Red Masque Club Will Close Season With Two Shows

Faculty Burlesque And Other Play To Complete Year

Plans were being made this week by the Red Masque Players for two productions which will complete the season's activities.

"Time Stumbles On," annual faculty burlesque show, written by Douglas Carter, scheduled to be April 1 in the old auditorium, was cast Monday night. Admission will be 15 cents, Carter said.

"Winterset," famous play of Maxwell Anderson, is tentatively scheduled to be cast at 9:30 p. m. Monday in the old auditorium. This will be the fourth and last production of

Squires Elect Pearson President

Head Is Named By Unanimous Vote; Schlieff Vice President

By a unanimous vote, T. W. Pearson was elected president of the University of Houston Squires, at a meeting of the club Monday in a special election occasioned by the adoption of a new constitution.

Gerald Schlieff was selected vice president, and Clem Baldwin, secretary. P. L. Cooper was re-elected treasurer and Buster May was named sergeant-at-arms, with Elmer Hamilton and Boyd Shinn selected to serve on the executive committee.

Pearson was active last fall as executive committeeman in charge of the club's dances, and received much commendation for his work, but was forced by outside interests to resign from the post late in the year.

His election as president will see him back in active capacity in the club, and he will retain office until the next regular election for the next year. The new constitution provides for a new election each semester.

Before the meeting closed it was decided that the reception social at Golfcrest country club, which has been twice postponed to avoid conflict with other University affairs will be held at 7 p. m. Sunday.

Members have been invited to introduce prospective members to the club at this party, which will be in the form of a dinner dance, Boyd Shinn, outgoing president, announced that the Squires would be allowed until April 1 to make their deposits on the new club pins.

A donation of $260,000 for the first unit of the University of Houston new building was made by H. R. Cullen, building drive chairman, at a dinner Thursday night at the Rice Hotel attended by some 200 prominent Houston citizens.

The unit, a liberal arts structure, was designated by Cullen as a memorial to his son, Roy Gustav Cullen, deceased. "No one will have more joy about the building of the structure, than I," Cullen said in making the donation. "It will serve as a most fitting tribute to the memory of my son."

Contract for the first unit will be let Monday at a special meeting of the Houston school board. Architect for the structure is Lamar Q. Cato. Low bidders announced recently are the J. D. Pace and Nathan Wohlfeld companies.

Other prominent speakers at the meeting last night were Judge Roy Hofheinz, alumni drive head; Bert Childs, H. C. Weiss, Humble Oil company president; Palmer Hutcheson, John T. Scott, Oveta Culp Hobby, Dr. E. E. Oberholtzer, and Richard M. Gummere, member of the faculty of Harvard University.

June Graduation To Leave Clubs Sans Officers

When graduation is over this June, the clubs and organizations of the University will have to start looking for new presidents, secretaries, and representatives. The seniors who now hold those offices will be graduated.

The vacancies in the Glee Club made by the graduation of Mary Catherine Bruhl, Eunice Carroll, Harold Cunningham, Rose Evelyn Dailley, C. B. Dozlan, Robert Fields, Kathryn Koch, Edythe Reddick, Freida Smith, Ruth Nell Minster, and Louise Campbell will be hard to fill.

The Red Masque Players will lose a capable vice president, Mildred Bailey; and a faithful secretary,

Winners Named In Simile Contest

Winners in the Cougar Simile Contest last week are Kathryn Rhodes and J. Fightmaster. Prizes of two tickets to the Loew's State theatre to each winner will be mailed this week.

Miss Rhodes winning simile on the subject "As Jumpy As . . ." was complete with "A frog in the pocket of a boy with St. Vitus' Dance on a bucking horse." Other winning simile was "As jumpy as frog legs smothered with Mexican jumping beans in hot grease."

Leon G. Halden Heads Committee On Charter Change

Dr. Leon G. Halden of the University faculty is chairman of the Civil Service division of the city charter revision committee, which is now making a detailed study of the city's charter.

Thirty-five prominent citizens of Houston were appointed to the board and are divided into ten sections, each covering a certain portion of the survey. A general chairman, Lee M. Sharrar, was elected with 10 assistants, one for each section.

The division of which Halden is chairman will recommend proposed changes to voters concerning the needs of the city's Civil Service Commission.

Ebaugh Introduces William Lyon Phelps In Town Hall Series

William Lyon Phelps, professor emeritus of English at Yale University, was introduced by Mrs. B. M. Ebaugh, University of Houston English instructor, Thursday at the Town Hall series.

Mr. Phelps is widely known in educational circles, and as guest of the Town Hall spoke on "The Greatest Love Story in the World—The Robert Brownings."

Mrs. Ebaugh herself presented a lecture last week at the Axson Club. She spoke on "The Development of the Comic Spirit in Modern Life."

Deadline For Art Diplomas Announced

Last call for applications for Associate of Arts Diplomas was issued today by Mrs. Pearl C. McMullin, assistant registrar.

All students who will be candidates for the diplomas this spring are requested to see Mrs. McMullin at once, she said.

Squires dinner dance for prospective members, 7 p. m. Sunday. Entries for Story Magazine contest must be turned in to the office today.

Regent Will Be Selected at Poll Of Senior Class

Identity of the University of Houston queen of the eleventh annual reception for high school seniors, April 28, at the city auditorium, will be announced next week, L. Standlee Mitchell, arrangements chairman, said today.

It was originally planned that the name of the regent would be kept secret until the night of the pageant, but the queen will be announced following her selection by the senior class at a special meeting next week.

Senior princesses elected last week, from which group the queen will be chosen include Louise Campbell, Lolita Wood, Gaynelle Furley, Elizabeth Miller and Pecky Hinds.

Initial plans for the pageant which

Entries Due In Story Contest

Student entries for the College Short Story contest conducted by the English department in connection with Story Magazine, are due today, Miss Ruth Pennybacker, chairman of the University committee, announced.

"Stories should contain at least 1500 words, and should not exceed 7,000 words. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced in regular form, and left in the University office with Miss Lassiter or Miss Schedler," Miss Pennybacker said.

A faculty committee consisting of Miss Pennybacker, Mrs. Bessie Ebaugh, Dr. C. F. Hiller, H. J. Holt and Mrs. N. R. Lewis will select the two best stories submitted by University of Houston students and forward them to the editors of Story Magazine, New York, who are judges of the national contest.

This the third year that the English department has co-operated with Story Magazine in this contest.

Judge Is Guest Of Speaking Class

County Judge Roy Hofheinz who, with H. R. Cullen, is directing the $1,000,000 University building drive, was guest speaker Friday in the Public Speaking 232 class.

Topic of his discussion was "How to Improve the Voice." Hofheinz is a University of Houston alumnus.

Soph Scrap Dance Presented Tonight In Boys' Gym

Prizes Offered For 'Scrappiest' Costumes

The Sophomore class will be host at its annual "Scrap" dance tonight at 9:30 in the boys' gym.

The dance which will be styled similar to last year's Freshman "Scrap" dance has been arranged after many requests from students for a repeat of the event.

Strict informality will be observed and prizes will be given to the couple with the "scrappiest" attire. Ted O'Leary, Sophomore vice president, will be in charge of the judging committee. Harvey W. Harris will judge the boys' costumes, and Mrs.

Aesculapian Club Honors Jacobson

Outstanding Event Of Season Is Attended By Two Hundred Guests

The Aesculapian club inaugurated the spring term with one of the most spectacular events of its calendar when Miss Marie Jacobson, new University public health instructor, was honored with a reception given by the club Saturday at the home of Dr. Elva A. Wright, 6340 Brompton road.

Some 200 guests were received by Mrs. E. E. Oberholtzer, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Kemmerer, Pearl Weaver, president of the Aesculapians; Dean and Mrs. N. K. Dupre, Lucille Delery, vice president; Mrs. Ella Jourdan, president of the Graduate Nurses association of District nine; Mrs. Mabel Parker, Dorothy French, Elmer Hamilton, other officers and Dr. Wright, presiding hostess.

Mrs. Eppie Hunt and Miss Dorothy Tucker presided over the guest book.

Official school colors of red and white were used in the decorations. An eceru lace cloth covered the table which was centered with an attractive arrangement of red roses and white dogwood. Red tapers completed the centerpiece. The buffet was a duplicate of the table piece.

The tea and coffee services were presided over by Mrs. A. W. French, Mrs. Bessie Ebaugh, Mrs. Pearl Bender, Mrs. Ruth Carroll, supervisor of school nurses; Miss Ivy Belle McCoy, instructor of nurses at Memorial hospital.

The regular club meeting was held at 6 p. m. Monday when plans for a social meeting were made. The social is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. All members of the club are requested to stand and meet in Room 301 before adjourning to the selected place for refreshments.

Your University

"This is your University from this point on," said Roy Hofheinz, County Court judge and prominent alumnus, in a talk before the student body last Friday concerning the student goal of $15,000 toward the million-dollar building fund drive.

He stressed the value of a permanent university in a permanent background to the student and prospective alumnus. He commended the efforts of busy men of affairs who were giving of their time and money to an institution with which they have no direct connection and pointed out the privilege that is ours to help in making our own university "the finest in the whole Southwest."

We can do little but say "Amen, Brother." It IS an opportunity, and we are not being asked to rush into it. We are being asked to consider it carefully, and it is our opinion that this careful consideration will win us over.

One cannot help but understand, when he reflects upon the situation, that the greatest value and profit will come to students. Every dollar he may subscribe to the drive is a wise investment in his future, and he WILL feel that swelling in his chest when he knows that his personal backing helped to make the University of Houston what it will be in the future.

Bull-Headed?

"But why do they always want to do it the hard way? They're just plain bull-headed, that's all."

This remark, from a student who advocated a more free and easy administration, makes us wonder if it is not a good thing to be "bull-headed" once in a while, especially in upholding some principle or ideal of practice.

Ideals, according to one authority on the subject, should be placed so high that they can never quite be reached. Apparently many people today believe that this makes them somewhat impractical.

This is because they see no immediate visible reward from them. But why look for a tangible reward in something that should be forever out of our reach? The very ideal should be its own reward it is followed sincerely.

The reward may be far in the future, and it may never be completely realized, but that is as it should be. To have a worthy ideal and follow it puts definite purpose into an institution, and what will be its fate if it loses its purpose?

Besides, the more difficult the ideal, the more worthy it is, for in human nature there is a peculiar satisfaction in overcoming obstacles with pure "bull-headedness" by sticking to a conviction in the face of opposition. Yes, bull-headedness is a valuable attribute.

It Can't Happen Here

Another Houston firetrap was eliminated in a spectacular early morning blaze which cause unlimited damage and endangered many lives. If the fire had occurred during business hours it might have been much worse. A campaign against firetraps will follow surely.

But one thing is certain. The University of Houston's new buildings will not be firetraps. Every safeguard known to modern science will be incorporated in their structure. That is one advantage of being a young institution. Though our buildings and equipment may not have the tradition that goes with ivy-covered walls, they will be more usable, and safe, and efficient.

It is fortunate that education is progressive, and we can make use of the experience and mistakes and especially the tragedies of others. The many children who died in the New London school explosion did not die in vain, for now schools all over the country are being safeguarded against possibility of explosion.

A sad commentary it is that such things cannot be stopped before they happen, but if a real lesson is learned from the experience, some of the pangs of remorse are eased and people begin to measure personal loss and minimize it as against the greater ultimate good that may come of it.

A $1,000,000 Investment

An inquiring reporter went out yesterday and asked citizens on the streets the question, "if a man had a million dollars to invest in Houston, what would you suggest?"

The answers were varied, but quite a few said that Houston needed a college. We do need a college like the University of Texas, which is the closest of its kind.

Such a college has been conceived in Houston, and has slowly and gradually grown to a state of necessary expansion. It is demanding recognition and larger, less crowded quarters.

The City of Houston has taken kindly to this college, and the founders appreciate the acceptance. But the University does need its own buildings, grounds and physical education centers. It is grateful for the helping hand extended to it in days gone by, but if the University of Houston is to grow it must have expansion room.

Can't we all get behind the big "push" to give our "baby" a chance to "grow up?"

Swing Your Partner

"Scrap," "tacky," and "barn" dances are replacing the stiff, semi-formal dances that were given preceding this term. More of the masculine student body are represented at these "slouch" dances. There are only two possible explanations for this increased attendance—that the informal dance is preferred or that the reduction in admission prices appeals to students.

This term most of the campus organizations have sponsored some kind of "swing dance" and all of them have been social and financial successes, according to reports of the sponsors.

Apparently it doesn't matter if swank dance clubs are not used, so long as a place is available for the "informal flings."

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago believes schools of journalism are "the shadiest educational ventures."

The New York City board of education has ruled that aliens may not be admitted free to the city's colleges.

Two Nebraska Wesleyan University faculty members have been dismissed to promote faculty harmony.

A news institute for consumer education has been formed at Stephens College by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

CAMPUS CHATTER

When Foster Montgomery wants to be alone with his date he means just that. Foster and friend took in Pig Stand Friday nite after the barn dance, and the ordered—TWO glasses of MILK. Two college boys drove alongside and began making remarks about their proximity, so Mr. Montgomery wheeled his vehicle to lonely corner to be alone. A car hop by mistake started to retrieve the tray, and was exceedingly startled. Is there no peace?

Here's one for connoisseurs of good liquor: To a full pint of whiskey to be tested connect a 20,000 volt generator. Turn on the current.

If the electricity fizzles and jumps, the product is poor. If the current causes arsenic, lead, strychnine, iron and slag to precipitate out, you have fair whiskey. But if the whiskey takes the current and chases it back to the generator, boy, you've got something there.

That I must lack in sex-appeal
Or else theres something wrong

In spite of any subject I may broach.

If I object she does become
A frozen clam, and pops her gum
Dejectedly, and huddles in her

Then silently I sit and burn
And loudly swear I'll ne'er return,
But, penny-like, I always do—gosh

Newspaper Guild To Unveil Talent In "Front Page"

"Front Page," three-act play of newspapering written by Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht, will be presented Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week by the Houston Newspaper Guild at the Little Theatre on Chelsea boulevard.

The cast is made up entirely of working newspaper men and women, all members of the Guild, a trade union organization of newspaper workers. Leading parts will be played by Harold Young, city editor of The Post, as Hildy Johnson; Paul Hochuli, movie reviewer of The Press as Walter Burns; Larry Sisk, city editor of The Press, as Earl Williams; and Pat Barnes, reporter for The Post, as Mollie Malloy.

The play is a winking comedy built around events occurring in the press room of the criminal courts building on the eve of a hanging. The play will be given in its unexpurgated version.

Edythe Reddick, who is also one of the clubs outstanding players, having received the Outstanding Actress' award for 1936-37. Others to be missed by the Red Masquers are: C. B. Doolan; Wilbur Smith; Mrs. Cora Wilson; Evelyn Nicoll, who has taken some important parts during the season of 1937-38; and Dorothy Ann Tucker.

The Houstonian club will lose ten members, and the Cougar Collegians fourteen members, and the Business Administration club five members.

The spirit of the English club will be about the only thing left after the graduation of Bonnie Luscher, president; Betty Brewster, secretary; Denny Cralle; Mildred Bailey; Lolita Woods; Erwin Peschel; and Elizabeth Miller.

The Aesculapians' lose Mary Carolyn Sanders, Mrs. Rose Skelly, and Freida Smith.

What will the University do without Bonnie Luscher, Louise Campbell, Elizabeth Gready, Tallulah Hinds, Lolita Woods, Mildred Bailey, and Evelyn Nicoll to represent it in May Fetes, Beauty contests, style shows, and school representatives to other colleges?

The Squires lose but one member, a very important one— P. L. Cooper, treasurer.

The absence of these students on the campus of the University of Houston in 1938-39 will be felt, but with the growth of the school and the crop of active juniors soon to be seniors, new names and faces will fill the vacancies.

University girls who will represent the school as royalty in the eleventh annual reception for high school seniors will meet Monday at 6:10 p. m. in room 108, Jerry Bentley, chairman announced.

Mrs. Pearl Bender, dean of women, and Mrs. Bessie Ebaugh, member of the English department, will meet with the group to select material for dresses to be worn in the pageant, colors to be worn by each class, and the kind of flowers to be carried by the group.

No More Pictures Taken For Annual

No more individual pictures for the Houstonian will be made, according to Algerine Allen, editor of the annual.

"If students will submit snapshots they would like to have in the annual, we shall be glad to use them. All photographs must be turned in at the office or to one of the staff members before Wednesday," Miss Allen said.

A large part of the book is ready for the engravers, Miss Allen announced.

Hofheinz Urges Support For Drive

University of Houston and Houston Junior College alumni, former students, and undergraduates were urged to unite in an effort to raise their share of funds for the University's $1,000,000 building drive by County Judge Roy Hofheinz, alumni drive chairman, at a meeting Friday night in the San Jacinto auditorium.

Hofheinz cited $50,000 quota of graduates and said that members who pledged support would be given as long as three years to complete payment.

Other guest speakers on the program included Alvin Kerbow, University faculty member, Dean N. K. Dupre, and several ex-students. Each voiced his belief in the success of the drive and pledged his service. Pat H. Foley, alumni president, presided.

Election of officers scheduled for the Friday meeting was postponed.

Harris Discusses University Future

Harvey W. Harris, English instructor, represented the University of Houston Thursday afternoon with a radio speech over station KTRH. The Business and Professional Women's club relinquished their time on the air for Harris to deliver his speech. Harris discussed the future of the University.

Day School Fencers To Meet Tuesday

Regular meeting of the Fencing club of the University of Houston day school will meet Tuesday and Thursday next week at 11:30 a. m. in the old auditorium.

Newly elected officers who will officiate at their meeting are Wilson Morris, president; Hill Feagan, vice president; Hollis Love, treasurer; Frances Sherrill, secretary and Clarence Linam, sergeant-at-arms.

This club has been meeting regularly for the past two months under the leadership of Wilson Morris, temporary chairman.

French Is Guest At Cage School

Archie W. French, instructor of health education at the University of Houston was guest speaker at the meeting last week of the Rufus Cage school Parent-Teacher Association.

French's topic was "Social Hygiene." Music for the program was under the direction of the Women's Choral club.

METHODIST STUDENT UNION

The Methodist Student union will have a picnic Saturday evening at Memorial park. The group will meet 6:30 p. m. at the school and go.

Sam Houston Elects Reception Royalty

Elections will be held Monday at Sam Houston high school to select the two princesses and their escorts to represent that school in the University senior reception.

Twenty candidates have been nominated for the honor and two will be selected from the group. Eloise Canterbury was elected most popular girl and Mickey Fitzgerald was selected most popular boy at recent poll.

Editor, The COUGAR:

Last Friday there appeared on the campus a stack of mimeographed sheets that contained very obviously and very bluntly a spirited attack on two members of the Freshman class.

Very obviously also the piece was concocted by someone who isn't too far out of the cradle row. The terms "heels" and others used are proof of that.

With circumstances as they were, authorship of this adolescent and sort of stupid bit of nonsense was attributed to this writer. I'm sorry. I wouldn't claim such writing. I have more professional pride.

The writer evidently has no professional pride, or courage of his own convictions. Proff is his fear in not accepting authorship.

Basketball League All-Star Quintet Named In Poll

By Ralph Disque

A poll among players on each of the five teams competing in the boys' intramural basketball league shows Camp, Boyd, Strom, Strauss and Garcia as the outstanding performers.

The results of the survey made up a powerful combination, but every man was heard pushed by several other players before winning his position.

Camp and Boyd played speedy, tireless ball at all times and both showed a remarkable ability to make baskets when they were needed most.

Strom, who played center, is a consistent, heady, player, and can always be counted upon for many points. Strauss and Garcia, both very fast men, played all over the court, and always showed much defensive ability.

The second string, composed of DeVoti, Rubenstein, Duncan, Chambless and Taylor, were shaded only by the slightest margins for positions on the first team.

All of these men showed a steady hard-fighting brand of ball and deserve much credit for their fine play.

Scraps Scalp Punks In Hair-Raising Tilt 24-22

The Scraps came through in the final minute of play to capture the intramural basketball crown from the Punks in a hair-raising 24-22 tilt played Wednesday night in the boys' gym.

The championship game was hard fought throughout, with the Scraps coming from behind in the final quarter to tie the score, and then forging to the front in the last minute of play to win a hard earned 24-22 victory. The two squads each had won six games and lost one in regular season play.

Jack Boyd was outstanding player on the court Wednesday night, when he showed his ability to hit the basket from any spot on the court. His long, looping, left-handed toss in the last 40 seconds put his team two points behind the leaders.

Every man on the Scraps' squad fought hard and deserves credit for the win. Camp and Garcia were the mainstays for the winning combination.

Glenn Stanbaugh, athletic director, named the season a success and is pointing toward bigger and better intramurals for next year.

Tennis Team Will Change Set-up

Reorganization of the tennis team will start this week, announced Gerald Schlieff, sponsor of this group.

Plans for a tournament are being made, Schlieff said. He will be in charge of bracket arrangements. Finals in the tournament play will be at Golferest country club late in April.

Lights are to be supplied for the University courts in order that participants may play at night, it was announced. There will be both boy and girl teams.

All students interested in the organization will be able to get in touch with Schlieff in the girls' gym from 6 to 6:30 p. m.

Phil Strom Leads Individual Scoring In Cage League

Phil Strom, husky center for the champion Scraps quintet, ran up a seasonal total of 77 points in seven games to walk off with the intramural league scoring championship.

Strom's 11 points a game average was 21 points better than his teammate, Camp, who finished second with 56.

The Scraps had three men at the head of the individual scoring race, as Johnny Garcia was third with 38 tallies. Jimmie Duncan and Jack Boyd from the runner-up Punks combination were right behind Garcia.

Late entrance to the league gave little chance to the members of the Grumps and Yolks squads to be the scoring leaders.
