the build-up, sweethearts; just settle down to the secondary.

Is or isn't Jean Rossi still the apple of Arline Chase's eye. Some eye, I'll say . . . could Maurine Cross be missing Jack Nagel very much since he withdrew from school? He did y'know. Does she, d'y Know? . . . and say, professor,—order me a nice big bowl of Mary Cathryn Beatty, she's okeh. . . and since we are talking about Beatty's, line up this Frances ditto also . . . trouble always runs in pairs.

Note to the anonymous contributor: What have you got against Kitty Lou Dawson, and what's all this about Blossom Heath, Kitty? Jimmie Crayton, A. J. Rod, a model at Battlestein's (free adv.) and Grace Keller, transfer from S. M. U.? Thanks anyway, and how about some more chatter.

Lots of good oratorical material in the Student Council this year . . . and, speaking of oratory, Mr. Harris wants to know about making the front page of the Cougar . . . well that doesn't seem like much of an accomplishment to us . . . and the Cougar editor is thinking that if she had a nickel for every meeting date listed incorrectly already this year it would look like the jack-pot.

Poet's Corner
 By George Chiasson

A Springtime Rhyme In Fall
 Yesterday I passed you by
 Without a single word.
 The day before was quite the same,
 But let these words be heard.

Today is right for you and me,
 And though you may not know it,
 You're tops with me, but damn it all
 I don't know how to show it.

So when I pass you coolly by
 And hold my tongue for days,
 It's just because I'm such a fool
 And cannot mend my ways.

South End Cougars Prep For "Double-Header"

University Boys Defeat Baytown In Garrison Finish, 18 to 13

The South End Cougars, formerly known as the University of Houston Cougars and informally known as "our boys," will take the week-end off for intensive drills before next week's "double-header."

The footballers now stand at an even .500 per cent in the rating table for the first half. Having dropped their first encounter to the Cherryhurst Tigers, the Cougars blasted the Tri-Cities combination out of the picture last Sunday by an 18-13 margin.

Fred Dupont, hefty all-cityite of seasons past, continues to dominate the play of the team, while Henry Taub has shown to considerable merit on the line in the past two engagements. Joe Camp is still doing a nice job at the fullback post.

It was Dupont's passing that enabled the club to pull a Garrison finish last Sunday. He accounted for two of the tallies by his tossing. Camp hurled the other for the third tally. The Cats failed to convert on all three tries.

Next week, the Cougars tangle with Tri-Cities for the second consecutive time. This time the game will be played on Saturday.

Sunday, October 30, the club will face one of their major tests of the season in the Eastwood Greenies, potent amateur group from East End. The Greenies, incidentally, have been in the market for a sponsor. Their former sponsor, the Eastwood Community church, has withdrawn from the athletic wars.

A large paid attendance greeted the last Cougar game and the club has been encouraged by the obvious support of the student body.

The club is still composed exclusively of University of Houston students and all students that would like to join are asked to contact Joe Camp.

Notice

Il Circolo Italiano will meet Tuesday in Room 204 at 8:45 p. m.

Boxing team will meet tonight in Room 118 at 8:30. A captain will be elected.

Houstonian club meeting at 3:45 p. m. Wednesday, Room 210.

B. S. U. council meeting at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the home of Katherine Sanford, 5512 LaBranch.

M. S. U. 6:10 p. m in left auditorium.

SPORT BRIEFS

Only 30 major college football squads remain in the undefeated and untied class after last week's stirring upsets. Saturday should provide more reversals, and several clubs will exit from the unbeaten ranks as there are few games involving two unbeaten elevens.

The official Rice-Texas dance will be held Saturday night from 9 'til 1 at the Rice Hotel Terrace. Music will be by Gabe Martell and his orchestra. Tickets for the dance will be on sale today in the book exchange and can be purchased for $1.50.

In the East, Pittsburgh and Dartmouth remain as the leaders. Holy Cross, Navy, Penn, Cornell, and Columbia were bowled over for the first time this season in some of last Saturday's surprises. Pitt plays host to Southern Methodist tomorrow, while Dartmouth takes on a promising Harvard team which fought Army to a 20-17 score.

Minnesota, and the "Irish" of Notre Dame, continue to rule the mid-West and are yet unbeaten. Michigan, Wisconsin and Northwestern were the victims from this section of the country. Minnesota will be idle Saturday, but Carnegie Tech invades the Notre Dame stronghold in what may be the best match of the day.

The South has Duke and Tennessee riding the crest and both rank near the top as the nation's best. Tennessee slammed Alabama's Rose Bowl dreams while Duke edged out Georgia Tech; both were boasting unblemished records. Mississippi, conquerer of Louisiana State in an early season upset, was bounced by Vanderbilt. Duke tangles with Little Wake Forrest tomorrow, and should score an easy win. They Satisfy
