

W. B. BATES NOT TO SEEK OFFICE OF BOARD HEAD

Progress of School System Reviewed As President Declines to Continue in Office.

W. B. Bates, member of the Board of Education for seven years, has announced that he will not seek reelection in the school election to be held April 6.

Mr. Bates has been president of the Board of Education for three years. He is a member of the law firm of Fulbright, Crooker & Freeman and has lived in Houston since 1923.

In a statement submitted by Mr. Bates he says that his law business is requiring so much of his attention that he cannot do justice to his clients and perform his duties on the school board. Therefore, he feels compelled to give up his membership on the board.

During the period Mr. Bates has been a member of the Board of Education the school system of Houston has enjoyed much progress, financially and otherwise. While other schools throughout the nation have suffered and many of them have been forced to close on account of the depression, Houston schools have weathered the storm and are now practically on a cash basis.

The Houston Junior College was formed and has since expanded into the University of Houston. Mr. Bates is proud of this accomplishment.

Second Program Is Presented Tuesday

The University of Houston presented its second radio program of a series of six to be given over KPRC Tuesday at 4:45 p. m. The founding of the first complete educational system in the United States was portrayed.

The scene of this dramatization was laid in New Orleans where money for the first schools and libraries was raised by selling tickets for two great lotteries.

The cast included Edith Lord Carlton, as Marguerite; Professor Jules Vern, as M. Seurac; Professor L. Standlee Mitchell, as Mr. Dupree; and Russell Berkley, as Paul Dupree, the son.

Appropriate music was furnished by the General College Ensemble under the direction of Edith Lord Carlton.

COUGAR COLLEGIANS BEGIN DANCE SERIES

At one of their characteristic dances, the Cougar Collegians were hosts to some 50 couples in the first of a lengthy series of such affairs which are being offered by this group.

Dancing began promptly at 9:30 and lasted until 11:00 with music being furnished through the medium of recorded selections.

"It's only the beginning," said Katherine Berry, club president. "We intend to make each of these occasions well worth the time spent."

GREEN STOCKINGS CHOSEN AS NEXT RED MASQUE PLAY

The next play to be presented by the Red Masque Players, according to L. Standlee Mitchell, director, will be Green Stockings by A. E. W. Mason.

"The cast for this show has not yet been chosen," Mr. Mitchell stated, "but upon arrival of the script, try-outs will be held and rehearsals for the play will get under way."

Green Stockings has a cast of 12. There are seven men's and five women's parts. The plot deals with the custom whereby an elder sister is compelled to wear green stockings at the wedding of a younger sister, provided she herself happens to be unmarried, or unbetrothed.

After having worn the hated stockings twice, Celia Faraday rebels when the time approaches for her to wear them the third time. She therefore invents a sweetheart by the name of Smith, and excuses his non-appearance by saying that immediately after she had become engaged he was obliged to sail for South Africa. The surprise of her sisters forces her into details of supposed facts which have to be manufactured

Springfield Given Fountain Pen At Chonita Banquet

One of the most successful banquets held since the opening of the University was enjoyed by a jovial crowd after the Thursday evening presentation of the operetta Chonita, last week.

Ralph Pierce served as toastmaster.

During the course of after-dinner speeches, P. S. Reed presented H. F. Springfield, director of the operetta, with a fountain pen, a gift from the cast. Mr. Springfield appeared deeply touched by the presentation of the gift and expressed his gratitude to the cast.

Brief talks were made by many of the members of the cast, expressing their enjoyment of their work in Chonita. H. J. Holt also made a talk to those present who had worked in former productions.

Pierce Addresses Public Speakers

Ralph Pierce, graduate of Goodwin Radio School and student of public speaking, delivered a lecture on radio announcing Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. to the business and professional public speaking class.

Pierce has been with a number of radio stations in Texas, Arkansas, and Louisiana. Last year he was associated with the British Broadcasting Company in London.

"Microphone fright is practically inevitable with everyone. This cannot be explained any more than stage fright," Pierce stated.

"The field of radio as a profession is one of the best and most open fields today. No one has learned all about the radio. It is a fascinating work," he concluded.

CHONITA SHOWS ON ALVIN HIGH SCHOOL STAGE

Dorothy Golden, Stillman Taylor Steal Show With Comedy Roles.

Following its successful run at the University, the operetta, Chonita, was presented in the Alvin High School auditorium at Alvin, Texas, Friday, March 8. The presentation was offered by the music department of the University of Houston.

The splendid performances of Dorothy Golden and Stillman Taylor in their comedy roles of Daya and Emil literally "brought down the house." It was often necessary to stop the performance until the audience became quiet.

Others in the cast who gave creditable performances were Earl Lamberth as Konrad, Edith Carleton as Baroness Stanesque, Jack Robinson as Stefan, and Edison Oberholtzer as Baron Stanesque.

Those whose efforts contributed to the success of the show were Mr. H. F. Springfield, director; Ralph Pierce, assistant director; Harry Lawrence, accompanist; and Mr. Standlee Mitchell.

"The presentation of the operetta in Alvin was probably the best performance given by the group," said Pierce. "It was a financial as well as aesthetic success."

Speech Department To Assist Judging Scholastic Events

Under the direction of Professor Harvey W. Harris, the Speech Arts department of the University of Houston is co-operating with various counties in judging interscholastic activities.

Through the efforts of Mr. Harris since the organization of the Junior College the speech department has assisted during county meets in this district.

A judging committee has recently been sent to Tomball, and other groups will go to Alvin, Dickinson, Galena Park and neighboring towns. Those students who have already participated in the judging teams are Pat Foley, Andrew Tucker, Leslie Fagan, Elliot Rowan, C. S. Vance, Harvey Gabler, Helen Thompson, Glenn Perry, Harry Vohs, Miriam Smith, C. B. Dolan, Genevieve Dozier, and Joyce Burg.

KERBOW ENTERS AS CANDIDATE FOR MAYORSHIP

Professor of Education of University of Houston to Seek Suburban Office.

In a formal statement, A. L. Kerbow, professor of education in the University of Houston, announced his candidacy Tuesday for the office of mayor of West University Place. Mr. Kerbow is opposing Ralph G. Hyett in the election, to be held April 2.

Mr. Kerbow is a graduate of the East Texas Teachers College and has had more than 20 years as city superintendent of schools and college professor. He is married and has one daughter, Elizabeth, who is a graduate of the Houston Junior College, Rice Institute, and is now teaching in Alameda.

Mr. Kerbow's formal statement follows:

"For several months, I have considered making the race for mayor of West University Place as a 'new deal' candidate. I have decided strictly upon my own initiative to become a candidate. No individual, group or faction has 'urged' me to become a candidate. However, since making it known that I would be a candidate, I have been encouraged by scores of good citizens to make the race.

"I shall favor the outright repeal of the annual $12 a year sewer charge at the earliest possible date. I shall also favor holding the two elected commissioners, who, with the

CHILD LABOR

The greatest accomplishment of the NRA is its inroad upon what is referred to as child labor. Everywhere it is being preserved in the permanent legislation that will replace the Recovery Act. The country is agreed that family poverty in the lower economic strata of the population shall not be allowed to make its cruel addition to the labor supply.

The child labor amendment, submitted by Congress to the states in 1924 consisted of two small paragraphs:

"That Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age."

The second insures the power of the states against impairment by this amendment, "except that the operation of states laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the Congress."

The amendment has been opposed on the grounds that the states will give Congress a power, which if granted will be out of proportion to the purpose for which it is granted and therefore susceptible of abuse.

If a child labor amendment had been submitted to the states this winter, the amendment would today be part of the Constitution and child labor would be a thing of the past.

COLLEGE SUCCESS

The president of a prominent eastern university created a furore recently when he refused government aid for the needy students in his institution. This noted prexy made a statement to the effect that what the country needed was not more college graduates, but fewer and better ones. He also stated that his school would never allow any exceptional student to drop out for financial reasons.

The time has long since passed when a college degree was a key to success. The utopian ideal of a college education for everybody has failed to produce a super-commonwealth minus the trials and tribulations of any barbaric empire.

The fact that such personalities as Somerset Maugham, Edgar Allen Poe, and Eugene O'Neil might fail to endear themselves to a faculty as exceptional students remains with us. Genius generally proves madness in any but its own medium. It would make little difference in the long run whether such men graduated from college or not.

Unless a student has some driving ambition or temperament which requires the knowledge of mechanical processes to achieve any success at all, he will receive small reward for the time and effort that must be put forth to graduate. The ulterior motive of education must be changed to an effective use of the leisure rather than the working hours.

COURTESY

The cost of courtesy toward fellow students is one of the smallest expenses one is asked to meet.

Often, students are unintentionally discourteous to their fellow students by carrying on loud, annoying conversation outside the library windows. Besides causing confusion in the library, this makes study that requires any thought practically impossible. Those who study in the library would consider it a courtesy if students outside the building would refrain from noisy conversation.

Rowdy play and unwarranted outbursts from loiterers in the halls during classes are likewise annoying to both students and instructors.

INTRODUCING

MAIZIE LEE LYLE

Introducing to you Maizie Lee Lyle, 20-year-old junior student of the University of Houston, who is majoring in Education.

She graduated from San Jacinto in '32. Now she is teaching a gym class at San Jacinto as part of her laboratory work in her chosen field.

The young lady attended the summer session at C. I. A. with our physical education instructor, Miss Irene Spiess, last summer, and then went on to Corpus Christi where she spent the remainder of her vacation.

Her favorite pastimes are swimming, sailing, tennis, and dancing. She is a veteran sailor and an excellent tap dancer.

Maizie is eager to secure knowledge and spends five hours each day in concentrated study.

She is blessed with beautiful blue eyes and when she smiles, which she does only when she finds something really amusing, she has perfectly intriguing dimples.

Just to intrude into her private life—she is treated with the greatest politeness and admiration by John Bender, son of Mrs. Pearl C. Bender.

Speaking of the ancient and honorable art of tattooing, did you know that: 5 per cent of the American people carry designs of one kind or another. The list of tattooed royalty would fill three large pages. King George of England has a dragon tattooed on his forearm. In the 1890's society women had not only their bodies but their lips and cheeks tattooed in natural tints.

You can beat a tattoo but you can't beat a tattooed man.

Rollo Cunningham had difficulty in convincing Mrs. Bender that his absences was due to a slightly slightly nearsighted agrarian from Cedar Slough. The honest tiller of the soil refused to be convinced that Rollo was not his exhibit for the blue ribbon at the fat stock show.

Schnarzan Al Gardner announces that the Dramatic Club will soon star him in a psychological problem play (note the alliteration, Harris) entitled "Abie's Irish Nose."

 "Did you cut him down?" asked the cop.

Cracks

Traffic Cop: "Now, Miss, what gear were you in at the time of the accident?"

Evelyn Nicoll: "Oh, I had on a black beret, tan shoes and a tweed sports dress."

Scottie: "Does Standlee play much golf a day?"

Mr. Holt: "Oh, thirty-six holes, roughly speaking."

Scottie: "And how many without cursing?"

Mr. Harris (to pupil): "Spell 'straight!'"

Harry Lawrence: "S-t-r-a-i-g-h-t."

Mr. H.: "Correct; what does it mean?"

H. L.: "Without ginger ale."

Mrs. Jello: "Doctor, is there no hope for my husband?"

Dr. Killum: "No, I don't think your husband will recover, but to make sure I'll call in another physician."

They had been sitting in the swing in the moonlight alone. No word broke the stillness for half an hour until—

"Suppose you had money," Eva Dee said, "what would you do?"

Charlie threw out his chest in all the glory of young manhood. "I'd travel!"

He felt her warm, young hand slide into his. When he looked up she had gone. In his hand was a nickel.

Sammie Nicks: "How much are your four-dollar shoes?"

Clerk: "Two dollars a foot."

"You must not expect me to give up my girlhood ways all at once."

"That's all right, little girl; go on taking an allowance from your father just as if nothing had happened."

Whoopie!—Did I put my size twelves in the mud in the last issue or did I? Boy I'll say. Great guy I am—oh yeah!

Blunderingly I stated that Ralph Pierce had overlooked the aid and assistance tendered him by Jane Jennings during the production of Chonita. Whatta error, whatta error—am I excruciated! It looks like I've made a gross error. Ralph really asked Jane to go to the banquet, but since she wasn't able to go to both the banquet and Alvin the next day, she wisely chose Alvin as the more logical place to spend her time. Whoa now, you gossipers—she went down with Pierce.

This is the deadeast jurnt that ever was. Boy I mean—the only thing that ever happens around here is day and night and lots of the days are cloudy enough to be nights. The Collegian dance Wednesday wasn't the flop that many thought it would be. A gay time was had by more than one of those that saw fit to do a little "pushing and shoving" down on the old gym floor. A lot of the old faces were conspicuous by their absence, but this crabbid ole pencil pusher is gratefully indebted to quite a few of the "boys" for their able assistance and helping hands—that is, if you get what I mean. That goes for you too, Foley. Thanks to all concerned.

PROGRESS

Thirty years has seen a remarkable change upon the land where the San Jacinto High School building, occupied by the University of Houston, now stands.

This ground was once the home-site of the Forsgard and Parker families. These old Southern homes stood in a wilderness of trees and brambles. The stately pecan trees, upon this campus gave shelter to wild birds. The fields, for miles around, were covered with wild flowers, and the coffee-bean weeds grew buggy-high. There were no paved streets, no electric lights, no street cars, or automobiles. The only noises were the sounds of children's voices, and the clatter of horses' hoofs.

The change was very rapid. New additions were opened, the growth of the city spread southward. Paved streets were cut through the fields of wild flowers.

Under the administration of Dr. P. W. Horn, when junior high schools became a great movement in the field of education, the old Parker and Forsgard homes were torn down, and San Jacinto Junior High School was erected to serve the increasing number of boys and girls in this community.

Under Dr. E. E. Oberholtzer's administration, with the addition of a gymnasium, and other class rooms to this building, it became a senior high school, and also served as the Houston Junior College building at night.

From this review of these rapid changes in the past, a vision of a greater institution, the University of Houston, arises to meet the needs of the future.

He pulled out an old handkerchief, blew his nose, and then put it in his pocket.

It's me again, folks, so don't get excited! Imagine, exams begin the first of next week. Such luck! Why can't people think of some pleasant things to do? I know I sure hate to see those horrid things "pop up."

Say, how did you like the Cougar Collegian dance. It was pretty good, wasn't it? Let's hope we will have another one real soon!

Have you noticed that Harry Lawrence and Sadie Williford kinda seem that way about each other? Really, you seldom see one without the other.

Barbara Phelan seems to be making quite a name for herself here at school. For a "new-comer," she is really doing right well.

I wonder what Guy Hamilton does at the Methodist Hospital? There must be some attraction there, but I wonder who or what it is that's so important. You tell us, I'm afraid to guess!

Who is Parr Krumb's new interest in San Antonio? Or is it a new interest? You know he used to live there, so it might be one of those "old flames."

They tell me that a certain young dramatic teacher at our dear ole University seems kinda interested in a certain young lady over here at the Day College.

Well, I am sure Cora has rambled enough for one time. So, until next week, I remain, Cora and her Cackles.

Richard Ames: "Is it true that Carlton talks to herself when she is alone?"

The strange thing is that the name she thought purely fictitious is borne by an officer in the army, who receives the letter, and turns up under an assumed name shortly after the publication of the death notice. His interview with Celia results in a series of amusing situations that terminate happily.

"I think this is one of the best comedies I have ever seen. It contains all the elements necessary to make the atmosphere of the show a pleasing and amusing one. I think that members of the Red Masque Players will enjoy this show more than any one yet produced by the club," Mr. Mitchell said.

Anyone interested in trying out for the parts should watch the bulletin board for the date of the try-outs.

WE ASKED LEADERS IN WINTER SPORTS:

"Is this fact important to you?"

"Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos - Turkish and Domestic - than any other popular brand."

FLAVOR! Jack Shea, Olympic Speed Skater: "Camels taste so good that with me Camels get the nod every time. When people mention my being a cigarette smoker, I correct them and say, 'I'm a Camel smoker.'"

ENERGY! "Camel's energizing effect" is a great thing for one who is active," says Paul Thompson, of the world-champion Chicago Black Hawks hockey team. "When tired, there's one thing I want—a Camel!"

HEALTHY NERVES! Says Ray Stevens, North American Bob-Sled Champion: "When the last heat has been run, I light a Camel and enjoy it to the full, knowing that Camels never bother my nerves!"

MILDNESS! Betty Chase, expert skater, says: "Camels are so mild and appealing! And smoking Camels steadily never tells on my nerves. To me, it's a very important fact that Camels use finer tobaccos."

VALUE! "I'm just an interested winter sports fan," says Edward Kent. "But I'm with Jack Shea and Ray Stevens when it comes to smoking Camels! I get a lift with a Camel' when I'm low and need cheering up, or when I'm tired. And the fact that tobaccos of a choicer quality are used in Camels goes far to explain why Camels are so mild and pleasing, and never jangle my nerves. It means a lot to me that millions more are spent for the tobaccos used in Camels."
