Like Sheep Ready for the Shearing We Face Another International Conference

New Type Of Simon Legree Will Crack The Whip Over The South

Perhaps the people of the South should feel grateful to the President in connection with the appointment of his Civil Rights Commission which is now completed and ready to go forth and do battle with the enemy.

One of the six members of that body is actually a good conservative American who believes strongly in Constitutional Government, including the basic American principle of States Rights. He is former governor John S. Battle of Virginia.

Anyone who does not think this is something just hasn't been keeping up with the type of person usually selected by the White House to deal with any question involving us ignorant peons of the backward South. One out of six is a high batting average and no fooling.

Another break for Dixie in the naming of this Commission whose responsibility is to ride herd on the South and make sure that the sacred and paramount rights of Negroes are not violated, is the fact that, so far as we can learn, only two of the Commission's members are reported as having connection with an organization listed as a branch of the Communist apparatus. After all, there might have been six.

The two referred to are the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh of Indiana and Dr. John A. Hannah of Michigan, both of whose names appear on the official list of the Board of Trustees of the Institute of International Education, Inc. An official committee of the Congress of the United States has some informative data on this outfit.

In Union Calendar 838, Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives, issued May 29, 1956, page 4, is this explanation: "The following list submitted in testimony given before this committee outlines some of the better known departments and bureaus of the Communist International, together with their American affiliates". Under the heading "American Branches of the Communist International", there follows a list of such groups and among them, on page six, appears the name of the Institute of International Education, Inc.

Since the White House is violently opposed to all forms of "discrimination" there may be some kick-back on the naming of two additional members of the Board of Trustees of the Institute of International Education, Inc., in view of the fact that the President's nominee as Ambassador to India, Ellsworth Bunker, and his appointee as Ambassador to Italy, James D. Zellerbach, are also shown as members of the Board of Trustees on the Institute's official literature. Partisans might claim that the Institute's representation in government is top-heavy and that it constitutes "discrimination" against hundreds of similar groups who operate in this country and who no doubt would be delighted to get in on the act of policing the disreputable and lawless South.

Some amazement has been expressed that Stanley Reed of Kentucky should have been selected to adjudicate Civil Rights matters since he sat on the bench at the time Earl Warren was able to whip his eight associates, including Reed, into line on a "unanimous" decision for school integration. But what are ethics among friends, we always say?

Robert G. Storey, Dean of Southern Methodist University, is another member. He is described as a "moderate" and a "middle-of-the-roader" which, in these parts, is a polite name for a political hermaphrodite.

We know nothing about the Chicago Negro, J. Ernest Wilkins, who has also been named as one of the Czars who will henceforth dictate the social and political practices of that great segment of second class citizens known as Southern white people.

This new Commission should have smoother going than some other committees of the past since the President has announced through the press that "The full resources of the White House will be placed at the disposal of the Civil Rights Commission".

The McCarthy Committee of the Senate set up to track down and expose Communist traitors in government for instance, could have used some of those "resources" of the White House had the Wisconsin senator been fortunate enough to have been offered such co-operation and assistance.

The new Commission could save a lot of time and money to the taxpayers who must foot the bill by simply appropriating the declaration of principles of the NAACP and offering it as their "report" at the outset instead of stalling around for months and then doing the same thing. In that way nobody would be kidding anybody.

Before any Conference of top-level world leaders is called, it is necessary that the minds of the American taxpayers be thoroughly confused. This is done in order to condition them to new forms of spending which such Conference will impose on them and to shame them as "budget-worshippers" when they object to global fleecing. In preparation for the December Conference in Paris, the build-up was colossal and on a par with the advance billing of a Hollywood spectacular. Law-abiding citizens were still floundering in frustration from a series of rigged Supreme Court rulings which ripped the heart out of the American Constitution and infuriated by the invasion of a sovereign State by armed forces which tore States Rights to shreds when the Queen of England breezed across the ocean to befuddle us with her charm and bedazzle us with the flashing jewels in her glittering gown. Close on the royal heels two Soviet Sputniks burst out of the sky to add to our consternation as they beeped their course toward the celestial regions of the Moon. Then England's Minister of Foreign Affairs Selwyn Lloyd, hove into view as he winged his mysterious way to Washington for a whispered parley with the Secretary of State. Last but not least, and bringing up the rear, came Britain's Prime Minister, that powerful International Socialist Harold MacMillan, for a secret conference with the President of the United States. By this time the American public was as frustrated as an old maid at a bridal shower and it was in this jittery climate of fear, doubt and turmoil that news of the proposed International Conference was sprung on the nation's tax-paying suckers.

Tragic experience has taught us that when our modern American leaders sit with their feet under the table at an International Conference, the only things of value they come away with are the gold fillings in their teeth.

No matter what grandiose plans or hopeful projects are launched at such Conferences concerning Peace, Co-existence, Mutual Co-operation, or what not, it always winds up with the monkey on Uncle Sam's back and the American taxpayers stuck for the check.

Thoughtful and alarmed Americans, moreover, have reason to be fearful that the stakes will be higher at the forthcoming conclave in Paris and believe that, in addition to the few remaining dollars in the practically impoverished Treasury of the United States, our National Sovereignty may be tossed in the pot for good measure.

Aside from the International and Socialist setting of the Conference which will be held in an area noted as a hot-bed of One-World sentiment, the discussions are to hinge around NATO, a One-World organization of dangerous and far-reaching implications and which already holds undreamed-of power over American armed forces and whose ramifications reach out into fields far removed from mere defense considerations for which sole purpose it was claimed to have been set up.

One of the announced objectives of the Paris Conference is that the United States will strengthen NATO by pouring additional billions of dollars into the depleted treasuries of the decadent and bankrupt nations which compose it. This action is contemplated on the defeatist theory that without the assistance of our "allies" in NATO, American defense will crumble and the security of the Republic be greatly endangered by superior Soviet power.

In our opinion, the cold-blooded fact is that England and France are almost as grave a threat to the security and solvency of the United States as Russia for while the Soviets are trying to scare us into spending our last penny, these "allies" are undertaking to beg us into bankruptcy.

Why Federal Aid When They Can Do It With A Bayonet?

Congressman Cleveland M. Bailey of West Virginia has announced that the Federal Aid to Schools bill is going to get the hush-hush treatment in the next session of Congress.

It seems that it has been decided that in view of the bitter segregation fight expected to develop in that session, to say nothing of 1958 being an election year, this Socialistic legislation will be allowed to fade away.

In our opinion, however, that's not the reason at all for sidestepping the measure. The administration has found a short cut to school control which makes it unnecessary for Congress to appropriate all those millions of dollars required to bring the public school systems under the domination of the Federal government.

They can just hold bayonets to the backs of the people and get the same result.

How Can We Have a Third Party When We Don't Have a Second One?

All this talk about a Third Party seems pointless to us, especially when we only have one at the present time. We should wait until we have two distinct parties before going into the matter of a Third.

We challenge any one to show where there is the slightest difference in the ideologies of the Modern Republicans and the Fair Deal Democrats or where they differ at any point in their objectives. Both are so infiltrated with Communism that the Socialists and Communists long ago stepped aside and announced they would enter no candidates in national elections since the two major parties had taken over their following and their objectives.

What this country needs now is a Second Party composed of Conservative Americans who are undeniably in the majority but who are compelled to choose between two candidates of one party which is hell-bent on destroying Constitutional Government in the United States and selling us out to One-World government.

The slap-happy elephant of the so-called Republicans and the punch-drunk jack-ass of the so-called Democrats are merely empty emblems of two once great political entities who have been totally and completely absorbed by an invisible coterie of conspirators against the American Republic.

What we must have is a second party whose followers are unashamedly for this country as an offset to the one big International Socialist Party now holding forth under two different labels.

It is our belief that this could be accomplished by the Conservatives recapturing the Democrat Party. It was stolen from the Conservatives by subversives in 1936. Why can't the Conservatives steal it back in 1960?

Churches Asked To Go All The Way In Integration.

We do not know who is responsible for the idea but this clever little tract was widely circulated among Texas churches who have been toying with the idea of integration:

If we accept integration as our Christian duty, it should not be an acceptance to a certain degree only. We must integrate fully if at all.

We should not revolt at inter-marriage with Negroes ourselves, nor should we seek to prevent our children from doing so.

If integration is right, it is all right.

If you favor your Church's plan of integration, it should be practised to its fullest degree.

If you do not agree with your Church's advocated plan of complete integration, speak now. It may be your last chance.

Complete integration is the program of the National Council of Churches of which your Church is a member.

Regardless of which side achieves its objective first, Lenin's prediction that this capitalist country would squander itself out of existence will have come true.

On page 5 of the October edition of the Southern Conservative we wrote: "Since the United Nations is so thoroughly discredited, and its claimed objectives as a peace medium so thoroughly repudiated, NATO is more and more becoming recognized as the instrument through which Internationalists will seek to bring about One-World Government". Little did we dream, however, that within sixty days a Conference would be held which could be the initial step toward this end.

The exact amount of money belonging to the American taxpayers which has already been poured down the NATO drain is not available to mere citizens and it is more than likely that nobody knows any way. There are as many estimates on the amount as there are sources which make the estimates. The best guess is that we have given them $284,000,000,000.00 and since that is approximately the amount of our national debt, we obviously had to borrow the money before we could give it away. How much will be added as a result of secret commitments at the Paris Conference is, of course, anybody's guess.

Now that Americans are being called on to "strengthen" NATO, they should take a long look at this One-World outfit and find out how strong it is already, what authority it is empowered to exert and what, exactly, are its real objectives.

That its purpose is to "contain Communism" can be laughed off at the outset in view of an official statement by Lester Pearson of Canada, Dr. Gaetano Martino of Italy and Dr. Halvard Lange of Norway who have been officially designated as NATO's Three Wise Men and who in January of this year defined the aims of the West as "finding a secure and honorable basis for competitive, and ultimately co-operative, co-existence with the Communist World".

It is also notable and alarming that not one single one of the member nations of NATO, including the United States, have set up any Commission to study and make recommendations for combating Communism, civilization's No. 1 menace, although committees, groups and commissions have been set up in this country to study practically every other subject under the sun including the Civil Rights of Negroes in the South.

On August 20, 1956 there appeared in the Congressional Record, pages A-6655 — A-6661, lengthy documentation showing that NATO, rather than being a defense organization, is largely non-military and that its aims are heavily political, social and cultural just as the United Nations which was ostensibly set up for achieving peace in the world and the prevention of war, turned out to be merely an instrument for bringing about One-World Government and for the regimentation of the citizens of its member nations. This information was inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana who has devoted years of careful study to this One-World movement.

Among the startling disclosures in this material is the information that NATO has been given sweeping authority which applies to all of the United States, as well as vast amounts of additional territory, in time of war and which includes control of our highways, railroads and ports, control of all "civilian requirements on a strict austerity basis" including the right to ration food to American citizens as well as the right to "draft governmental decrees and prepare measures in peacetime for operation in wartime".

Also it is made clear that there is nothing in the organizational structure of NATO which requires it to oppose Communism or restrict the influence of the Soviet Union or its fifth columns. In fact, it is revealed that at Geneva in 1955, three Western powers offered the Soviet Union a treaty of assurance against "armed aggression" which could mean that NATO of which we are a member could be committed not to "contain Communism" but to actually assist the Soviet Union in the event any of their Satellite countries rose against them. It will be remembered, in this connection, that during the uprising of patriots in Hungary, no NATO country lifted a finger in their defense. That's how much NATO wants to "contain Communism".

If we had a Washington, a Madison or a Jefferson to stand up as a representative of this Republic, participation in an International Conference could be productive of good and of inestimable service to the world because the influence of strong, unwavering and courageous Americans possessed of definite convictions and motivated by patriotic devotion to their own country, might be exerted at such Conference in freeing the slaves in the countries behind the Iron Curtain and in re-lighting the lamp of freedom for the oppressed and faceless people of the world.

But our current leaders — let's face it — are willing and helpless captives of Internationalists and Global Planners. Instead of acting as inspired evangelists of Americanism to spread the gospel of freedom and Christian principles among all peoples of the earth, they have sought to re-vamp the governing system of their own glorious Republic to make it conform to the totalitarian ideals of the Godless and Socialistic systems in alien lands.

They operate our foreign policy on the same theory as that of the benevolent bum who could not pull his fellow hobo out of the sewer and accordingly decided to lie down and wallow in the garbage with him. By the same token we can't lift degenerate aliens to our own high standards so our leaders seek to level us down to theirs.

The evil influence of Invisible Rulership which eternally plays an international chess game with various nations of the world as pawns, will loom large over the Paris Conference and the overall objective will be to whittle away American sovereignty, deplete the American treasure chest and further lower the prestige of a peerless Republic once feared and respected by most nations of the earth but now mistrusted, envied, and hated by all.

Also, any man or set of men who have repudiated the basic laws of their own land, have usurped power clearly denied them in its Constitution and have ridden roughshod over the inalienable rights of a sovereign people as in the armed invasion of Little Rock are not morally or ethically qualified to participate in an International Conference and condemn the Soviets for comparable dictatorial brutality.

Under the guidance of strong and unyielding leaders dedicated to the perpetuation of a Constitutional Government in the United States and with the determination to make proselytes and converts of other nations and inspire them to emulate our own matchless governing system, the Conference in Paris could bring about a re-birth of human freedom and rekindle a spark of hope among the lost souls in the regimented areas of the world.

Under weak, hesitant and confused leaders whose concept of statesmanship and world diplomacy lies in compromise, appeasement and concession to stronger and more powerful and ruthless figures, the Conference could, and probably will, set in motion the forces which will spell the end of free governments of sovereign citizens and cause the lights to go out all over the world.

Freedom In Action Group Will Work At Precinct Level

There are many grand patriotic organizations and groups throughout the country which are bending every effort toward the restoration of Constitutional Government in the United States and we honor each and every one.

Among those who seem to us to have grasped the fundamental problem and who are proposing a practical, down-to-earth remedy is the group known as Freedom in Action with headquarters in Houston.

Avoiding fanfare and publicity this large contingent of prominent men and women of Texas are working around the clock, each within the party of his choice, to achieve that sure-fire formula for political success — the control of precinct conventions by Conservatives who believe in the Constitution and the American way of life.

Hammering home the point that unlimited power must never be concentrated in a central government, Freedom in Action sets the example by carrying on its activities through local self-governing groups completely free and independent from central control. On this basis, local branches have been set up in many sections of Texas and it is hoped to extend the movement throughout the United States.

The organization holds with the nation's early statesmen that the growth of power leads to the death of freedom and that no crisis, however great, can justify the sacrifice of freedom.

It is to restore and preserve this freedom that members of Freedom in Action, working as individuals in the precinct conventions of the party of their choice, will devote their efforts with the purpose of building up wholesome influence which will reach up to State Conventions and ultimately to the national level.

This is the formula used by both major political parties to acquire and keep control and Freedom in Action proposes that individual American citizens now take over this formula and apply it to the end that Godless Communism and totalitarian government shall be forever outlawed in the American Republic.

The work is largely under the direction of Judge Elwood Fouts of Houston assisted by executive director Jack Cox and the headquarters of the organization are in that city.

Recently Earl Warren, Negro-ophile Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court spoke at the dedication of the new law school building of Indiana University at Bloomington. On the day of his appearance, a two-column advertisement appeared in the Bloomington Daily Herald asking for signatures to a petition for the impeachment of Warren and other members of the Court. Included in the advertisement was this quotation from a speech of Lincoln at Cincinnati September 17, 1859: "The people of the United States are the rightful masters of both Congress and the Courts — not to overthrow the Constitution — but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution."

From a woman subscriber in Memphis, Tennessee: "Gosh! How you can hit the nail right on the head."

To Subscribers And Readers Of The Southern Conservative

Recently a subscriber in Washington, D.C., without solicitation on our part, sent us a substantial check and gave us a gentle lecture on our lack of aggressiveness in coming out and asking for money to sustain what she referred to as the wonderful work we are doing.

Several others also have reminded us from time to time that other publications of a similar nature always send out a request for funds with each mailing and suggested that we do likewise.

We don't intend to do that but we have thought up a plan on a once-a-year basis which would help us immensely and might not be too burdensome on our friends and subscribers.

At this time of the year as the Holiday Season gets under way, the desire to contribute to a favorite project impels Americans of Good Will to action. If we could turn out to be that "favorite project" of those who have been kind enough to praise our struggle throughout the years toward a worthy objective, it would help greatly to smooth the rugged financial path which all patriotic Conservatives must tread.

So, if you had planned making a donation this Christmas to some specific project such, for instance, as a rescue home for mentally retarded Supreme Court judges, don't do it. Send the check to us.

After eight years of squeezing pennies until the Indian grunts, we think it is obvious that every dollar given us is compelled to do heavy duty in promoting the principles of government for which the good Americans who support our paper stand.

With warmest thanks and wishing each and every subscriber and reader as Merry a Christmas as the unhappy State of the Union will permit them to enjoy, we are,

Gratefully,

Ungrateful Negroes Vote Heavily Against Ike-Sponsored Candidate

The President and the office-hungry politicians hanging to his coat-tails had the disillusionment of their lives when the election returns in New York's mayoralty race were in on November 5.

As all the country knows, practically all executive actions of the White House and administration policies for years have been shaped in favor of Negroes, with the one overall objective of weaning the colored vote away from the Democrats.

Negroes however, as all Southerners know well, are not always guided in their actions by a feeling of gratitude and this characteristic is not regarded as one of their racial traits. Also, as a race, they have a wholesome contempt for white people who truckle to them and put themselves on an equal social basis.

The Eisenhower administration has kowtowed to them to a sickening extent and many Modern Republicans including Eisenhower and Nixon have done everything except blacken their faces with burnt cork to indicate their feeling of "brotherhood" with the colored race.

The first reaction of Negroes to all this courting and coddling by the administration was indicated in the election on November 5. In Harlem, New York's all-black belt, Negroes voted approximately four to one against the candidate for mayor of that city whom President Eisenhower had strongly supported.

Before he retires to the golf course permanently, the President may realize that he made a bad bargain when he traded out the White race and got nothing in return.

Advice Of Lobbyists Might Improve Quality Of Laws

Members of the Texas Legislature, in special session, labored for weeks trying to write a law to do away with lobbyists or to minimize their attempts to advise that body in its deliberations.

From some of the bad laws they pass and some of the good ones they fail to pass, it is clear that the August lawmakers could use some good advice even from lobbyists.

After all, lobbying is merely an extension of basic law which permits the citizen to petition his government for redress of grievances, and there is nothing wrong with the practice. It becomes a menace only when the weakness of a legislator permits abuse of the system. To prohibit lobbying is like protecting a child from temptation by hiding the cookie jar.

In fact, there is a school of thought which holds that if the lawmakers would step down and let lobbyists do the legislating, the State's economy would benefit materially.

Most lobbyists are experienced, capable and informed representatives of the industry or group whose cause they plead.

The dangerous ones and the ones lawmakers would do well to steer clear of are those do-gooders among them who appear in the interest of some Socialistic program thought up by professional social planners who are as thick as fleas now that an organized attempt to re-make the world, redistribute the wealth and mongrelize the races, is under way.

An honest lawmaker has nothing to lose by listening to the counsel and advice of lobbyists who represent the legitimate interests of private enterprise.

Posting of Ten Commandments Ruled Out of N.Y. Schools

It will be remembered that a Deputy Attorney General of New Jersey ruled sometime ago that children may not say Grace before meals in the public schools of that State.

Now New York's Commissioner of Education, James E. Allen, Jr., has ruled that the Ten Commandments shall not be posted in public school classrooms in North Hempstead, Long Island.

The ruling was in concession to an anti-Christian minority group which was also responsible for the New Jersey ruling and which is making strong headway in the plot to destroy Christianity in the United States.

"The education of children is not served by acts which create divisiveness, ill-feeling and unwholesome controversy," Allen said. "If the end result of the display in the school of the Ten Commandments is to stir up bitterness and discussion, then it is better that they not be displayed."

With so-called Christians giving up like this without a fight, it won't be long until the desired results are achieved and this country becomes an atheistic nation like Russia and its satellites.

Communist Front Group Seeks To Weaken U.S. Security

Chairman Francis Walter of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in a press release warned of a nation-wide campaign by the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee to abolish the investigative committee which Walter heads and to discredit J. Edgar Hoover and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"The Emergency Civil Liberties Committee which has been cited as a Communist front, has scheduled more than two dozen meetings in key cities across the country," Congressman Walter stated and added that the purpose of the Civil Liberties outfit was "to stimulate a barrage of letters and petitions to members of Congress" for action which would undermine the security program of the government and weaken Federal security agencies.

The so-called experts in psychology who were cited by the Supreme Court as authority for the integration decision carry no more weight in such matters than a Sears-Roebuck catalogue according to the Tarrant County Democratic Executive Committee which met in Fort Worth recently and passed strong resolutions against unlawful action by State or Federal government agencies. The Committee also went on record against attempts by self-serving politicians to disrupt friendly relations between races; the current trend to legislate by judicial decree and the impaling on a bayonet of local self-government and our American heritage.

"In questions of power, let no more be said of confidence in man . . . but bind him down from mischief by chains of the Constitution." — Thomas Jefferson.

THE TENTH AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES:

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Americans Finally Coming Alive To Imminent Danger

One of the most heartening sights we have witnessed in many years occurred in Houston lately when thirty-five hundred cheering Americans listened to an address by the Honorable Marvin Griffin, governor of Georgia, who spoke on States Rights which are greatly imperiled at this time.

Appearing under the sponsorship of the Citizens Council of America, Governor Griffin was heartily applauded some forty or fifty times during the course of his address by an audience composed of prominent Houston and South Texas citizens including more than fifty members of the Texas Legislature.

Earlier we had been in an audience of twenty-five hundred good Americans who assembled at Will Rogers Auditorium at Fort Worth to listen to an address by the Honorable J. Bracken Lee, former governor of Utah, who made an eloquent and forceful appeal for repeal of the Sixteenth or Income tax amendment to the Constitution.

A friend lately returned from New York told of an audience of more than two thousand at a gathering of patriots in Long Island on the occasion of a recent address by the Honorable Clarence Manion of Indiana, one of the nation's greatest patriots and most eloquent orators.

Up until recently crowds running into the thousands were simply non-existent no matter how brilliant the speaker or the urgency of the cause which he represented. It is believed that the tragedy at Little Rock in which the Washington administration resorted to troops to enforce integration of the races in violation of the Constitution and the law, is responsible for the awakened interest on the part of the public concerning what is going on at this time in connection with mass efforts to destroy Constitutional government in the United States.

Income Tax Affords Strong Weapon For Hijacking American Citizens

If International Communism is able to achieve its overall objective and convert the American Republic to the status of totalitarian countries behind the Iron Curtain, one of the chief factors contributing to this end will have been the Sixteenth, or Income Tax, amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Through the operation of this Marxian device, hordes of unconscionable tax-grabbers hover on the horizon like starving buzzards ready to swoop down on honorable and reputable business men to pick their bones and devour their earnings.

Upright and respected business executives who have made valuable contributions to the economic, social and cultural life of their community, state and nation are subjected to reckless charges of having earned more than reported in their tax returns and are haled into court like common criminals.

Widespread resentment is building up over the country against this gangland procedure where leaders of industry are taken for a ride and robbed and mauled by political hoodlums who know only one way to get money and that is to lie in wait and highjack it from those who have brains enough to make it.

Sentiment for repeal of the Sixteenth Amendment is mounting all over the nation and it's high time something was done about it.

As the late great New York Democratic Congressman, the Honorable Bourke Cockran, said in opposing the amendment when it was before Congress for consideration:

"By this legislation you place the government in an attitude of hostility to the true patriots of this country, to the men by whose industry land is made valuable, by whose intelligence capital is made fruitful; and it is a woeful condition of society, it is a situation pregnant with evil and with ruin, when the productive masses, the creators of wealth, the architects of prosperity have reason to fear that the success of their industry will provoke the hostility of their government".

What's Russia got to brag about with her satellites and guided missiles inquires Mac Cheshire of Cisco, Texas? We've got a couple of unguided missiles — Eleanor Roosevelt and John Foster Dulles — he says, who can outrun the Sputnik and circle the globe faster than the Soviet's little old satellite even if they don't know where they're going or what they're going to do when they get there.

"The old days, when people loved and cherished their families seem to be fading. And the welfare State is upon us."—Charles H. Andrews, member Board of Supervisors, Ventura County, Calif.

"Personal freedom in this land was killed by the United States Supreme Court in May 1954. Final burial was performed in a grave dug with Federal bayonets in Little Rock, Arkansas, in September, 1957."—Excerpt from an excellent article "Common Sense and Integration" by T. G. Tilford, Nacogdoches, Texas.

All honor to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia who has never voted for any legislation sponsored by Americans for Democratic Action and shame on Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon who has never voted against any of their measures.

Federal Government To Attempt Another Big Steal Of Tidelands

The decision of the Eisenhower administration to attempt another big steal of the Texas Tidelands should not occasion Texans too much surprise in view of the President's record in regard to keeping his pledges.

This valuable oil property which has belonged to the Lone Star State since the days of the Republic was first stolen from Texas by means of a trick decision by a Supreme Court which more often violates the Constitution and the law than upholds it.

The subject became one of the principal issues in the 1952 campaign and Eisenhower promised, if elected, to ask Congress to pass legislation restoring the Tidelands to Texas and agreed to sign such measure.

The Congress passed the bill and the President signed it but he must have kept his fingers crossed while doing so because his Attorney General has now instituted suit to "recover" some of the property on the ground that the law passed by Congress in 1953 is "against international law". International law is now supreme in the settling of disputes since the American Constitution has been shamelessly abandoned in favor of the United Nations and NATO Charters.

Characteristically, the Justice Department used the sneak method of attack in instituting its suit. The Attorney General launched the suit under the guise of making Texas a party to a case now before the Supreme Court involving Louisiana's Tidelands. In this case the Federal government is seeking to grab Tidelands property by knocking out the 10½ mile limit and restrict it to a 3-mile limit which, if successful, means that Texas would be robbed by the Federal government of more than two-thirds of its Tidelands.

Eisenhower is reported in the press to feel that Texas has been lost forever to the Republicans any way and, for this reason apparently offered no objection to this illegal act which violated his pledge to the citizens of the State.

Also, it is in keeping with his campaign pledges in 1952 when he promised to reduce taxes, balance the budget and discontinue unnecessary spending of taxpayers' money, but, instead, has stretched the national debt to the limit, refused to lower taxes and has inaugurated the greatest spending program in history.

Also, he gave the people of the South solemn assurance that nothing could be further from his mind than to employ Federal troops to enforce segregation and sixty days later sent in armed forces to Little Rock for that purpose.

There'll Be A Change But No Improvement

Although the office of Attorney General of the United States was once regarded as one of the most important posts in the Cabinet, its prestige has suffered heavily in recent years by reason of the fact that only low-grade political hacks have been named to that position.

For almost a quarter century the job has been used to pay off nondescript political characters who were too small for more important assignments and too useful to ignore altogether.

The selection of Herbert Brownell for the office in 1953 touched off a new low in mediocrity which was hard to achieve when the small calibre of Eisenhower appointments generally is taken into consideration. There were many who ran him a close second in low public esteem but by general acclaim, Brownell topped the list.

Brownell was foremost among those who followed Eisenhower as the President pursued a little white ball around the Newport golf course and, with a sickening disregard of the Constitution and the law, urged him to send armed troops into a sovereign State of the Union to compel compliance with Marxist Gunnar Myrdahl's demand for mixing of the races in American schools.

When the wrath of the South overflowed into other States and caused nation-wide denunciation of the administration's totalitarian tactics in interfering in the affairs of a sovereign State, Brownell ducked out. Realizing that he was in for some rough handling by members of Congress who will assuredly investigate the whole nefarious transaction, he threw in the sponge.

It was a difficult undertaking to replace him with one of like calibre and whose distorted views on the authority of the Federal government matched his own, but the administration managed it.

William P. Rogers who will be remembered chiefly as having been involved in attempts to discredit Joseph R. McCarthy during the Army-McCarthy hearings, because of the Wisconsin senator's uncompromising fight against Communists, will now have a turn at the job.

From a subscriber in Wyoming: "You have never mentioned the subject that I know of but I often wonder what you think of Billy Graham." We don't think of Billy Graham, period. If he does any good or helps any one to lead a better life, that's fine and more power to him. We, personally, lost respect for him when he fell in line with the Communists' plea to ministers of the Gospel to preach mongrelization of the races.

For a readable and informative bit of American literature read "Nine Men Against America" written by Rosalie M. Gordon, which as its name implies tells the tragic story of the assault on the Constitution by the judicial monstrosities now occupying the Supreme Court bench. Beeping and Burping Of Sputnik Inspires Recommendations To UN

One of the countless organizations working for the overthrow of the American government by the simple expedient of plunging it into a One-World State is the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace, an affiliate of the notorious American Association for the United Nations.

Recently this Commission filed its report and made recommendations concerning additional activities which it is felt the United Nations should incorporate in its program. The report received a minimum of publicity but writers on the pro-Red newspapers hailed it ecstatically.

What the United Nations needs, the Commission decided, is an international Police Force of 2000 trained individuals to make everything just dandy. This Police Force should be recruited individually by the U.N., the report said, "in order to assure their qualifications and their allegiance to the United Nations".

Personally we think the Commission has undershot the mark in limiting the International Police Force to 2,000 members. This number would scarcely be enough to take care of the danger zone in Little Rock to say nothing of thousands of other trouble spots in the South which will no doubt bob up in the brave new One-World and where backward and under-privileged Southerners are liable to haul down the old musket and shoot back when pushed too far.

The Commission also recommends that, when everything else is under control, the United Nations must assume jurisdiction in "outer space" and make sure that the Moon "is not subject to ownership or control by individual states but only by the international community represented by the United Nations". Apparently members of the Commission feel that the two Sputniks which are now beeping and burping all over the stratosphere constitute a threat to United Nations' universal authority and something must be done about it.

Other fields in which the U.N. is advised by the Commission to take action are the "bed of the high seas beyond the continental shelf and the uninhabited areas of Antarctica" way down at the South Pole. The administrative functions of the U.N. must operate in these neglected areas the Commission believes.

It is natural to laugh over the report of the Commission but it is the recommendations of such nitwits as these on which the U.N. is based and let us not be too sure that these, too, will not be adopted.

Many people are finding it hard to believe a press report that the President actually sent a message of congratulation to the Kremlin on the fortieth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Surely this government did not mean to congratulate them on their expressed intention and determination to communize the world, nor on their assassination of millions of innocent people who have stood in their way.

Further Integration Plans Mapped Out At Communist Training School

All attempts to deny that the Racial Integration movement originated in Moscow and is the direct result of Communist propaganda are apparently to be abandoned.

This was the conclusion following a large gathering of leading sponsors of integration held at the Communist Training School at Monteagle, Tennessee, during Labor Day weekend in September, known as Highlander Folk School.

Photographs made during the three-day meeting show Whites and Negroes in the most intimate forms of social mixing including White women and Negro men in a clinch during a dance presumably celebrating the NAACP victory at Little Rock.

Seasoned Communists led the discussions which centered around a future program of bigger and better integration, not only in the schools but in all phases of community life.

Among the leaders photographed at the gathering were the Negro from Montgomery, Martin Luther King, instigator of the bus strike in that city; Abner W. Berry, member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party; Ralph Helstein, President, United Packing House Workers of America; Myles Horton, director of the school where the meeting was held; Rev. John B. Thompson, Chaplain, University of Chicago; Fred Routh of the Southern Regional Council and many others.

Those in attendance at the meeting represented 113 Communist or Communist-front organizations, many of which were set up for the expressed purpose of aiding in the overthrow of the American Government.

A large four-page folder carrying the photographs as well as a listing of the Communist front organizations represented may be had by addressing Georgia Commission on Education, 220 Agriculture Building, 19 Hunter Street, S. W., Atlanta 3, Georgia.

If You Are For Segregation Reds Call You "Extremist"

There is nothing more disgusting and infuriating to us than reference to segregationists in editorials of pink periodicals as "extremists." If one believes in decent racial policies and has the courage to come right out and say so, they are "extremists."

One is either for segregation or against it and that is all there is to that. To assume that there is any "moderation" about the subject, is just beating the Devil around the bush. What they mean by "moderation" is that you must either agree to mixing of the races or sit back and keep your mouth closed.

Another view of "moderation" is that it is less immoral to mix white and black students in schools if you do it gradually, instead of all at once. This too is fallacious reasoning for murder is just as great a crime when slow poison is administered to the victim as it is when he is shot down in cold blood and the same applies to integration.

Integration is wrong and indefensible by any standard whether Negroes are sneaked in one or two at a time to White schools or turned loose in droves.

And if that view makes us "extremist" then let anybody who wants to make the most of it,

We're Concerned in Our Own Country Now; We'll Worry About Moon Later

Now they're talking about International law as it applies to the Moon and they are calling it "space law". A Washington D. C. attorney, Andrew G. Haley, bobbed up with the assertion that if Russia is the first nation to hit the moon with a missile, that planet becomes the possession of the Soviets.

He made this statement at the International Astronautical Congress which met in Barcelona, Spain, early in October. Some of the American delegates to the Congress were reported as planning to rush back to Washington and urge that a strong effort be made to beat the Communists to the draw in this race in order that the United States may prevent this celestial territory from falling into Russian hands.

Haley said that he will propose to Congress at the next session that the moon be declared a "free and autonomous or self-governing area".

Just how, pray, does he think Congress will be able to set up the moon as a "self-governing area" when for years that same Congress has been doing everything within its power to destroy self-government in the United States and make it a part of One-World State? Hasn't he ever heard of Little Rock and what happened to "self-government" in the sovereign State of Arkansas?

Personally, we don't care who controls the Moon and the Soviets can have it as far as we are concerned.

All the time we have to devote to the subject is taken up in worrying about their control of a large portion of the Earth, including the United States.

Foreigners' Charge Of American Lunacy Vindicated In This Case

Foreigners are frequently reported as saying that American leaders and the American people are crazy. Their belief that a national state of lunacy exists in this country was undoubtedly boosted with the selection of Adlai Stevenson to go to the Paris Conference and to help shape American policy at that gathering.

Stevenson is the most discredited man who ever ran for office in the United States and was so thoroughly repudiated at the polls on two occasions that, had his hide not been so thick, he would have vanished and, like the Arabs, quietly folded his tent and silently stole away.

Instead, he bobs up all over the place and, with or without provocation, will make a public address and project his views at the drop of a hat.

"I am a citizen of the world," he remarked recently to a reporter he found willing to listen and "world brotherhood is our only solution for peace," is another gem which dropped from his pearly lips.

We don't think it is possible to down-grade the level of the discussions which will take place in Paris or for the future of the American Republic to be endangered any more than it will be any way, but if this is possible, Stevenson is the lad who will do it.

One Letter To President Brought A Prompt Reply

One of the Negro magazines reports happily that a teen-age Negro girl in Flint, Michigan, wrote a letter to President Eisenhower and immediately received a personal reply from him. Her name was Carol Ann Beane and she had written to the chief executive to complain that civil rights were not being properly enforced. In his reply the President is quoted as giving her this assurance: "The important thing to remember is that we are making progress toward their correction and that progress, to be lasting, must be steady and sometimes slow."

Scores of white Americans write the President every day and not only do they get no reply but he is probably never even allowed to see such communications.

Also it will be remembered that more than a million Americans petitioned the President to support the Bricker amendment but he not only refused but was openly contemptuous of those who dared to petition him.

Apparently a Negro teen-age girl packs an awful wallop in White House circles since her letter was apparently not only shown to the President but was answered in double-quick time, and a copy given to the Negro press.

HOW OUR REVOLUTION STARTED

(Editorial in Orlando, Florida, Sentinel)

"HE HAS made Judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries.

"Dixie" Ranks With "Banks Of The Wabash" As Indiana Song

Evidence that alarm over the attack on States Rights is not confined to the South but has spread to other parts of the nation is furnished in the case of Indiana.

From one who was on the spot we have received an informal report on a large gathering of Republicans early in October which was held in Indianapolis.

"It turned out to be a Dixie shindig," our informant writes. "Everybody asked over and over for the musicians to play Dixie and the band had to play it five times. This was followed by 'Is It True What They Say About Dixie?' and the applause was terrific.

In addition, an Indianapolis newspaper has had wonderful editorials on States Rights during the Occupation of Arkansas by Federal troops and numerous letters from there advise us that there is strong sentiment for a Southerner for President — some one like Senator Herman Tamm or Richard Russell.

Other meetings in private homes in Indianapolis in which fifty or sixty good Americans assemble frequently are reported to have expressed strong sympathy for the South in its fight against Federal dictatorship.

"Please remember that the largest percentage of the people up here are with the South and that's for sure and any press poll that indicates the opposite is simply not true," says a good Indianapolis patriot.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Liberal papers made much of the fact that a small community in Texas, Pleasanton, voted to have school integration but, as usual, the picture was slanted.

The area has a large foreign population and less than half of its population is White American. Also there was a shortage of money for school purposes and since there were only 37 Negro students in the district, officials there asked permission of the voters to put them in white schools. They are now in White schools but are being taught in separate classes by Negro teachers.

In order to blow up the incident for what it was worth one large pink Texas Daily ran a picture of a White girl on its front page welcoming a black girl to the school. The name of the white girl was Slomchinski.

Those who think that Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren's peculiar views on racial mixing are due to political pressure and not to fundamental character defects, should read an excerpt from the October, 1955, edition of Cosmopolitan Magazine containing an article on the Warren family: "... Once while Virginia was a student at C. K. McClatchy High School — all the Warren children went to public school — a Negro boy whose name also began with 'W' sat right next to her. He invited her to a high school dance and her teacher objected strongly. But then Virginia had a discussion with Dad. 'You do just as you feel like doing, just as your instincts direct,' he told his daughter. Virginia went to the dance not knowing that she was the daughter of the man who was to hand down the desegregation ruling."

Attacks On Americanism Come Thick And Fast On All Fronts

One of the latest assaults on basic American rights is taking place in California where a drive is under way to withhold tax exemption of Church schools. Primarily the object of the movement is the uprooting of Christianity in the United States and it is sparked by an anti-Christian group which is making undeniable progress along this line.

One of its by-products is to force integration in private educational institutions which Communists are fast compelling public schools to adopt.

One type of school which the Supreme Court has been unable to reach with its Marxist decisions on the mixing of races is the private school with the result that this attack on those institutions has been framed. Those who have made a study of subversion recognize in this program another step to do away with Christian education and force all schools under one Godless control.

Although there are certain private Church schools which permit mixing of the white and black races because of what they erroneously regard as a Christian principle, the overwhelming majority of private schools through the country are segregated and this fact accounts for the Communist attack being made on such institutions.

The first schools set up in the American Republic were church schools and under the Christian principles taught in such schools the United States forged ahead and became the greatest nation in the world. Tax exemption for such schools has been the policy from the beginning but the nation's Invisible Rulers have decreed that this policy must now be abandoned.

They picked a good place for the test for California is literally running over with Communists and their sympathizers among minority groups.

No One Volume Can Tell Story Of American Betrayal

We were amused when a good patriot assured us that a friend had promised to send him a book which would tell the entire story of America's betrayal. He did not remember the name of the book and it's just as well any way because it simply is not true.

There is no one book, nor, for that matter any one hundred books, which could accurately portray the conspiracy against the United States in all its ramifications or which could set down in type the various segments of the American people who have become parties to this conspiracy, either consciously or unwittingly, and who are helping to achieve the objectives of those who are plotting the overthrow of the American Government.

The tragic story is told only in hundreds of thousands of books, records, documents, testimony before Congressional committees and in research done by determined patriots who dig through such records of infamy and treason as far as the brief years of one life-time will permit them to pursue the slimy, enemy trail.

If any book could outline the entire sordid story of treachery directed against the American Republic it would be compelled to have a million pages and would probably cost a hundred thousand dollars per copy.

Washington Health Official Pleads For "Community Action"

"Community Action" of an effective nature is going to have to be taken if an alarming condition in the Washington D. C. Schools is not allowed to erupt into a national scandal, according to an official of the Health Center in that City.

Dr. John R. Pate, according to the Washington Evening Star of September 23, presented material on "Junior Mothers" in the eighth and ninth grades showing that among girls under sixteen years of age in the schools there, 129 pregnancies had been reported by physicians between September 10 of last year and April 10 of this year. Of these 10 were white and 119 colored.

He suggested as a cure for this "dramatic increase in illegitimacy," a course in sex education in "the home, the church and the schools," although it would appear that there has already been too much "education" along this line given to the unfortunate victims.

What well meaning do-gooders among racial mixing advocates do not understand and probably never will is that Negroes are sexually mature at from nine to eleven years of age and that they constitute an entirely different breed from white children who are many years later in reaching such maturity.

When they are mixed in schools with whites, the Negroes' fundamental differences, regardless of what Red anthropologists say, are going to show the colored race up to disadvantage and to expose their vastly different behavior and customs which would not be emphasized if they remained with their own kind, as God and nature intended they should.

NEA Aiding In UNESCO Program To Communize American Schools

Through the assistance of the National Education Association and the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO, nine American secondary schools are to be infiltrated with subversive UNESCO propaganda.

This was made known following a meeting in Washington on September 28 called to discuss an experiment known as the Associate Schools Projects designed by UNESCO to "create better international understanding."

As the National Defense Division of the DAR in Washington points out this project becomes more alarming with the knowledge that the new Chief of the Secondary Educational Division of UNESCO and who launches such projects as the one proposed, is Mrs. A. Jegalova, formerly Chief of the Inspection Division of the Soviet Ministry of Education in Moscow.

With that breed of cattle helping to educate American school children, it is no wonder that Communism in this country is rapidly spreading throughout the Republic.

This Is One Way To Beat The High Cost of Living

If all other attempts to bankrupt Federal and State governments fail, we can foresee one source of spending which might conceivably get the job done.

This is the substantial sums of taxpayers' money which is paid out each month to mothers of illegitimate children, principally colored, for the support of such unfortunate offspring.

Since there are probably more of this kind than any other and the supply is constantly increasing, the situation poses a drain on the State and Nation's resources which may eventually equal the money now being given away to foreign countries.

There is said to be strong competition in keeping production to a high level in this field since the operation reverses the natural law of economics in that the larger the output, the greater the financial rewards.

Electorate Expresses Disapproval Of Bayonets In Children's Backs

The results of the off-year elections around the country on November 5 in which so-called Republicans took a terrific trouncing is generally considered as a slap at the President for his dictatorial behavior in the Little Rock invasion. Other factors contributed to their defeat but the emotional impact of bayonets in children's backs is conceded to have been the impelling motive for the stinging blow to the GOP.

Not only in the South but throughout the nation, there was deep resentment that a Chief Executive of the American Republic would dare use the resources of the Federal Treasury and spend taxpayers' money in policing a public school system in a sovereign State and force compliance with a political court ruling through the might of the armed forces.

Tragically, those who were elected, with the exception of the candidates in Virginia, were no better than the defeated Republicans but it was the only manner in which outraged citizens could express their contempt for the man who had brought shame on the Constitution and on basic American law.

"All this talk about having to explain the government's position on integration (to the United Nations) is poppycock. Pictures of armed soldiers on the grounds of a Little Rock school are all the explanation delegates to the U.N. need to make the government's position crystal clear," says the Charleston, South Carolina, Courier.

There Is Nothing Truer Than That Money Talks

The following incident was given to us in confidence and while the authenticity of it has been vouched for, we cannot, for obvious reasons, give the names of those involved or the city where the incident occurred.

A Presbyterian minister in a certain Texas city returned from a conference held by high religious dignitaries and, on his return, informed his church that the congregation would be integrated in keeping with resolutions passed at the conference and with instructions handed down to those in attendance. He made it clear that no interference with these plans would be tolerated.

His congregation was shocked speechless but only one person—a quiet, soft-spoken lady—left the church with a well-defined plan of action.

She got busy on the telephone and within twenty-four hours pledges of financial support to the church previously made had been revoked to the tune of more than ten thousand dollars, and the minister had been so notified.

It goes without saying that this minister had a change of heart right quick, and he assured his members that nothing further would be done in the matter.

The most sensitive nerve in the human anatomy is the one leading to the pocket-book and when other congregations take direct action like this, they will find all the mongrelization propaganda which has found lodgment in their minister's mind melting away like dew in the sunshine.

Georgia Foundation to Give Nixon Dose of Own Medicine

We have little respect for the large Foundations like that of Ford, Carnegie and Rockefeller because of their practice of subsidizing Communists and fellow travelers but there's one in Georgia after our own heart.

This is the American Resettlement Foundation which was set up to re-locate Georgia Negro families and transplant them from their Southern homes to exclusive white neighborhoods in northern and eastern cities.

That's giving integrationists a dose of their own medicine with a vengeance.

We were especially pleased to read that the Foundation may purchase a fine home in the exclusive all-white section in Washington in which vice president Richard Nixon lives.

It is planned to fix this mansion with Southern darkies with little pickaninnies spilling into the front yard as a gentle reminder to tricky Dicky that one should practice what he preaches.

Nixon, however, is so prejudiced and biased in his preference for Negroes over White people that he is said to eat only the dark meat of the turkey at Thanksgiving and Christmas, and he would, therefore, be insensitive to the moral aspects of such an arrangement.

The only way he can be reached is when property values take a nose dive as a result of this resettlement project and his own home plummets to about half its purchase price.

In the case of hopeless and abandoned integrationists, morality is voiceless but money talks.

College Head Says Firing Marxist Teacher Is Curtailment of Freedom

The President has named Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., head of Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a sort of "Secret Weapons Czar" to speed development of hush-hush missile projects in our race with the Soviets.

Being incurable optimists, the American people probably hope that one of these days some "Czar" is going to be selected who is an outright, dyed-in-the-wool anti-Communist dedicated to the extermination of Communism and Communist influence in the United States.

The ideal time for making such selection would certainly seem to have been in the case in which Killian was chosen for it is the aggressiveness of the Soviets in their determination to conquer the world, including the United States, which has made the program necessary which he will head.

The radio commentator, Fulton Lewis, Jr., has already told over the air how Dr. Killian has coddled pro-Communist educators associated with higher institutions of learning and defended their right to teach Marxism under the perennial alibi of "academic freedom."

When Herbert Philbrick a courageous American went underground as an agent of the FBI to investigate the Communist apparatus in this country he discovered, and so testified under oath to the House Un-American Activities Committee, that one Dirk J. Struik math teacher at MIT was a member of the same Communist cell with which he, Philbrick, was affiliated. He testified that Struik had lectured and advocated the overthrow of the American government.

After the hearings, President Killian was asked what he intended to do about it. The Boston Post of April 9, 1949 said: "President James R. Killian, Jr., of MIT made it clear last night that he will not censure nor curb math professor Dirk J. Struik, self-proclaimed Marxist lecturer who was accused at the New York Communist trial of being a teacher of Red philosophies at gatherings in greater Boston homes . . . The sensational accusation by FBI counterspy Philbrick against the MIT professor came as a startling surprise to MIT and gave President Killian his first public decision since his inauguration last Saturday."

Further in the same article Killian was quoted as asserting that an "obligation to be independent lies in all our institutions of learning" and "In a period of armed truce, the fundamental principle of academic freedom is subject to stresses which we have not met before. One of the gravest dangers of the armed truce is the danger that it will force America to relinquish or distort or weaken some of its basic civil rights. I hope this does not happen either in our country or in our colleges." There was much more along the same line all of which has been said many times under similar circumstances and which

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, a dyed-in-the-wool Internationalist, designated the week beginning October 21 as "London Week" to "stimulate interest in goods of British origin." Can any one picture the British being such fools as to designate a "San Francisco Week" to promote the sale of goods of American origin?

all adds up to defense of the right of pro-Communists to teach in American institutions of learning.

In a later investigation held at MIT Struik was upheld. Those conducting the investigation said they could find nothing wrong with Struik's conduct or teachings although Struik had testified: "As a Marxist, I have seen many Communists and have read Communist literature and as a Marxist I have much in common with the Communists." (Seven years later at a hearing of the Massachusetts Commission Investigating Communism, Struik admitted that he had been a member of the Communist Party according to the Boston Herald, Wednesday December 19, 1956, which said in part: "Professor Dirk J. Struik decided to speak up yesterday and he told the Massachusetts Commission Investigating Communism he was a one-time member of the Communist party, and a more recent member of organizations labelled 'subversive' by the U. S. Government . . . Struik's admission of one-time membership in the Communist Party was the first time that fact had come to public light . . .")

Struik was kept on at MIT until the Commonwealth of Massachusetts indicted him but it is understood that he was kept on MIT payroll for a long time thereafter.

Perhaps the most regrettable incident in connection with the new Weapons Czar is that set forth in the Internal Security Annual Report for 1956, Report No. 131, Committee on the Judiciary of the United States Senate.

Beginning on page 195 and continuing to page 207 there is the shameful story of the attempt of certain State Department attaches to toss Formosa to the Communists, as was done in the case of China with help from the same source.

It tells how Admiral Charles Maynard Cooke, one of our great military men of all time, became informed of the situation in Formosa; of a policy of shaping intelligence reports in favor of the Communists and of plans to have Formosa fall to the Communists at a time when Robert Strong of the State Department was Consul-General and in control of all Eastern affairs.

When Admiral Cooke had carefully gathered all available information and data concerning this scheme to have Formosa fall to the Communists, he made strenuous but vain attempts to communicate this information to Washington Agencies. Finally he appealed by letter to the President's Permanent or Continuing Commission set up to watch over Intelligence Activities for a hearing but never got a reply. The President's Permanent or Continuing Committee was headed by President Killian of MIT.

Perhaps, in the meantime, the MIT President has changed his attitude toward Communism and, at long last, recognizes it for the deadly menace that it is. At least the American people can hope so.

There are claimed to be 7,000,000 aliens who are in the United States illegally, and the number is constantly increasing. It only required 30,000 professional revolutionaries to overthrow the Russian Empire in 1917. We suppose it is too much to expect loyal Americans to be alarmed over this incredible situation, or to hope that the proper authorities will take steps to correct it!

It Probably Won't Happen But What A Wonderful Idea!

It is heartening to be advised that in the great State of Indiana there is strong sentiment for Senator Herman Talmadge of Georgia for President in 1960.

Up there, they correctly regard him as one of our most outstanding American statesmen and feel that he would not, in the event of election, become a turncoat and betray us to International Communism or undertake to empty the United States treasury for the support of our foreign enemies.

Naturally, such a suggestion strikes a responsive chord in the hearts of good Americans and, if it could be achieved, would be a sure guarantee of a return to Constitutional Government in the United States.

There is no doubt that if he, or one like him, were nominated they would be elected for the election of 1952 proves that Conservatives are in the majority in this country because the voters thought they were voting for a Conservative when they elected Eisenhower. They were sadly mistaken, of course, but it cannot be denied that it was the conservative vote which put him in the White House.

The catch to the selection of any good American for President, however, is that the machinery of both major parties is in the hands of subversives in the North and East who are committed to the principles of International Communism and who will swamp both National Conventions with literally train-loads of money to insure the nomination of a candidate, by both parties, who is acceptable to International Communists.

But it is a wonderful idea any way and just the mere suggestion of a real American for President once more gives us an inner glow which not many proposals can generate in our cynical mind.

For the attention of Internationalists and One-Worlders, this voice from the grave: "This Government, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit the United States." — Abraham Lincoln.

The House of Delegates of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons at an interim meeting at Chicago in October went on record in support of House Joint Resolution 355 by Congressman Gwynn of New York which proposes a Constitutional Amendment preventing Government competition with private enterprise, abolishment of the Sixteenth or Income Tax amendment and the limitation of the power of the Executive to execute treaties and agreements without approval by Congress. They also opposed all pending bills in Congress which would amend the Immigration and Nationality Act, as well as the attempt in the forthcoming Congress to include physicians in the Social security program. Right-to-work laws as the natural heritage of American citizens were also endorsed by the Association.

"From fear of political reprisal, not a single United States Senator nor Representative has the guts to stand on his feet and tell the American people the truth about Communism and the United Nations." — John G. Crommelin, Rear Admiral U. S. Navy, Retired.

Red Fronter Is To Stay On Michigan High Court

On November 8, the daily press carried the announcement that George Edwards "had won the right to serve out an unexpired term on Michigan's Supreme Court until December 31, 1959." The article added that Edwards was a native of Houston, Texas, and was graduated from Southern Methodist University at Dallas.

Edwards was appointed to the Supreme Court by Michigan's clowning Socialist Soapy Williams who, with the solid backing of that States' heavy foreign-born population, has been elected Governor five times. It is Williams' fond hope that, after 1960, he will be able to expound his Marxian doctrines from the White House.

Concerning Edwards, there is interesting information on page 519 of Appendix IX which lists a George Edwards of Southern Methodist University as having been affiliated with the notorious American Student Union.

Most informed Americans will remember the record of the American Student Union but for those who may not be familiar with its program, the Special Committee on Un-American Activities (1939-40-42-44) describes it as "the result of a United Front gathering of young Socialists and Communists" in 1937. The Young Communist League took credit for creating this Union and among the inducements which the latter held out to potential members were free trips to Russia. The Union claimed to have led as many as 500,000 students out in annual April 22 strikes in the United States.

What a wonderful background for an appointee to a high judicial post in a sovereign State of the American Republic!

Group Seeks To Build Up Tito's Kind Of Communism

The Crusade for Freedom is opening its drive for funds and in order to inspire heavy giving by the American people, the kick-off luncheon was held at the White House with the President as host.

One of the objectives of the Crusade for Freedom, as Fulton Lewis Jr. has pointed out, is to build up Tito Communism over the plain common garden variety as practised in the U.S.S.R. Officials of the Crusade have admitted that this is true.

One of the acts of vandalism committed by the Crusade and which American patriots loudly protested was their transposition of a line in Lincoln's Gettysburg address pleading "That this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom" and carrying it on their shield in this manner: "That this world under God shall have a new birth of freedom." It was a cunning little twist to denote the One-World Government aspirations of the Crusade.

So if you have plenty of money and you favor the Tito brand of Communism over the Soviet Union type, write a big fat check to the Crusade for Freedom.

If you don't care for either of these Satan-sponsored ideologies, then give what money you can spare to patriotic American groups, organizations and publications who are slaying their hearts out to rid this nation of every kind of Communism.

Resourceful Woman Adopts Own Social Security Plan

Contemplating the heavy burden on American taxpayers who are compelled by law to keep up those who are unable, or unwilling, to support themselves has set us to thinking back to the long ago days of childhood and to a woman named Miss Henrietta Robinson.

Miss Henrietta was a maiden lady of highly respectable background who became an institution in Texas because of her extremely original and somewhat unusual methods in working out a sort of combination plan for unemployment compensation, social security and old-age retirement in the days before a Federal dole system had been thought up by professional social planners.

Miss Henrietta hit upon the idea of visiting for a living. She became the feminine counterpart of The Man Who Came to Dinner and her fame as a persistent and recurring non-paying guest was statewide.

Being the only remaining member of her family and having no financial resources, she perfected a design for living which not only kept her from going "over the hill to the poorhouse" but enabled her to exist in a manner which she felt was fitting for one in her station with no cash expenditure whatever with the exception of a few dollars for railroad fare.

She carefully selected and screened some two dozen families in various sections of the State whom she felt were morally, financially and socially qualified for the project she had assigned them. From the time she was left alone in the world until the day of her death, she visited each of these families for approximately two weeks per visit without deviating more than a few hours in the time of her annual arrival.

And such was the true spirit of Christian charity and real "brotherhood" in those pre-social security days that none of those whom she visited ever dreamed of trying to escape the responsibility or complained about having to extend forced hospitality to this professional house guest.

In a letter announcing the date of her impending visit, she always managed, somehow, to convey the impression that she was about to confer a special favor on the family to be visited after having turned down invitations from many others who were eagerly clamoring for the privilege of entertaining her.

Thinking back over the matter from the vantage point of years, we realize now that Miss Henrietta was such a genius in diplomacy, timing, organization and long-range planning that she would have gone far in any field or profession she might have chosen had she not decided, instead, to become a career visitor.

For instance, she invariably hit the Texans corn belt when delicious roasting ears were ready for the harvest; she made Deep East Texas when its famous Tyler peach crop was ripening in the golden sun; the North Central section of the State was her destination when Parker County watermelons had reached the peak of flavor for which this great Texas product is noted; and with the unerring instinct of a homing pigeon, she lit right in the big middle of the poultry-raising territory just as a plentiful supply of young chickens was ready for the frying pan.

West Texas was her port of call at hog-killing time when fat hams, casings of sausage, backbone and juicy cuts of side-meat were causing the smokehouses of her rural friends to bulge to the bursting point.

By then, it was time to hole up for the winter and from then on until she started on the Spring circuit, Miss Henrietta became the guest of various town families where cozy fireplaces and pot-bellied stoves afforded a greater measure of comfort than was to be found in the drafty farm homes of her country friends.

Our first memory of her is as a child of six or seven. At that time she was a seasoned guest of many years' experience and had perfected the art of visiting to a fine point. She had, for instance, become quite adept in avoiding any participation in distasteful family chores such as wiping the dishes, making beds or jiggling the dasher up and down in a churn — by the simple expedient of ignoring such ugly details and going outside to catch a little fresh air.

Although in her sixties then and without a tooth in her head, she could crack pecans with her gums, lay away the major portion of a fried chicken at one sitting and watching her shinny up and down an ear of corn on the cob was an unforgettable experience.

We are afraid that the kindly tolerance of our elders in gracefully accepting their share of the responsibility for Miss Henrietta's upkeep bespoke a Christian spirit in which we, personally, did not participate. We dreaded to see late November roll around because we knew that with the first squeal of a stuck hog, Miss Henrietta would arrive bag and baggage. The tragedy was compounded by the fact that our part in the general sacrifice attending her annual visit was to share our room with her.

It was our first experience with anybody who snored and many are the nights when we sat bolt upright in bed listening with mingled fascination and stark terror to the gruesome sounds which shook the rafters while, at the same time, suppressing a fiendish impulse to pour a glass of water in her open mouth to see what would happen.

Looking back on it now, we realize that Miss Henrietta was a ruthless old free-loader with an eye only on her own well-being but she managed, somehow, to invest her mooching with a certain measure of dignity which is absent from professional cadgers today and, in retrospect, we are inclined to accord her more respect than we have ever been able to muster for those who accept the theory that the government owes them a living and who sponge on Uncle Sam without apology and without shame.

At least, Miss Henrietta's Social Security Program was operated on a voluntary basis. Her victims had to endure the ordeal for only two weeks each year and could have wiggled out of the whole deal if they had felt so inclined, while today's taxpayers have no choice in the matter and are stuck for life.

Rehearsal For Arkansas Invasion Held Years Ago

In regard to the Little Rock Occupation operation, one cannot but wonder if in that case it was true that "coming events cast their shadows before."

It will be remembered, as that great publication National Republic reminds us that the "seizure" of certain areas by the Military was experimented with as long ago as 1947.

At that time the towns of Culver City, Torrance, Englewood, Long Beach and other California towns were "taken over" by military troops in a "mock" exercise which was later to become "real" in another section of the United States. Proclamations were posted at the entrances to City Halls, ultimatums delivered to the citizens and, in some instances city officials were put in jail. No publicity about this weird procedure was carried in the metropolitan press and it only became generally known when those who objected to the high-handed tactics of the military began writing letters of protest.

On April 3, 1952 a similar action and with the same secret operational methods took place at Lampasas, Texas. "Aggressor" troops seized the town, closed the churches and placed guards in class rooms — and does that sound familiar? Posters in Lampasas listed many "offenses" for which citizens would be promptly punished. Later the same action was repeated in Watertown, New York with all the trimmings of a military "seizure".

The proclamation which was tacked up in these "invaded" areas said in part: "Until further notice, all courts are closed and legislative bodies are dissolved. Military government courts are established under the supervision of the military governor. Political parties are dissolved and all political activities will cease. All members of your armed forces and all police organizations will forthwith surrender their arms to the Aggressorland Armies and will submit to the further orders of the military governor".

All those who think that all this "seizure" business was just in the interest of good clean fun and not practice maneuvers for a lot of potential Little Rocks and, ultimately, for One-World Government will please stand on their heads.

From a woman subscriber in Melbourne, Florida: "There is nothing accomplished in this household until every word of the Southern Conservative is devoured immediately upon its arrival. Long may you live to print the truth."

Surely it can't be possible that a Negro ball player is not welcome in the fine residential section of San Francisco where he bought a home. It just couldn't be. Not in the totally integrated State which gave us such illustrious advocates of racial mixing as Earl Warren, Richard Nixon and William E. Knowland!

For reasons having to do with finances, we always issue a double edition twice a year. The July and August editions are combined and so are the November and December editions. This saves money and helps us to keep going. The next edition of the paper will be out in January.
