TO ALL EMPLOYEES

SAFE WORKERS WIN BONUS PRIZES... FOR SAFETY

Five members of our Refinery Legion of Safe Workers received a bonus for their safety attitudes yesterday...It was their prize for having their names drawn from the more than 100 Safe Workers now on our rolls.

The drawing took place in the Central Shops yesterday afternoon, supervised by J. T. Flynt of the Fire and Safety Department. B. J. Royall did the drawing, and Ben says the drawing must have been honest, "'cause not a single machinist was a winner!"

In the order that their names were drawn, here are the lucky ones:

H. D. Albin - Eng. Field
J. A. Cassaro - Aromatics
A. F. Carter - Lube Oils
L. C. Berger - Eng. Field
C. Agnew - Eng. Field

The grab-bag of safety prizes available to the winners include: four life preservers, two auto safety seat belts, a fire extinguisher, a first-aid kit, and a trouble light. Each winner will have his choice of one of the five items listed.

Next week our roving camera will peek over the shoulder of each winner as he chooses his prize...And if possible we'll get a picture of the winners, their prizes, and let them tell us in their own words just why they chose their particular safety item.

EMPLOYEES TRAINING COURSE UNDERWAY

Refinery employees pictured above recently began a Professional Employee Orientation course which will continue for 4½ weeks. The class meets each Tuesday and Thursday in the Training Room of the Main Office Annex Building. Purpose of the course is to acquaint the class members with the various departments in the Refinery, other Refinery personnel, as well as general information about the Company. In the picture above, (seated) are D. M. Manelski, P. D. Wallace, B. M. Lloyd, R. L. Goodmark, and J. F. Zrubek. Standing are R. E. Stephens, T. C. Moody, R. F. Zeitzman, and Refinery Superintendent H. E. Walker who made the introductory remarks on the first day of class.

CREDIT CARD HELPS CAPTURE MURDER SUSPECT

The use of a stolen Shell credit card led recently to the capture of a murder suspect. The man was apprehended through the cooperative actions of Shell's Menlo Park Data Center, police in California and Washington, and attendants at a Shell Seattle service station.

The story began in July when a man, surprised in the act of burglary, killed a woman in Santa Monica, California, and used her car and credit card in his escape. Little progress had been made in his capture until a billing processed at the Menlo Park Data Center revealed that the credit card was being used in the Seattle area. Police and Shell service stations were alerted to be on the lookout for the man.

The suspected killer drove into Shell Dealer Al Christie's station on Mercer Island in Seattle. Shortly after he drove away, a young attendant checked the card number on the special bulletin and called police. A roadblock was set up on U. S. Highway 10 between Issaquah and Preston. The suspect was captured there and returned to California for trial.

Larry Milton, the young pump island salesman, received praise from police for his diligence in spotting the card. He also received the $20 reward Shell gives for the return of credit cards listed as being misused.

SERA BOWLING RESULTS

Super Shell opened up a four-game lead in the Shell Mixed League over the second-place Woodchoppers this week as the front-runners captured four points from the Mixers. Super Shell also turned in the top team series, 2432, but left the high team game honors to the Woodchoppers score, 879. Individual honors for the men went to A. W. Hart of the Chemical Plant, 198-549, while for the women, Betty Mann had a 174 high game, and Marilyn Sommer a 445 series.

Next week the bowlers will have an added feature to shoot for...a turkey roll.

SEEN...NOT SHOT

The Massachusetts Division of Fish and Game reports that 1962 was the first season in which there were no deer hunters shot because they were not seen. This was also the first in which Massachusetts deer hunters were required by law to wear at least 200 square inches of daylight fluorescent red-orange material.
