Callow Revolutionaries Are In The Saddle And Ready To Ride Off In All Directions

Mink Coats and Cadillacs May Have To Be Bootlegged Like Bathtub Gin

Dr. J. Kenneth Galbraith who has been widely publicized as chief adviser to Mr. John F. Kennedy and who inspired many of the economic policies which the President-elect sponsored during the campaign, has a strong antipathy amounting to mania against such articles of commerce as mink coats and Cadillac cars.

Needless to say, Dr. Galbraith is connected with Harvard University where he performs as an economist and where many of the strange and off-beat theories of government which have plagued the American people in recent years were hatched.

Dr. Galbraith is perhaps the nation's most dedicated and vocal exponent of the idea that the American people, in making their purchases, have no right to buy what they want but should be compelled to acquire only those items which discriminating eggheads think they should have.

Like all members of his cult, Dr. Galbraith has written several books in which he has committed to cold type for the benefit of posterity his belief in the total regimentation of human behavior.

Sprinkled liberally throughout the pages of Professor Galbraith's volumes are bitter attacks against those Americans who are so remiss in social consciousness that they occasionally break down and buy something they don't actually need to eat or to keep themselves covered.

His diatribes against mink coats and Cadillac cars are so pronounced as to suggest that if his proposals as adviser to the President are incorporated into our national policies, the day may soon come when those who covet such luxurious items may have to get them from bootleggers or smugglers much in the same manner that they had to procure their bathtub gin and white mule during the days of Prohibition.

College Professors Ask Kennedy To Adopt 'Be Kind To Communists' Policy

Thirty-two historians at twenty-three American colleges and universities wrote to President-elect Kennedy recently urging him to "consider a new course in world affairs" which included the recognition of Red China and East Germany.

The historians said that "the dead hand of the past" must not be allowed to figure in his foreign policy and that the recognition of these two Communist countries would be a long step toward achieving peace.

Other Communist-inspired requests which the historians made of Mr. Kennedy were the banning of nuclear tests and a system of inspection which would not be too stringent to pass muster with the Soviets.

Those signing the appeal, but whose names were not made public were said to be "professors of American diplomatic history," two

Harvard University continues to be one of the best sources for government jobs, with President-elect Kennedy pulling names of professors out of his mortar board in rapid succession.

It is fortunate that Mr. Kennedy attended a school with a large faculty. If he had been a graduate of a smaller institution, students there would be teaching themselves by now. Harvard probably retains enough faculty members to drive a full measure of Liberalism into student heads.

of whom were formerly professors at Oxford.

The name of the professor who presented the appeal was W. L. Neumann, of Goucher College.

Millions of anxious Americans have scanned the list of those who will compose the administration of the next President of the United States and have turned away with a shudder. Any faint hope they might have entertained for a return of Constitutional Government has been abandoned. The only difference between the appointees of John F. Kennedy in 1960 and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 is that the current crop of nominees are younger, bolder and more aggressive and more firmly obsessed with the belief that they know all the answers. Also, even more than their counterparts in 1932, they are deeply rooted in the conviction that all authority stems from Washington and that the only function of the citizen is to furnish the money to pay for further wild-eyed forays into Socialism. During the next four years—unless there's immediate and concerted patriotic action—we can look for the Sovereign States of the American Union to dwindle to the status of weak and helpless satellites in a vast Federal Empire as the services formerly performed by those great Commonwealths are taken over by hordes of brash young zealots equipped with Harvard diplomas, brief cases full of directives and the gleam of a fanatic in their eye.

If you are a native American citizen over fifty years old, you were born in a Constitutional Republic where the most priceless possession of its people was freedom.

Your Constitutional right to manage your own affairs, to provide for your own security and that of your family and to accumulate a surplus against old age, sickness and other emergencies incident to the uncertainties of life, was unquestioned.

The idea that a strong centralized government in Washington would one day step in, shove you aside and take over the intimate and personal responsibilities which had been the source of your inspiration to work, to own and to achieve for those you loved, was as remote as the stars in the heavens above.

It is true, of course, that at times you were sorely beset with troubles, trials and tribulations which seemed overpowering and sometimes you were broke, disheartened and discouraged to the point where you felt that you couldn't go on.

But Federal bureaucrats had not yet robbed you of character, backbone and initiative; your brain had not been washed until it had softened to the consistency of jelly and you were still unsold on the idea that living off the taxes extorted from your fellow Americans was not only an honorable means of existence but was an escape from personal exertion to which you were justly entitled.

Also, you had not yet adopted the current vicious concept of filial duty in the relation of parent and child. You had respect, gratitude and the instinct of protective custody toward the mother who had walked in the shadow of the Valley of Death in bringing you into the world and whose work-worn hands had slaved for you in sickness and in health and toward the father whose bent shoulders and bowed gray head attested to a life of toil and sacrifice in educating you and bringing you to man's estate.

You would have properly held yourself as beneath human contempt if you had cast your parents aside in the autumn of their life and shunted them off onto the tender mercies of a Washington welfare agency or depended on Federal hand-outs to provide medical and other care in their old age which the laws of God, and your own conscience, assigned to you as your own personal and sacred obligation.

So you bucked up, put iron in your spine and with that measure of courage and fortitude with which God endows all His creatures worthy

Millions of Americans Think it — The Southern Conservative Says It

Communists Successful In One Campaign And Are Now Ready For Next Activity

The American people had as well prepare for the latest barrage of propaganda from the Kremlin and be ready to see another established custom bitterly attacked by all the forces which the Soviets command in this country.

The latest assault is for the protection of criminals and is in the form of an organized campaign against capital punishment. Already strong influence has been put in motion to do away with the gas chamber and those advocating this policy are the ones usually associated with pro-Communist activities and who follow the Party line meticulously.

These include many ministers, left-wing politicians, adle-pated females, liberal columnists and, of course, the Reds in the movie and television industries on the West Coast.

The more criminals such as murderers, rapists, and robbers who are turned loose on society, the better Communism flourishes and it is, of course, for this reason that the campaign to do away with capital punishment was launched by the Soviets.

In this case, as in all others, the Communists do not practice what they preach. In Russia not only are criminals put to death but also many innocent people and they are not even given a trial, but are shot on suspicion of the most minute offense.

Having made great progress in the campaign for racial mixing in this country and having sold the Supreme Court, the Congress, Ministers of the Gospel, Educationists and the candidates for the Presidency on their evil racial policies, World leaders of International Communism are now believed ready to temporarily abandon that phase of their propaganda campaign and leave it to their co-workers in the United States while they take up the abolishment of capital punishment which is next on their agenda.

Watch the demand for this action spread over the country like wild-fire, proving all over again that all radical changes in the United States are dictated from the Kremlin. According to plan, the plea for the abolishment of capital punishment will be based on the thread-bare argument that to put a criminal to death is a "violation of Christian principles."

The Soviet propaganda machine enlists only the support of the most outwardly respectable elements of our society and, therefore, many notable and distinguished persons may be expected to join in this campaign.

Communist Fight Against Un-American Activities Committee Will Be Pushed

The Un-American Activities Committee of the House of Representatives has been unrelenting in its attempts to expose Communists in strategic places in the Federal government and in other posts of influence in the United States and since this is dangerous business they have been marked for slaughter.

The big push against the Committee is said to be slated for January soon after the inauguration of the new administration.

The rank and file members of the opposition to the Un-American Activities Committee are, of course, documented Communists, Communist Fronters and Communist sympathizers who would naturally be expected to fight to the death against any organized group which seeks to expose their nefarious plot against the security of the American Republic, but the chief ramrod of the campaign to abolish the Committee is Congressman James Roosevelt of California.

And any dumbfounded and shocked American citizen who contends that this man should be tried and convicted for giving aid and comfort to our enemies had just as well disabuse his mind of that hope.

He would have been thirty years ago but such behavior is commonplace now and disloyalty on the part of those entrusted with national leadership now commands no reaction among the people beyond a shrug and a lifted eyebrow.

And thus the nation's betrayal into the hands of our enemies goes merrily on.

As Mr. Kennedy takes office as President, there are 2,250,000 employees in 2,500 different Federal Boards, Bureaus and Commissions, all eating off the taxpayers of the United States. If Mr. Kennedy runs true to form, and there is no reason to think that he won't, by the time he leaves office, there will probably be 3,000,000 parasites on the Federal payroll for the poor over-burdened tax slaves to support.

Louis XIV said that a cannon was the last argument of Kings. Transposing the contention of the evil French ruler, we suggest that the ballot is the last argument of the American citizen, so in casting it in the future be sure you employ it in the preservation of the Republic you love.

According to published reports, one of the main qualifications for those appointed to high office by President-elect Kennedy is that such appointee be "devoted to the principles of the President-elect." Nothing was said about being "devoted to the principles of the American form of government and the Constitution." After all, the political "principles" of Kennedy are under challenge by about half of the electorate who voted against him. Also, he is, like all other occupants of the office, merely a passing and transient figure while the principles of the Republic are supposed to be eternal.

of being called men, you overcame the misfortunes which assailed you. In the uncontaminated and unperturbed state of your mind at that period of life, it never would have occurred to you to write to Washington and ask for help.

Also, you were strengthened in your determination to conquer adversity and wrest success from failure by the realization that into each life some rain must fall and that Divinity never intended that the journey of mankind from the cradle to the casket should be strewn with roses or the struggle of mortals for the ultimate goal should be shorn of trial, travail and pain.

Briefly, you were a responsible American citizen and master of your own destiny and the sole function of those you elected and sent to Washington to represent you was to perform in such manner that a climate of Freedom would be perpetuated in which you might shape this destiny toward worthy and honorable ends.

In other words, you were fortunate enough to be born in a country whose governing system, at the time of your birth, reflected the divine blessings of freedom, independence, individual initiative and all the other basic principles toward which mankind had yearned since the first search began for a Charter of Liberty on which to erect a form of government as nearly perfect as was humanly possible to conceive it.

Meantime, what have you, as an American citizen born into a free Constitutional Republic, done to deserve and to show your gratitude for the blessings which were conferred on you at birth?

How active have you been in trying to do your part in perpetuating and preserving this golden heritage which was handed down to you without effort or sacrifice on your part?

Uncounted thousands have, of course, contributed their share in trying to keep freedom intact in this country and to prevent the total dissolution of Constitutional Government in the United States.

They have done this as lecturers, columnists, commentators over radio and television, on the public platform and in the press. They have done it by writing and publishing patriotic periodicals, by setting up organizations and groups, by writing letters to the local papers and by holding neighborhood gatherings to inform their friends and neighbors of the International Communist Conspiracy to overthrow the American government and which has contacts in every sector of American civic, cultural, religious, social, political and economic circles. Many of them have engaged in these activities at their own expense and at great cost in time, effort and money.

But the great majority of the American people have calmly sat back with their hands folded and watched the disgraceful surrender of their Personal, Property and States Rights to grasping and power-drunk bureaucrats in Washington who, in grabbing for this power, are merely carrying out the demands of International Conspirators that all authority in this country be centered in Washington in order to make our take-over into a One-World Government easier to bring about.

And this surrender of our Rights and Freedoms which has been going on steadily for a quarter of a century, will become Unconditional in the years just ahead when, and if, the Los Angeles Manifesto is put into effect as the top leaders of the new administration have sworn to do.

There are 537 members of both Houses of Congress in Washington who are sworn—and paid—to do a job which they have left undone and that is to uphold the Constitution of the United States and to protect the Rights and Freedoms of the American people.

Soon they will be put to the test again and will be called on to vote away the remaining Sovereignty of the States and the people. Obviously, the time is ripe for some vigorous prodding of these derelict public servants by the voters back home.

Our humble suggestion for the New Year is that if only a million people—out of a total population of some 180,000,000—would exercise their sovereignty as citizens they could bring an immediate halt to the continued surrender of the American Republic into the hands of the enemies of Freedom regardless of whether such enemies reside in the Soviet Union or in the city of Washington, D.C.

Of course such patriots would have to work through Congress as that body is the only medium we have in petitioning for the redress of wrongs.

These patriotic Americans should torment their two senators and their congressman with so much attention that it might add up to a form of human torture but that would be unimportant if the ultimate end is gained and the further surrender of the Rights and Freedoms of the American people is stopped.

Unless defenders of Constitutional Government act quickly and effectively in enlisting the support of their senators and congressmen in opposing Socialist legislation based on the Los Angeles Manifesto, we face the grave danger that callow, immature and precocious political prodigies, reeling under the impact of heady and unaccustomed power, may do the Republic in.

England's railroads which were "nationalized" by a Socialist government in 1948 are now reported as being $1,000,000,000.00 in the hole. Nobody expected anything else except the intellectual perverts who can't seem to learn that politicians cannot run a business better than the men who have spent a lifetime meeting payrolls and facing all the other problems incident to the conduct of an industrial enterprise.

One of the principal reasons why the State of the Union is at an all-time low, is that we are represented in State and National office by political climbers who have no convictions of their own and merely try to ape those whom they regard as being popular with the public. A political climber is as obnoxious to a real American as that pitiable specimen of humanity, a social climber.

At Least It's One Way To Make A Living

Perhaps the most comical feature of a Presidential campaign in the United States is the rash of political polls which mushroom all over the place.

And no group takes themselves more seriously than the professional pollsters who make their living from the art of political sorcery and peer into the future to divine what will happen in the days to come.

Read their predictions about the chances of a particular candidate for victory and it will be found to contain more ifs, ands and buts than the dictionary, and they always leave plenty of loopholes to crawl through in the event they are wrong.

All a voter learns after carefully perusing these polls is that one of the candidates is going to be elected which is poor consolation because he knew that without benefit of a poll. And his own guess is as good as anybody's anyway.

But it all makes for a merry guessing game and no harm is done even if nothing constructive is gained.

We have found throughout the years that the safest and surest way to find out who is going to be elected is to just be patient and wait until the ballots are counted.

Perhaps the reason we have developed patience along this line is the fact that in recent years, it does not make much difference any way whether it's Tweedledee or Tweedledum.

When the Civil Service Act was passed in 1883, there were only a few thousand employees of the Federal government and no one was given a job in a Washington agency unless his services were actually needed. Today these agencies are used to pay off political debts and 2,250,000 human leeches now clutter up the Federal payroll, stepping all over each other's feet as they go about doing things which would better be left undone. Instead of viewing the Civil Service Act as something sacrosanct, Congress should carefully review it and amend it, so that at least a million of the parasites now holed up in soft jobs may be fired and forced to go to work for a living.

If you are opposed to Federal control of the schools through the medium of Federal aid, then you are not a "friend of education" and the National Education Association is going to punish you. Their new 1960-61 Handbook tells how they are going to do it. They are assembling "facts" on all "critics" of education and are going to let go with blasts against these individuals over a period covering the next four years. And anyone who does not believe that Red experts know how to conduct a smear campaign, has another thought coming.

Constitutional Government will not be restored in the United States until the prison walls which have been built around Freedom are broken down.

To Subscribers and Friends of The Southern Conservative

The Fort Worth-Tarrant County Unit of Pro-America will honor Mrs. Ida M. Darden, editor and publisher of the Southern Conservative, with a dinner at 7:00 P.M. on Wednesday, January 25th at River Crest Country Club.

Mr. Tom Anderson, editor of Farm and Ranch Magazine, Nashville, Tennessee, noted lecturer and writer on economic and political affairs, will be the principal speaker and Dr. Robert Morris, President of Dallas University, will be Master of Ceremonies.

It is the hope of the Pro-America unit that all friends of the Southern Conservative who can arrange to do so will attend this dinner and pay tribute to a woman whose brilliant editorials in the interest of constitutional government have inspired many to designate her as the First Lady of the Conservative Cause in the South.

Reservations for the dinner should be in by Monday, January 23rd. Price of tickets, $3.50. Informal. For reservations call or write Mrs. E. W. Lavender, 3708 Country Club Circle, Telephone WA 7-0194. Make checks to Pro-America.

Only Trouble, Turmoil And Threats Of War Have Followed Adoption Of U.N. Charter

How any American with the reasoning capacity of a ten-year-old child can regard the United Nations as of benefit to this country or as a medium of preserving the peace is beyond us.

The U.N. Charter provides that it is to be composed only of peace-loving nations and that its objective is to prevent war throughout the world. And yet, in no instance, has any nation been barred from membership because such nation is an aggressor and an outlaw except Red China and it is generally conceded that it is only a matter of time until those bandits are also accepted as brothers in that One-World fraternity.

The world is in greater turmoil today and war is more imminent than at any period in peace-time history. In addition millions of formerly free people have been drawn behind the Iron Curtain and into the Communist slave orbit since the United Nations was set up in 1945. Most authorities claim that the number of Communist victims in 1945 was around 200,000,000 whereas now there are more than 900,000,000 slaves of the Soviet system in different parts of the globe.

This is the "Peace" record of the United Nations and its contribution to the spread of World Communism will continue until the American people wake up and demand that this nest of international spies be removed from the United States and American membership in the outfit cancelled by the Senate which voted us into it.

The addition of another woman to the membership of the United States Senate in the person of Mrs. Maurine Neuberger of Oregon, unfortunately, affords no occasion for rejoicing on the part of Conservative members of the sex. Mrs. Neuberger, like her late husband whom she succeeded, is an extreme left-winger and may be expected to heartily support any and all Socialist legislation introduced in the Senate.

Three journalistic carpet baggers the South would love most to do without—Hodding Carter of Greenville, Mississippi; Ralph McGill of Atlanta, Georgia, and Harry Ashmore of Little Rock, Arkansas.

In addition, that organization of world plotters is now facing bankruptcy and the taxpayers of the United States were only recently tapped for $20,000,000 of extra funds in order that its current bills might be paid.

This was presumably on instructions of the outgoing President whose concern in the well-being of other nations has always been his most pronounced characteristic and his dedication to ultimate One-World government has been evident in his every action during his public career.

The most obvious purpose which the United Nations is achieving is in helping to spend the United States out of existence as Lenin advocated in the long ago and as an instrument to deprive the American people of such few freedoms as may be left to them when domestic tyrants get through robbing them of their Constitutional rights.

We hope that 1961 sees the launching of an aggressive and effective campaign to get the United States out of the United Nations and the United Nations out of the United States.

A rich St. Louis spinster offered, through the medium of the public press, to make a $500,000 loan to the public schools of New Orleans provided they operated on a mixed racial basis. Later, she was able to glean additional publicity and get her picture in the paper to boot when she offered to make it an outright gift. The woman's name was Steinberg.

An Associated Press release says that Arthur J. Goldberg, the new Secretary of Labor, "is a man with a steel trap mind." We have no doubt that this is true but the important thing is who is going to be caught in this "steel trap" when this strong labor Union partisan begins his work of conciliation between labor and management?

It's Easy To Be Free With The Other Fellow's Money

There was a time in the history of this nation when Congress was the legal custodian of taxpayers' funds and only that body could appropriate money and then only after a law had been passed and funds were necessary to put it into operation.

Now all that is changed and apparently almost anybody connected with the Federal government can dip down into the Treasury.

On December 15, a press release with a Washington dateline said that Christian A. Herter, outgoing Secretary of State, had, out of a clear sky, decided that four newly "independent" African States needed financial support and promised to give it to them.

In letters to officials of the Ivory Coast, Upper Volta, Niger and Dahomey, Herter pledged a "significant United States contribution" after congratulating them on their "independence."

There was no mention of the amount of this "contribution" but perhaps Mr. Herter figured that this was just a detail and that it is none of the business of the common herd how much he gives away and that the only function of the taxpayer in such cases is to dig up the money to pay the obligation.

If this were Mr. Herter's own money, we could understand and perhaps would applaud his generosity to under-privileged people, but never will we be able to comprehend a situation where bureaucrats seem to have absolute authority to toss around the taxpayers' money like drunken sailors on shore leave.

Meantime, we are searching the Constitution in what so far has been a futile effort to find a provision which authorizes an appointed official of the Federal government to promise financial assistance to the people of a foreign country.

Fort Worth Citizen Calls Mr. Sam Rayburn's Hand

During the widespread demand for a re-count of the allegedly fraudulent votes in Texas during the recent election, Mr. Sam Rayburn, perennial office-holding politician and Speaker of the House of Representatives, was quoted in the press as saying of the Republicans who insisted on the recount:

"I fear these people are creating the impression in foreign lands that in America elections can be bought and stolen."

To which a Mr. W. M. White of Fort Worth replied in a letter to the press:

"I do not recall just what Mr. Rayburn had to say about the 1948 senatorial race between Coke Stevenson and Lyndon B. Johnson, nor do I know what the people in foreign lands thought about it, but I do know what a lot of people in Texas thought."

The Fort Worth citizen was referring to Johnson's first race for the United States Senate in which he was defeated by Mr. Stevenson until Political Boss Parr in South Texas, several days after the polls had closed, allegedly came across with enough votes of dead Mexicans to put Mr. Johnson over.

THE TENTH AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES:

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Profit By Others' Mistakes (Chattanooga News-Free Press)

Since it is generally less painful to learn from the experience of others than through personal experience, Americans would do well to take a look at how other countries of the world have fared under socialistic political systems.

The most recent example is New Zealand which, after a three-year dose of socialistic rule, last week restored the free enterprise system to power. The votes of New Zealanders reflected their conclusion from three economically unhappy years that Socialism just doesn't work.

Great Britain, of course, offers even more poignant evidence of the failure of socialism and the detrimental effects experienced by the British economy during the nation's years under Laborite rule. The British, mindful of this fact, now are veering more and more away from socialism to the extent that the Socialist Labor Party now appears so weak it may never regain power.

The United States has not, so far, been confronted with socialism under that name. But socialistic decay in the form of giveaways, "welfare" handouts and government intervention in private affairs has for years been gnawing away at the foundations of our free enterprise economy. The danger can still be stopped if Americans will take to heart the bitter lesson of other nations.

There is nothing wrong in this country which could not be corrected by taking from Washington politicians the power of the purse.

Ward Bond, Great Patriot And Loyal American, Passes Away

All good Americans are mourning the untimely death of Ward Bond, star of the television production "Wagon Train" who died in Dallas early in November following a heart attack.

Mr. Bond was one of the pitifully few persons in the entertainment industry who could be truthfully classed as a patriot and as a believer in American Constitutional Government.

In a medium filled to overflowing with Reds of varying shades, he stood out like a beacon light while unfailingly raising his voice in behalf of sound and sane American principles, in season and out.

He was a patriot in an area of activity where it was not easy to stand up and be counted and where the majority of his associates were noted rather for their Red leanings and for the promotion of pro-Communist causes.

Because of this great handicap of uncongenial associates, Mr. Bond's staunch loyalty to his country and its institutions commanded special admiration from the ranks of American patriots who also pay tribute to such other dedicated champions of Americanism in the entertainment industry as Jeanette McDonald, Joe E. Brown, Leo Carrillo, Charles Coburn, Mae West, John Wayne, Lawrence Welk, Robert Taylor, Adolphe Menjou, Corinne Griffith, Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Ginger Rogers, Robert Montgomery, J. Carroll Naish, Loretta Young, Gloria Swanson and a few—a very few—others.

Texans Join In Fight On House Un-American Activities Committee

According to press reports, six Texans have voluntarily placed themselves on Americanism's black list by signing the Communist-inspired petition asking the Congress of the United States to do away with the Un-American Activities Committee of that body.

The Un-American Activities Committee was officially set up by Congress to investigate espionage in this country and to expose those who have been identified with efforts to overthrow the American government.

Because of the success of the Committee in revealing the names and activities of thousands of Communist agents and sympathizers it has incurred the deep displeasure of Domestic Reds and their allies who are becoming more insistent every day that the Committee cease its activities and let the enemies of this country operate without interference.

Two of the signers of the petition to discontinue the Un-American Activities Committee were professors from the University of Texas, C. E. Ayers and George I. Sanchez. Another was J. Frank Dobie, former professor in that university, and the remaining three are a Molly M. Berke, Rev. Alfred D. Heininger and Emmett R. Johnson, none of whom were further identified in the Washington press release concerning the matter.

Nationally-known proponents of the campaign to have the Un-American Activities Committee suppressed are Negro Martin Luther King, Jr. and the ubiquitous Eleanor Roosevelt whose son, Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt of California is ring leader of the movement.

New Hampshire Senator Says Former President's Views Of Little Weight

A policy statement filled with horse sense such as seldom emanates from members of either House of Congress was given out on January 2 by Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire in outlining procedure of the Republican delegation in the present session of Congress.

He said that his Republican colleagues in the Senate would pursue an independent policy in legislative matters now that they are cut loose from White House ties and that this action may result in increased opposition to foreign aid and other spending programs.

The New Hampshire senator made it clear that he does not believe the views of retiring President Eisenhower will carry much weight with Republicans in Congress. "We Republicans in Congress will listen to suggestions from anybody who wants to make them," the senator stated, "but nobody on the outside is going to dictate to us on policy."

Senator Bridges, who heads the Republican policy committee in the Senate, expressed the hope that the Republicans in that body would have the help of Southern Democrats in "stopping some of the wild spending schemes which were pledged in the Democratic platform."

The trouble between Conservative Republicans in Congress and the White House, of course, stemmed from the fact that Mr. Eisenhower was not actually a Republican and had no sympathy for the sound conservative principles which once were part and parcel of the formerly great party of Lincoln.

In many of his proposals he went as far to the left as any New or Fair Dealer and was able to keep Republicans in Congress in line because of political considerations only.

Hollywood Actors And Writers File Suit Against Studios

For some reason, sympathizers of Communism are breaking out all over in the United States and boldly demanding their "right" to belong to groups and organizations which advocate the overthrow of the American government and, at the same time, to enjoy all the privileges and benefits accorded those citizens who are ready to fight and give their lives to the preservation of that same government.

This fact was emphasized recently by the action of some of the "Hollywood Ten" composed of actors and writers who filed suit against major movie studios for $7,500,000 in damages and the abolition of an alleged blacklist which they claim prevents their employment in the entertainment industry.

Some of those filing suit were convicted in 1947 and sent to jail for contempt of Congress after refusing to say whether or not they had ever been Communists.

The suit was filed in a Federal court in Washington, D.C. and will probably be carried to the Supreme Court in view of the leniency of that body toward offenders of this type.

The plaintiffs who contend they were deprived of work in Hollywood because they were on the alleged blacklist are Nedrick Young, Albert Maltz, John Howard Lawson, Herbert Biberman, Lester Cole, Robert L. Richards, Frederick I. Rinaldo, Philip Stevenson, Gale Sondergaard, Alvin Hammer, Mary Virginia Farmer and Shimen Ruskin.

THAT'S TELLING THEM, BROTHER

The following true story was told us by one who was present and who related it to us verbatim.

It has to do with a type of old-fashioned Negro whom all Southerners once knew and loved.

An elderly retired colored preacher was presiding over the pulpit in a Fort Worth colored Baptist church in the absence of the regular pastor.

Believing in fire and brimstone, he pulled no punches in informing his congregation of the fate which awaited them in the world to come.

After charging them with being guilty of practically every sin in the whole category of human misdemeanors, he wound up with this clincher:

"And, furthermore, every time you gets a chance, you heists a bottle of beer, wraps yo lips around it and don't take it down until every last drop is gone."

The crowning insult to self-respecting and honorable American taxpayers is for Washington political leaders to take their hard-earned money and send it to the savage black beasts in the Congo whose murder, rape and mutilation of helpless white people, constitutes one of the blackest pages in the history of civilization.

Having Abolished State Sovereignty Washington Seeks Municipal Control

Every direct attack made by Washington against any local unit of American government has its origin, of course, in Moscow where plans are constantly evolving for the subjugation of the people of the United States.

The Communists have frankly warned us through their spokesman, Nikita Khrushchev, that they will "bury us" but they are equally frank in admitting that, first, our different units of government must be broken up and all power vested in one centralized government, the better to take us over in one fell swoop. With this diabolic plan for our destruction, national leaders have cooperated wholeheartedly—whether through naivete or deliberate intent is anybody's guess.

The first mass frontal attack from the nation's capital was against the Sovereign States of the American Union and so violent has been this assault by the Executive, Judicial and Legislative branches of the Federal government that the powers of the States—which, under the Constitution, are paramount to those of the Federal set-up—have been cancelled out. The States are now no more than slave colonies or provinces without authority or jurisdiction in matters which vitally concern the citizens who compose them.

Having disposed of the States, Washington is now going after the cities of the nation through a Communist-inspired device called "Urban Renewal." As the platform of the Socialist party under which it is proposed to administer the government for the next four years, called for the takeover by Washington of the various metropolitan municipalities, the "Urban Renewal" program is expected to advance by leaps and bounds. Even a new Cabinet post is planned—a "Department of Urbiculture." The fact that there is no such word is beside the point—Washington bureaucrats can coin a word at the drop of a hat when they can't find the one they want in the dictionary.

The next direct attack, according to some apprehensive Americans, when they have finished with the municipalities, could be on the American home and when, and if, this invasion begins and Federal snoopers go barging into private residences to make sure that the citizen is not spending his own money for the things he wants—as the eminent Dr. Kenneth Galbraith, Kennedy adviser, says he has no right to do—that will be it. Nothing lies beyond that except the Concentration Camp.

Meantime, all Americans should take note that it is proposed by the "CED" or Committee for Economic Development that $42,000,000,000.00 of Federal money be spent in the next ten years in handouts to city governments in the purchase of the control of all municipal affairs on the theory, presumably, that Washington bureaucrats can do the job better than the Mayor and the City Council in a local community.

One of the chief promoters of the plan for Washington to take over the management of American cities is ADA's spokesman in the Senate, Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania, whose record of voting against the principles of American Constitutional Government should be carefully examined by all good Americans.

We hope that when any measure comes up in Congress bearing on "Urban Renewal," responsible citizens will let go with all they have at their congressman and their two United States senators and demand that this small, lone segment of authority and self-control be left to the municipalities of the American Republic.

Pro-Communist Bias Of News Media Handicap In Fight On Communism

One of the greatest obstacles to the fight on Communism in the United States is the attitude of many editors, commentators, reporters and others connected with the various news media in this country.

For instance, a ruler of a country like Russia, Yugoslavia, or Cuba, in other words a head of a Communist country, is almost invariably referred to as a "Premier" and treated with respect in news or editorial discussions. But Trujillo of the Dominican Republic is always called a "Dictator" and is played up in a way to make him look ridiculous.

This, presumably, is based on the fact that our policy is to coddle Communist dictators such as Khrushchev, Tito and Castro but to denounce Trujillo who is an anti-Communist dictator.

This pro-Communist policy on the part of the press is also forcefully demonstrated in the case of integration of the races in schools and any disturbance resulting therefrom.

When Negroes picket, parade, wave banners or engage in rioting, they are always referred to as "students" or "youths" and are always "orderly." But White students are pictured as "disorderly teen-age mobs" or "packs" if they engage in activity to prevent integration.

It's pretty disgusting and discouraging but not to be wondered at since it has been revealed time and time again in testimony before investigating committees that the Soviets have gone out of their way to brainwash the press in this country and their activity along that line has been as meticulous as their campaign to pervert educators and ministers of the gospel.

It is tragic to have to face up to the fact that a large part of the American press has been so infiltrated that any movement to oppose Communism or Soviet policies in this country, is distorted, slanted and biased by those who feed news and editorials to the American public.

Hollywood 'Rat Pack' To Bail Democratic Party Out Of Debt

Detroit Parents Strike In Protest Of Racial Mixing

This didn't happen in Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama or any other place in the Deep South but in Detroit, right in Walter Reuther's racial mixing bailiwick.

Two thousand parents of white children in three Detroit schools went on a strike and kept their children home from school to protest the transfer of 312 Negro children into all-white schools. This happened on October 26, according to the Associated Press.

Robert P. Williams, spokesman for the protesting parents, told the School Board: "We are here as parents, not as property owners. We talk here from the standpoint of our children who are worth more than property. We want equal education for every one. We are not here to deny any child equal education."

An unidentified Negro woman told the School Board that "neither the Negroes nor the Whites are happy with the situation."

All of which proves that the mixing of the races in schools is obnoxious to those of other sections as well as in the South and that decent parents, regardless of location, are opposed to this unnatural practice.

New Foundation To Fight Menace Of Communism

A new and aggressive group to fight Communism in the United States is the Catholic Freedom Foundation whose address is P.O. Box 3188, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N.Y.

Catholics are urged by the Foundation to serve notice on candidates for Congress that they will vote only for those who promise to "support Congressional Committees investigating subversion, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and remedial legislation to correct the dangerous effects of the recent series of decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court which have made a shambles of our nation's internal security program."

Support for retention of the Connally amendment to the World Court treaty is emphasized by the Foundation as a matter of the utmost importance and Catholics are urged to hereafter serve notice on candidates for the Presidency that a "cowardly policy of appeasement of Soviet Russia and its satellite nations is unacceptable and that candidates expecting the Catholic vote promise a determined campaign to rid the Executive Branch of all known Communists and Communist sympathizers."

The Foundation also strongly urges Catholics to demand that Hollywood "give the evils of Communism the same treatment it gives Nazism."

James W. Crockett of Brooklyn is Executive Director of the Foundation and Bishop Blaise S. Kurz, O.F.M., exile from his diocese in China and now residing in New York, is its Spiritual Director.

Since the day in 1936 when the revered Democratic Party concluded to definitely abandon the principles of Jefferson and Jackson, it has served as the instrument of many shoddy cliques and gangs in the planned Socialization of the national economy.

It has never, however, made quite the concession to discredited segments of society which was indicated with the public announcement that Frankie Sinatra, self-styled leader of the Hollywood "Rat Pack," will come to its rescue and pay off its heavy indebtedness.

This "Rat Pack" is a racially mixed aggregation of West Coast beatniks in the entertainment industry whose private and public performances in that notorious sinkhole of civilization are alleged to have caused even hardened denizens of the tinsel town some anxious moments.

Sinatra's proposal for liquidating the debt of the New Dealers includes a plan to throw a big free-for-all black and tan shindig in Washington preceding the inaugural ball, and with the reported approval of the President-elect, which he believes will net enough cash to pay off the mortgage of the Party of the New Frontier.

It is a wonderful thing to be free of debt and this applies with equal force to an individual, a political party or a nation and no doubt party leaders will be delighted to have their obligations paid off.

It is unfortunate, however, that some other more dignified and acceptable means could not be employed to settle the account.

This is especially true in view of the fact that there are millions of good Catholic citizens in the United States who want the first Catholic President in history to reflect credit on that Faith by showing consideration for the proprieties and performing always with dignity and good taste and who regret that the Hollywood "Rat Pack" is to be accorded such distinction at the inaugural festivities and allowed to assume the financial obligations of the Party to which Mr. Kennedy owes his election.

Three vital first steps which are essential to a return of Constitutional Government; First, repeal the Income Tax Amendment thereby removing the cause of much corruption and the giving away of the substance of the people; Second, Take the United States out of the United Nations and the United Nations out of the United States thus minimizing the temptation of American political leaders and heads of State to interfere in the affairs of other nations which poses a constant threat of war; Third, Restore to Congress the authority and to the States and the people the Constitutional rights which have been either voluntarily surrendered or which have been taken away from them and in this manner bring back Freedom to the American Republic.

Every fallen nation in history went to its destruction by blindly following inept and incapable leaders.

Bloody Revolution Called For In Protestant Church Play

Instances of Communist influence in American churches have been frequent in recent years but it is seldom that an activity of a religious denomination has inspired the calling in of the FBI as happened in some Texas Protestant churches recently.

This activity was the proposed production of a play by the Young Peoples Department of such churches titled "The Crier Calls" which purports to portray "today's struggle of peoples for justice and fulfillment," but which actually sounds a call for bloody revolution.

Production notes for the play include these instructions: "The theme of this drama is today's struggle of peoples for justice and fulfillment. The various aspects of the struggle, developed by the chorus and interpreters are: nationalism, economic exploitation of workers, unemployment, color prejudice, land hunger, lost faith, cultural breakdown. It would be well for the chorus to be in back stage with blue light. Since South Africa and Kenya inspired the last chorus in particular, it would be advisable to have Negro members of the chorus in the front ranks."

Some of the lines for the performers to recite in the play include these familiar notes:

"We have asked, 'Who is the cause of our hunger,' and our hearts have answered, 'They who sit in the pleasant houses, they who have bought our hands and would deny us a soul, they who have bought the rulers for insurance that their profit be undiminished.' We must upset their world that we may live; we are men and would be free. We will make havoc in the earth, throw down the old, raise the new. Agitate! Liberate! Pillage! Plunder! Strike! Fire! Burn!"

And this chant by the entire cast: "In that day that shall surely come we shall cleanse ourselves. We shall heap their corpses in the street; with a hail of deadly blows in one dark night we shall pay back these thousand years of the black man's shame in the blood of our enemies, we shall wash out the indignities of those years, and their blood shall be the balm for our pierced and aching hearts."

Emphasizing the call to bloody revolution is this final warning of the ensemble: "We will do what we must do, sound the drums, gather the warriors, light the ceremonial fires and summon the assembly to hear our vows. Let us take up our swords and anoint them with blood. Let us strike till the arm is weary, till the land pours forth a thousand crimson rivers, till again we inherit the land of our fathers, for in the shedding of blood is remission and release from the curses of our children. We will cleanse ourselves in blood, blood, blood, blood" . . .

Since this type of activity is in line with a recent warning by Honorable J. Edgar Hoover to the effect that Communists are tightening their efforts to infiltrate the religious youth of the country, some of the alarmed parents of the young people involved in the proposed performance in one city notified the FBI and as this is written, there is some doubt that the play will be allowed to be produced in those places where parents have reported the matter to the proper authorities.

Speculation Rife About Reasons For Naming Of Housing Head

Mr. Kennedy's unbelievable action in naming a Negro as Director of the National Housing Authority in view of present explosive racial relations, has inspired many unconfirmed reports concerning the matter, and his reasons for this astounding action.

Since he received almost the solid support of Negroes in his campaign, naturally Mr. Kennedy wanted to give some prominent members of the race recognition. At the same time he was fully aware that Henry Cabot Lodge's unauthorized crack about a Negro in the Cabinet was one of the major causes of Nixon's defeat.

It is hinted, therefore, that he knew well in advance that his offer of the Cabinet job of Postmaster General to Negro Congressman William Dawson of Illinois would be refused because Dawson wanted to keep his seniority in the House of Representatives.

This offer would be a gracious gesture of gratitude and in the event of Dawson's refusal, would, at the same time, spare him the politically dangerous proposition of a racially integrated Cabinet.

This, however, did not fool or appease the smart boys in the New York NAACP who refused to settle for anything less than what they got—one of their number at the head of an agency supervising housing facilities for tenants who represent a ratio of perhaps one hundred White persons to each Negro involved.

These rumors may or may not be true since the peculiar and unprecedented action of the President-elect in the matter would naturally give rise to all sorts of speculation. He may have made the appointment on his own initiative and because he wanted to which is, of course, his privilege, but to say that this appointment could further inflame a situation which might get out of hand, is putting it mildly.

"Not the cowardly cry that 'nothing can be done' but the clarion call that 'it can be done' because it MUST be done should be heard on all sides, to repudiate those of little faith and to give those who are weary fresh hope." — Texans for America.

No nation is free when the right to own property is limited or restricted by those who govern.

The first law of nature was that all mammals including man should feed, clothe and shelter themselves without aid or interference. The Federal government has now taken over this responsibility which has thrown nature out of balance and we are paying the penalty in the confusion, chaos and corruption which is prevalent throughout the land.

The President Could Have Looked Further And Done Much Better

It is claimed that in view of the closeness of the election, Mr. Kennedy toned down his selections in the matter of appointees and refrained from naming some ultra-Liberals for important jobs whom he had in mind and that, therefore, his Cabinet and his official family will be slightly more Conservative than he had planned or wanted.

We wouldn't know about that but if he had intended to reach further to the left and choose even more pronounced Welfare Staters, then it must have been an act of Merciful Providence which decreed that only approximately 111,000 out of some 68,000,000 votes should separate the two candidates.

With the selection of Dean Rusk as Secretary of State, Adlai Stevenson as Ambassador to the United Nations and Chester Bowles and Soapy Williams as Assistant Secretaries, there is little chance that the element in that agency which was responsible for the sell-out of China to the Communists, for ousting Batista and installing Castro as Prime Minister of Cuba, withdrawal of recognition of the Dominican Republic on Communist insistence and other foreign policies inimical to the interests of the United States, will be purged from the department.

Dean Rusk comes fresh to the job from his position as President of the Rockefeller Foundation where he was largely in charge of making grants and in spending millions of dollars which, being Rockefeller money, naturally was used in promoting the cause of International Socialism throughout the world.

Adlai Stevenson is the most thoroughly rejected and repudiated candidate for the Presidency since William Jennings Bryan and it is not believed that Mr. Kennedy would have dared inflict him on the American people except as the reported price for the support of Eleanor Roosevelt. Stevenson and Chester Bowles, pawn and mouthpiece of UNESCO and other One-World agencies, are perhaps the two most objectionable figures to advocates of good government that the President-elect could have chosen, while Soapy Williams' only claim to distinction is that he was successful during the years he was Governor of Michigan in bankrupting that great State through his insatiable demands for Socialist legislation and give-away programs.

As this is written it is suggested in press reports that Charles E. Bohlen and even Dean Acheson will be added to Mr. Kennedy's stable of left-wing theorists before he has completed the list of his nominees.

But perhaps the most blatant disregard for ethics and good taste, to say nothing of political judgment, was his selection of his brother Robert as Attorney General of the United States in which he will be in position to use the police power to back up any executive directive no matter how restrictive of the rights and freedoms of the people such directive may be.

We had thought that the bayonet-wielding advocate, Mr. William P. Rogers, represented the extreme in that job but we tremble to think what might have happened if Brother Robert had been the Attorney General during the days of Little Rock.

Little Interest Shown In Texas U.S. Senator's Race

Mr. John Tower, Republican, who made such a surprising race against Lyndon Johnson for the United States Senate from Texas, has indicated that he may make the race again. The office was vacated when Senator Johnson decided that he couldn't hold down both of the two jobs to which he was curiously elected, and resigned.

Mr. William Blakeley, Democrat of Dallas, who will fill the interim until a regular election, has announced that he will run for a full term.

Ordinarily, Mr. Blakeley is regarded as a Conservative, but the fact that he is being named by Governor Daniel for the interim job casts some confusion into the situation for Governor Daniel is not usually partial to Conservatives.

Congressman Jim Wright of Fort Worth is also a candidate as are several others from over the State, most of them either Liberals and left-wingers or fence straddlers.

Texas has been practically without distinguished representation in the Upper House for so long that the people wouldn't know what to do if they waked up some morning and found that the Lone Star State had elected a statesman to that office.

The unlimited power of government over the purse hangs like a death sentence over the head of a citizen.

Widespread Fraud Charges Throw Cloud On Election

It is now pretty widely agreed that the November election was not on the up and up and that if it had not been for the irregularities and stolen and emasculated ballots, results might have been different.

This is unfortunate for it starts off the new administration under a cloud which might, or might not, have been cleared up if there had been prompt, thorough and honest investigation in those areas where fraud was charged.

Professional vote thieves were active in Chicago, according to press reports where thousands of votes were claimed to be either thrown out or miscounted. The same was reported to be true in Texas although amateurs and not professionals are credited with manipulating the results there. Other States were also involved in the charges but the apathy of the Republicans, except in a few cases, and including Mr. Nixon himself concerning the matter made it easy for the whole affair to be brushed under the rug.

It is to be hoped that proper precautions will be taken to guard voting booths in the future in order to circumvent charges of dishonesty in the balloting which were circulated throughout the country in the case of the 1960 election.

Federal Dictatorship Set Up In The Sovereign State of Louisiana

The cities of Moscow in Russia and New Orleans in the State of Louisiana in the U.S.A. have something in common.

Both are being run by Dictators whose power is absolute.

The Moscow Dictator is, of course, Nikita Khrushchev and the New Orleans Dictator is J. Skelly Wright, a Federal Judge. Neither was ever elected to any office by the people over whom they rule with an Iron Hand.

Khrushchev was able to reach his present position as Dictator over millions of people through inheritance of the office which came into being with the Revolution of 1917.

J. Skelly Wright achieved total power in Louisiana through highly questionable decisions of the Supreme Court holding that segregation of public schools was illegal after previous rulings by the same Court for almost a century held the opposite.

In line with that unfortunate decision, a total Dictatorship has been built up in Louisiana and New Orleans is now being held up as the horrible example of what happens in the United States when Sovereign Citizens elect to run their own affairs which the Constitution authorizes them to do.

Under this Dictatorship the last vestige of States Rights so thoroughly enunciated in the Constitution has been totally abolished and the sacred and underlying American principle that all just government is based on the consent of the governed has been shamelessly abandoned.

The Louisiana Legislature, seeking ways to continue the orderly operation of the schools in a manner that has proved satisfactory to both races since Reconstruction Days, passed several laws to this end which the Federal Judge promptly declared un-Constitutional along with the snide remark, according to the press, that such laws were passed merely to "let the legislators blow off steam" and that they didn't mean anything at all. On another occasion, he is quoted in the press as having asked elected officials to "keep out of it" and to stop interfering.

At this writing this power-drunk Federal representative has taken over all functions in the Commonwealth of Louisiana and is providing an example of despotism never before equalled in a free Republic.

If he is allowed to continue to get by with it, the end of State Sovereignty has been reached, freedom is dead in the United States and the status of the citizen is on a par with that of the slaves in the Soviet Union.

Expenditures Of Agency Jump From 2 to 4 Billion Dollars

Taxpayers who had hoped that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would be abolished as suddenly as it was set up eight years ago are, instead, going to be called on to double their contribution toward its upkeep.

Whereas they were forced in 1952 to dig up $2,000,000,000 for its operation, President Eisenhower in his budget message to Congress asked for $4,000,000,000 to keep the outfit going during the fiscal year starting July 1.

There were many wishful and misguided Americans who hoped that since the principal idea in setting it up was to furnish jobs for the President's friends it would go out with his administration, but government agencies don't operate like that. They spread and spread like the fungus growths which they are and gather momentum and parasites as they burgeon and mushroom into huge bureaucracies.

Also, the agency has now become the focal point for the program for Socialized Medicine and Socialized Education through Federal Aid and taxpayers had as well resign themselves to supporting this monstrosity in the style to which all government bureaus inevitably become accustomed, and to paying heavier tribute as the years go by.

From a subscriber in Salem, Virginia: "You say it for all of us who lack your gift with words. I wish I had half your vocabulary to describe what I think of your unique and wonderful paper. May your shadow never grow less."

After All, He Once Was A Harvard Professor

R. S. McNamara, named Secretary of Defense by John F. Kennedy, is reported in the press to be making a sacrifice of his stocks and personal holdings which will cost him over three million dollars in profits during the next three or four years.

So he's giving up three million dollars in profits in order to take a job which will pay him a salary of $25,000 per year and what we want to know is—WHY?

And don't anybody tell us that he is motivated solely by an altruistic desire to serve his country because we won't buy that.

We do not know Mr. McNamara, of course, and have not the slightest intent to reflect on his personal integrity.

It is just that we are realistic enough to know that ex-Harvard professors who go into government do not do so in order to lend their influence and prestige to efforts for the restoration of Constitutional Government and the preservation of sound American principles.

Invariably their motive is to inspire and promote the new social and economic order so forcefully stressed in the Harvard curriculum and the program of World Socialism which Ford and Rockefeller Foundation money is advancing throughout the world.

We hope that Mr. McNamara is an exception and that no new and untried theories and experiments so dear to his Alma Mater will be allowed to influence his efforts as head of our Defense and national security.

There's 'Partiality' As Well As 'Discrimination' Because Of Color

Millions of words have been written about "discrimination" against people because of their race or color but very little is said about "partiality" to people for the same reason.

This partiality to a member of a minority group was strongly emphasized when Congress convened early in January.

Promoters of the New Frontier were anxious to revise and emasculate the Rules Committee of the House which often blocks Socialist legislation. They especially wanted Congressman William C. Colmer of Mississippi, a conservative and strong champion of States Rights and Constitutional Government, removed.

They commissioned Mr. Sam Rayburn to do the job. Always meticulous about upholding House rules in the past, Mr. Sam was not enthusiastic about the undertaking, but he was one of the casualties of the Kennedy forces at Los Angeles Convention and he had to obey.

Being a strong party man he figured that Colmer should be purged but only because of the fact that he, Colmer, had refused to support Kennedy in the campaign and had voted for unpledged electors, and not because of his Rules Committee membership. It was the plan to take the Mississippi Congressman off the Rules Committee and demote him to a minor Committee.

Then somebody brought up the point that Adam Clayton Powell of New York, Chairman of the Labor Committee, had also refused to support Adlai Stevenson in 1956 and had voted for Eisenhower. If Mr. Colmer had to give up his Committee membership, so did Powell.

That did it. Mr. Colmer is a White man and Powell is a Negro, and naturally nobody would try to unseat the Negro.

The Liberals will probably be able to mess up the Rules Committee to some extent by other measures, but Mr. Colmer will not likely be removed.

NAACP Brings About Integration Of Birth Certificates In New York

If any future American citizen wants to be identified as to "race or color" and doesn't want to be put down as just another addition to humanity's great melting pot, he had better arrange to be born somewhere else than New York.

For New York's female Health Commissioner, Dr. Leona Baumgartner, has yielded to the current arbiter of all human destiny, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and has issued an edict that, hereafter, information will be eliminated from birth certificates which discloses any facts other than that the newborn infant is male or female and no reference to race or color will be tolerated.

This aggressive female dictator conceded that there is a necessity for this information to be compiled, however, for medical reasons. It appears that some diseases attack the Negro race more violently than is the case with White people and it seems that, so far, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has not been able to repeal this rule of nature.

So the Health Commissioner is going to compel physicians who Adlai Stevenson, two-time loser in the Presidential sweepstakes, keeps repeating that the only interest he has in government is to "help." The only way he can help the cause of good government is to get lost.

The founders of the American Republic exerted their utmost efforts in restraining the depravities of human nature by restricting the power of those who govern.

officiate at births to actually break down and disclose whether the new arrival is black, white, yellow or deep purple but this will be for her private information only and will be kept in the files of the Public Health Department but will not be available to the public.

What New York, or any of the screwballs who run it, does is no concern of ours but we would like to remark in passing that hereafter human beings born into the great Empire State will have less freedom and recognition than dogs which are littered there. At least the blooded members of the canine family will be entitled to have their breed, their color and their blood strain registered in the kennel books at their birth, while human children will have to be content with merely being listed as two-legged animals of a certain address and a certain gender.

And how is that, Mr. Khrushchev, for complying with the Soviet demand that all racial lines be erased in the United States? You never thought it would be so easy, did you, chum?

King John at Runnymede in 1215 lengthened his life by surrendering his power over the people and giving them a written contract which established their inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

On the day that Tito issued a denunciation of the United States before the world, our government in Washington sent to this Kremlin puppet $100,000,000.00. Surely the American taxpayers are entitled to demand that this suicidal policy be stopped.

Way Is Being Cleared In Congress For New Frontier

One of the first organized moves by the new Administration to put the Los Angeles Manifesto into effect and to establish the New Frontier will be an assault on the Rules Committees of the House and Senate, plans for which are well advanced according to press reports.

The idea of emasculating these Committees is that any conscientious objector to National Socialism on such committees may be shorn of his power to withhold objectionable bills from consideration by the respective Houses of Congress.

As might be expected such staunch opponents of Constitutional Government in the Senate as Paul Douglas of Illinois, Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota are leading the fight to smash the Rules and let Liberals have a free hand while Mr. Sam Rayburn, perennial guest at the taxpayers' table, is trying to figure out a way to topple the Rules in the House without having it appear that they were pushed.

The outcome of this assault is problematical but there is no doubt that these two Committees are in for a terrific onslaught by political bulls in a china shop who are out to break everything which threatens to block the road to the New Frontier.

Family Magazines Leave Christ Out Of Christmas

The bitter attack which International Communism is making against Christianity in the United States and the campaign to take Christ out of Christmas is reflected in many areas of activity but it is especially noticeable in the case of so-called "family magazines" in this country.

Many of these publications have been in existence for more than fifty years and in other years have emphasized the Spiritual aspect of Christmas on their covers and in their reading matter.

For the past several years and especially this past Christmas, there was nothing to indicate that Christmas is anything more than a time for gaiety and all reference to its function as the Anniversary of the Birth of Christ was absent.

If this had occurred in just one or two instances, it would not indicate a trend or a planned program but the lack of any spiritual reference to Christmas in practically all established publications appearing on the news stands this Christmas shows that the deadly work of International Communists has been well done.

Leon M'ba, President of the newly "independent" nation of Gabon, one of the tribal nations recognized and received into the United Nations, had to complete a four-year penitentiary sentence before making the journey to U.N. headquarters to be sworn in. He was convicted of eating his mother-in-law and had to serve out his term. Aside from the horror of Cannibalism implied in this incident, there is a good aspect too. It proves that mothers-in-law are not the tough old gals they are cracked up to be.

New Orleans Mothers Given The Works By Irate Woman Writer

The childless New York columnist, Inez Robb, recently let loose a blast in her widely-read column against the harassed and desperate mothers of New Orleans who are protesting integration of the schools. Mrs. Robb indicated in no unmistakable terms that she regards these beleaguered ladies as little better than abandoned women of the streets.

Designating them as "New Orleans Women," she employed practically every ugly adjective in the English language to express her contempt for their pitiable attempts to fight back at Federal tyrants who seek the debasement of their children.

Mrs. Robb, not having any children of her own, cannot be expected to understand or have any sympathy for the impulse which impels a mother to protect her young from harm even at the cost of her own life, and perhaps we should be tolerant of her intemperate castigation of a human emotion which she has never experienced and, therefore, cannot comprehend.

Since Mrs. Robb says she was "sickened" by the behavior of the "New Orleans Women" and that she blushed with shame because of their actions, we hasten to remind her of a recent racial incident of a reverse nature which occurred in the great cultural, moral and religious center known as Hollywood. Since this Hollywood incident probably conforms more nearly to Mrs. Robb's ideal of proper and decent race relations, we feel sure it will repair much of the damage to her emotions caused by the performance of the "New Orleans Women."

In the Hollywood case, according to press reports, a Negro man married one white female and publicly embraced and kissed another one.

So when Mrs. Robb becomes "sickened" beyond endurance by the thought of the New Orleans affair, we suggest that she hug to her breast the memory of the Hollywood performance.

If she will just keep the image of that little deal in mind, we feel sure that it will serve to wipe the blush from her fair cheeks which the conduct of the wicked "New Orleans Women" inspired.

White House Conference on Aging Provides Window Dressing For Socialized Medicine

As we go to press a "White House Conference on the Aging" is taking place in Washington, the inference being that the all-powerful government of the United States can even do something about people getting old.

As a matter of fact, people have gotten old since the beginning of time and we strongly suspect that they will continue to do so from here on regardless of the bright and shining programs of empty-headed social planners who have placed the problems of old age high on their agenda for solution.

Strangely enough, the majority of those who will attend the "Conference on the Aging" will not be old people at all. It will be composed of large delegations of youthful social workers who are convinced that they know just what should be done in every human contingency and how to do it.

In reality, the "White House Conference on the Aging" is merely window dressing for the form of Socialized Medicine known as medical health care provided by the Federal government for persons over sixty-five who are commonly supposed to become outcasts of human society when they have reached that age, to be deserted by their children and families and automatically converted into wards of the government.

The Conference is intended to beat down opposition in Congress to various bills which will be introduced providing medical care for the nation's senior citizens whether they need it or want it or not.

As the inimitable Dan Smoot, who never fails to hit the bull's eye, says in one of his late Reports concerning the affair: "In reality the White House Conference on Aging will be an exercise of group dynamics—a Communist-developed technique of mass thought-control. A large number of sincere delegates will be manipulated into 'making' decisions which were already made by the reigning politburo long before the delegates were ever selected. . . . But the people who set up the Conference know, and admit, that the whole thing has been planned not for the purpose of producing any new information, but for the sole purpose of persuading the people to support the 'Federal programs' which the Conference planners have already decided upon before the Conference was ever called."

As one of the vast army of the nation's "aging" whose destiny the slap-happy young social planners are trying to manipulate and juggle, we respectfully suggest that they attend to their own cotton pickin' business and let everybody else, including the "aging," do the same thing and the world will be lots better off.

Old people struggled along before these addle-pated planners were even born and there is no documented evidence that they can't continue to do so.

President-elect Kennedy has drawn so heavily on the faculty of Harvard University in naming his official family that there is talk of moving Harvard classes to the White House until its depleted staff can be replaced.

Labor leaders are asking for temporary suspension of Federal income taxes as an anti-recession measure. Millions of Americans are asking for permanent repeal of the Income Tax Amendment as an anti-theft and anti-corruption measure.

He's Got The Whole World In His Hands

Mr. Averill Harriman of New York has just been invested with an office of such proportions as to put that of an Oriental Potentate in the shade.

The President-elect has named him as "Roving Ambassador" and the whole world is his bailiwick.

In the absence of any authentic information about the procedural methods of a man suddenly entrusted with supervision of an entire globe, we assume that it will be necessary to keep a supersonic jet primed at the Ambassador's front door so he can be ready to "rove" at the drop of a space helmet.

In view of his past experience in covering territory, we can visualize him hopping off one morning to settle a controversy between warring cannibal tribes in French Equatorial Africa and then being on hand to arbitrate a jurisdictional dispute between headhunters in Northern New Zealand in the afternoon.

We still think Mr. Kennedy made a mistake in this appointment, however.

The job was made to order for Eleanor Roosevelt.

More Truth Than Poetry In This

The following story which is attributed to a member of Congress from the State of Florida, Representative Robert Fikes, would be very funny if it were not so near the truth as to rob it of much of its comic value:

A Southerner was having some difficulty reconciling himself to the present-day Supreme Court and its rulings and was discussing the subject with one of his elderly Negro helpers.

"Mose," the Southerner commented, "what do you honestly think of that blankety blank Supreme Court in Washington?"

"Boss," Mose replied, "Us colored folks thinks the Supreme Cote is a mighty fine thing. Why don't you white folks get you-all one?"

Freshman Diplomat Becomes Authority On African Affairs

Edward, otherwise known as "Ted," the baby of the Kennedy Clan, spent several weeks touring four French colonies in Africa, Ivory Coast, Dahomey, Upper Volta and Niger following which he made a report to the President-elect on the "Algerian Crisis."

"I will give my brother an account of the opinions of African leaders and my observations in order that there may be full comprehension of this problem," the budding young statesman announced to the press when leaving the Ivory Coast capital of Abidjan.

We are beginning to think that the wag is not far wrong who recently ventured the suggestion that John F. Kennedy, Jr., may get into the act before the end of his father's term.
