Fall Fund Drive Brings Good Info

Fund Chairman Waldhauser, reporting on the 1956 Fall Fund Campaign, stated, "This was an experiment, and we are well pleased with the results obtained."

The 1956 drive was a personal contact campaign and was concentrated into a two-week period.

"We did not make a tremendous amount of money," Waldhauser said, "but we certainly show a great profit in information gained. The experience and knowledge we picked up this fall virtually guarantees the success of future fund drives," he added.

Winners in the various categories, all volunteer workers, were: First place, Completion, A. J. Montalbano; First Place, Individual Effort, Roy Price; First Place, Team Total, Gloria Gillespie, Captain.

Other Exes placing near the top were: Robert Hoskins, Wayne Oldham, Maxine White, Mary Rae Dwyer, Wellington Abbey and Wanda Butler.

$59,085 in Scholarships Awarded For Fall Semester

335 University students have been awarded scholarships totaling $59,085 for the fall semester.

Provided through gifts and bequests to the University, the scholarships range from $100 to $750 per semester. The larger funds are payable to both the student and the University on a matching basis.

Ralph E. Frede, director of loans and scholarships, noted that more and more scholarships are being given with provisions for matching or "cost-of-education" grants to the University, in view of the fact that tuition only partially meets the University's cost in educating students.

Board Includes 39 Houstonians

Charles A. Saunders, class of '42 and winner of the 1956 Outstanding Alumnus Award, was one of 39 prominent Houstonians named to the newly-formed Board of Governors.

The appointments were announced by H. R. Cullen, chairman of the University's Board of Regents. They will become effective Monday, Jan. 21, 1957, at an organizational meeting of the new group in Oberholtzer Hall.

Mr. Cullen said that the Board of Regents, facing increasingly complex problems as the University expands to serve a growing student body, decided that it must seek the broader knowledge, wisdom, and experience of additional men and women to assist the Regents in their deliberations.

The formation of a Board of Governors, he said, is a fundamental step toward the solution of basic problems connected with the University's current and projected growth.

Mr. Saunders was a member of the first freshman class to meet on the Cullen Boulevard campus in 1939. During his undergraduate years he was an active leader in student government, student theatricals and student affairs. When Frontier Fiesta made its first appearance in 1940, he was on hand as a planner and producer.

Mr. Saunders received his LLB degree from the University of Texas in 1945. He is now associated with the law firm of Fulbright, Crooker, Freeman, Bates & Jaworski.

Instrumental in the founding of the Alumni Association, he served as president of the organization in 1946 and 1947. He served on the association Board of Directors through 1950.

Other members of the Board of Governors, who include many leaders from the city's business, civic, and professional life, are W. Leland Anderson, Vice President, Anderson, Clayton & Company; Fred Ayers, Vice President, Hughes Tool Company; Warren S. Bellows, President, Bellows Construction Corporation; Ben C. Belt, Consultant, Gulf Oil Corporation; Karl Bendtsen, Division Manager, Champion Paper & Fibre Company; and Mrs. John H. Blaffer.

Also W. Stewart Boyle, President, Texas National Petroleum Company; George R. Bryant, President, Jefferson Chemical Company; Mrs. George A. Butler; D. L. Connelly, Vice President.

Turner Gets $600 Award

Ronald Gary Turner, 1506 Morse, has been selected by a University faculty committee to receive a $600 Cities Service Oil Company scholarship for the coming year.

The 20-year-old junior is a petroleum engineering major. He is a 1954 graduate of Lamar High School.

Dr. Kerbow Completes 50th Year As Teacher

The University's senior faculty member celebrated his 50th anniversary as a teacher in November.

Dr. A. L. Kerbow, professor of education at the UH since its opening in 1924, began teaching in 1906 in a country school near Cooper in East Texas. Since then he has had a long and distinguished career in education and civic work.

Dr. Kerbow set up the College of Education curriculum when he first came to what was then the Houston Junior College in 1924. He has had a share in expanding and developing education courses since the junior college became the University of Houston.

Dr. Kerbow was mayor of West University Place from 1943-47 and served on its city commission for two years. During his term as mayor he inaugurated the first planned zoning in south Texas, a measure which increased the long-range property values of the suburban city.

The senior professor received his bachelor's degree from East State Teachers College. He received his PhD degree in 1940 from Colorado State teachers college to become the first PhD in Texas to hold a degree in teacher education.

During his long and busy career in Houston, Dr. Kerbow has served as assistant director of research for the Houston Public Schools while still teaching part-time for the University.

He helped organize and served as the first president of the UH Faculty association.

Dr. Kerbow has written and published numerous articles in the field of education. "I haven't written as much as I would like to," he said, "for like many other people in teacher education, we are usually too busy teaching."

He was honored by fellow University faculty members by a surprise anniversary party.

Two Days Cut From FF Week

Two days were cut from the annual Frontier Fiesta holiday to bring the University's number of teaching days closer to the national average, Gen. Bruce told a recent Student Government meeting.

"Rather than reduce Christmas holidays when many students work to earn extra money, it was felt that the cut could best be made in Fiesta week," he said.

In answer to a question about the annual Homecoming parade, Gen. Bruce said the large floats blocked downtown traffic. He said the parade was called off because "this becomes a real problem in a city of over a million and creates antagonism toward the University."

"Varsity Varieties," not scheduled this year, will be resumed next year, he announced.

KUHT will schedule "President's TV Assembly" twice a month next semester to improve administration-student communications, he said.

BILLBOARD

Billboard's favorite Christmas greeting, a paraphrase of the Golden Rule, is this: May your Holiday joy exactly match that which you wish for others. This corner is again flooded with notes from former Cougars, and this issue just won't be big enough to print them all. So, if your message is omitted this time, be assured Billboard will get you in the next column.

U. R. Butts, '50, sends us an address for Lawrence Miller, '50, who's been missing from our roster. Wish we'd get a bushel like that. And from the outer section of Texas (Warren, Pennsylvania, to be exact) comes a note from James L. Richardson, '51.

Policeman Teaches Math To Prof

IT ALL BEGAN 66 years ago in a small Russian village when a policeman gave Dr. Louis Silverman an arithmetic lesson. Now a professor emeritus from Dartmouth, Dr. Silverman is teaching at the University this semester.

About 66 years ago a young boy was playing outside his family's inn in a small Russian village when a policeman offered to trade him lessons in arithmetic for lessons in Yiddish.

The 6-year-old child agreed and for the first time came in contact with the world of mathematics.

Now, that small village is no longer Russian; it's in the nation of Lithuania. And the small boy is now an American citizen, 72-year-old mathematician Dr. Louis Silverman.

Dr. Silverman came to the University of Houston this semester as a visiting professor of mathematics. After serving 36 years as a mathematics professor at Dartmouth, he retired as a professor emeritus and then went to Israel to help organize a university there.

He has never considered another profession after his first session with the Russian policeman over half a century ago.

Dr. Silverman came to the United States when he was 7 years old and began his first formal education in Boston at the age of 8½.

He went on to get his AB and AM degrees from Harvard, his PhD from the University of Missouri and holds an honorary AM from Dartmouth.

He has delivered lectures at the Universities of Missouri, Cornell, Dartmouth, Moscow, Leningrad, Prague, Budapest, Jerusalem, Cairo, Tel Aviv, Mexico and Athens.

Recently a geneticist was able to extend some of Dr. Silverman's work, originally published in an Israeli journal, for application in a particular phase of genetics.

Dr. Silverman gave two years of his time — at an age when many men retire to a pipe and slippers—to help get the young University of Tel Aviv on its academic feet. In preparation for this assignment he learned Hebrew.

Dr. Silverman is on leave of absence from the Israeli school.

The professor is married to the former Sonia Paef, a concert pianist. Their son, Raphael Hillyer, is a prominent musician who teaches at the Juilliard School of Music and is a member of the Juilliard String Quartet.

Music and mathematics are thoroughly mixed in the Silverman family. Raphael distinguished himself at Dartmouth by winning the Thayer prize in mathematics. Dr. Silverman himself was once a member of the string quartet which counted Dr. Albert Einstein as a member.

The Silvermans also have two daughters, Mrs. Leonard Goldsmith of Doodside, LI, and Mrs. Seymour Blum of Kingston, Mass.

Political Science Prof Starts New Radio Show

Dr. Harold K. Jacobson, assistant professor of political science, is working with radio station KLBS on a panel discussion program, "University Microphone," to be broadcast every Sunday at 12:05 p.m.

The first four programs are concerned with political issues of the day. Members of the University history and political science departments will make up the panels for the shows.

Future programs will concern issues of general interest. Authorities on each issue discussed will appear on the panels.

Mark Nobel is the station moderator for the show.

Personnel Policies Depend On Worker's 'Self Picture'

Management's personnel policies stand or fall on the "self picture," an SMU psychologist told an audience of industrial engineers on the University campus recently.

The "self picture," explained Dr. Arnold Q. Cartain, is "the sum of the ideas and feelings an individual has about himself." When this image is damaged, management courts failure, he said.

Dr. Sartain, dinner speaker for the conference on Work Measurement and Standards, said that the American worker has never been more individualistic than he is today. If management treats its employees as mere cogs in production machinery, it risks a breakdown in overall efficiency.

"Workers want initiative and responsibility. Labor is not just a commodity."

Head of Southern Methodist University's Department of Personnel Administration, Dr. Sartain warned that those who set standards for job performance must not assume that employees want something for nothing.

And, he said, this kind of belief works two ways, both to management's disadvantage.

The successful organization of the American labor movement was in part due to labor's belief that management is interested only in profits.

"With one of four American workers carrying a union card, business' personal experts must know the philosophy of the union movement," he said.

The industrial conference is held annually on the campus under the joint sponsorship of the University's department of industrial engineering and the Houston chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers.

President, Underwood, Neuhaus & Company; Tom P. Walker, President, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.; and Mrs. Gus Wortham.

Regents and members of the new Board of Governors will meet together on a regular basis, according to Mr. Cullen, to discuss matters affecting the welfare of the University of Houston.

Members of the Board of Governors will serve for a term of six years except that one-third of the original appointments will be for two years, one-third for four years, and one-third for six years.

Frosh Cagers Busy At Practice

Coach Harvey Pate has the freshman basketball team hard at work at pre-season scrimmages. With any two of the frosh team's tall boys in a game, the coach will have an average height of not less than 6-2. If the freshman mentor had cause to, he could put a team averaging 6-7 on the floor. And if his two tallest boys were eligible he could put a team on the court which would average a little better than 6-9.

Houston Post columnist Clark Nealon predicted that the Southwest Conference will likely consider the Cougars' bid for membership at its December meeting. The consideration may not reach the voting stage, but the application will probably be discussed, Nealon said.

Rees Collects 400 Hammers

Warren A. Rees—the University's third-ranking faculty member in years of service—has a supply of 400 hammers in his garage workshop.

Mr. Rees, assistant professor of mathematics, became interested in the collection of hammers in 1930 when he acquired a 100-year-old hammer which had belonged to his grandfather, a Civil War veteran.

"At first I collected only hammers that I could use," Mr. Rees recolled. Then his friends started contributing and his collection and interest expanded.

"Now it's difficult to find a hammer not represented in my collection," he said.

When the collection started to grow, Mr. Rees had to create a special space for them in his garage where they now hang, heads down, from the rafters.

Mr. Rees has never had the pleasure of comparing specimens with another hammer collector. He doesn't know one. But the professor would appreciate news of others who share his unusual hobby.

His interest in collecting hammers has widened into the production of them. He makes miniature hammers with heads of stainless steel and coppernail handles.

Mr. Rees has been a member of the University faculty since 1929. He lives with his wife at 1806 Hazard—and invites anyone interested to drop by to see his hammers.

Sears Award Winners Begin Class At University

Two of the three Texas students to whom Sears-Roebuck Opportunity Fund Loans have been made available for the fall semester will attend the University.

18-year-old Ann Horten, freshman retailing major of 1417 Alamo, and Willert Trader, 18-year-old freshman business administration major of 212 Heaney, have begun UH classes.

The Sears College Opportunity Program is a combined work-study, loan fund type of program. Students who qualify are permitted to borrow sufficient money from the fund to pay initial college expenses.

At the same time they are offered part-time work, and in the summer, full-time jobs with Sears, although they are not required to work for Sears in order to take advantage of the Fund.
