UH EXES RATE BEST SEATS FOR SEPTEMBER 29 OPENER

September 29 is "University of Houston Day." That's the date that the Cougar football team will take on Mississippi State, at 8 PM in Rice Stadium. And, that's the date that smart UH alumni will find themselves in the stadium's best seats—if they act quickly.

A group of Houston's business and civic leaders is getting behind the Cougars in an attempt to put the Big Red in a top notch athletic conference. The first goal is a sell-out for the Mississippi game.

The Alumni Association, (in order to make sure we aren't left out) has secured an option on 5,000 of the best seats. They start on the fifty yard line and run to the thirty. These tickets will be sold on a first come—first served basis. The coupon on the right, with your check, will bring your tickets to you by return mail.

Alumni President Hal Berry said, "The importance of this project cannot be overempha- (Continued on Page 4)

"EXtra" Losing $3,000 Yearly Paid Subscription Policy Set

"A better Alumni newspaper—for those who desire it," was the decision reached at the August 14 meeting of the Alumni Board of Directors. In practice this will mean the EXtra will be circulated on a paid subscription basis.

President Berry said, "We can no longer ignore the fact that the EXtra is the major deficit item in our budget. And, we must consider the unfairness involved when we use fund receipts to send newspapers to non-contributors." The Board agreed that it is eminently desirable to maintain monthly contact with our wide-spread alumni as long as it is financially feasible. "But the time has come when we must conserve our strength and concentrate on the hard core of loyal alumni who can be counted on to back our University all the way," a spokesman said.

Mr. Poling pointed out, "Many of our alumni do not feel able to respond to our fund drives, and this is understandable where a young group is concerned. But, I doubt that our subscription rate of $1.00 per year will work a hardship on anyone."

A financial report submitted to the Board indicated an annual deficit of approximately $3,000., for printing, postage and handling of the EXtra, not including salaries for office staff time.

The paid subscription policy will become effective as soon as possible.

Hudson Resigns; Board Appoints Philip R. Allin

Mr. Phil R. Allin, chief geologist for Union Oil and Gas Company, was named a director on the Alumni Board filling the vacancy created by the resignation of L. "Hank" Hudson. Mr. Allin's appointment will hold only for the unexpired term, after which the position will be filled by general election.

Mr. Allin was first president of the UH Geological Society, Vice president of his Junior class. His fund team led all others in the 1953 alumni fund campaign, and he is an active member of the Sideline Coaches Association. Mr. Allin is also a member of the Geological Advisory Committee to Gen. A. D. Bruce, U. H. president.

Mr. Hudson's resignation was accepted with regret due to the fact that he has moved his residence to Dallas, and cannot meet the requirements of the position.

Homecoming Traditions Fall; '56 To Be "Different & Better"

One thing is for sure — Homecoming will be different in 1956. Homecoming Chairman Tom Menefee and his staff report that certain problems have caused a shake-up in traditional planning for the annual event. "But," Menefee says, "we believe the net result will be a Homecoming which is more attractive to the Alumni."

NOTICE

The Homecoming Committee would like to honor the class of 1936. Only 16 members of that class are in our files. Can you add to that list? Call: CA 4-1681, Ext. 251.

One set-back occurred when a large percentage of Campus fraternities became ineligible to participate in the Homecoming Parade. This, plus the fact that very few High School bands would be available at such an early date, just about eliminated the possibility for a downtown parade.

Then, the night game all but eliminated the possibility of the Traditional Dance on Saturday night. (Actually there were only two day games to choose from: Villanova, and Detroit, both very late in the season, and neither likely to draw large crowds.)

So, the 1956 program will feature the greatest Friday night rally ever staged on Campus, complete with the traditional bonfire, an outdoor dance floor and orchestra, the Cougar Band, the UH President, the coaching staff and the boys, refreshments, special features for Exes' children—all set in a background of decorated buildings.

On Saturday, before the game, Exes will gather for a general reunion (time and place to be announced soon) featuring the five, ten and fifteen year classes. This year the honored classes will be: 1941, 1946, and 1951.

Chairman Menefee points out, "Bringing thousands of Exes back to the Campus is more in the true spirit of Homecoming; than much of what we have done in the past—we will actually 'Bring them home'."

Volunteers Needed

"This is the year," says Walter Waldhauser, newly elected chairman for the 1956 Alumni Foundation fund drive. "We have a plan that was tested last spring with a pilot group with 98% success. All we have to do now is expand it to cover as many of our alumni as possible—and this is the year."

Mr. Waldhauser explained that the drive this year will be based on a "personal contact" basis. Captains and agents will be assigned names and addresses of alumni to be contacted. No person will be asked to visit more than ten prospects.

"The direct mail system used in the past has been very effective, but it cannot do the job we have set out to do," Waldhauser said. "We feel that our alumni are at least as loyal as those of any other University," he continued, "and we want to provide them the opportunity to prove it."

Lists of Team Captains and Agents are now being prepared. Many volunteers are needed. You can serve your Alma Mater well, simply by devoting about three evenings of your time. Call CA 4-1581, Ext. 251.

Two SEC Wins in '56 Give UH 50-50 Score

The University of Houston Cougars must win two of their three games against Southeast Conference opposition in 1956 in order to square matters with that league.

Frequently mentioned as a possible member of the SEC, the Cougars have faced teams from that circuit four times, winning once and losing three times. UH defeated Tennessee 33-19 to close the 1953 season, but the Cougars have lost all three games with the University of Mississippi.

In 1956, the University will open against Mississippi State, follow with Ole Miss, and meet in a night game in Houston, but the other SEC opponents must be played at Jackson, Mississippi and Auburn, Alabama, respectively.

BILLBOARD

"I'd rather write this, as bad as it is, than be Shakespeare's shade." That's O. Henry's line, and it's a darn good philosophy in itself. Did you ever realize that just being a white American puts you in the top two percent as far as the world's living standards are concerned? As you can see, Ol' Billboard is glad to be alive this month.

Now for the notes—Sgt. and Mrs. Jerome (Walker) Everson are mighty proud of daughter Brenda Jean, up in Minneapolis, Minnesota, according to Grandmother Walker.

Alumni Board Member Betty Fulenwider is on a combination business and pleasure trip to the west coast and all points in between.

Paul Bishkin, our unpaid press agent in Albuquerque, NM, telegraphs to wonder if the Cougars are going independent like Notre Dame. Paul feels that picking up valuable FB players from under the noses of both the Southeast and Southwest Conferences is not the way to get invited to join.

Mr. Fiedler, of Stanolind, tells us his company has grabbed up another of our petroleum engineers. This time it is Jesse J. Loving, a '56 grad. He's working in production at Tulsa.

And, Dow Chemical has placed Eugene E. Wiese, '48 Zoology grad in their sales department at Midland, Michigan.

We finally located Hing Yuen Siu. He's now in New South Wales, Australia. Hing is continuing toward his dentistry goal, down under.

'51 Music major, Leslie Joan Roper, is studying this summer at the University of Hawaii. Leslie Joan is the band leader for two of the elementary schools in the Port Arthur district, when she isn't in the islands.

Still haven't had any response to last month's notice about the 1950 UH Class ring discovered by Mrs. W. C. Allen, up in Lufkin. If your initials are H. W. H., and you have small fingers, and you've lost your ring—Mrs. Allen has it. Write Billboard for the address.

Eugene Hunt, BBA '48, is now the proprietor of what used to be the Winn Employment Service, in the Esperson Bldg. Ol' Gene didn't have any jobs for Billboard—said something about handling only talented people.

Swan Song For Exes' Friend

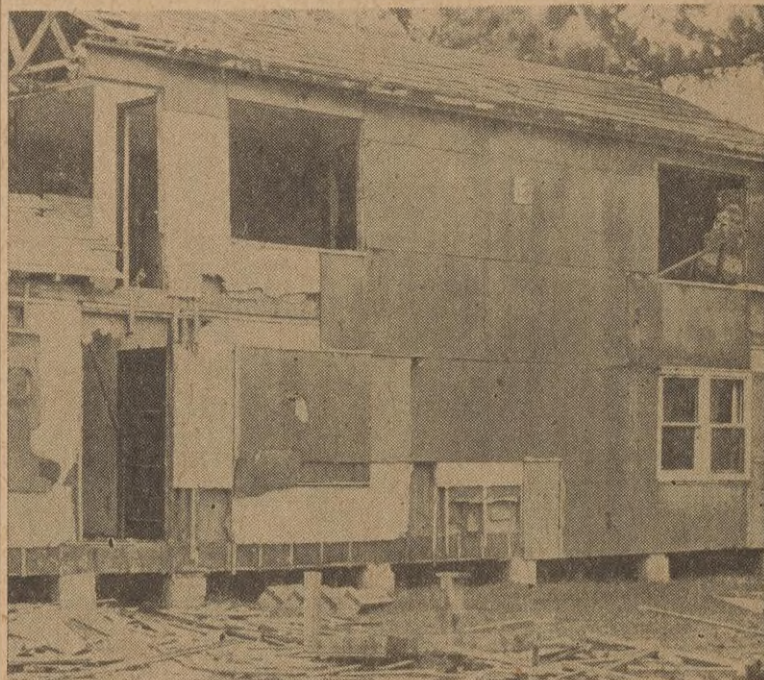

To the casual passer-by they were just 38 eyesores on the campus of a growing University. The green-and-tarpapered shacks had no grace, no beauty, in fact they were architectural monstrosities.

But, more than two thousand families have called them "home."

More than two thousand families found them a Godsend, with their low rent, their closeness to classes, and the friendly spirit they seemed to inspire within their residents.

Uncounted friendships were initiated here. Untold hours of study were accomplished within these squalid walls. (Much of it after the children had gone to sleep.) Unrecorded bull-sessions and critiques, calms and crisis, pains and pleasures, and labor and love visited these ugly 38 buildings during ten years of service.

Many, many residents of fine homes can now look back fondly to the time spent in Vets' Village. Many of these fine homes would have been out of reach, had not the low rent, ugly, converted barracks been available during the struggle for an education.

Thousands of worthwhile citizens will ever remember the gallons of coffee and coke shared with neighbors who lived in identical apartments, and who shared the common denominators of low income and a desire to learn. The interminable bridge games, the pranks, the overflowing ice boxes, the crooked floors, the drafty windows—yes even the roaches—were all a part of living in the ugly 38.

And now the era has ended. Physically, Vets' Village is no more, but in the minds of 2,000 ex-students and their families, the ugly 38 will always exist, growing more beautiful under the flattering light of nostalgia. Farewell, ugly duckling.

Neumann To Be VP Assistant

Dr. Alfred R. Neumann, assistant professor of foreign languages, has been assigned on a part-time basis to the office of the University of Houston's Vice-president for Academic Affairs.

He will assist Dr. Clanton W. Williams, the University's academic vice-president, in handling academic matters.

Dr. Neumann is the newly elected president of the University's Faculty Assembly. His promotion to associate professor, to be effective in September, was recently approved by the Board of Regents.

Civil Defense, Texas, And U.H. Join For CD Planning Job

A $150,000 research contract for Houston-area civil defense planning has been negotiated between the Bureau of Business and Economic Research of the University's College of Business Administration, the Federal Civil Defense Administration, and the State of Texas.

Under terms of the new contract the Bureau will be responsible for planning evacuation procedures to be used by Houstonians in the face of an enemy attack.

First phase of the contract, involving about $11,000, will be carried on under the guidance of Dr. Paul H. Rigby, director of the Bureau. The contract was negotiated by Dr. Alan D. Carey, Dr. Rigby's predecessor.

The project will extend over a period of one year, and as many as 25 members of the University's faculty are expected to be involved in the planning.

The Bureau has also accepted a $10,000 research project with the Marketing Research Department of the Humble Oil and Refining Company to study factors relating to service station locations.

Dr. John Young, chairman of the Department of Marketing at the University, has accepted an assignment as project supervisor for the Bureau. The Humble contract will require approximately 10 weeks to complete.

Dr. John C. Schwarzwald is the top rated man in educational television. You need not be familiar with his work at the University to know this. Two independent research groups were asked to rank the top ten men in this field.

Both lists showed the name of Dr. Schwarzwald at the top. Dr. Schwarzwald has resigned from the directorship of the Radio and Television Department of the University, effective September 30.

Why did we lose such a man?

We lost him because another institution was able to offer him nearly 35% more salary than he earned with the University. We lost him because we did not have the money necessary to instigate an educational program which would challenge the intellect of such a driving personality.

We lost him because the community, and the Alumni, have not yet come to realize the importance of the University of Houston. The community is not yet awake to the fact that without the University, Houston would be without thousands of trained leaders in engineering, law, pharmacy . . . and many other fields. The citizens have not yet recognized that were the University not in existence, these trained people would not be available . . . unless these citizens would dig into their pockets for additional tax money.

We alumni, too, owe a debt to the University. That debt is approximately equal to the tuition we paid. Despite the fact that tuition at the University is the second highest in the state, it costs nearly twice as much to educate a student as is received in tuition.

Houstonians and alumni must support the University before it is too late.

Dr. Schwarzwald is a leader. Ominous as it seems, his departure could signal others in his wake.

Texas Gas Gives Law Scholarship

General A. D. Bruce, University president, announced this week that a new three-year scholarship totaling $1,500 has been awarded to the College of Law.

The Texas Gas Corporation, already making annual scholarships to the College of Business Administration and the College of Engineering, is the donor of the award. The firm has its headquarters in Houston.

On making the presentation to the University, Russell M. Rigbins, Texas Gas Corporation president, said, "In today's highly competitive business world we feel that everything possible should be done to encourage worthy students to avail themselves of every educational opportunity, and we feel that these scholarships are the best method available to us to assist such worthy students."

Cullen Wants Alumnus On UH Board of Regents

In accepting the Alumni-sponsored film "Center of Learning," Mr. H. R. Cullen expressed his personal hope that an alumnus would be named to the University's Board of Regents, "before I retire."

Mr. Cullen received the 15 minute, sound and color film on behalf of the University at the first public showing of the documentary.

Some 90 of Houston's business and civic leaders met in the Houston Club to view the film premiere. Included were University regents, newspaper and television officials and service club representatives.

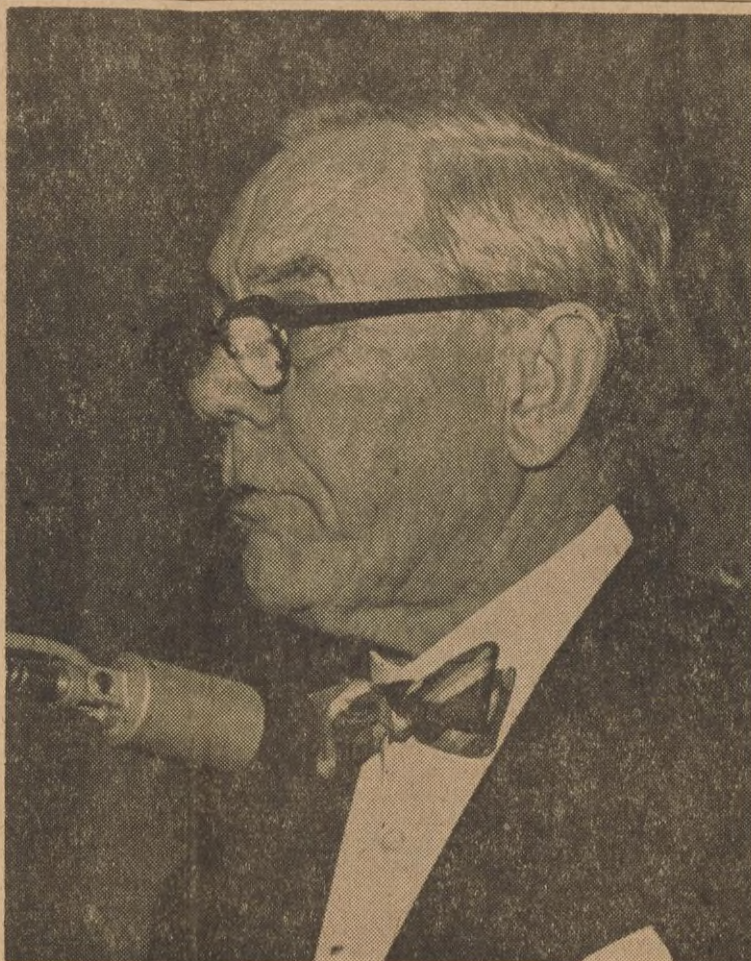

Alumni President Hal Berry acted as master of ceremonies, with Film Chairman Jack Valenti making the presentation speech.

The film was produced by the KUHT-TV film department, with Dr. John Meaney supervising. The narration is by Westbrook VanVorhees, the famous "voice of the March of Time." The documentary presents the University of Houston, its goals and accomplishments, from the points of view of the student, the alumnus, the faculty, and the public.

As Mr. Cullen stated, "This film dramatically points out this simple fact: The University of Houston has grown into a 'Center of Learning' that doesn't have to take a back seat to any University in this land of ours."

Mr. Berry announced that the film would be available for showing to anyone desirous of borrowing it. The University Public Relations Department will maintain bookings for the movie.

Texas Certifies U.H. Engineers

The Texas State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers this month released the names of ten U. H. graduates who have met certificate requirements. The Texas board operates under laws comparable with similar institutions in all 48 states, and certification authorizes the practice of professional engineering, and the affixing of seals to plans and specifications in accordance with such laws.

UH graduates accepted for registration and certification were: Gene Freund, Eldridge B. Ward, Billy H. Williamson, Robert G. Hall, Jan Vander Henst, Joe W. Jeanes, E. Newton Wood, C. B. Rader, Jr., Thomas E. Kennedy, and E. A. Turner.

IT'S HARD TO SWALLOW

$3,000.00

Association Forced To Abandon Free Distribution of the EXtra

It's tough to swallow a $3,000.00 annual deficit, but that's exactly what your Alumni Association has been doing for several years. Printing, addressing and mailing nearly 14,000 newspapers is a big job, and big jobs cost big money.

We've tried everything . . . for example, selling enough advertising to pay the cost is nearly impossible (and doesn't leave much room for news.) . . . then we took the problem to the Journalism Department . . . they put out the last three issues . . . but we lost the "alumni-touch" in the process . . . We thought about reducing the number of issues . . . but that means two or more months between issues.

So . . . we are putting the problem up to you. If you wish to continue receiving the EXtra each month, clip the coupon, attach a buck, and you are on the list for twelve issues.

At one dollar per year the EXtra is a bargain . . . And, that one dollar will allow us to put out a better EXtra, with more pictures, more stories about more Campus and Alumni activities, more features, and better paper stock.

Ford Foundation Gift Arrives; Assigned To Faculty Salaries

The president of the University reported last week receipt of a $695,000 check from the Ford Foundation to be invested with the returns used for the express purpose of increasing faculty salaries.

General A. D. Bruce announced the grant with the hope that it

Cougar Athletes Join Pro Ranks

Art Helms and Don Boldebeck, two of Houston's 1955-56 Missouri Valley All-Conference players, have signed with the Wichita Vickers of the National Industrial Basketball League.

This past season, Bolde and Helms paced Houston to its first Valley Basketball title. Both received mention on All-American selections at the end of the year.

While at Houston, the seven-foot Boldebeck broke all existing records. Helms, a transfer student from a junior college in Missouri, was one of the Cougars' most reliable and "clutch" ball-players all year. His rebounding strength along with Boldebeck, made Houston one of the most feared schools in the Southwest.

Elsewhere, former UH All-American tackle J. D. Kimmel withdrew from the holdout ranks, and reported to the Washington Redskins professional football camp.

Kimmel, who is best remembered for his terrific line-play in 1952, enjoyed one of the finest years a rookie lineman has ever had in the National Football League last fall. This year, unable to get Washington football officials to meet salary specifications, he decided to quit.

Recently the Redskins ended his retirement plans by agreeing with him on financial arrangements.

Another great Houston lineman, All-Valley Bob Chouke, of '52 and '53 Houston football teams, signed with the Detroit Lions. Chouke is just out of service, having completed a two-year stretch with Uncle Sam.

"will stimulate similar gifts from within the community of Houston."

"The provision of adequate faculty salaries is our number one problem," General Bruce said in connection with the Ford Foundation grant, which was described as the first of two installments being paid to provide for increased faculty salaries.

"Any university is built around its faculty, and our other problems at the University of Houston will begin to fall into place as soon as we are able to compensate faculty members adequately. I hope that this great gift from the Ford Foundation will stimulate the community of Houston to provide funds for this pur-

"Our faculty members deserve adequate pay in recognition of their ability and service," General Bruce's statement continued.

"They are at present carrying one-half above the average teaching load at two-thirds the average salary. This is in spite of the fact that the University, even though it meant incurring a heavy deficit, put higher salary schedules into effect last year.

"We are going to lose faculty members increasingly to other universities and to industry unless the community can help us pay these men and women what they are due in recognition of their ability and service.

"H" Assn. Announces Scholarship And Plans

It's a pretty exclusive group, the H-Association. All members are former UH athletes, and all are devoted to the athletic and educational progress of the University.

The most recent project of the group was the presentation to General Bruce of a $200.00 check as the initial payment of a long range scholarship program.

Denton Priest, newly elected president of the group has announced a drive now underway for new members. "Our plans for this Fall," Mr. Priest said, "will establish the H Association as an important part of the total University program." Mr. Priest pointed out that past accomplishments of the association were effective and without fanfare, but usually without gratitude.

In addition to Mr. Priest, recently elected officers include; Bill Hollis, vice president; Henry Gomez, secretary; Wes Chism, treasurer; and directors Raymond Ragone, Jack Barnes, Wayne Shoemaker, Harry Hope, Bill Swanson and Lavelle Isbell.

In addition to the scholarship work, the Association plans include; 1. A vigorous attempt to contact all ex-Cougars, of all sports. 2. An "Honors Day" for the first UH football team (1946) 3. A Father-Son Day, honoring the Dads of this year's Big Red team. The group has opened an office in the Montague Hotel, and all former athletes are encouraged to make contact there.

The UH Sideline Coaches Association is sponsoring a drive to have each Cougar fan purchase "one extra" ticket to this game for each one he would normally purchase. The Graduate Engineers Association also has accepted the challenge to help pack the stadium.

In all the furore to make this a successful effort, it should not be overlooked that the Miss-State Maroon-UH Cougar game may be one of the top football conflicts in the country on that Saturday evening.

organization are Mrs. Nelda Lawrence, president; Miss Johnnie B. Punchard, vice president; Miss Laura M. Patterson, recording secretary; Mrs. Patt Gatlin, corresponding secretary; T. Mason Waldman, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Christian, historian, and Dr. Carlos K. Hayden, faculty advisor.

Aggie Chair

The Houston Farm and Ranch Club voted last week to pledge $12,000 a year for five years to endow a chair at the University for an agriculture economics department head.

The pledge was made known at the club's annual meeting Saturday.

L. F. Van Stone, president of the Uncle Johnny Mills and re-elected president of the club, said the pledge is in connection with the agriculture department's decision to shift teaching emphasis from production to economics and marketing.

Yearbook Sale

Members of the faculty and administrative staff may purchase copies of the 1955 and 1956 Houstonian at the special price of $2.50 for both, the Department of Journalism and Graphic Arts has announced.

The offer is also open to University alumni.

Faculty members, students or alumni who own copies of the 1952 and 1953 Houstonian and wish to sell or exchange them for other issues are asked to contact the department.

The department would also like to borrow copies of The Cougar, dating from issues in 1934 to 1939 and 1941 to 1951, to be micro-filmed.

The University's College of Pharmacy's Class "A" standing and its listing as an accredited college have been approved again by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education.

General A. D. Bruce and Dr. N. M. Ferguson, dean of the College, were notified of the University's standing and listing in a letter from P. H. Costello of Chicago, secretary of the council.

Established in 1947, the College of Pharmacy has graduated 274 students. All of the College's graduates have passed the state board examination qualifying them to practice, according to Dr. Ferguson.

The College was examined on March 8 and 9 of this year by representatives of the council and State Board of Pharmacy of Texas. The last examination previous to this one was conducted in 1953.
