The Fight on McCarthy Develops Into a Test Of Communist Strength in the United States

U.N. Officials Enjoy Immunity From Punishment For All Crimes Including Murder and Treason

According to a strict interpretation of the United Nations Charter, any person connected with that world group can commit any crime including murder and treason and they will have immunity from arrest or punishment by the authorities in the country where such crime may be committed.

In granting immunity to members of Congress, the American Constitution says that such members "shall in all cases except Treason, Felony and Breach of the Peace, be privileged from arrest."

But in the case of the United Nations, there are no exceptions and it is clearly provided that all officials "together with their spouses and relatives" shall enjoy total immunity "in accordance with international law."

In other words, the sky is the limit and the lid is off.

A delegate to the United Nations from one of the Iron Curtain countries, for instance, could bring in a time-bomb in his suit case since the Charter provides not only immunity from personal arrest for U. N. officials, "their spouses and relatives" but also gives them immunity from "seizure of their personal baggage."

While he was holding forth in the United Nations and calling the United States every dirty name in the calendar, his old lady could take the bomb down to Washington and plant it under the Capitol and it would be just one on us. Nothing could be done about it.

In the meantime Cousin Igor Sonovawitch could slip out and blow up the Brooklyn Bridge and thumb his nose at the cops who tried to arrest him.

What fools we mortals be.

During one year, three hundred and seventeen witnesses before investigating committees of Congress probing Communist activities, have refused to answer questions and have taken refuge behind the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

The Experts Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out

At the prospect of the organization of the new "Pacific Group of Nations" hatched up by Dulles, in collaboration with other slap-happy internationalists, we can just see the world experts twitching like a cow's tail flicking a heel fly, as they contemplate the potential rich pickings in the South Seas.

Although the actual organization is still just a gleam in a diplomat's eye, these experts probably already have their brief cases packed and are all set for action.

The happy island people out there who have been left free to live their own care-free lives as they see fit, don't know what they're in for.

They are blissfully ignorant of the hordes of humanitarians and do-gooders who will swarm over them in the wake of a miniature United Nations and who will undertake to make them over from stem to stern.

If they know what's good for them, they will take to the tallest coconut tree they can find and hide in its branches where the professional reformers can't find them.

It Looks Like Lattimore Will Slip Through the Net

Nothing has been heard lately of the trial of Owen Lattimore indicted for lying under oath to an investigating committee of Congress concerning his activities in connection with his State Department mission in China.

His trial was postponed once but it was not our understanding that it was put off indefinitely, and it seems high time that something was done about it.

This slippery character has a lot of pull in a lot of places and perhaps the idea is that it will drag on and on and the American people will forget it. And they probably will.

The objectives of committee probes into subversion have been all but forgotten and considerations involving national security have been tossed overboard as the enemies of America's ace defender close in for the kill. With a determined and coordinated effort which sends thrills of joy coursing through the Kremlin, organized subversive forces in this country are demonstrating that their sole interest lies in destroying the Wisconsin senator and that the safety of the Republic is of minor concern.

It isn't too important now whether any American, individually, does or does not like Senator Joseph R. McCarthy and even criticism of his "methods" is beside the point.

We are face to face with a situation not of our choosing which known enemies of Americanism have built up with the lines clearly drawn and where there is no middle-ground or half-way station in which the faint-hearted may take refuge.

On the one side is a duly elected United States senator and his associates who have been mercilessly delving into Communist penetration of the government, the army and defense plants where Russia's interests are effectively served by the planting of her agents in strategic posts.

On the other side are organized anti-American forces whose sympathy toward the Soviet system as opposed to the American form of government, is a matter of record in the form of pronouncements, resolutions, political action and affiliation with Communist fronts.

These domestic subversives, in tacit collaboration with alien conspirators, have maneuvered a situation made to order where the Wisconsin senator must either be supported or repudiated by the American people and the result will accurately measure the strength or weakness of Communist influence in the United States.

It is plainly and indisputably an issue of Communism versus Americanism and an ideological victory for the Soviets will give direction and meaning to their long-range plans for the ultimate conquest of a country they half fear, partially envy and wholly despise.

The forces to which we refer as spearheading the attack on McCarthy and serving as an unofficial liaison with Moscow in the fight against him are a group of super-liberals, a little to the Left of Lenin, known as Americans for Democratic Action who have long served, collectively, as a transmission belt for the dissemination of anti-American sentiment in the United States and whose individual names are liberally sprinkled among the files of the committees of Congress investigating Communist activities in this country.

On every occasion when Communist ideologies have come in conflict with established American ideals and traditions, ADA has, without exception, unhesitatingly lined up on the side of their Soviet soul mates, including a strong denunciation of attempts to outlaw the Communist Party, designation of the un-American Activities Committee of Congress as "a threat to freedom of political opinion", opposition to loyalty tests and advocacy of the teaching of Communism in American schools.

Closely allied with ADA and supporting its program are minority group organizations whose smear operations and terrorist tactics closely parallel those of the Sicilian Mafia and the Corsican Camorra; subversive church councils, labor union leaders, fifth-amendment Americans, Socialist college professors, left-wing preachers and other domestic Quislings who constitute the fifth column in this country dedicated to the peaceful overthrow of the American form of government.

Millions of Americans Think It--The Southern Conservative Says It

Addled Adolescents Do Their Stuff As the Puppets of Mature Liberals

Some soft-headed sophomores at the University of Texas, performing in the typical manner of Marx-infested adolescents, got together quite a number of names of students on a petition protesting the appearance of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy as guest speaker at San Jacinto Day ceremonies in Houston April 21.

A couple of the youngsters trotted over to Houston and presented the petition to Mr. H. R. Cullen, Houston's leading citizen who, in collaboration with a patriotic group, invited Senator McCarthy to make the address.

Mr. Cullen, displaying a kindly tolerance and understanding of misguided, groping and confused youthful minds, gently but firmly informed the boys that Senator McCarthy would speak as scheduled and courteously dismissed the lads who meekly journeyed back to Austin to report to whoever it was that was directing their activities.

Of course the day will come when most of these mentally immature students—who were probably only being used as messenger boys by more experienced "liberals"—will become good and useful citizens in spite of any handicap they may suffer in the way of subversive influence now.

When they marry, have children of their own struggle with a budget and are forced to cope with the practical problems of raising a family and making a living, the majority of them will get some sense knocked into their empty heads. The balance of them will probably become university professors.

After all, most of today's college students have never had a factory girl's chance of acquiring any basic and fundamental learning in the American sense of the term.

Knowledge, understanding and appreciation of our glorious American system of government and the imperative need to maintain it against efforts of Communists to destroy it, is something they have not learned from their text books.

Pride of country, allegiance to the American Flag and loyalty to the Republic for which it stands are, unfortunately, not attributes which are conferred along with their diploma and can only be acquired after their four-year period of infiltration by Socialist college professors has been stricken from their memory and passed into the limbo of forgotten things.

To the everlasting shame of apathetic American parents who have permitted subversive teachers and ministers to shape their children's economic and social thinking, we are producing a generation of youngsters who automatically and instinctively line up on the side of Communism when this ideology comes in conflict with Americanism, just as the Austin students did.

Nobody Is Surprised That Chavez Is Not Tossed Out

The gesture toward the investigation of irregularities in connection with the election of Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico and the subsequent motions which the Senate went through in deciding whether or not to allow him to hold his seat, constituted one of those big jokes which periodically occur on the floor of the Upper House.

According to the Constitution, of course, the Senate is the final judge in such matters and while they solemnly appear to weigh the evidence in cases of irregular and corrupt elections the senator involved seldom, if ever, gets tossed out.

In 1948, for example, a Texas Senator was seated with practically no opposition even though he had lost the election in a fair contest and was only enabled to win through post-election manipulation of a notorious South Texas political boss who came up five days later with enough votes of dead men to put the senator over.

It was claimed that in the case of Senator Chavez, he had no knowledge of the crookedness which went on in the New Mexico election in his behalf although this is difficult to believe.

But the point is not whether Senator Chavez was or was not a party to the irregularities at the polls but that the senator involved always receives the benefit of the doubt because the party to which he belongs needs his vote.

Even if he had been proved guilty of murdering his grandmother, the senator would have been seated and all the to-do about the matter was so much baloney.

The vote to allow Chavez to retain his seat was along strict party lines with the exception of five Republican New Dealers and one political maverick from Oregon who joined with the Fair Dealers in approving corruption at the polls.

"It is a strange situation that we in the Senate should be called upon to vote upon a treaty which barter away the inalienable Constitutional rights of American soldiers on foreign soil. Of all the people whom we ought to protect in their inalienable rights guaranteed by the Constitution to all American citizens, are the men who wear the uniform of our country and who are pledged to defend these principles with their lives. Yet for the first time so far as I know, the Senate is asked to barter away these rights of Americans in uniform"—Senator John W. Bricker's warning to his colleagues when NATO was up for ratification by the Senate.

With the defeat of the Fair Deal administration Americans hoped that the people would be told the truth about Social Security and that this legalized extortion racket would be exposed. Instead it is being "broadened" and more "benefits" voted. Instead of Truman and Ewing pleading for this Socialist project, we now have Eisenhower and Hobby. The words are the same. The voices are different.

Recommended Reading for Those Who Have a Couple of Lifetimes to Spare

Some of our readers, understandably enough, found it hard to believe our assertion last month that ten thousand executive agreements and other international agreements, aside from treaties, have been entered into with foreign countries between 1945 and the close of 1954.

If they want to look it up for themselves they can confirm it, but it is a tough assignment and we don't recommend this procedure to any one unless they have the patience of Job and the tenacity of a Boston bull dog.

They will likely be told by any member of Congress to whom they appeal, that such member does not know of any such compilation of the records in matters concerning executive agreements and he will be telling the truth. He has probably never seen it or heard of it.

These agreements are compiled into twenty volumes called "Statutes at Large" and it required 80,000 pages to cover them.

They will likely be found in large libraries or in the library of universities, and especially "liberal" universities.

The vast majority of these agreements and international commitments are routine, innocuous and harmless but buried in among them are many which are not in this classification including agreements not known to exist which could be invoked by the United Nations when World Government is finally perfected to the point where they have us on the hook and they get ready to crack down.

The point was originally raised by us to indicate the potential danger of government by treaty law and executive agreements when it is finally established that these agreements supersede our Constitution, and not to draw attention to any particular one of them.

We didn't have the two lifetimes to spare which would be necessary if one decided to read them all and find out just what commitments the White House and the Department of State have made from 1945 up to now, but they are all there if any one wants to tackle the job of reading eighty thousand pages.

FIGHT—

Lined up with them also are some new recruits in Wisconsin composed of shady characters dredged up from the political sewers of that State to whom ADA is furnishing thousands of dollars for the circulation of reviling and vicious magazines and newspapers prepared expressly for the purpose of halting McCarthy's unrelenting fight against Soviet agents in the United States.

Dovetailing in with the overall conspiracy to get McCarthy are the planned insults and slights by high administration officials not directly affiliated with ADA but who are scorched with jealous resentment because the Wisconsin senator has come to out-rank them in the respect, hearts and affections of millions of the American people.

All in all, the McCarthy opposition presents an imposing array of hostility, compounded of personalities antagonistic to each other but undivided in their animosity toward a champion crusader against sabotage—and all of them subversive so far as their unquestioned loyalty to the American Republic is concerned.

In fact, a significant circumstance that must be evident to any informed appraiser of the situation is that among the thousands who are publicly lined up against McCarthy, there is not one single individual with undivided allegiance to this country or who has ever once come out openly, boldly and unreservedly for the safety, security and defense of the United States without expressing equal concern for the welfare of the people of foreign lands.

All this organized antagonism and disregard of American security must be faced not only by Senator McCarthy but by every responsible American as he lines up on one side or the other.

The personalities involved have ceased to be of moment. This country could well do without Americans for Democratic Action and the infamous horde of subversives who have drifted to the surface in its backwash.

It could even survive without the service of Senator McCarthy but the Republic cannot long endure if, in a showdown, its citizens repudiate those who would defend it and embrace those seeking to destroy it.

In this tragic national crisis, every American must either stand with the United States and McCarthy or with its enemies and Americans for Democratic Action.

We note that a new column is appearing in some daily newspapers throughout the country but there is not much likelihood that Americanism will get a shot in the arm as a result of this late entry into the field of journalism. The column is written by E. Stanley Jones once cited as a member of the notorious American League for Peace and Democracy, described by the un-American Activities

Committee of Congress as "the largest of the Communist front movements in the United States" and as "nothing more nor less than a bold advocate of treason". Jones is also author of many books advocating the abolishment of the American Free Enterprise system in favor of National Socialism. We need more columnists of that type like we need two heads.

United Nations Is Our 'War Preventer' So What's Keeping Them From Settling the Indochina Affair?

Every American who still thinks that the United Nations is going to "combat aggression, prevent war and insure peace" will now please stand on his head.

For years, we have had it dinned into our ears that our only salvation lay in this world organization which would swoop down on aggressor nations like a hawk on a Plymouth Rock chicken.

What we poor, stupid dupes didn't know was that they had their fingers crossed and they meant they would check aggression in every case except where Communists were the aggressor.

Recently Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary-General of the United Nations, made a speech to the National Press Club in Washington in which he made it clear that the United Nations was not about to do anything in Indochina and said there is no "urgency in the situation there."

A week later the vice president of the United States took the microphone. He didn't point out to his fellow Americans the utter, abject and miserable failure of the United Nations to crack down on the aggressors in Indochina. He meekly predicted that the United States may have to "take over the battle in Indochina if the French pull out."

Well, what are we paying the United Nations for? American taxpayers have been bled white to keep this treason-ridden gang of one worlders operating in luxury rivaling that of mediaeval kings and at the first opportunity to repel aggression, they calmly announce they will do nothing.

Good Americans wouldn't mind even going ragged to pay the taxes to support an organization which would prevent war and keep a new crop of young boys from being killed off every few years but it is our guess that they are going to rebel at paying the United Nations to keep us out of war and, at the same time, sending their sons to die in wars the United Nations didn't even try to prevent.

With every day's delay in voting the United States out of the United Nations, members of the Senate are compounding the act of treason they committed in 1945 when they voted us into it.

Government officials seem to be taking every means available to them for deporting Dick Haymes and while they are to be commended for doing their duty, why, we wonder, were they not equally aggressive in their efforts to deport Harry Bridges? From where we sit, it looks like somebody who is powerful wanted Harry Bridges to stay while somebody equally powerful wants Haymes to go.

Along with investigations, scandals and rumors of war the names of a Dominican playboy and a Hungarian adventuress have occupied the headlines. It is rumored that they will wind up their trip to Europe by marrying each other and we hope they do. It would serve them right.

The Marshall Housewives May Be Down But Not Out

You can't beat the Marshall Housewives.

Although they have been slapped down several times by Federal judges who see nothing wrong with a Socialist law on the statute books of a Constitutional Republic, they are still undaunted.

They now have a new plan to suggest to replace the compulsory old-age benefit program.

Their plan would broaden the Social Security act to cover all who wish to be covered by social security insurance but they would remove the compulsion and let only those Americans participate who wanted to and they would let those persons pay their own tax.

It seems a reasonable demand, but there is the drawback that reason and common sense play no part in legislative enactments in our modern economy.

They propose to present their plan to the Ways and Means Committee of the House and to the Department of Public Health, Education and Welfare although it is clear that they expect little encouragement from the latter agency of which Oveta Hobby is Secretary.

In a letter to Mrs. Hobby they noted that she had presented a plan to the Committee for broadening the Social Security act but complained that the press story reporting the event carried only a description of what she wore and gave only vague reference to what she advocates.

In other words, they don't care anything about her hat. They are interested in what's under it.

The State Department Is Still Loaded With Reds

Spruille Braden, former assistant Secretary of State who tried unsuccessfully in 1945 to persuade Dean Acheson to fire the Reds in that agency, said in a recent Associated Press interview that a bunch of young Soviets are still there and helping to shape our foreign policies.

This is not exactly news to most of us but now that an official who was closely associated with that department for years had publicly charged that the agency is still full of subversives, perhaps action will be forced on Dulles for their removal.

We have said it so much that it probably sounds like nagging but we insist that history will vindicate our contention that the only difference between Acheson and Dulles is a mustache.

The words "Democracy" and "Democratic" are nowhere to be found in the Constitution of the United States. These terms were coined by Socialists and were picked up and repeated by dim-wits who do not realize that ours is a Republic and not a Democracy.

Tennessean Gives Example Of Americanism in Action

Over in Nashville, Tennessee, there is a grand organization called the Southern States Industrial Council which carries on a never-ending and vigorous fight against National Socialism.

Thurman Sensing, its executive vice president, handles its publicity and does a swell job of it. In their fight against Socialism, the organization naturally enough holds up the Tennessee Valley Authority as a horrible example of what happens when politicians in Washington enter into competition with private business.

Recently, after a direct hit on TVA by Mr. Sensing, George Dempster president of Dempster Brothers of Knoxville publicly announced that he was taking his membership out of The Southern States Industrial Council because of Mr. Sensing's attack on TVA.

Incidentally, Dempster is president of an outfit called Citizens for TVA, a public power lobby whose objective is to cover up the fact that TVA is losing millions of dollars for American taxpayers and to promote the fantastic idea that this Socialist project provides cheaper power.

At this point, Mr. A. G. Heinsohn, Jr., president of Cherokee Mills of Knoxville, and one of the most outstanding industrialists in the Volunteer State entered the picture.

He informed the Southern States Industrial Council that he would pay that organization four times the amount of the loss suffered by the withdrawal of Dempster's membership in the Council.

For good measure, he added:

"This incident gives me the opportunity to prove that those politicians who crawl on their bellies to Washington and cravenly beg for special favors, do not represent all the citizens of this area.

"Some of us, including the undersigned of Southern birth and Confederate ancestry, refuse to sell our souls for a cut-rate power bill. Some of us still believe in God, in the Constitution as it was originally written and in our own efforts.

"We do not want to depend on the ability of local politicians to pick the pockets of citizens of other States in order to give us cheap power. We prefer to stand on our own feet and to maintain our self-respect as decent Americans.

"If you will be kind enough to let me know the dollars and cents loss that your association will suffer because of the withdrawal of Dempster Brothers, I will be delighted to send you a check for four times that amount. Permit me to double and redouble for the sake of separating the sheep from the goats, the boys from the men and the New Deal rats from real Americans."

Any comment on Mr. Heinsohn's fine gesture of Americanism would be carrying coal to Pittsburgh.

We learn from a responsible source that a vigorous and organized effort is to be made in Dallas to return control of Southern Methodist University to the Methodists. However, in view of official Methodist policy which is so completely in accord with that of the group now directing affairs of the school, we do not anticipate that any great difference in its administration will be noted.

We Haven't Got the Votes To Outlaw Communist Party

There is a lot of discussion perennially going on as to whether or not Congress should pass a bill to outlaw the Communist Party in this country.

Any such conjecture is merely academic and a waste of valuable time on the part of those who indulge in it.

The cold-blooded truth is that it is not possible for any measure to be passed by our national law-making body outlawing Communists or to any great extent throttling their activities in this country. The Soviets have too many powerful groups in this country who are in sympathy with their ideologies to permit any such legislation to be passed and we had as well admit it.

Any serious attempt to pass a measure through Congress which would make that party illegal would cause Americans for Democratic Action, the National Council of Churches, Labor leaders, minority group smear organizations, ministers, college professors, fifth-amendment Americans and other various and sundry subversives swarming into Washington like the seven-year locusts to protest and scream to high heaven against violation of Constitutional rights and suppression of freedom of speech.

Already more than two hundred anti-Communist bills have been introduced in Congress this session and, with the exception of a measure permitting wire-tapping by the FBI, they have no more chance of passage than a one-legged man has of winning a foot race.

The very number of bills introduced will work against the passage of any. It is one of the favorite tricks of Communists to have confusing, conflicting and contradictory measures introduced on subjects to which they are opposed which usually results in no legislation being passed.

This is not only true of Congress but of every State legislature in the nation for Communist infiltration of leaders has become so general that opposition to anti-subversive bills will spring up instantly in any State in the Union.

Rank and file Americans are violently opposed to the vile Communist conspiracy to abolish the American form of government but they can't do much about it so long as those who formulate American policy throw in with the enemy.

The answer would seem to be to either quit talking about outlawing the Communist Party or get a new set of leaders from the bottom up.

The United States has spent $3,500,000,000 in aid to Italy since the end of the second world war and Russia has not spent one red cent in that country, but it is generally conceded that the Italians are fast turning Communist. All of which should prove to our soft-headed diplomats that you can't purchase friendship with dollars.

THE TENTH AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES:

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Back to the Pulpit With Political Preachers

In furtherance of the theological policy of defending subversives from exposure by investigating Committees of Congress, the Very Reverend Francis B. Sayres, dean of the Washington Cathedral and the Very Reverend James A. Pike, dean of St. John the Divine in New York, exchanged pulpits recently.

In blistering attacks on Senator Joseph R. McCarthy for exposing Communists in high positions, these political pulpiteers whose time and efforts are devoted to practically every contemporary subject except religion, discarded all semblance of ministerial dignity and descended to the level of gutter snipes prosecuting a back-street gang brawl.

By implication, they defended Communists, saboteurs, homosexuals and other subversives routed out of the government, the army, defense plants and other critical positions by the timely action of the McCarthy Committee of the Senate.

For good measure one of them even denounced the church to which Senator McCarthy belongs which, to our mind, is a disgrace to the cloth since no person who holds another man's religion up to scorn has any vestige of Christianity in his own heart.

Such infamous clerical behavior would seem to indicate that there is a crying need for a housecleaning in some of the churches and that it is high time political preachers were driven back to the pulpit.

Whenever announcement is made of the holding of a "seminar" or "workshop," such project will bear close watching. Formerly these two words had a perfectly respectable meaning but in recent years, the terms have been so frequently employed as a disguise for Communist activity as to make them suspect.

Investigators Ignore Our Suggestion That Alger Hiss Be Made Committee Counsel

Because he was reported to have once expressed opposition to Communists taking over the American government and to have, in the process, uttered appreciation of Senator McCarthy's efforts to prevent it, Attorney Sears of Boston was found objectionable to members of Americans for Democratic Action and accordingly forced to resign as Counsel for the Senate Committee investigating the Cohn-Adams feud.

After combing the nation's attorneys to find one suitable to ADA, the committee finally decided on Mr. Ray H. Jenkins, reputed to be an impeccable member of the legal fraternity, "without bias or prejudice" concerning the Wisconsin senator although it is difficult to believe that any good American does not have definite convictions in the matter.

We tried to help the committee out when it seemed that they were hopelessly deadlocked after Mr. Sears became disgusted and resigned, but they didn't pay any attention to us and went right ahead and ignored our well-intentioned suggestions. In an air mail letter to them, we said:

"In order to prevent further delay in the proceedings, perhaps it would be well to make an effort to get a temporary parole for Alger Hiss in order that he may act as Committee Counsel.

"This action would meet the wholehearted approval of Americans for Democratic Action and would allow the hearing to get under way.

"Otherwise, these delaying tactics initiated by Communists and their cohorts in this country will continue and the American people will not be permitted to know the facts in the dispute under investigation.

"Anyway, the selection of Committee Counsel would seem to be relatively unimportant in comparison to the truth about what actually happened and we imagine that McCarthy can take care of himself regardless of who asks the questions."

Red Teachers Try to Pin Rose on Hutchins

The Communist-clogged New York Teachers Union whose charter was revoked by the American Federation of Labor on the ground that it was Communist-dominated and which was repudiated by the New York City Board of Education for the same reason, held its annual meeting recently.

A feature of its program was the presentation of its annual award for "unswerving defense of intellectual freedom" which is its way of showing appreciation of the most outstanding defender of the rights of educators to teach Communism in the schools of this country.

Appropriately enough, this award was voted to Robert M. Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago and now head of the $500,000,000 Ford Foundation which uses its funds not to expose Communists in government but to expose those who expose Communists.

However, this public recognition by the notorious and discredited New York Teachers Union of the service rendered their cause by Hutchins was too much even for the Ford Foundation management whose directors instructed Hutchins to refuse the award.

This he did but it must have practically broken his heart to be forced to turn down an award which he had earned and merited.

Hutchins is the gent who once naively told an Illinois committee investigating seditious activities: "There are no subversives at the University of Chicago" and then added as an after-thought: "Of course there is a Communist Club among the students at the University."

NO DISRESPECT TO OUR DIPLOMATS BUT WE'VE SEEN BETTER MEN HUNG

Here's another fast one put by the American people with little or nothing said about it in the press.

France, England and the United States have entered into an "agreement" to revive trade with Russia.

It develops that we, along with France and England, are to sell "consumer" goods to the Soviets being careful not to include anything that could be used in a war against us, as if any idiot didn't know that anything furnished to those barbarians will be used in bolstering their economy for the war for which they are always preparing.

As explained by Harold Stassen, perhaps the weakest sister in a whole galaxy of weaklings, the move is designed to prevent war by giving the Russians "a taste of the good things of life", including butter which is so costly that Americans can't afford it but which the government proposes to sell to Russia at cost.

Well, we are for giving them a "taste of the good things of life" too, but we are afraid we would first season it with a little arsenic.

Incidentally, since this "agreement" was entered into to help bring about peace, the Russians have stepped up the Communist offensive against the French in Indo-China.

Of course we don't mean to reflect on our diplomats but we've seen better men hung.

In view of the dearth of great men in national leadership today, we are impressed with the tragic circumstance that outstanding figures like General Douglas MacArthur and Charles A. Lindbergh are not conscripted into public service.

Mothers Are Given War Casualty Statistics

J. J. McCormack of Houston, in a letter to the Chronicle of that city has presented some thought-provoking figures on modern wars in which Americans have engaged and has named the presidents during whose administrations these wars occurred.

In his open letter, Mr. McCormack says:

Mothers who are worried about their sons' safety under a Republican administration would do well to note and clip these statistics for future references:

American casualties, twentieth century, under Republican presidents: Theodore Roosevelt (1901-09), William H. Taft (1909-13), Warren G. Harding (1921-23), Calvin Coolidge (1923-29), Herbert Hoover (1929-33), none.

Casualties under Democratic presidents Woodrow Wilson (1912-21) 364,800; Franklin D. Roosevelt (1933-44), 1,134,527; Harry Truman (1945-53), 129,153.

Total, 24 Republican years, none; 28 Democratic years, 1,628,480. Average per Democratic year, 58,160 casualties.

We Are Traveling Fast In the Wrong Direction

From the Summer White House on the Augusta golf course, the President recently issued an official ultimatum pledging that American troops will remain in Europe indefinitely.

The President, in taking this authority, is secure in the knowledge that the American Constitution is largely inoperative in official government circles and that we no longer have a Supreme Court which will enforce its provisions except when it suits its ends to do so.

Otherwise, it would not be possible for the President, in peace time, to issue orders from a clubhouse committing our armed forces to the defense of foreign nations except as a result of an official Declaration of War by the Congress of the United States.

Secretary of State Dulles had earlier practically declared war in Indochina and then Vice President Nixon got into the act and indicated that the job of defending that country would fall to the United States.

We believe that a re-appraisal of our foreign policy by Congress cannot be avoided and the authority for plunging this country into armed conflict definitely settled unless we are ready to concede officially that the Constitution is invalid and that just anybody can declare war when they feel like it or when they run out of something else to do.

The failure of the Bricker amendment to pass the Senate is hailed as a victory for the administration. It is also recognized as a definite loss to the security of the Republic.

We Forecast United States' Interference in Indo-China And Communist China's Admission to the United Nations

We have not the slightest desire to emulate columnists who make predictions of things to come but we do want to forecast two events which we believe inevitable.

First, we think this country will be dragged into the Indonesian war within the next few months, and that American boys will be sacrificed there as in the Korean farce.

It requires no great acumen or foresight to arrive at this conclusion as Secretary of State Dulles practically declared war in his recent public statement on the situation there. His words were vague, involved and ambiguous but there was no mistaking his warning that we are being herded into the French-Chinese brawl.

Also, in December, one hundred American planes were shipped from Japan to Manila where the American insignia was removed and that of France substituted. The planes were then shipped to Indo-China. Also many members of the Air Force are receiving sealed orders to report to the South Pacific and since we are not at war, that can mean only that we are soon going to get into one.

Second, we predict that the Chinese Communists will be seated in the United Nations within a year and that this will be taken care of at the Geneva Conference, although the world may not be advised of it.

We have always maintained, however, that it is not important whether or not the Chinese Communists are allowed in the United Nations. What is important is that the United States get out of the United Nations before it is too late.

The Chinese Communists would be right at home in the United Nations and rightfully belong there among their own kind while the United States is an alien entity in the group.

The United Nations is the medium through which the world conspiracy against this country is to be realized and, aside from a few small and unimportant nations, we have no allies in that group.

Dewey's Legislature Enacts Bill Favoring Fifth Amendment Communists

A piece of legislation has been passed by the New York assembly which will bear watching because there is danger of it spreading to other states, like the smallpox.

The bill was an administration measure and is called a "code of fair procedure", that would "protect witnesses in state investigations and still preserve the state's right to rout out subversion".

It is a type of legislation which only a Pink like Dewey could sponsor and only a legislature of the same hue would consider passing. Its basic objective is to protect Fifth Amendment Communists and as New York is full and running over with such characters, it is understandable how it found its way to the statute books of that state.

This appeasing attitude toward Communists is, somehow, conta-

Parents Are Urged to Check on College Reading Material

Parents who are concerned in the social and economic philosophy being taught their sons and daughters at colleges and universities had better take time out to check on the periodical rooms of such schools and see what publications are made available for student reading.

We believe they will find, as we did, that while very few publications who champion Americanism are to be found in these periodical rooms, there are three which are almost invariably to be had.

These three are the Nation, the New Republic and the New York Times.

Of the two former publications, the Nation and the New Republic, the California Un-American Activities Committee said in its fifth report in 1949, on page 621:

"The Nation and the New Republic have long records as liberal publications. They cannot be described as Communist, but they are so infiltrated with the Communist Party policy that they serve the interests of the Communists and confuse liberals on many issues, much more than do some of the Communist publications."

The New York Times while not mentioned by investigating committees belongs, as all informed persons know, in the same classification as the Nation and the New Republic, in its ideological and editorial policy.

No copies of the Daily Worker will probably be found in these periodical rooms but it would be better perhaps for the students if they were.

That publication is widely known as the official organ of the American Communist Party and as such can do little damage.

It is the so-called "liberal" publications which advocate the same policies as the Daily Worker but who operate under a cloak of respectability which constitute the menace to vulnerable adolescent minds.

It is claimed that the Central Intelligence Agency of which brother Allen Dulles is head, has from eight thousand to thirty thousand employees, although the actual number is a deep, dark secret. It is also said to occupy thirty buildings in Washington and to cost the American taxpayers $500,000,000 per year to maintain. Since we have never heard of this agency exposing a Communist in government or doing anything else for that matter, we wonder what is done with all this money.

gious and there is grave danger of the contagion spreading to other heads of state and especially in heavily congested parts of the country where anti-American sentiment is running wild.

PACK OF SOVIET DEFENDERS READY TO AID OPPENHEIMER

This Is the Story Of Kitty Jones

Mrs. Theodore A. Jones, known affectionately to members of the Church of the Atonement in Tenafly, New Jersey, as Kitty Jones where she taught Sunday School classes for years, had what would have been regarded once as a unique and outrageous experience, but which is accepted procedure now in view of the church's changed attitude toward Communism.

Mrs. Jones became alarmed at subversive teaching in the Tenafly High School and at the amazing number of books and publications by Communists and Fellow Travelers in the school's library.

Like any good American, she proceeded to try to do something about it by calling public attention to the effort of Communists to undermine children's faith in the institutions of this country and in religion and pointed to the literature in the school reading room as evidence.

As a result, she was asked to resign as a teacher in the Sunday School of The Church of the Atonement of Tenafly of which the rector is the Rev. John Rosebaugh.

Shocked and grieved by this forced disassociation with the Sunday School class she had taught for years, Kitty Jones, accompanied by a group of substantial citizens of the community called on the Rt. Rev. Benjamin Washburn, Episcopal bishop of the Newark Diocese in an effort to secure reinstatement to her post as teacher in the Sunday School.

She presented the bishop with evidence of Communist penetration of the school and furnished him with copies of many of the books found in its library and called his attention to chapters condemning religion and the American Free Enterprise system and asked him to arrange a hearing before her vestry.

Bishop Washburn coldly informed his visitors that this was none of his concern and referred her back to her own minister who had fired her from the Sunday School class. The bishop further stated that it was not his intention to discuss Communism and referred the group to a recent speech of Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, president of the Episcopal National Church Council, in which he expressed fear, not of Communism, but of "creeping Fascism."

The Methodists are going to have to look to their laurels. The Episcopalians seem to be running them a close second in the cover-up of subversives in the schools and churches.

Thoughtful Americans are becoming more and more aware of the fact that wars don't happen any more but are carefully planned. Unfortunately those who negotiate these wars can't be put in the front lines and shot but remain well inside safety zones so they will live to plan other wars.

The Oppenheimer case is unfolding the information that Communists and Communist sympathizers were thickly clustered around the atomic energy projects from the beginning of the experiments and probably explains Russia's ability to keep abreast of the United States in development of atomic weapons.

It turns out that Oppenheimer's background and his association with Communists has been known to authorities since 1949 but the matter was handled in the usual manner where such cases were involved. The information was kept secret and he was allowed to continue his work in atomic laboratories.

It probably would have never been disclosed if authorities had not had Senator McCarthy breathing down their necks.

Now all the pack of liberal scientists, fifth-Amendment Americans, and the usual contingent of Soviet defenders are rallying to Oppenheimer's defense without knowing, or caring, whether he's guilty or not.

U.N. Experts Plan to Tear Up The Calendar and Start Over

The United Nations set up for "combating aggression, preventing wars and insuring peace" is about to engage in a new project through its Economic and Social Council and any normal, sane and well-balanced person could make a thousand guesses without hitting on the right answer as to what it is.

Having run out of things to reform, they are now about to embark on a program of Calendar Reform.

Under a plan which India has submitted, the Gregorian Calendar which has been in use since the 16th Century would be abandoned and a new World Calendar adopted in its place which would contain only four months of 91 days each, in place of the twelve-month calendar.

The experts found, after launching this plan, that there would be one day left over so they decided they would make this a World Holiday.

And any one whose impulse is to engage in side-splitting laughter at the idea had just as well hold their fire. The United Nations bunch is just nutty enough to try it.

If they are successful, there are a lot of things that are taken care of on a monthly basis which will have to be revised to conform to a four times per annum schedule, but no doubt the experts can figure that out, too.

Young boys who have not yet lived are forced into battle with enemies of whom they have never heard and compelled to sacrifice their lives in a "cause" which they do not understand. It's a great life for every one except those who do the fighting and dying.

Dr. Matthews Revises Estimate on Number Of Communist Preachers in United States

Ill-Founded Report Sends Americans Into Spasms of Fear

A statement in the United Nations Bulletin of March first caused widespread alarm and consternation among responsible Americans who read it or had it called to their attention.

This article was to the effect that the Genocide Pact had been signed by the United States and left the impression among many that this heinous plot had been ratified by Executive agreement.

The fact that hundreds of secret agreements are in effect which commit the United States to government by treaty instead of by the Constitution, lent credence to the report.

However, we are informed in a personal letter from a member of the United States Senate that this report is untrue, and that the conclusions drawn from the United Nations Bulletin are misleading.

It is true that the Genocide Convention was signed in 1949 either by the President or the Secretary of State who, at that time were Harry Truman and Dean Acheson, respectively. But their signature to it was only the first step and this Genocide thing does not become effective until ratified by the United States Senate which, God willing, will never happen.

This Pact is in a pigeon hole in the files of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee where it has reposed for more than four years. Any attempt by the Senate to ratify it would bring forth a storm of protest from good Americans which would make the Bikini explosion seem like the pop of a firecracker.

The history of this dangerous proposal known as the Genocide Convention and about whose potentialities and implications few Americans are aware, is one of deceit, confusion and misrepresentation brought about by officials in government who know that it will never be ratified but who fear to inform its sponsors to this effect.

It is a terrorist plot by international minority groups who seek to put a noose not only around the necks of Americans but of free peoples all over the world, and in the event of its ratification and the acceptance by the United Nations of proposed amendments would do just that.

On April 6, 1953 John Foster Dulles as Secretary of State representing the President told the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate that the administration would not press for ratification of this Genocide Pact "at this time." On October 6 of the same year, 1953, a Chicago Negro named Archibald Carey, who is the United States member of the Legislative Assembly of the United Nations was permitted to vote, along with Russia, for quick ratification of it, even though Dulles had assured the Senate Foreign Relations Committee just a few months before that Eisenhower would not press for ratification.

Early in 1954, when the Bricker amendment was before the Senate, President Eisenhower sent Dulles to the Senate to ask for defeat of the Bricker Amendment and at the same time to again re-assure that body that the administration would not ask for ratification of either the Genocide

Sometime ago, Dr. J. B. Matthews while serving as counsel to a Senate Committee investigating Communist activities, startled the American people with the announcement that there were seven thousand Protestant ministers serving the Communist cause in this country.

Since that time, Dr. Matthews has been doing further research in the matter, checking his figures and revising his estimates and he now announces that he was mistaken in his assertion that there were seven thousand subversive preachers occupying American pulpits.

He says the figure should have been 8,079.

Communist conspirators have established a strong beachhead in the American church pulpit, Dr. Matthews told a California audience recently and added that "at least 12,000 American clergymen became susceptible to fraudulent Communist appeals, such as the petition to save the Communist spies, Ethel and Julius Rosenberg.

Communist infiltration in the church is the most direct route to spreading propaganda among the American people, Dr. Matthews pointed out and explained that a minority of Catholic clergymen have also been used for the same purpose.

Dr. Matthews debunked the oft-repeated charge that he had been unfrocked as a Methodist minister. He resigned from the ministry twenty-five years ago and no charges of any nature were ever brought against him, he said.

As an example of how simple-minded ministers are when they leave the field of religion and undertake to engage in political activities, Dr. Matthews pointed to the case of Charles A. Lindbergh.

He told how seven hundred gullible clergymen signed a statement condemning Lindbergh when that great American made a speech in Des Moines in 1941 urging the United States to stay out of World War II.

He referred also to the 2,619 clergymen who signed a statement in 1944 to the effect that "freedom was rampant" in Marshal Tito's Communist government.

Dr. Matthews warned that the distorted thinking of infiltrated ministers is bound to rub off on members of their congregation who are incapable of thinking for themselves.

Convention or the Human Rights Convention. On this promise the Bricker amendment was defeated.

So, while this Genocide monstrosity has not been ratified and is pigeon-holed in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, there is always opportunity for trickery in the matter of secret agreements and the American people would be well advised to keep constantly on the alert and make sure that they are not hoodwinked in the matter of the most dangerous proposal ever evolved by vicious, unprincipled and scheming internationalists.

The passage of the Bricker amendment would afford protection in such situations and would obviate the necessity for the American people to be forever on guard against plots such as this to destroy the precious freedoms bequeathed them by the founders of this Republic.

The Truth About Who Had MacArthur Fired

There was a lot of hogwash about a committee in Washington which was going to find out and make public the truth about who had MacArthur fired, but of course it pooped up and fizzled out.

So here are the facts as we have been able to piece them together from the record and from natural deduction dictated by common sense:

At the London meeting of the United Nations Preparatory Commission in London following the setting up of the international conspiracy against the United States at San Francisco in 1945, the Russians put their cards on the table and flat told the delegates present that unless a Communist were given the post of Minister of War, Communications and Information of the United Nations, they would withdraw from the world organization.

It goes without saying that the American delegates knuckled under and agreed to this arrangement whereby a Communist is always to hold the chief military position in the United Nations. In this position he will be in possession of all military secrets of member nations in case of war, all information concerning troop movements and other vital data even though such war may be one in which the United Nations is fighting a war against the Communists, as in the case of Korea.

This makes it pretty soft for Russia and her Communist satellites who will have this information relayed to them by the Minister of War, Communications and Information, in the event another Police Action takes place.

At any rate, Arkady Sobolev, Russian Communist, in keeping with the promise made to the Russians at the London meeting was named the first Minister of War, Communications and Information of the United Nations and all during the Korean conflict was furnished in advance all information concerning military strategy of the "U. N. Forces" (meaning American troops), all of which was naturally relayed to the enemy, Russia, the better for them to kill our troops.

So when General MacArthur, early in the fighting was gaining ground and was pushing the Communists back, he was suddenly yanked out of the picture and it does not require any committee hearing to prove to informed persons that it was Sobolev, Minister of War, Communications and Information of the United Nations who ordered Truman to fire him.

To conclude otherwise, is to admit to a degree of stupidity of which even the Russians think us incapable.

The Army ordered Annie Lee Moss, a Negro woman employed in the Signal Corps, to return to duty after she was suspended following her appearance before the McCarthy Committee. Reliable witnesses swore under oath that the woman had been a Communist but the Army took the position that she should be allowed to continue working while the investigation was completed. Looks like we always give suspected subversives the benefit of the doubt and if the security of the country is involved, that's just too bad.

Long Over-Due Probe Is Now Under Way

A committee of Congress, under the chairmanship of Congressman Carroll Reece of Tennessee is conducting one of the most important investigations ever undertaken by members of that body.

They are going into the subject of large Foundations set up as tax-exempt organizations for charitable and philanthropic purposes supposedly, but whose money is known to be spent in subversive causes.

The Committee would get much valuable information from the files of the old McCarren Committee which conducted the investigation into the Institute of Pacific Relations which was largely instrumental in the sell-out of China to the Communists.

The present owners of the Ford, Rockefeller, Carnegie and other large fortunes, who never had anything whatever to do with amassing these fortunes, seem to have been converted to World Socialism and worse during the New Deal and Fair Deal administrations, and, as a result, have financed many queer operations.

They should be made to stop giving grants to subversives and stick to the objectives they enumerated when they secured tax-exemption privileges, or the privileges should be taken away from them.

So far as we know, they have never financed any activity in behalf of Americanism and it is well known that in order to get their support, any individual or movement must lean heavily to the left, to put it mildly.

Tax Reduction Should Come Before Building Programs

The bill before the Texas Senate appropriating $3,500,000 for new buildings at Southern Methodist University at Dallas was passed by a vote of 25 to 1.

Senator Jimmy Phillips, with whose views we do not often agree, took a very sound position in opposing the appropriation. He contended that anticipated surplus funds in the State treasury should be used in bringing about tax reduction instead of being devoted to building programs.

That is a good sound argument regardless of who advances it and one with which hard-pressed taxpayers will agree.

At least, they should have tacked on an amendment to the bill before tossing over $3,500,000, providing that no school could receive state money which is clogged with Pinks and which permits the teaching of Socialism by its instructors.

The sum of $3,500,000 is big money in anybody's language and very little, if any, of this sum was contributed by those who so casually voted on giving it away.

PEARL HARBOR ATTACK DIDN'T JUST HAPPEN BUT WAS PLANNED THAT WAY

After twelve years the, American people have been given the documented evidence of the attack on Pearl Harbor and the deliberate part to bring about this attack played by an American president who instead of being impeached and tried for treason lived out his life in the guise of a benevolent leader.

Roosevelt was determined to involve this country in Socialist England's war with Nazi Germany but the people here were unalterably opposed to interference in the affairs of foreign countries.

So he had to do some finagling and do it quick. He managed to infuriate the Japs and incite them to action against us and since they were an Axis power, the assault against our troops had the desired effect and World War II was on.

To do the job up brown, he ordered the Pacific fleet scattered throughout the South Pacific into Pearl Harbor where they were lined up like sitting ducks.

The Japs attacked on schedule and in the process four thousand, five hundred seventy five Americans were killed or wounded and eight American battleships, eighty Navy planes and ninety seven Army planes were destroyed or badly damaged.

No advance information was furnished to American Army and Navy officers in Honolulu although Washington had this information well in advance of the attack.

In the "investigation" which followed the reputations of two innocent men were smeared and Roosevelt emerged unscathed.

All this is disclosed by Rear Admiral Robert A. Theobald of the United States Navy, retired, who was present in Honolulu at the time and who has spent the intervening dozen years in research and study of the records and who has incorporated the documented evidence in a book just released titled "The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor".

Horrified Americans who read it will either gasp, weep or swear according to their personal reaction.

Moscow Chalks Up Another Victory

Southern Baptists have heretofore been singularly free from Communist influence and have shied away from national church organizations who follow the Party Line in social and racial matters.

However their resistance is weakening in places and the mongrelization policy initiated in Moscow is gaining a foothold in heretofore impregnable circles.

The Florida Baptist Women's Missionary Union announced from Daytona Beach recently that the 1954 meeting of its Young Men's Conference will be interracial.

Going into nauseating and repulsive detail, Armand Ball of Jacksonville, secretary of the Boys' Division of W. M. U. explained that black and white delegates will "eat, sleep, work and play" together at the meeting which will run two days.

This all figures and is right in line with the interracial plan originated in Moscow in October of 1928 when the Comintern mapped plans for bringing about these conditions in the South as the first step in the mongrelization of the white race in the United States.

The next step will be to bring white and colored girls together in close contact. After that, it will be white girls and Negro boys brought into intimate association to finally complete the overall program of racial degeneracy.

We hope that this practice is checked before it spreads and that the ranks of Southern Baptists will suffer no further infiltration by subversive propaganda.

The president appointed one of the White House ushers government secretary of the Virgin Islands, the No. 2 administrative post there. Since that island's population is practically all colored a Negro is usually ap-

William Z. Foster Enjoys Immunity

In 1948 when the Communists in New York were indicted and charged with conspiring to violate the Smith Act, William Z. Foster, former head of the Communist Party, was among the number.

When the other eleven Communists were brought to trial Foster was not among them, his physician having testified that he was physically unable to appear.

As late as last May, the government again moved for the trial of Foster but the Court made a ruling that Foster was still physically unfit to stand trial.

In the meantime, Foster visited the West Coast and with Harry Bridges helped to organize Communist Unions in that area. Also he was active in trying to prevent the execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg as spies against this country.

Although he was too ill to be brought to trial for treason, he was able to prosecute his treasonable activities from coast to coast.

There's nothing like having a drag in high places.

"At the risk of being labeled a rabble rouser, or a demagogue, or a reactionary or what-have-you, I am going to say that our constitutional processes are under real and immediate danger of being destroyed—not by some predatory enemy from without or by foreign agents from within; but rather, at the hands of the highest Court in the land, whose sworn duty is to guard zealously those processes" Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi.

pointed in such positions. However, the press dispatch announcing this appointment, following the modern custom of refusing to call a Negro a Negro, does not state if the new appointee is red, white, black or yellow.

Americans Will Be Better Citizens From Reading These Two Books

We do not undertake to give book reviews.

In the first place, we don't have the space. In the second place, we do not feel we are a qualified book reviewer and in the third place we have always regarded book reviewing as a silly procedure.

No one could read a book for example and give an interpretation of it that would influence our opinion of it in the least. We could only evaluate it after we had read it ourself and we accord this right of individual opinion to all others.

That is the reason why we are unable to discuss the merits of all the wonderful books that come to us through publishers who graciously send us review copies.

There are two books which have come to our attention in recent months, however, which we highly recommend as informative reading for Americans who are hard put to keep up with the fast curves and crooked deals constantly put over by enemies of the American Republic.

One is The Turning of the Tides by Paul W. Shafer, member of Congress from Michigan, with John Howland Snow of New York, economist, world-traveler and all-around informed American as co-author.

This book is a documented narrative of the slow, steady and insidious infiltration of American schools, colleges and universities by Communist doctrines and an eye-opener to those who are constantly baffled by the flood of young subversives who emerge from our educational institutions each year.

The other is Operation Nightmare by Pat Barham, Pacific Coast newspaper woman and war correspondent, with Frank Cunningham of Santa Monica, California, with a long string of degrees to his credit, writer of syndicated articles, author of prize-winning books and one of the best card-carrying Americans in the United States as co-author.

While The Turning of the Tides adheres to a discussion of Communist infiltration of schools with such fidelity that it would be invaluable as a text-book in educational institutions, Operation Nightmare covers many subjects, all interesting. Perhaps it could be best described as discussing principally what goes on behind the scenes during modern wars and police actions, with enlightening contributions to the sell-out of the Orient by the American State Department and the effective spread of syphilis among American combat troops through the Army's racial "integration" program.

The fact that the two co-authors, John Howland Snow and Frank Cunningham are our personal friends added to our appreciation of the books of course but our thorough enjoyment of them was not influenced by this consideration.

Federal Government Took Away Rights of States and Now the United Nations Is Taking Away Rights of Government

How the rights of the American people are subtly taken away from them without their knowledge is hinted at in an amazing report called "Review of the United Nations Charter" put out by a sub-committee of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In this report known as Senate Document 87, the views of John Foster Dulles are given on pages 288-289 concerning the "Domestic Jurisdiction Clause" of the United Nations Charter.

Now the Domestic Jurisdiction Clause of the U. N. Charter defies explanation unless one has a thousand pages and several months time to elaborate on it. Briefly it takes in everything in the way of "social and economic" problems including the right of the World Government to supervise every individual's activities with the possible exception of brushing his teeth.

This report quotes Dulles as feeling that this Domestic Jurisdictional Clause "engendered special problems" in his country and suggested that we probably would not let the World Court, for instance, "determine the limitations of domestic justice" and that we probably "would not accept the compulsory jurisdiction clause."

While he "stressed the virtue of the principle" he expressed doubt that the United Nations would be allowed to "intervene in the domestic life of the member states."

At the same time, he gave subtle encouragement to One Worlders by reminding them that when the Federal Government in the United States was first set up, it had practically no power while today "the Federal Government of the United States exercises an authority undreamed of when the Constitution was formed."

Now if we can understand an implication that is not spelled out in so many words, Mr. Dulles was saying to the One Worlders, in effect:

"The Federal government of the United States gradually usurped the rights of the States and while the people squawked at first, they were gradually whipped down. If the World Government handles the matter the right way, the rights of the Federal Government of the United States can be taken over the same way."

Anybody else is welcome to their own interpretation of the matter but that's ours.

It is too bad that Richard Nixon is being rapidly whipped into line because he was a good American to start with and was not only aware of the Communist menace but helped to do something about it in the case of Alger Hiss. In a recent Detroit speech, however, he took an oblique slap at Senator McCarthy when he referred to the administration's effort to protect America from those who would destroy freedom "without endangering freedom in the process". Adlai Stevenson, or any other ADA'er or even a Fifth Amendment Communist could not have said it any better.

A Vest-Pocket NATO Is to Be Set Up in the Pacific

Now it is planned to set up a sort of miniature United Nations or vest-pocket NATO in the South Pacific following a movement set in motion by Secretary of State Dulles on a recent trip to Europe.

There is probably nothing that helpless taxpayers can do about it except to pay the bill but we submit that the American people should have some say-so about writing the Charter, this time.

To that end, we submit a memorandum which could serve as a basis for the Charter and suggest that it be written on one piece of foolscap paper and contain this fool-proof agreement:

"We, the undersigned, hereby agree to enter into an Organization composed of the United States and the nations of the South Pacific for the sole and exclusive purposes outlined herein.

The objective of this Organization shall be the mutual protection of each member State, to oppose Communist aggression and to prevent war.

Each member nation hereby agrees to pool its resources, on an equal basis, for the purpose of financing its legitimate activities and to hold its expenditures to the minimum consistent with intelligent and effective conduct and operation of its affairs.

It is understood and agreed that this Organization shall limit its functions so as to conform strictly to the objectives as outlined above and any attempt of any member State to sneak in any Covenants, Pacts or Conventions intended to dictate the social, economic or political policies or custom of the citizens of the member nations, shall automatically cancel the Organization and make it inoperative and void."

Parent-Teacher Group Gets Some Sound Advice

Mrs. Robert E. Meany of Chicago, retiring head of the regional Parent-Teacher association in the Chicago area, offered some good advice to the women of that group as she relinquished her office.

She told them to quit wasting their time on subjects of international and human relations and warned them that they were weakening the influence of parents and teachers by such tactics.

"Our first job is with our children and the schools and not debating foreign affairs" Mrs. Meany said and added that the "human relations" subject always turns into a race relations discussion.

The lady is exactly right. All matters relating to "human rights" "civil rights" "tolerance" and the rest of the propaganda subjects are all part of an international plot, hatched in Moscow, for mongrelization of the white race of the United States.

The National Parent-Teacher organization was one of the first to fall for this propaganda and has done irreparable harm to the best interests of all races in this country by its continual agitation for mixing and mingling of whites and blacks.

YOU CAN'T FIGHT A KING-COBRA WITH A PERFUME ATOMIZER

(Editorial from New York Sunday News)

One of the laws of physics is that every action breeds its opposite and equal reaction. That law frequently appears to apply to politics and shifts in public opinion, as well as to liquids, solids and gases.

For example, let's consider the case of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), and how and why he came to be the burning national issue that he is today.

In Senator McCarthy, the domestic Communists and their fellow travelers have the fiercest, most courageous, least merciful single enemy they have ever yet run afoul of.

His strategy and tactics are fully as shrewd and agile as theirs, and often more so—which is the main reason why they hate his insides. McCarthy has demonstrated that he will never quit his crusade against U. S. Communism as long as he is able to carry it on.

About the only adverse criticism of him which clicks with us is the complaint that now and then he fires off a broadside on the strength of misinformation or insufficient facts. This embarrasses his friends, and gives his enemies ammunition to shoot at him.

By and large, however, we think that McCarthy's heart is squarely in the right place, and that he is doing a job which badly needs to be done.

Well, how did the domestic Reds acquire so relentless an enemy? What produced the force which some people damn and others bless under the name of McCarthyism? What was the action that bred this terrific reaction?

Anybody even sketchily acquainted with the history of this country for the last 20 years can easily figure out the answer to those questions.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt triggered off the McCarthy-producing action when he recognized Soviet Russia in 1933. From that time on, the New-Deal setup was, among other things, a love-nest for Communists.

They had virtually the run of the White House, and of the State Department. Alger Hiss flourished, the Harold Ware Communist cell in Washington prospered, Red spies got about all the information the Kremlin wanted on anything American.

Roosevelt lifted one squawk against Communism, when Russia attacked poor little Finland in 1939. Outside of that, he was Joe Stalin's good friend—and he became the Lend-Lease savior of Russia after Hitler attacked the Soviet in June of 1941.

When Truman took over in 1945 on Roosevelt's death, he continued the policy of slavish "friendship" for Russia, which was, as always since the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution, plotting the eventual conquest of the world. Truman began to see the light in 1947, regarding international Communism. But he could not or would not believe that the Reds who had penetrated the U. S. Government were plotting its violent overthrow.

Perhaps the climax of the action which produced McCarthyism was Truman's crack that the Alger Hiss case was a "Red herring," followed a while later by the conviction of Hiss. Or perhaps it was Truman's firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur for wanting to win the Korean War.

Anyway, the bulk of the American people have been aware for several years now that the Red criminal conspiracy in the United States is real, that it means business, and that the business it means is the enslavement of this country to Moscow and the murder of millions of Americans.

Senator McCarthy is what you might call the living, breathing fighting expression of that American awareness of the nature of the Communist enemy.

If he fights dirty now and then, it is because we are all up against the dirtiest foe imaginable.

And if his words and acts sometimes shock the feelings of refined people, that is because you can't fight a king cobra with a perfume atomizer.

The fierceness and toughness of McCarthy are the direct reaction to the softness and blindness of Roosevelt and Truman toward the Communist enemy. If those Presidents had had more sense, McCarthy would not have been necessary.

For McCarthyism, then credit or blame—as you choose—the New and Fair Dealers who are now screaming the loudest about McCarthyism. They are its legitimate parents, and they look more than foolish when they try to disown their offspring.

It Sounded All Right but It Didn't Mean Anything

In a left-handed slap at the McCarthy Committee for its excellent work in exposing Communists in government, in the Army and in other strategic positions of trust, Attorney General Herbert Brownell said in a television address:

"The FBI, the Department of Justice and the courts are your agents in dealing with this Communist conspiracy. All are vigilant in their readiness to meet any move or emergency which the Communist Party in America might precipitate."

This all sounds very well except that it doesn't mean anything.

Everybody knows how vigilant the FBI is and how vigilant it has always been in flushing out Communists. But they also know how futile this has been when the Department of Justice has refused to prosecute and the White House has suppressed the evidence which the FBI dug up.

They have not forgotten that the FBI warned time and again about Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White being enemy agents and the only result was for these two traitors to be promoted to higher and more responsible positions.

Also they have not forgotten that it was a Federal Court which threw out part of an indictment against Owen Lattimore when a Committee of the Senate proved him guilty of perjury in his answers to that group.

The point Brownell was apparently trying to make is that investigating committees of Congress are not necessary in combatting the Communist conspiracy, but we don't believe the American people will buy his idea.

A good way for the administration to prove it is sincere in wanting to oust Communists from their entrenched positions is to quit playing petty politics and line up solidly behind the investigating committees of the Senate who are getting the job done while others in the administration merely blow off steam.

From a subscriber in Savannah, Georgia: I do not think you need to "eat crow" concerning your original views on women voters. While there is a fine minority of patriotic women such as those you name, the majority seem to be on the "liberal" side. I have never seen where the League of Women Voters have been on anything but the anti-American side. The same goes for the American Association of University Women. All of the women librarians in the country seem to be "liberal" and the Federation of Womens Clubs vote for international anti-American rot. If the women whose sons are caught like African slaves and sent to fight useless and non-sensical wars under a foreign flag, would rise up in a body, there might be some hope."

Ray Carroll, Billings, Montana news commentator, has his own pledge which all Americans worthy of the name would do well to make their own: "I pledge my allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible with liberty and justice for all; and I do not now, nor will I ever, give allegiance to the Flag of the United Nations, nor to any other Flag which seeks to replace the Flag of the United States of America."
