Legislators slash bill for proposed UC fee

The proposed UC fee may not take as big of a bite out of students' pocketbooks if and when it emerges from the state legislature.

The original UC fee bill allowed for a graduating fee of $10 the first year, $20 the next year, and $30 in 1980. But due to extensive student lobbying in Austin, the bill was changed to establish an $18 fee which would not increase, Students' Association President Keith Wade said Monday.

The bill would also cut the present $30 ceiling on student service fees to $17. The combined fees would result in a net hike of $5 for UH students, he said.

The bill creates a student-dominated committee on every state university campus to allocate funds. This would give the student committee, not the administration, the authority to raise the UC fee ceilings.

Ed Martin, public information officer for Texas Students' Association (TSA), said the legislature will not pass any bill for fee hikes without students' approval.

"Students have the ability to amend or kill any bill that has to do with any fee hike," Martin said.

In the SA elections Feb. 23 and 24, UH students voted down a referendum proposing a UC fee by a 5-2 margin.

Other legislation of interest to SA and TSA include bills to base auto insurance rates on driving records rather than age, and a bill to create an official student position on university boards of regents.

The student representative to the UH Board of Regents currently has no vote on board decisions and no input to the board at all unless the regents invite the representative to speak.

Hotel blaze kills 8; 20 remain missing

GALVESTON (AP) — Firefighters dug eight charred bodies out of the smoldering debris of a 60-year-old hotel in this Texas Gulf Coast island city Tuesday after the building was destroyed by fire earlier in the day. Police said more than 20 other guests were still unaccounted for.

The bodies of five children, including three babies, were among the first pulled out of the pile of rubble hours after the fire was brought under control.

Police said arson was suspected.

Thirteen persons were taken to John Sealy Hospital. A hospital spokesperson said only four were admitted and their condition ranged from good to fair.

The fire burned to the ground the Central Hotel, a five-story brick building about two blocks from the docks in a rundown section of downtown. It also damaged a furniture store and a drugstore.

A police spokesperson said the fire spread rapidly and sealed off the narrow entrance to the hotel.

Among the first six bodies pulled out by firefighters were those of a young girl, about 10, and three babies, one about two years old, the others only a few months old. Police estimated about 50 persons were in the building. Some managed to escape by jumping out of windows.

"There is some suspicion of arson since the fire broke out in three different locations simultaneously," said a spokesperson for the Galveston Police Department. Earlier, investigators said one man was being sought for questioning.

The first alarm came shortly before 2 a.m.

"Men were hanging by their fingertips from the windows and many attempted to escape by leaping to the pavement. Some made it. Some didn't," said Police Lt. John Jennings, one of the first men on the scene. "It was a terrible damn thing to see, those men hanging from the windows."

Henry Bowman, 25, a hotel guest, said he escaped by jumping out of a second floor window.

"A young chick, buck naked, came out of another window," he said. "I only had my pants on and that's all I still got. I would have come out of there naked like she did to get away from that fire," he said.

Firefighters brought the fire under control shortly before dawn. By then only part of the front wall stood. The rest of the building was a pile of smoldering rubble. Burned bedposts and suitcases could be seen sticking out.

Three bulldozers were brought in to clear the debris and allow firefighters to work their way in and search for bodies. Two bodies were pulled out in sacks early in the morning before the fire was controlled. Before noon, firefighters had pulled four more out.

Firefighters and spectators could see a charred hand sticking through the debris, but firefighters said it would be hours before they could bring the body out of the smoldering debris. Small flames flicked out as firefighters began to remove the bricks and timber.

Jennings said there was only one escape route for those caught inside the hotel and it was ablaze shortly after the fire started. "There was no way they could escape," he said.

Anniversary

Fest marks 50th

One of the more affable events to celebrate UH's 50th anniversary happens from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday in Lynn Eusan Park with the Half Century Student Festival.

The UH Half Century Student Committee, sponsor of the festival, plans to use the profits from the festival to purchase a gift for the university on behalf of the students, according to Sheila Ballard, committee member.

Ballard said 16 student organizations have been planning the festival since October.

"Students on the committee wanted to do something to celebrate the university anniversary and decided to have a carnival," she said.

Each organization will keep half of the profits from its booth, Ballard said. The other half will be turned over to the committee to purchase the gift.

Activities include a number of booths run by UH organizations. For the more energetic there will be a car bash, a dunking booth and a rope climb.

Food will be provided "at a small price for a big serving," Ballard said. Soft drinks and beer will also be available.

Live music will be provided from noon until 8 p.m. by Ivory, Partners, Shoes, Equinox, Silent Partner and Sweet Wine.

Select your best today

Today is the deadline for UH departments and organizations to submit awards they wish to present at the UH Spring Awards Day.

Awards Day will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday, April 27, in the UC Arbor. It is sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership and service honor fraternity.

Groups who wish to present awards during the ceremony must submit the sponsoring organization or department, the presenter, the award and the recipients to Dr. Martin S. Day in Room 210, Roy Cullen Building, today.

UH President Philip G. Hoffman will make the opening remarks at the ceremony.

Access shut

Entrance 1 on Calhoun Street will be closed from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. today and Friday for Sigma Chi Derby Day activities, according to University Security.

Access will be permitted for the Ezekiel Cullen Building and for deliveries.

BETWEEN CLASSES:

Gay rights favored

Should a gay organization be an officially recognized campus group at a state-supported university?

Matt Levin, business administration sophomore:

"Yes, I think so, because every group should have the right to express its feelings in anyway it wants as long as it doesn't infringe on the rights of others."

Laurie Hubbell, political science sophomore:

"I think the gays have just as many rights as anybody else."

Angeli Webster, RTV junior:

"I think gay organizations are groups of people with rights of their own, just like the women's groups who want their rights, and the black groups who want their rights. All groups should be able to express themselves as long as they do not infringe on the rights of others."

Robert Peters, HRM senior:

"I don't see why not. They're people like everybody else."

Michael G. Taylor, marketing sophomore:

"First, I'd like to make it clear that I think homosexual acts are unnatural. I think the homosexual is really phenomenal within the standard laws of nature. I don't think they should be encouraged, but I don't think they should be repressed, either. . . ."

"I think they should be able to meet, because they are something we have to reckon with. The system may be at fault towards breeding homosexuals."

Robert Hagans, political science senior:

"No. I think gay organizations have just as much right to function as any other organization. But I don't think they are needed, by any means, on campus. They are, by far—a minority—and they have no function on a university campus. They're trying to use the university as a shelter for practices they wish to expound to the outside world. A minority must move from the outside world first before they can move under the protection of a university. Let them fight on the outside before they move into a protected atmosphere like other minorities did, not the other way around."

COMMENTARY

Mideast problems solvable

By ISRAELI STUDENT ORGANIZATION

Voltaire's saying—"As long as men believe absurdities they will commit atrocities"—reminds us of the bloody persecutions and wars that have stained the course of history because of human prejudices.

The Arabs have several times charged, among other accusations, that Israel seeks to "dominate" the Middle East. Such a myth and others are repeated by Arab propagandists, sometimes, unfortunately, on the pages of this distinguished paper.

The horrors of the Nazi era are only the most terrifying example of the depths to which people can sink through the acceptance of nonsensical myths. For this reason we would like to stress the following:

• Nothing could be more false than the Arab script in which Zionist "aggressors" appeared on the scene to dispossess local Palestinians. Since this accusation still constitutes the main thrust of the Arab case and provides the rationale for Arab enmity, it cannot be ignored even though the answers, like the charges, are familiar.

• The renewal of Jewish national independence after centuries of dispersion and persecution was not at the expense of another people but with full regard for the rights of others. In the huge area liberated by the Allies from Turkish domination, many vast Arab states were created. We had been accorded only a "small notch" which we sought to develop in peace and cooperation with our neighbors.

Let us put it in the simplest terms. When Jews came in Palestine in 1921 the pioneer generation knew what the score was: they knew there were Arabs in Palestine, just as they knew from their own experience that their labor in malaria-ridden kibbutzim transformed uninhabitable swamps into habitable soil. Far from ignoring the local population, Jews were sustained by the sincere conviction that their toil created more and better living space for both Arab and Jew.

In this belief we were proven right. Between 1922 and 1947, the Arab population of Palestine grew from 670,000 to 1,200,000—a spectacular increase paralleled in no neighboring Arab territory. Thanks to the agricultural and industrial development of the country, Palestine changed from a land of Arab emigration to one of Arab immigration attracted by the higher standards of living and greater opportunities. The supposed Zionist dispossession of Arabs is a myth disproven by every official census.

The only cause for the Palestinian tragedy about which Arab propagandists talk so much is the Arabs themselves. There would not have been a single refugee if the Arabs had accepted the 1947 UN resolution which called for the partition of Palestine and the establishment of two independent states: one Jewish and one Arab.

Five Arab states invaded the newly born Israel, and in an effort to arouse the Arab world into a Holy War against the Jews, Arab leaders stimulated the departure of Arabs from Israel. Expecting a quick victory, they promised the departing Arabs they would soon return to reclaim their property—and that of the Jews as well. An article in the Sept. 6, 1954 issue of the Jordanian newspaper, Ad-Diffa, put it bluntly: "The Arab government told us: 'Get out so that we can get in'—so we got out." Jewish leaders at that time urged the Arabs to remain in Israel. Some listened; those who did not became refugees.

It was the deliberate exploitation of the refugees by their Arab brothers for political ends, which began in 1948 and continues unabated to this day, that caused the real problem—not Israeli actions.

The Arab governments have repeatedly rejected numerous lavish proposals for the solution of the Arab refugee problem. They make no secret of their motivation. A policy of calculated incitement in the camps, whose dissolution the Arab leadership refused to permit, has kept the pot boiling.

Today Arabs constitute approximately 15 per cent of the population of Israel and are equal citizens whose welfare and integration are our natural concern. But obviously we have no common language with those who originally joined our enemies and in the intervening years have become a hostile army seeking the "liquidation" of Israel, or assassins who slaughter innocent men, women, and children in the name of the "Palestinian revolution."

Decades of struggle have brought much bloodshed to both Arabs and Israelis. Nothing can be more horrifying than parents burying their children and we know of families who have lost three generations of their sons in this tragic conflict. We would be happier if we could use all our energy in the more rewarding tasks of reclaiming the deserts and bare hills.

Is the conflict irreconcilable? Let us answer plainly: We do not consider Israel's right to existence a topic for discussion. As long as all Arab designs are predicated on the immediate or eventual destruction of Israel, no progress toward peace is possible.

At the same time, we believe that the differences between us and the Arabs are soluble, and that because of the genuine needs of the peoples of the Middle East reason will finally prevail.

Money mongers hurt PC

Just when it looked like Program Council might have been able to turn a profit with upcoming presentations and remedy its current financial mire, the athletic department delivered another blow last week that will delay any hopes of recovery.

As if PC were someone trying to get into an event without a ticket, the athletic department has refused to negotiate with PC on booking two July concert dates for Jeppesen Stadium. The department has remained adamant, claiming PC is incapable of promoting events in either Jeppesen or Hofheinz Pavilion. There have also been indications the department will maintain this stance indefinitely.

In the past, PC has had a workable agreement with the department for staging shows in the facilities. PC would pay the maintenance costs plus 10 per cent of those costs. But now the athletic department, according to Business Manager Joe Gooden, is demanding they pay 10 per cent of the gross receipts for the concerts, just as an outside promoter would.

This demand is wholly unreasonable. Forking over 10 per cent of the gross receipts from a concert to the athletic department would put PC out of business. When PC entices an outside promoter to stage a concert on campus, everyone stands to make money—PC, the athletic department and the promoter. But the department stands to make more money if PC was treated as an outside promoter, so guess who faces losing its collective shirt?

This is only the most recent in a series of setbacks PC has experienced this semester. Earlier, a showing of the X-rated film "Deep Throat" was postponed by the UC Policy Board because it might jeopardize the chances of budget requests UH currently has before the Texas Legislature.

What this all comes down to is money. PC needs money; the athletic department wants money. With the successful seasons the UH football and basketball teams have had, the department is not exactly hurting. PC has suffered from poor budgeting, lack of participation and just plain bad luck, but such events as the showing of "Deep Throat" and the Jeppesen concerts offered glimmers of hope. These hopes have since been dashed.

The board voted Friday to send a letter to Dr. Harry Sharp, vice president, dean of students, recommending the situation be resolved. The letter will include a suggestion that the athletic department reimburse PC in the form of a rebate since PC stands to lose a great deal of money from the present situation.

As we see it, the purpose of PC is to supplement the academic environment at UH with various entertaining and informative presentations for the benefit of the students. The athletic department seems to have its own interests more at heart than those of the people they are supposed to be serving.

We strongly urge the two sides to either go back to the old arrangement or work out a new arrangement that will be beneficial to both—and get it in writing.

We're all in this together, remember?

Cheap shots

To the Editor:

I was quite amused by Daniel Romeo Garcia's response to Sylvester Turner's commentary in the April 15 Daily Cougar. Senor Garcia "tolerates" racial discrimination simply because he has yet to be discriminated against. The logic being that, if a problem fails to involve him directly, then it should be no cause for concern.

I doubt Senor Garcia has been raped, or even mugged or robbed, in which case he should also tolerate crime and advocate the abolition of the Houston Police Department. After all, crime is greatest in low-income neighborhoods, so why should hard-working, plain-talking, freedom-loving River Oaks types help support something that doesn't benefit them? Using Garcia's definition, isn't this also discriminatory?

Turner addressed the issue of the under-representation of minority faculty on this campus, a problem he has conscientiously worked on throughout the past year. I doubt Senor Garcia has taken the time to analyze the information available on this issue. If he had, he wouldn't have made remarks to the effect that Turner opposed intellectualism because of his "roots."

I was less amused by the cheap shots taken at Turner's writing ability by "Ralph Waldo Garcia." It should be noted that writing for the Cougar is like running through a grammatical gauntlet—it is a rare occasion indeed when a commentary is printed as it was written. But frankly, Garcia, your use of commas and other punctuation marks leaves much to be desired; possibly this is due to your "roots."

By the way, senor, if you really are of Iberian heritage, you no doubt have the same roots as Turner—800 years of African occupation of the Iberian peninsula are hard to erase.

Geography wrong

To the Editor:

In your article on UH professor-musician Jack Budrow (Tuesday, April 19), you quoted the man as saying, "Exxon has its world headquarters in Houston. So why do they broadcast the New York Philharmonic instead of the Houston Symphony?"

The answer to his question is that he was wrong in his first statement. Exxon, U.S.A. includes Exxon's domestic industries and is headquartered in Houston. Exxon Corporation includes all Exxon installations worldwide and is for a fact headquartered in New York City.

C&O vulgar?

To the Editor:

Re: Eric Glunt's fine and timely letter in the April 15 Daily Cougar concerning the Classroom and Office Building and architecture.

He writes:

"What Plato is to philosophy, Meis (Van Der Rohe) is to architecture." I feel it would be more accurate to rephrase that analogue to read: "What Meis is to architecture, Adolph Hitler is to human rights."

Meis was a primary exponent of the imagery of our multi-national corporate culture, and its attacks on popular sovereignty and the individual.

The comparison of Plato to Meis is not improper, as both men valued forms of non-hereditary aristocratic rule. It is not, however, sufficiently harsh on Meis for those of us who still feel that architecture as a profession has more to offer society than repressive, half-human urban environments and vulgar buildings like the C&O.

A personal thank you from Shaka Zulu Assegai, to Dr. Jhon Indakwa. I read Dr. Jhon Indakwa's letter (April 13 Daily Cougar) that cleared up a lot of cloudy dust over Uganda.

There is no words to describe the way I felt when I read Idakwa's letter on behalf of freedom and truth. The struggle goes on, and people like Indakwa will always be remembered in the minds and actions of those of us who are out on the battlefield for freedom and truth.

Abortion, vasectomy futile; parents sue for 'mistake'

PITTSBURGH (AP) —The parents of a child conceived despite a vasectomy and born despite an abortion have asked a Superior Court to rule that they may sue two doctors for damages.

Frank and Dorothy Speck decided against having any more children after their first two daughters were born with neurofibromatosis, a rare crippling disease which forms tumors on the nerves.

Their third daughter, Francine, was born with the same disease.

Their original suit against the doctors who performed the vasectomy and the abortion was thrown out by an Allegheny

County judge.

But the couple's attorney, Thomas Hollander, argued the ruling ignored the issue involved in the litigation and has asked the Superior Court to reinstate the suit.

"Each doctor breached his agreement with the Specks, each was negligent and each misrepresented the success of their respective services," Hollander said in a brief filed with the court.

Later, the attorney told reporters, "We are not saying they are bad doctors. We are saying that in this case they made a mistake."

The baby was born April 29, 1975, and the suit was filed nearly a year later, April 9, 1976.

Speck had a vasectomy in April 1974, and Dr. Richard Feingold allegedly assured him no further contraceptive measures were necessary.

However, his wife became pregnant a few months later. The Specks decided she should have an abortion and it was performed in December by Dr. J. J. Schwartz, who allegedly said it was successful.

It was not. Francine was born four months early—afflicted with neurofibromatosis.

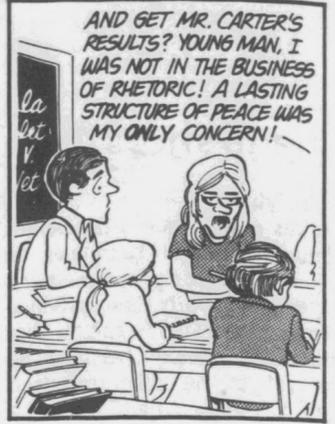

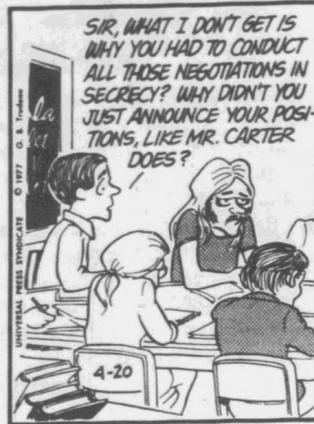

The suit seeks damages for Francine's pain and suffering as a result of the unwanted birth and the cost to her parents of her medical care.

Common Pleas Judge Silvestri Silvestri, in his ruling last July, held that such damage claims could not be permitted.

If the Superior Court overrules Silvestri, the suit will go to a jury, which will rule on the facts of the case and determine damages.

Canoeists take to lake

The entries are still in need of names, Applegate said. Prizes will be awarded to the persons who come up with the two best names.

Suggestions can be made at the civil engineering department, Room N126, Cullen College of Engineering or by calling the ASCE office, 749-1788.

The UH chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE) will be off and paddling Sunday in the ASCE Concrete Canoe Race.

The race will begin at noon on Bachman Lake in Dallas as part of the ASCE national convention. More than 50 universities and 600 students will compete, according to James Applegate, civil engineering junior and ASCE member.

Trophies will be awarded for the first and second place winners in men's and women's races.

The two UH entries are being built by civil engineering students as part of a class project for which they will receive credit, Applegate said. Most of the materials have been donated by construction companies from the Houston area, he added.

Food Day

Group promotes nutrition

Texas Public Interest Research Group (TexPIRG) will present a discussion by a panel of nutrition experts in the observance of Food Day this Thursday, according to the research director of the consumer group. The seminar will be at noon in the World Affairs Lounge, UC Underground.

Food Day is a national event to point out the detrimental effects of American eating habits. It is an annual awareness day now in its third year.

"People might spend two weeks picking out which automobile to buy, but on deciding which food item to buy, they might spend just a few seconds," Research Director Clarence Johnson said. He added that the panel discussion's focus is on the impact that the choice of food has on the average American's health.

Other organizations sponsoring Food Day across the nation include the Children's Foundation, National Council of Churches, United Auto Workers and the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

The TexPIRG-sponsored panel will host Dr. Harrell Rodgers, UH professor of political science; Dr.

James O'Connor, member of National Food Commission and Sundry School instructor; Dr. Marvin Legator of the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston; and Marty Godbold, a "natural foodist," and owner of a health food chain.

Editor deadline Friday

Applications for the position of editor of the 1977 Summer Cougar, the fall Cougar and the 1977-78 "Houstonian" yearbook are due Friday in Room 17, Communications Annex.

Editors for the publications will be elected by the Student Publications Committee (SPC) on April 28.

To run for editor, a student must be a junior or senior journalism major, and must not be on academic or disciplinary probation.

Persons running for editor must also have served on the Cougar for two previous semesters in an editorial capacity as defined by the SPC. Applicants must have completed specified journalism courses, and have an overall grade point average of at least 2.1.

The SPC may elect, however, to waive specific requirements in any given case.

"Normally, the editor comes from the ranks of the Cougar staff, but this does not preclude other people from applying," said Dr. Campbell Titchener, SPC chair.

Applications for editor may be picked up in Room 16, Communications Annex.

Auction soon

Students who are still searching for a lost textbook or jacket should check with the UC lost and found desk before May 3.

All items that have been turned in to the desk will go on public auction at noon May 3 in the UC Arbor, according to Dick Gage, UC associate director. The desk is in the reading room on the second floor of the UC.

Proceeds from the auction will go toward the financial aid scholarship fund, Gage said. There is an unusually large number of lost articles this year, he added.

"The UC desk is really the lost and found desk for the whole campus," Gage said. "We get calls from buildings all over campus and we'll pick up their lost articles and bring them here."

At any price you can afford to be choosy.

Because the value of every diamond is determined by four characteristics (cut, color, clarity and carat weight), you can always use these qualities to your best advantage.

Perhaps you're attracted by the grandeur of a large diamond. Well, sometimes a large stone can cost the same as a smaller one. Simply because it has a little more color. Or a delicate birthmark hidden inside.

On the other hand, you may feel size isn't the most important quality. Then you could choose a diamond that's small, but perfectly cut to sparkle with an icy-white elegance.

In any case, you'll be able to find one to suit your personality. Because each one is an individual, with its own combination of characteristics. And you can use these qualities any way you wish, to help you decide what's precisely right for you.

But the important thing to remember is to buy a diamond engagement ring you'll be happiest with. You'll be sharing it for a lifetime with someone you love.

And for that reason alone, you should be choosy.

Many students are discovering that although an education is not absolutely necessary for getting a job, having a part- or full-time job is the only way to pay for an education.

"Two-thirds of the students at UH work while they go to school," said Coralie Somers, counselor in the Career Planning and Placement Center.

"Many people have to work to stay in school, and the Placement Center can help them do that," she said.

The Placement Center began in 1947. Its purpose then was placing veterans in jobs, a limited scope which was not unusual for placement centers of that time, according to Somers.

She said counselors at the center see from 18,000 to 20,000 students a year. "That includes everything from advising students on how to write a resume to referring them to particular jobs," she said.

One of the most impressive aspects of the center to a person who is not familiar with such services is the wealth of literature in the resource center. A popular source is the "Chronicle of Higher Education," an index of teaching positions across the nation. Several other indexes of employment opportunities are also available.

The library contains books on "all career areas anyone would be interested in," Somers said. Volumes on career guidance, resume writing and how to conduct job interviews constitute an overwhelming number of the brochures from companies advising of employment opportunities.

Another service the center provides is the file system which is a convenient means of keeping employment records centralized. It is used most often by former students who are teachers and must provide extensive references to prospective employers.

"We used to think we would be able to keep everyone's records forever, but space is at a premium now, and we've put a limit on it. Now we keep file on all education majors for 20 years since their last contact with us and 10 years for everyone else," said Somers.

The Placement Center staff includes a director, Robert H. Milstead, associate director, Dr. Joann Velcich and seven counselors. Coralie Somers is one of six counselors who specialize in particular career areas: engineering and technology, business, humanities and fine arts, science and law and education (two counselors).

In addition, there is one counselor whose primary function is keeping contact with employers.

The Maintenance Officer. He's a man the Naval Aviation Team depends on.

The Aeronautical Engineering Maintenance Duty Officer is the man who gets 'em flying. And keeps 'em flying.

It's a big job. And it takes a big man to do it. A man who knows how to manage an aviation maintenance budget. How to tackle and solve complex maintenance management problems. And how to supervise a team of skilled specialists in servicing, inspecting and maintaining a fleet of highly sophisticated aircraft.

Think you're big enough for the job? Just for starters, you'll need a degree in engineering, science, management or administration. And then you'll have to show that you have the motivation, the sense of responsibility, the instinct for leadership, and all the other qualities demanded of an officer in the U.S. Navy.

The standards are high. The training is tough. And the job is tougher still. But the rewards are great. Because if you've got what it takes, there's no limit to how far up the advancement ladder you can climb.

The Navy Aeronautical Engineering Maintenance Duty Officer. It's a big title. A big job. And a big opportunity. See the officer programs recruiter at your nearest Navy Recruiting District Office. Or phone 800-841-8000. It's toll-free. Call anytime.

Remember those nights when you crept down the dark hall and all of a sudden—WHAM. You slammed right into the wall, or stubbed your toe or tripped over some insignificant object on the floor.

For a brief moment you suddenly realize what the visually-disabled have to deal with on a day-to-day basis. However, today faculty, staff and students have the opportunity to become more aware of the mobility problems of the visually-impaired and physically disabled during Mobility Awareness Day (MAD).

Today was designated as MAD to further the understanding of the problems or situations of the disabled. If people are more aware of these things then they can be more easily solved.

Throughout the day the able-bodied will participate and observe the wheelchair tours and races, the "blind walk" and assorted exhibits. Many volunteer speakers will visit classes on campus. Some able-bodied students are spending the whole day in a wheelchair to gain a greater understanding of a day in the life of a disabled person.

Now a question arises. Will these activities and exhibits actually create awareness? Will people consider MAD to be a joke or silly?

I think for the most part people will benefit in some way from the day because they will at least get a taste of the barriers which must be overcome. When the able-bodied push themselves on the wheelchair tours, they will discover the sidewalk is sloped, bumpy and full of holes, even though they walked over it many times before and never noticed it.

Many people get a thrill from riding around in a wheelchair for a little while. That's fine because at least they will try it out and acquire some awareness. I think people get a charge out of wheelchairs, or rather pushing themselves because it's a challenge. The able-bodied want to see how well and how fast they can push themselves.

This is not to say fun and games in a wheelchair isn't good. But there's a bad side to it, also. By having any experience in a wheelchair, a person can understand what it's like to be so short that you always have the eye level of someone's navel. You have the tendency to suffer from posterior fatigue. Your hands and arms wear out much quicker than your feet and legs. These are examples of some of the experiences of the participants of MAD as well as some UH athletes. The athletes will participate in a basketball game tonight. The Houston Easyriders vs. UH Athletes will give people the opportunity to see the abilities of a person in a wheelchair. They can perform as well as, if not better than, other athletes.

This Saturday other disabled persons will be able to demonstrate their capabilities in the Second Annual Wheelchair Games. They will be participating in track and field events, swimming and archery.

Not only are the Wheelchair Games designed for physical activity, but for recreational activity as well. More than 50 entries have been made already which is more than last year's statistics at this time. More than 1,000 spectators are expected to cheer everyone onto victory.

By the end of Mobility Awareness Week, many more people will be aware of the abilities, problems, situations and humorous experiences of the disabled. Advice for this week: enjoy, participate, be open, and most of all, be aware.

Rockets drop playoff opener

By ROBIN WRIGHT
Sports Editor

Mitch Kupchak committed cold-blooded murder Tuesday night in front of 15,458 witnesses in the Summit.

With help of several accomplices flown in from Washington, Kupchak snuffed the life from the Houston Rockets by scoring 32 points and leading the Bullets to a 111-101 victory before the largest crowd ever to attend a NBA playoff game.

Kupchak will not face any charges, however, as his actions were totally in self defense.

Houston fired the first shots of the game after Washington's Elvin Hayes innocently sank one of two free throw attempts to get the contest under way.

Calvin Murphy, Dwight Jones and Moses Malone then scored a trio of baskets in the span of one minute to give the Rockets a quick 6-1 lead.

Then, while all the Bullets could muster were several turnovers, Rudy Tomjanovich connected on four consecutive attempts from the field. Murphy's layup with 7:01 remaining in the period brought the house down and gave Houston a 16-1 lead.

The Rockets stretched their advantage to 18 points midway through the second period on an eight-foot hook shot by Kevin Kunnert, but the extra breathing room was a short-lived experience.

Down 44-29, Washington reeled off 13 straight points to close the gap to two. The Bullets tied the game for the first time when Larry Wright stole an inbound pass beneath the Houston basket and fed the ball to Wes Unseld for an easy layup at the halftime buzzer.

The Rockets continued to miss their outside shots in the third period, but were forced to continue trying when the Washington defense repeatedly shut off the lane to Houston traffic.

It was also in the third period that Kupchak went wild.

After scoring 12 points in the first half, Kupchak added 13 in the third quarter, when only four players scored all 37 of Washington's points.

Although they lost by 10, the Rockets were not out of the game until the final minutes. With 3:54 remaining in the third quarter, Houston tied the game for the last time at 69-69 on a Kunnert tip-in. Washington then eased out to a five-to-six point lead and held it until midway through the final period.

Newlin single-handedly wiped out a six-point Washington lead by hitting five straight jumpers from over 15 feet out and handing out an assist to J.J. Johnson for another basket, making the score 95-97 with 4:19 to play.

Washington quickly killed the Rockets' comeback hopes, however, as a slam dunk by Kupchak heralded eight straight points for the Bullets, capped off by a pair of 15-footers by Hayes from the right corner.

Kupchak's game-leading 32-point performance and his game-high rebounding total of 16 both surpassed the 6-10 center's high for the season in those categories.

Not far behind Kupchak were teammates Hayes, with 22 points, and Phil Chenier with 20.

Newlin led the Rocket attack with 24 points, 14 coming in the fourth quarter. Five other Houston players scored in double figures as the Rockets outscored Washington from the field, 98-96, shooting for a 52.7 percentage.

The free-throw line was a different story as Houston sank three of six attempts, while Washington capitalized on 25 Rocket fouls to sink 15 of 23 attempts from the charity stripe.

The victory gives Washington, winners of a three-game series with Cleveland, a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. The two teams will square off again in the Summit at 8 p.m. Thursday night for round two.

Three other NBA semifinal games are on tap for tonight when Boston, leading its series 1-0, plays at Philadelphia and two other series, Portland at Denver and Golden State at Los Angeles, get under way.

Horns beat Coogs 4-1, UH playoff hopes dim

Kem Wright and Tony Brizzolara combined to throw a six-hit shutout for the Texas Longhorns as UT defeated UH, 4-0 Tuesday afternoon at Texas' Disch-Falk Field.

The UH loss, combined with Baylor's 15-3 rout of Texas Tech dropped UH to fifth place in the SWC while Baylor moved into fourth.

Freshman Tom Lukish went the distance for UH, allowing seven hits, four runs, three earned, and issued three walks while striking out five.

UT scored the first run of the game in the fourth inning. With the bases loaded, designated hitter Jerry Don Gleason grounded into a fielder's choice, plating a run, making the score 1-0 UT.

In the UT half of the sixth inning, first baseposition Mickey Reichenback singled with one out. Left fielder Wendell Hibbett followed with a double. A passed ball allowed Reichenback to score and moved Hibbett to third with still only one out. Hibbett then scored on a ground out by Charlie Proske.

Texas ended the scoring in the eighth inning when Proske walked, stole second, took third on a single by Hibbett and scored on a sacrifice fly by Gleason.

UH threatened in the top of the eighth. Jay Beard led off with a single. After one out Thad Altman hit a ground rule double over the left field fence.

However, Gary Weiss grounded to shortstop and designated hitter Ike Haas struck out to end the Cougar threat.

After Tuesday's action Texas occupied second place, eight percentage points behind the front running Aggies.

With their backs against the wall the Coogs face the Aggies Friday and Saturday in a three game series at the UH diamond that may very well determine the conference champion.

UH hopes for a post-season tournament bid rest on a good series with the Aggies and Texas taking two of three from Baylor in the last weekend of SWC action.

Publicity imputing the UH tennis team as the initiator of a brawl and obscene exhibition in an April 11 match with Arkansas is grossly exaggerated, according to Cougar coach Lee Merry.

In an interview yesterday, Merry gave his version of the events which took place during the dual match in which UH lost 9-0.

The tournament was played in an indoor tennis facility in Rogers, Ark., about 10 miles north of Fayetteville. He denied stories that his squad destroyed three chairs, a scoreboard, and that they were involved in a slugfest with the Razorbacks.

"First of all, we did not destroy three chairs," he said. "After Scott Mueller lost his match, he banged his racket on a plastic chair, knocking a piece of the plastic off. I told the Arkansas coach that I would pay him for the damage, and that was the end of the argument."

Merry said the scoreboard destruction was again an invention of news puffery. "Scoreboards in tennis consist of small numbered metal plates which can be flipped over to change the score. The destruction occurred when one of the plates fell on the court."

The coach had more to say about the news of a brawl, an event reported to be inspired by Houston. He said only a minor incident broke out between UH's Tony Stockman and his opponent in a singles match.

"After Tony made a passing shot by Bowman (the Arkansas player) at the net, he laughed. On the next point, he called Bowman's serve out and Bowman yelled about the call. Tony then made an obscene gesture and Bowman charged into him, knocking him back a few steps.

"Tony did not fight back even though the crowd was urging him to," he said. "After the match, Tony elbowed Bowman in the face but nobody else got into the action."

Merry admits that one of his players pulled his pants down during the match, but added that the conduct of tournament officials, the Arkansas crowd, and the opposing coach topped the mooning performance.

"The tournament was a farce in terms of the way it was run," Merry said. "Everything was out of control from the beginning. We needed a linesman in Robert Buchalter's match because there were too many questionable calls, so they provided us with a linesman who made the calls from the side of the court rather than at the end and clapped after the Arkansas player won a point."

Merry believes the crowd was the worst part of the Razorback adventure. "The crowd, about 30 strong, kept jeering us and one fan threw a tennis ball at Buchalter during a point. Everything was so out of control that we decided to default the final two doubles matches," he said.

In responding to the Arkansas coach's remark that Houston displayed a complete lack of class, Merry preferred to make no comment but concluded with other statements that summed up his feelings.

"I was out policing the courts during and after the trouble, and I did not see Pucci, the Arkansas coach, make any effort to help. What's worse, they followed us after we left the courts."

Houston is now 10-11 on the season after the disasterous roadtrip with SMU, Arkansas, and Texas. The Cougars lost by an 8-1 margin to SMU before falling to the Razorbacks and fell 9-0 to Texas last weekend.

UH will try to regroup this Wednesday when they play TCU in their last home match on the

Astros bite dust in Dome

Willie McCovey singled home a pair of runs in the sixth inning to break a 4-4 tie and lift the San Francisco Giants to a 7-4 National League victory over the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

McCovey drove in Bill Madlock, who had been hit by a pitch, and Darrell Evans, who had singled.

The base hit came off Astro loser Floyd Bannister, who made his first major league appearance since being selected first in baseball's 1976 free agent draft.

Jim Barr, 2-1, hurled the first seven innings for the Giants to get the victory. Gary Lavelle finished up for San Francisco for his first save of the season.

Country music show has good sets by all

By LARRY BOZKA
Amusements Staff

Billed as the "Country Music Superstar Explosion," Saturday night's Coliseum show had quite a name to live up to. For the most part, it met the challenge admirably.

True to the pattern of most of the country "package" shows in the Coliseum, there were plenty of empty seats. But the crowd that was there made up for any absentees.

They had reason to cheer. The show featured Ronnie Milsap, Tammy Wynette, and The Statler Brothers, in that order. All three have won a multitude of country music awards.

Milsap opened the show, and kept the atmosphere electrified. Most of the material he played fit the format of his recent live album, most notably his medley of "What Goes on When the Sun Goes Down," "Stand by My Woman Man" and "Daydreams About Night Things."

"Legend In My Time" gave Milsap opportunity to exhibit his skill with the piano, much to the crowd's approval. He left the stage to the sound of a standing ovation, and even though he's blind it was easy to tell he knew what it looked like, judging from the smile on his face. He was a hard act for Tammy Wynette to follow.

To play all her hits would have taken all night, but she did give a respectable sampling. "I Don't Wanna Play House," "Golden Ring," "Til I Can Make It On My Own" all went over well.

Toward the end of her set, she asked to be helped down from the stage. She then proceeded to walk down the center aisle and kiss a handful of star-struck cowboys, all the time singing "Stand by Your Man." The men in blue finally helped her back to the stage, and the set was prepared for the Statler Brothers.

The four-man group (backed up by an unidentified bass player and drummer) presented a real nostalgia trip with their current hit, "The Movies." "Flowers On The Wall" was a trip to yesteryear, mainly because it is the hit that sold the group a million records in 1964, a tribute to the longevity of the Statlers.

Perhaps the ability of the group was best shown by "How Great Thou Art." The quartet has an uncanny capacity for harmony, and demonstrated it with this song. It's no wonder that they were Country Music Association Vocal Group of the Year in 1976.

Bad animation

'Wizards' only ersatz Tolkien

By LOUIS PARKS
 Amusements Staff

How well you enjoy "Wizards," playing at the Bellaire Theatre, depends mostly on how starved you are for animation and how little you are concerned about story. Even the animation, which has to carry the movie, falls short of first rate. But then, the days of Fantasia—quality cartoons is past.

Ralph Bakshi, who made "Fritz the Cat" and "Heavy Traffic," wrote and directed this hyped rip-off of "Lord of the Rings." The major difference in this and the Tolkien work is the future setting and a pop attitude whereas Tolkien strives for the majestic.

Several million years in the future, after the 20th Century nuclear holocaust, Earth begins to prosper again. There are several groups of survivors. There are the depraved, deformed descendants of the war mutants. These are Bakshi's ogres and trolls.

On the other side of the "tracks," in the area not scorched by radiation, live fairies, elves and other nice, peaceful types who have once again flourished on Earth in the absence of civilization. Sorry folks, no Hobbits.

One day there is born, to a princess of this second group, two sons, the film never says it's a virgin birth, but the implication is obvious.

Anyway, the sons are clearly opposites: one's ugly and evil, the other pretty and good. So they're easy to tell apart, you see.

After a lot of time, and a lot of expository narration, the two wizards have become sort of leader-heros of the two different factions. The bad wizard called Blackwolf, has worked the mutants into hateful envy of the more fortunate "normals."

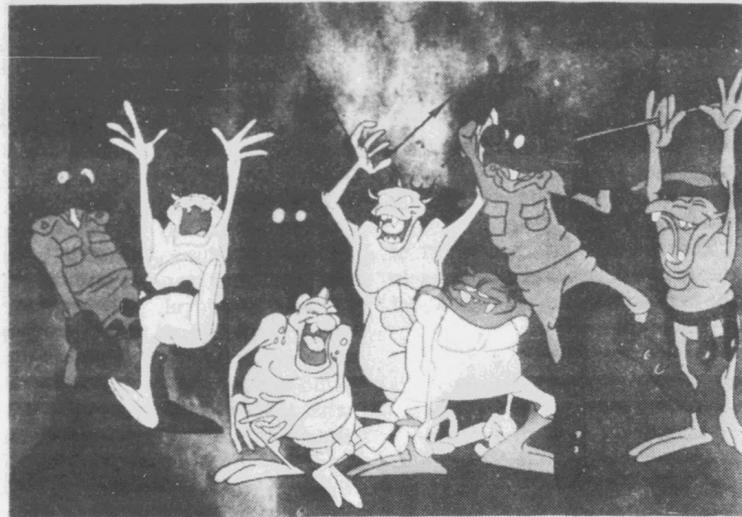

Also, he has found the secret to giving his evil self complete control over the minds of people.

Casting call

Paramount Pictures has issued a casting call for 4,000 extras for crowd scenes in "The Bad News Bears in Breaking Training."

Persons interested should appear at 7:30 a.m. Thursday and Friday at the East Gate of the Astrodome. A spokesperson for Paramount said the filmmakers need the heaviest crowds for Thursday's shooting.

Paramount will pay extras $27.50 per day plus two dollars meal money.

Scene from 'Wizards'

Yes folks, even in the far future the Nazi's are still around to goose-step into our fears, and help uninspired film-makers.

By showing films of the Nazis and Hitler during battles Blackwolf inspires his troops and frightens the good guys.

During all this, the good wizard, Avatar, and his hand-picked companions are working their way into Blackwolf's territory on a secret mission. Sound familiar, Tolkienites?

All this seems to be working to the big, final match between Avatar and Blackwolf, between good and evil. When the moment finally arrives, Bakshi tosses it away for a funny but unimpressive joke.

If you're put off by "children's cartoons," you needn't cringe from "Wizards." Bakshi, who has a sound idea of what is commercial, has peopled (or fairied), his tale with sexy women elves in see-through tops, and young studs in tight pants, carrying big guns. They all talk tough, about a PG rating's worth.

Oh yes, Bakshi has been commissioned to make a film of "Lord of the Rings." What a coincidence.

KING SIZE
By B.B. King
On ABC Records

B.B. King is the best known and most popular traditional blues performer today and the most singularly successful artist in the entire history of the blues. He has added synthesizer, strings, horns, congas but little else, to his music. He remains the reliable king of night club blues.

King Size is a testament to the B.B. King patent. One may wonder how he manages to rework the same formula on album after album. His women still treat him mean, his mojo is eternally working, and the good times always come to chase away the blues.

"Don't Lie To Me," "I Wonder Why," "Got My Mojo Working," "Mother Fuyer" and "It's Just a Matter of Time" fit the patent. He even makes Willie Dixon's "I Just Want To Make Love To You" (popularized in 1973 in a lobotomized version by Foghat), conform to the King blueprint.

B.B. King knows the blues. He has come a long way from a hand-to-mouth boyhood in Indianola, Miss. His work has led him from Arkansas-Louisiana blues, to rhythm and blues, into a more pop-oriented style. He played the '40s "chittlin' circuit," and graduated to college pop festivals and large night clubs in both the United States and Europe. He gets out there and feels the music.

Song writing creativity is not the cornerstone of this collection from the "Boy from Beale Street," as King was once nicknamed. But King Size is a large dose of the music he has forged from the blues, with the loving help of Lucille, his guitar, that is.

King

THOM CLARK

ANIMALS

By Pink Floyd
On Columbia Records

Pink Floyd has plunged deeper and deeper into a dark, forboding character with its last couple of albums. With Animals, the band that first earned the label "experimental" has taken this sound about as far as it can go.

Amid a background of oinks, barks, bleats and moos, Pink Floyd has fashioned an album that, while interesting in concept, is lacking in overall inventiveness. On it, the band lapses lazily into flat mono-melodies just as quickly as it displays amazing instrumental flash.

The theme is built into a long suite, which carries little to bind each movement, save the frequent barnyard noises.

Like all of Pink Floyd's work, Animals is for special tastes.

T. EDWARD BELL

PARKER MCGEE

By Parker McGee
On Atlantic Records

If you could get Seals and Croft, Barry Manilow and Bobby Goldsboro all to sing into the same oil drum it would probably sound something like Parker McGee.

McGee is a songwriter turned singer who is now attempting to break into the fickle world of the Top 40. And it would appear his approach is to borrow from what's already there without attempting to add to or improve upon it.

And so it is that this album has little to offer. It's almost as though he recorded it on a sponge that had been soaked in a melted down heap of all the pop albums that are currently on top.

Listening to McGee's voice can turn into a celebrity spotting contest. You find yourself saying, "Hey that sounds like James Taylor. And now, it's Jackson Brown. And behind that next groove, I think it's Harry Nilsson." And on and on. There's practically a cast of thousands.

Well you get the idea. It's hard to find McGee amid all the impersonations. If he's serious about music, he needs to concentrate more on developing his own sound and less on the commercial gimmicks of trying to sell it.

All he offers is a competent blend of pop sounds. If that's what you're looking for in an album, then go and buy the originals, and give McGee two or three more albums to see if he can get it together.

Debaters take fifth

A UH debate team turned giant-killer for a moment last weekend en route to taking fifth place in the National Debate Tournament at Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield, Mo.

The team of Darryl Carter, business administration freshman, and Philip Durst, political science junior, defeated a team from Harvard University in the elimination rounds of the tournament, before being defeated in the quarterfinals by a team from the University of Southern California.

Carter and Durst advanced to the elimination rounds after compiling a five win, three loss record in the preliminary rounds. After the preliminaries, they were ranked 12th out of the 62 teams entered in the tournament.

This was the final tournament of the year for the UH debate team, which is coached by Dr. Bill Henderson, assistant professor of speech.

Correction

The student senator named chair of the Student Association ad hoc committee on parking is Sen. Greg Ellis. The April 19 issue of the Daily Cougar listed him as Sen. Mike Ellis.

The Cougar regrets the error.

PLAIN TALK FROM ARMCO ON FINDING A JOB:

It all may depend on how well we work together

In recent weeks this publication has carried a series of messages from Armco. This series of Armco messages has talked about your job—how low profits, scarce energy, overregulation, rabid environmentalism and thoughtless affirmative action for equal rights may hurt your chance of finding the job you want.

Each of these issues will have an impact on America's ability to create the 18,000,000 more jobs we'll need over the next ten years. We believe it's important for everybody to think about these issues from several points of view. The economics and technology involved, as well as the politics.

Too often, most of us think about each of America's many goals in a vacuum. We isolate one at a time and propose solutions. Carrying out those "solutions" often creates new problems we hadn't thought about before. And that's where all the other goals suffer.

Who would have thought that making energy cheap would lead to an energy crisis... or that efforts to eliminate discrimination in one form would create it in another?

We Americans also tend to isolate ourselves in little groups, when it comes to many issues. We put on one hat at a time, becoming partisans who consider those who disagree as enemies.

We'd like to make a suggestion. Could we all try a little harder to work together?

FREE--Armco's plain talk on how to get a job

We've got a free booklet to help you get a job. Use it to set yourself apart, above the crowd. We answer 50 key questions you'll need to know. Like why you should bone up on companies you like. What to do after the first interview. Hints to make you a more aggressive, attractive job candidate. All prepared for Armco by a consulting firm specializing in business recruiting, with help from the placement staff of a leading university.

Send for your free copy of How to Get a Job. Write Armco Steel Corporation, Educational Relations Dept., General Offices, U-6, Middletown, Ohio 45043. Our supply is limited, so write now.

Plain talk about COOPERATION

At Armco, we're working with many people to try to get things done. We're asking government officials—local, state and national—what they want us to do to help them in their work. We're showing them what we need to keep our plants running and people on the job. We're trying to stop saying: "We can't." We hope other people will stop saying: "You must." We ought to both start saying: "Let's work together."

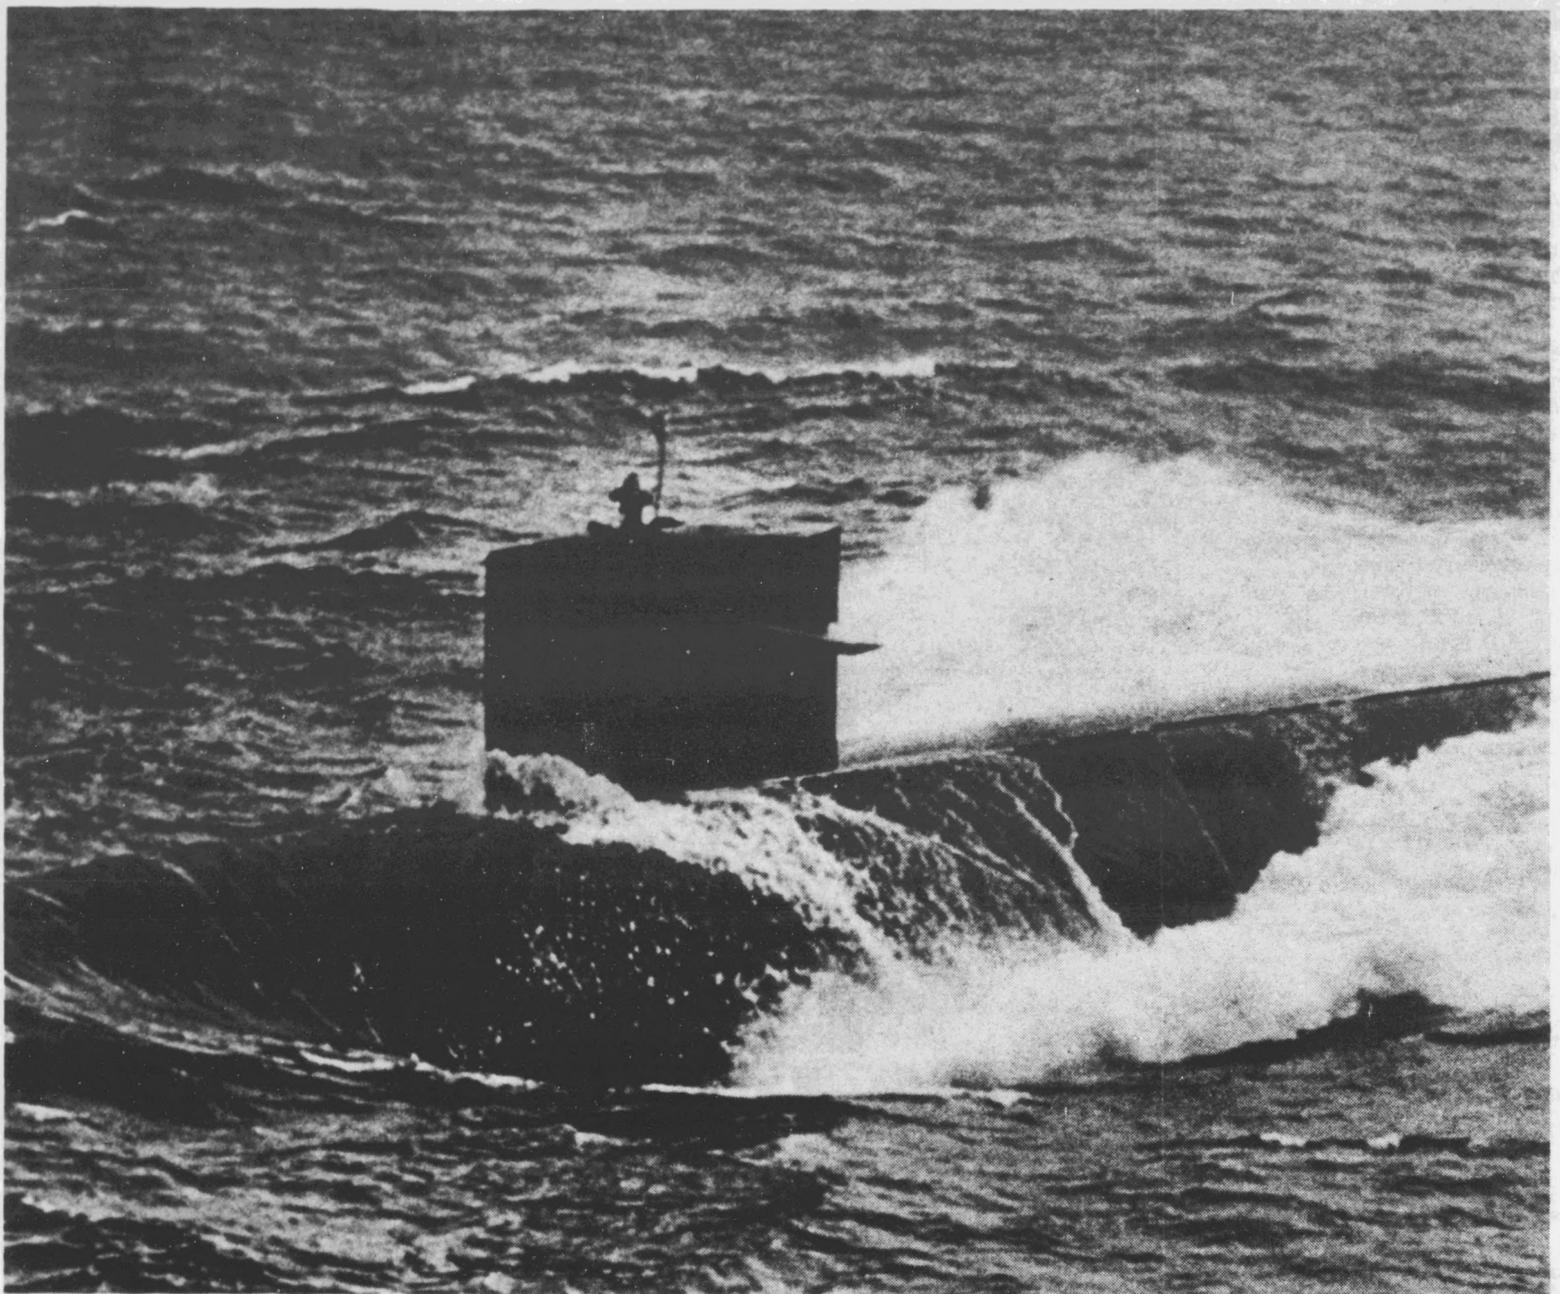

We don't have all the answers. But we're trying to look at each issue thoughtfully, so we can at least discover the pertinent questions.

Next time you hear somebody demand that anybody else do something, maybe you should ask: "Has this idea ever been discussed with whoever will have to carry it out?" Getting those 18,000,000 more jobs we need may depend on how well we all work together.

ARMCO wants your plain talk about cooperation and jobs

Does our message make sense? We'd like to know what you think. Your personal experiences. Facts you've found to prove or disprove our point. Drop us a line. We'll send you a more detailed report on the relationship between cooperation and jobs. Our offer of How to Get a Job, above, tells you how to write us. Let us hear from you. We've all got a stake in more American jobs.

HERE'S ONE ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITY YOU WON'T GET IN PRIVATE INDUSTRY.

If you're thinking about a career in engineering, think about this.

How many companies can offer you a nuclear submarine to operate? The answer is none. Equipment like this is available only in one place... the Navy.

The Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. So our training is the broadest and most comprehensive. We start by giving you a year of advanced engineering technology. In graduate school, this would cost you thousands, but in the Navy, we pay you.

Once you're commissioned as a Nuclear Propulsion Officer, you'll earn a top salary. Over $24,000 a year after four years. And you'll be responsible for the most advanced equipment developed by man. All the Navy asks in return is that you serve for 3 years on active duty upon completion of your training.

You have only until May 15th to enroll in this year's Navy Nuclear Propulsion Candidate Program. If you are majoring in engineering, math or physical sciences, contact your placement office to find out when a Navy recruiter will be on campus. Or call toll free, 800-841-8000 (in Georgia, 800-342-5855) for more information. And if you're still a junior, ask about the Navy's NUPOC Collegiate Program, which pays you up to $6,000 during your senior year.

The Navy. When it comes to nuclear training, no one can give you the same opportunities.

Contact the Officer Information Team on Campus April 19 through April 21, Lobby University Center 9 AM to 4 PM. For more information call 226-4707.
