General Control Of Campus Clubs Given To Council

The last of a series of resolutions, which affirms general control of the Student Council over clubs and other organizations on the campus, was signed by Dean N. K. Dupre last week.

Passed by the Student Council at the last meeting, the bill requires every club and organization on the campus which has already been recognized by the administration to file immediately with the Secretary of the Student Council, Alice David, a copy of its officially approved constitution. According to Foster Montgomery, president of the Council, this requirement was not made for the purpose of intruding the Council in the internal affairs of the club.

Song Purchased By English Corp. Written by Student

"I'm Not Leaving You," a popular song written by Lee S. Keding, was recently sold to the Odeon Music Corporation of London, England.

Keding is a junior student of the University of Houston and has written many songs during his career. Other than writing songs, he does broadcasting work over local stations here in Houston, and has given musical concerts in nearby towns.

Keding obtained his musical education from the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Students interested in writing lyrics for a new school song are requested by Keding to contact him and through combined efforts write a new university song.

Doc Hiller Born In Washington D. C. Says, 'I am a Man Without a Country'

By DONALD JEPPESEN

Doc? Baldie? No, just plain Dr. Hiller, versatile university bursar and English teacher. His full name? C. F. Hiller, sir.

It is doubtful if there is a person in the university who has had any more interesting life than Dr. Hiller.

In 1920 Dr. Hiller decided to go to Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, enter Leigh University and work for his B. A. degree.

When asked where he was born he smiled, shrugged his shoulders and said, "Sir, I am a man without a country. I was born in Washington, D. C."

He entered Harvard in 1929. In the summer of 1930 he went to Notre Dame, then off to the University of Paris in France. In 1932 he was awarded by Harvard the Soltonstall Scholarship of Foreign Study and Travel. "You know I was half way to France before I could really believe that I had been awarded that scholarship. It's such an honor."

"We marvel at the hospitality of the old South, at times, but let me tell you, in France, Spain, and Belgium the faculty of the various European schools had me as their house guest, and do they put on the dog!"

What was the most outstanding event in his life? "Well—I had the opportunity to make the speech of thanks on the part of the American professors being given a reception by the French Senate at the Palace of Luxembourg. The great part of

Recreation Committee Plans Carnival On Campus April 25 With High School Reception

Funds From Affair To Be Used To Build Student Center; Joe Potter Named Head

Plans are being made by the recreation committee for the carnival to be held April 25 in conjunction with the annual high school reception on the campus of the university.

The main objective of the carnival is to raise funds for the student recreation building which will be started before next fall.

Joe Potter has been appointed by Dr. W. W. Kemmerer general chairman to arrange the plans, and student committees to work with Potter will be appointed within the next week so that definite arrangements may be made with regard to the program to be carried out.

Campus space to be used is the south portion of the grounds from the Cullen Building on St. Bernard and Wheeler.

Plans have been definitely worked out to have a gigantic elevated platform for dancing and also from which to present the representatives from the high schools. Arrangements have been made for each campus organization to operate various booths.

Students who have as yet not been contacted but who would be interested in assisting in any field for the carnival are asked to see Joe Potter or Mrs. Pearl C. Bender immediately.

"We will need all kinds of help to put on the affair, which includes electricians, artists, bookkeepers, publicity men, and anything you could possibly name. We solicit the help of everyone in the university," stated Potter.

SPWING, SPWING!

Spwing has come! The little flower plants are beginning to show their tiny heads above the surface of good ole' mother earth. The trees are sprouting green, tender leaves, and the birds are happily singing. Oh happy day!

The smell of romance permeates the air, and happy young couples flood the campus walking hand in hand. Ain't love grand!

La-di-ah-di-ah-a. Ain't we silly!

The THEATRE

By JOE MABERRY

ALMOST obliterated in Clark Gable's contribution to the official program of "Gone With the Wind" is this short phrase . . . "It may be of interest as a sidelight that my own sincere choice for Rhett was Ronald Colman. I still think he would have done a fine job of it." Which might have been just some press agent's bright idea for a bit of publicity for Gable.

Be that as it may, Ronald Coleman is a smooth, he-man veteran actor and his acting in such films as "Lost Horizon" has won many a fan for him.

So when Paramount decided to produce Rudyard Kipling's most famous novel "The Light That Failed" a logical choice was Coleman to play the journalist-painter, Helder.

Kipling's story deals with the Sudan campaign where Helder is a war correspondent . . . of the battles with the Fuzzy-Wuzzy tribesmen and the British soldiers . . . of Torpenhow (Walter Huston) who encourages an artistic talent in young Helder . . . meeting again his childhood sweetheart on his return to England . . . of his painting his greatest picture . . . of approaching blindness and his feverish haste to complete the picture before this blindness . . . of the destruction of the picture before this blindness . . . of the destruction of the picture by an enraged waif . . . and of this destruction . . .

GANGSTER TURNS DOCTOR

"Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet" is the story of the little cigar chewing Jew who devoted his life to the cure of social diseases. William Dieterich who directed "The Story of Louis Pasteur" and "The Life of Emile Zola" also directed this movieography giving it the same social meaning and power that those pictures possessed.

Warner Brothers, who produced the film, have taken pains to keep certain medical words and terms from the press releases and before releasing had considerable trouble getting by the Hayes office.

Edward G. Robinson plays the role of Dr. Ehrlich. Ruth Gordon from Broadway to play Mary Todd Lincoln, plays Ehrlich. While 70-year old German Refugee Albert Basserman takes the part of Koch, the doctor's colleague.

This could or could not be taken for propaganda (as is the case of quite a number of Warner Bros. latest pictures) for a certain group of persecuted people. Which may or may not be for the best even though most of us are in sympathy with the cause it seems a bad policy to open up this fertile field to the ravages of propaganda for good or bad, even though in this case the only trace of propaganda might be the enlightening that so many of this race have contributed much to humanity.

Club Presidents Meet Mar. 8 With Hamilton

Presidents of campus organizations are requested to meet March 6 in Room 104-C with Guy Hamilton and Frank McKenny to discuss club pages and pictures for the annual.

St. Joseph's College has discontinued football as an intercollegiate sport.

Squires Meet

The University of Houston Squires have established a new program executed by Buster Mayes and Gerald Schlieff.

The Squires decided to organize a day-school division which will meet March 8, at 12 o'clock in Room 114-C. Students wishing to join can attend the meeting.

Completion of Wheeler Expected Within Ten Days Says Reinicke

In a statement yesterday, Commissioner Ben Reinicke said that the work on Wheeler Street had been speeded up, and if fair weather prevails the thoroughfare will be open to traffic within the next 10 days.

Wheeler is the street which bounds the south side of the university campus, and with its connection to Scott Road provides a means of those living in South End to come to the school.

French Club

The French club will have a dinner in the cafeteria Friday at 1 o'clock. A French hors d'oeuvre, prepared by Mr. Jules Vern, will be served.

Sterne Sterne Advocates Red Flower Brigade

POSSIBLY it is not seemly for a column usually devoted to student politics and government to be used for the discussion of social customs, but we feel that there is one phase of our student etiquette that should be accented.

Several of our dances lately have been marked by a noticeable lack of general tagging. A select group of girls have enjoyed practically all the popularity, while the majority of the dates have danced with only five or six boys during the whole evening.

There has been no particular reason for the lack of notice of these forgotten girls. Merely because a considerable number of the escorts of these girls have acquired a reputation of not looking after their dates. They bring them, dance with them until someone cuts-in, and then promptly join the line following some favorite.

They will dance a few steps with the lucky co-ed, give her up to another boy who will in turn dance a few steps, only to yield her to still another. This goes on the whole evening, with no one enjoying a full dance with the girl.

Meanwhile the forgotten dates have been growing steadily more bored and embarrassed, knowing that the boy dancing with her, although he enjoyed the first two or three dances is becoming restless to be away, and blaming her for the situation. He is deciding in his mind that she is a Jonah, and must be avoided in the future.

During all this time, the same thing has been happening all over the floor. Consequently, by the time half the dance is over, all of the stags are concentrated around a few girls who have been getting a rush, who the boys can be certain they will not get stuck with.

Our contention is that all of this can be avoided. On the campuses of older and more established schools, there is a custom which demands that escorts come back to their dates at least every third dance. Of course the possibility of their being able to do this rests on their ability to cut in on girls they will not get stuck with, that is it does under our system now.

But if the custom became general here, it would be "safe" to cut in on any one they pleased, and know that the most they would be able to dance with any girl was three dances. No one would get stuck, the girls would all have a good time. And too, more different girls would be asked to the dances.

There are many co-eds on the campus who do not get around as much as they might, merely because they are not asked due to the fear that the boys who takes them will have to dance with them all evening. Not that they are bad dancers at all, but twenty or thirty dances with Irene Castle herself would become a bore.

We suggest that the Red Flower Brigade get into the swing again. Start the circle. Help out the boys who have the nerve to drag dates to the dances.

National Notes FROM OTHER CAMPUSES

RED HEADED WOMEN

FORT WORTH, TEXAS — More than 50 Texas Christian University co-eds had artificially colored red hair today in retaliation for the acts of 20 football players who clipped their own hair short.

Displeased by the athletes' fearsome appearance, the girls went to the campus beauty shop to have their hair dyed red. One student football manager was an "in-between." He was lured into the beauty shop on the promise of a free shampoo, but he also came out with red hair.

PENNY WISHES

AUSTIN, TEXAS — (ACP) — Pennies dropped into the "wishing well" at the University of Texas may not bring the wisher his wish, but they add to the mounting pile of coins university librarians are saving to "buy something nice for the rare book room."

The "wishing well" in this instance is a fifteenth century marble well-head, brought to this country from Italy and given to the university. It stands on the roof garden just outside one of the nation's outstanding rare book collections, on the fourth floor of the skyscraper main building.

And on Our Campus

With spring on its way, things are beginning to pick up on our campus . . . Peggy Jean Bay gaily sings at her work . . . Shirley Hayes imitating a "glamour boy" even though he was not one . . . Mary Jo Hogan wanting to stay at school instead of going home . . . Donald Jeppesen haunting the cafeteria . . . George Terry hustling to school from work . . . Sue Morgan having a date at 12 o'clock with handsome R. C. . . . Patty Nelson, Dorothy Moore, and Rosaline Meadows sun-gazing from Vern's window . . . Thelma Isaacks turning on the Louisiana personality . . . Kitty Lou Dawson quoting Walter Winchell . . . Robert Pipes slaying the women with that smile . . . Larry Wilkerson making a Sunday date . . . Grace Keller talking over holiday plans with Jerry Leinweber . . . Fubba Paris living the part of "You Can't Take It With You" . . . Phyllis Greer to play tennis.

Williams Bill, setting up the Student Assembly knowledge of the membership, organization, purpose, and enrollment of the clubs is necessary to the Council in order that it may officially recognize the representatives elected by the clubs, organizations and classes on the assembly.

Clubs which are to be organized in the future must go through the following procedure: A petition will be filed with the Council stating the purpose, and giving a list of the organizers. When this is approved by the Council, and the club has then set up their constitution, a copy will be turned over to the Council for approval.

After the Council has approved this copy, the club is then entitled to recognition by the school, and its two representatives on the assembly will also be recognized.

New Member Added To Accounting Dept For Spring Term

Emmett B. Day, professor in the accounting department, has recently come to the university to take the place of L. L. Jones, who has accepted a position in the University of Texas.

Poet's Corner

FICKLE WOMEN

By Ralph Clinton

"When lovely woman stoops to folly,"
 Some learned gent once said,—
 She'll be reduced to melancholy,
 And forever hide her head.
 "A woman is only a woman,
 But a good cigar's a smoke!"
 Kipling and Service were comrades
 Ere Lou had "pinched her poke."
 "I've taken my fun where I've found it,"
 Was laid in a Burmese Camp:
 But I'll bet you arf a shillin'
 That 'e left 'er there, the scamp.
 "Sally in Our Alley"
 Was only a spotted cat:
 And the "Villain who pursued her"
 Was one of our brothers RAT.
 "How do I Love Thee?"
 Was written as proper stuff . . .
 But the woman who "counted the ways"
 Was carrying through a bluff.
 Helen of Troy and Persephone
 Were beautiful beyond a doubt,
 But Paris failed, and Odysseus had What others were without.
 "Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady"
 Were "Sisters under the skin!"
 And Marcus and Cleo were lovers—
 'Til Caesar busted in!
 "Romeo and Juliet"
 Were prob'ly the perfect pair,
 'Til the Author thought of Suicide,
 In a cold, dank, horrid lair.
 "Ship me somewhere's east of Suez"
 Wasn't said in trifling jest:
 That fellow knew his women,
 At their worst and at their best.
 You can trust 'em damn 'em,
 As you can a rattlesnake
 But we never learn to know 'em,
 'Til they have had their "take."
 So call your friend Mrs. 'Auksbee,
 An' 'have yer spot o' tea,
 She's old an' wise, an' full o' years:
 She'll set ye right—you'll see!

SPRING STARTS POLITICAL BALL ROLLING

By JOHNNY GOYEN

March 1 saw the first few days of spring come to the new campus, and with spring comes the political fever to the politically ambitious—who are interested in being the next council president or the next councilman-at-large.

Backers of Henry Taub, a very popular former class representative to the council and recently elected Glamour Boy, have been trying to urge Taub to throw his hat in the ring, and oppose Weed Peterson for the presidency of the Student Association. It has been known for sometime that many of the present members of the council intend to support Peterson and to run for re-election themselves, so the announcement that Taub may be a candidate came as a fear-shattering thunderbolt from the blue to them. Peterson is also a very popular figure in campus life, and Taub said the only reason he hesitates in announcing for the race is his great respect for Peterson's ability.

Ellison Miles, present councilman, may prove the darkhorse in the presidential campaign and come through with the job if the votes are split between Taub and Peterson. Miles has the support of a large number of the social set. C. W. (Bill) Williams is day school president of the junior class, hence occupying a seat on the council.

Hal Berry, who re-enrolled at mid-term after a half-year sidetrip to the University of Texas, is expected to seek the vice-presidency, being opposed by Ray Campbell, night school prexy of the junior class.

As yet no one has made known their ambitions towards the secretary's job that Alice David now holds. David has refused to run again for this job.

Councilmen-at-large, representing two seats on the council, will be the most hotly contested positions as the largest number of office-seekers have already made known their plans to try for these coveted jobs.

Those whose hats are already in the ring are Hugh Walker, a newcomer in student politics; Alice David, present council secretary and co-editor of The Cougar; Billy Miller, council member for the past five years, trying to reign a sixth; and Jack Valenti, famous so far this year for his dramatic address and attention gaining speeches in open forums and debates. Valenti is also vice-president of the freshman class.

LET'S GO—

DINING and DANCING

WITH JIMMY JORDAN

"TO DECIDE"

You have shown me once again,
That even love to you could be a fake
So now I'm undecided what to do,
I know not just which course to take.
Should I quit or just sit back in shame
And like the rest just have a laugh,
Because someone you know, into my coveted world
Has come and dared to cross my path.

For shame! if I should suddenly break away
You'll know it was just my pride that ran,
'Cause my heart you still will always hold
Although you've burnt it with a searing brand.
But if you can, come to me and tell
My love or what of me you may desire
For I can't keep holding high the flare
And feed the flame, yet stomp the fire.

I leave you with and hope you take
My single wretched heart;
The verdict for my happiness you must decide
For Casa Nova can't, he's played his part.

NICKIE & OUTFIT . . . The council quickly tabled the nickelodian question because the Dean objected to it . . . thought the council was supposed to take the student's side and work for them in any question . . . we hope the council will reconsider and help get it back . . . at least take some action on the situation . . .

FRATERNITY ISSUE * * * * * PROS-CONS ARGUED * * * * * IN POST ARTICLE

College students, "Greeks" and "barbs" alike, will find food for thought and argument in the March 2 issue of The Saturday Evening Post, wherein are presented divergent views on the Greek-letter organizations.

Margaret Weymouth Jackson, herself a Pi Beta Phi and former secretary to a college dean, concerns herself fictionally with some of the less attractive aspects of the college sorority. In her short story, "Goon Castle," Mrs. Jackson tells of an attractive girl who, upon failing to make a sorority at her state university, comes to the conclusion that her college career is ruined. But since there was more to Judith than her background she decides to see how the "other half" lives, a la dormitory. What she finds in the "Goon Castle," contends Mrs. Jackson, is something too many college students miss entirely.

While Mrs. Jackson is painting her picture of the problems of the "Greeks" and the glories of the "barbs," Fred H. Turner, dean of men at the University of Illinois, on other pages of the same issue of the Post, labors on a canvas of a different theme which depicts the fraternities and sororities as filling a real need in the social lives of our college students.

In part, Dean Turner says, "Fraternity or sorority life is not essential to the student, but if there is no fraternity or sorority life there will be a substitute for it in some form, either dormitories, organized houses, or group systems. Fraternities and sororities are well established and are trying to do their share, not to make the institutions accept them but to make them more acceptable to the institutions."

come on out . . . the heretofore busted romances of Norma Jean S. and Henry Taub, and Lois Sheehan and Guy Holton seem to have been patched up . . . that is for the present anyway . . .

Cougar Pucksters Lose To Beaumont Hockey Team 5-0

By John Ellis

The university pucksters journeyed to Beaumont last Sunday night where they lost a hard-fought, thrill-packed game to the Texas Ice Palace Rangers by the score of 5-0. Jack Bissell, former captain of Princeton University's hockey team, led the Rangers to their first victory of the season scoring four of the five goals scored.

The game was one of the cleanest yet played on the Beaumont rink with only two good fights and four penalties for illegal blocking. The Cougars were compelled to play with a six-man team and were handicapped because of the change of play on a small rink.

Fubba "Hairless Joe" Paris was outstanding on defense for the university and Harry Girard took honors as top wing in the forward wall. Gordon Reese, although he was one of the smallest men on the ice, made up for his lack of size by his speedy skating and kept the Ranger's defense busy checking his desperate attempts to score.

Jack Busby, Cougar goalie, was not able to attain his usual form and accounted for only five saves; however, the goals scored by the Rangers were the results of good passes which left an opening for sure shots.

Marcus Jones at center and Rudolph Fenzl as the other defensive man were the other starters for the university. Carl Eckhardt and Lee Blocker proved valuable as spares and played better than the score indicates.

The game was broadcast over radio station KRIC and was attended by a large, enthusiastic crowd of Beaumont fans.

Rice Engineers Defeat Cougars By 37-32 Score

A fast-breaking basketball team composed of engineers from Rice Institute defeated the university cagers 37-32 last Thursday night at the San Jacinto gym.

The Rice team got off to an early lead that proved too stiff for the Cougars to overcome in their last period rally.

Harry Hope led Cougar scorers with 12 points; he was closely followed by Gordon Reese and John Ellis with nine each.

pected to support a reform ticket," said co-editor Abbey. "The University of Houston, for the first time, is actually showing some interest in student affairs. Due to this, I, like many other students, think that new blood should replace the old student who have in the past made a profession of politics, for their own selfish reasons."
