

SERVE COORDINATOR INTERVIEW COMPLEX EMPLOYEES

Pat Loman, SERVE volunteerism coordinator, visited the complex March 11 to interview seven employees who expressed an interest in the SERVE program. Of the seven, three showed up for their scheduled interview. They were Pat Cordes, Maxine Wallace and Terry Ruiz.

The purpose of the interview is to narrow the employee's area of service. For example, Terry Ruiz knew she was interested in working with children in the five-nine year age range. She wasn't sure whether she preferred being a Big Sister to a child for at least a year or a Big Buddie to a mentally retarded child.

Operation: Peace of Mind, where you telephone an elderly person at a set time during the week and weekends when possible, also appealed to Terry.

At the end of the interview, Terry expressed her preference, "I think that I would really be interested in the Big Sister program."

Pat then explained to Terry that they expected Big Sisters to stick with the program for at least a year.

"I still think it is Big Sisters. I really do," said Terry.

If you are interested in participating in the SERVE program, give Pat Loman a call on 220-3657 at One Shell Plaza.

Pat Loman interviews Terry Ruiz for the SERVE program. Terry works for Employee Relations in Administration.

It's one way of making your community a better place in which to live - voluntarily.

CARPOOL DRAWINGS UNDERWAY

If you looked for the carpool entry form and didn't find it in last week's Shellegram, look again. It is on page 4.

The deadline for entering the first drawing is March 30, and all carpools are eligible.

Of the 311 carpool registration cards submitted, 93 percent were matched with at least one potential carpooler; however, more carpools need forming to really make an impact on alleviating the current parking lot congestion.

If you would like to carpool, but didn't submit a registration card because you work an unusual schedule or have extended working hours, go ahead and submit one today. There may be others in the same working situation. Forms are available in the cafeterias and the clock alleys.

Fill one out and put it in the company mail. Shortly thereafter you will receive information on those living in your area who are also interested in carpooling.

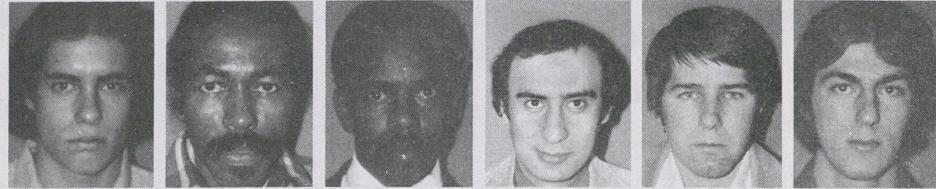

Give carpooling a chance.

FRUTIGERS ACTIVE IN SWISS-AMERICAN SOCIETY

His father came over on a ship as a teenager in 1908 from Switzerland.

His wife, Lynne, made the "Lifestyle" page of the Houston Chronicle as part of a Swiss-American Society meeting featuring Swiss lace making.

Although English, Lynne, wife of R. P. "Dick" Frutiger, manager, Environmental Operations, is a very enthusiastic member of the Swiss-American Society. She and Dick joined the society shortly after discovering its existence some two-and-a-half years ago. Being parliamentarian of the 200 member group is fun for Lynne, and both Frutigers enjoy participating in its variety of activities.

"We have such great fun!" says Lynne, "and I've learned so much about Switzerland."

attempts to keep alive the Swiss culture and let its descendants know what's going on in their native land.

Several society members are getting together monthly to learn Jass, a Swiss card game similar to bridge. Lynne says she's working on learning it but hasn't mastered it yet. She, like many others, is looking forward to their annual August 1 celebration of Swiss Independence Day, when everyone gets together for a Swiss buffet, featuring yodeling, accordion playing, flag waving and guests in native dress. It's a gala celebration and much enjoyed by society members and their families.

The Swiss-American Society keeps growing, but there's always a welcome mat out for more members. If you're Swiss and interested in becoming a part of the society, give Lynne a call on 333-4771. After her enthusiastic introduction to its activities, you'll soon become an active member.

Willkommen! (Welcome! in Swiss, of course.)

ARE YOU REALLY SAFETY MINDED?

If you were asked "Are you safety minded?", would you answer, "Sure, I'm safety minded. My record proves it because I've never had a lost-time injury."

If you think that merely because you've never had a lost-time injury, you are safety minded, you may be wrong. You may have been more lucky than safe. Being safety minded is related to how you think and plan for safety in your work and other daily activities.

Planning ahead is part of a job. It means thinking the job through and acting according to those plans. Lack of proper thinking can cause injuries. If you fail to think of the end results of your acts, you are not safety minded.

One of the most common comments after an injury occurs is, "I didn't think."

You must plan before doing the job, think while doing the job, and act safely until the job is completed. Planning, thinking and acting can also be applied to another phase of safety, looking for hazards that could cause injury.

Look for conditions in your work that could cause injury, and then plan and think of methods you can use to avoid these conditions.

DEATHS

Retiree P. George, 66, died March 10.
