

Repave It and Rename It! St. Bernard to Cullen Boulevard!

AN EDITORIAL

Stately buildings and soggy ditches; resplendent landscaping and rutted asphalt; beautiful campus and battered pavement. What a mocking paradox—the University of Houston cheek by jowl with a stretch of earth, charitably referred to as a street. And to add flagrant insult to agonizing injury, the street is named after a shaggy dog, in keeping no doubt with its state of disrepair.

Try driving down St. Bernard, you indescribably fortunate people who have not tasted such an experience. When it rains a little, your car rumbles hub-deep in the gooiest mud to be found; on a dry day, your auto plays leap frog over jagged craters surely born of the Hiroshima bomb!

But the ten-strike crowning blow that, to reveal our vigorous talent for coining phrases, takes the rag off'n the bush is the name of this disheveled autoban. St. Bernard! No namesake of a pious man of God this thoroughfare, but rather the identity of a canine whose chief claim to enduring fame is soulful eyes and a cask under his chin. If this isn't a travesty on justice, we'll turn in our suit.

If the Ex-Students have ever gathered into a phalanx for a crusade, this, surely, is it. There is no sound, logical, sensible reason for the street in front of the University to resemble a rumpled ribbon; there is no justification for people to transport themselves over this street at the peril of life, limb, and axle. Moreover, whatever the motive for the christening of "St. Bernard," there remains none today. That street should now, instantly, be renamed CULLEN BOULEVARD in honor of the school's most devoted friend.

Here now is an opportunity for ex-students to demonstrate their solidarity. The hundreds of you who have pressed for this crusade now have your desire fulfilled. The thousands more of you who are thinking these thoughts have a task. Contact City Council; tell your councilmen to start the wheels turning. Repave it—rename it! St. Bernard to Cullen Boulevard.

Scholarship Drive Needs Immediate Help From Exes

Only 100 Ex-Students Give $1,000 Thus Far

The 1950 Scholarship Fund Drive of the Ex-Students Association has a long way to go if it is to be even fairly successful, Jack Valenti, President of the Ex-Students Association, reports.

Of the $5,000 goal, only $1,000 has been received as of November 16. Only slightly more than 100 Exes have contributed. Johnnq Goyen, Executive Secretary of the Ex-Students, has announced.

The total fund must be in the hands of the Association by January, if the drive is to be a success, Valenti said.

However, only one letter had been sent to the Exes asking for donations to the Fund Drive. Another will be in the mails shortly.

"No single action of the Exes could do as much for the people of Texas as the Scholarship Fund Drive does," Valenti said.

Ten promising and brilliant high school seniors will be awarded one year scholarships to the University. All seniors in the state of Texas will be eligible. Scholarships will be awarded in the field of Science, Fine Arts, Journalism, Languages, Home Economics, Social Sciences, Engineering, Business Administration, Education, and Architecture.

1948 Homecoming Queen in Magazine

Dolores Becker, 1948 homecoming queen for the University, is pictured in the October issue of Southern Coach and Athlete.

Each month the magazine, published in Atlanta, Ga., publishes a picture of a southern coed. Dolores was chosen for the coed for October after the sports news section of the University public relations office submitted a picture and information about her.

Last month "Southern Coach and Athlete," a magazine for coaches, players, officials, and fans, carried a history of University of Houston athletics. The article, written by the sports news section of the public relations office, was entitled "From Rompers to Full Dress."

Six Games on 1950 Gridiron Schedule

Six games for the 1950 Cougar football team have been scheduled, according to an announcement last week by Harry Fouke, athletic director.

As the present schedule now stands, the University will open its season September 23 against a yet un-named opponent.

The second and third games will be against Baylor at Waco, and Kansas State at Houston. The following week, October 14, has not been scheduled pending further negotiations with colleges still unnamed.

One week later the Cougars take on Hardin-Simmons at Abilene. The next two dates, October 28 and November 4, are still open.

North Texas state college, the Cougars next opponent, will meet the University in Houston on November 11. The University will play Hardin college the following week here.

Trinity, the Cougar's tenth foe, will play host to the University in San Antonio. The last game, on November 21, is unscheduled.

Giant Municipal Stadium Out; Cougars To Have Own In 1951

The muchly discussed mammoth Municipal stadium, seating some 100,000 persons, appeared to be a dream last week when Rice Institute announced that it would build its own stadium.

This announcement made it imperative for the University of Houston to take the same course, as the Cougars will need more seating capacity in the very near future, Corbin J. Robertson, the University's representative on the Municipal stadium planning committee

Exes' Board Votes To Repave and Rename St Bernard

"Repave St. Bernard and change its name to Cullen Boulevard!"

This was the unanimous opinion of the Ex-Students Board of Directors at their last meeting on November 2.

The Board said that the street was a disgrace to the beautiful and rapidly growing University of Houston, and that the street should bear the name of the man who built the University.

The Board also asked that all Ex-Students write to the City Council voicing their approval of the project which has long been overdue.

"With the steady growth of the University, its tremendous enrollment, and the football fans using this road, it is imperative that the street be widened and paved immediately to adequately dispense traffic," the Board went on record as saying.

said. "The University cooperated fully in the municipal stadium idea," Robertson said, "but now it will be a necessity for the University to have its own stadium. We hope to have our own stadium ready for the 1951 season," he added. The University's proposed stadium is expected to seat approximately 65,000 fans.

Rice trustees have agreed to allow the University to use its new stadium, "for as many years as it wants to," but University Board Chairman H. R. Cullen refused the kind offer in a letter to the Rice trustees. The letter read in part as follows:

"The students of the University of Houston are very proud of their university for, being newly born, they helped to build it. They have a wonderful spirit and I do not want to do anything to hurt their spirit. The University of Houston is democracy at its best where higher education rubs elbows with the student in overalls.

"There are so many wonderful technical schools and universities in our country, but there is only one University of Houston—it is as modern as the atomic bomb.

"Considering the things I have said, it would be best for Rice Institute to name its stadium 'Rice Stadium.'

"If the Rice trustees leave their offer open to play in their stadium in 1950, I am sure the University of Houston football team will avail itself of the opportunity to play there. We hope by 1951 to have our own stadium on our own campus."

Cougar fans will remember at last year's football banquet when Mr. Cullen said that very shortly the University would be playing the best teams in the nation. With regard to this Mr. Robertson said that he believed that at the football banquet honoring this year's football team the football schedule for 1950 and 1951 would be announced. The banquet will be held sometime late in January of 1950, he said.

Burning Bonfires

A rash of campus-painting and bon-fire burning both by and on the University of Houston campus has enlivened recent news columns.

Colleges as far away as William and Mary and as close as Rice Institute are unhappily scraping off paint and rebuilding bonfires. And every once in a while the Cougar campus needs some paint removing fluid.

Many oldsters among the Ex-Students are apt to lift an aged eyebrow and mutter, "What are college students coming to these days?"

The truth is, the University of Houston has more spirit, fiery and otherwise, than do most other colleges combined. The most news-worthy indication of this is the above mentioned high-jinks.

But, above and beyond this surface spirit is a deeper interest and love of the University, and a healthy interest in education and progress that is making academic news throughout the nation.

These escapades are in reality a very healthy sign for the University and for the Ex-Students Association.

Exes Find Owning Business Interesting and Profitable

By GEORGE W. MILLER

While it is the dream of a great many young men to own and successfully operate their own business upon leaving college, only a small percentage of these make the plunge. Of these, only a minute few are able to declare in the final analysis that they have withstood the acid test of time.

Many of those who have started out to be "their own boss," and have fallen by the wayside, will inevitably say, with an air of nostalgia, that the era which was once described as the age of ingenuity, the epoch of free enterprise, and the day of the self-made man has passed.

Two young men, however, both graduates of the University of Houston, are either completely unaware of the passing of such an era, or look in complete disbelief at its demise. These two, E. R. (Randy) Cockrell, Jr. and J. L. Sibley, are finding that, while the effort expended at being one's own boss is admittedly prodigious, the outlay of energy more than repays itself in service to the community, in self-satisfaction, and in financial independence.

The fruit of their labors, the Em-raco Production Laboratory, stands at 4928 Griggs Road, here in Houston. Their business—oil well core analysis.

To the uninitiated, core analysis is a highly specialized oil well service requiring a thorough knowledge of geology, chemistry, physics, and mathematics, and more than a smattering of those less tangible assets, elbow grease and good sense. Briefly, it is concerned with the analyzing of sub-surface formations through which an oil well is being drilled. This analysis determines the capacity these formations have for storing, or allowing the flow of, a fluid or a gas. With the information gained from a careful processing of these cores, the possibilities of that particular well producing oil or gas can be predicted with a high degree of accuracy.

Randy Cockrell, 28, having gained laboratory experience in core analysis working with the Shell Oil Company while studying at the U. of H., received his B. S. degree in chemistry in 1944. After graduation, he took a job as field engineer with the Schlumberger Oil Well Surveying Corporation where he gained extensive experience in the oil fields of Louisiana. After two and one half years with Schlumberger, Cockrell left to go into business for himself. In February, 1947, he leased the present location on busy,

Exes Are Wed In October Ceremony

Miss Gwendolyn Garrison and Woodard Harrison Allen Jr. were wed Saturday, October 22, in St. Paul's Methodist Church. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Garrison, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Allen of Wichita Falls.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, which was designed with a deep yoke of illusion edged with a duffle of Chantilly lace. The skirt extended into a cathedral-length train. She carried a cascade arrangement of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John Kennedy, matron of honor, wore American Beauty Velvet. Teal blue velvet gowns were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Janise Washman, Miss Marry Berryman, Miss Gene Church and Miss Ada Catherine Robinett.

Best man was Easton Allen and Bob Cochran, Frank Matthews and one Staughter were groomsmen.

For the wedding trip to San Antonio, Mrs. Allen Jr., chose an aqua suit, black accessories and an orchid corsage.

She attended the University and the groom was graduated from the University. Delta Sigma is the bride's sorority.

The couple will make their home in Houston.

industrial Griggs Road, converted the building from the dairy it had once been, and utilized only a portion of the thousand square feet of floor space for laboratory equipment. Gradually the business expanded.

In June of 1948, Jim Sibley, 28, graduated with a B. B. A. degree from the U. of H., and soon he and Cockrell had their heads together. In July of that year, a partnership was formed, with Cockrell as Chief Engineer and Sibley as Business Manager. Sibley was well qualified for his title, having been quite active on the U. of H. campus. There he worked as a counselor in the Veterans' Guidance Office, was President of the Business Association, was a Straw Boss of the Frontiersmen, served as a member of the Frontier Fiesta Committee, all while making the honor roll in 1947 and 1948, and being listed in Who's Who among college students in America.

From the start, the association of these two proved profitable. At present, the entire thousand square feet of the original laboratory is occupied with equipment. A traveling laboratory, now being outfitted for field work and for operation directly at the well site, is nearing completion. Its possibilities as a

The marriage of Miss Frances Ann Burton and Kenneth S. Howard has been announced recently by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Burton. The groom is the son of Mrs. J. L. Howard.

At the ceremony in the Church of the Redeemer Mr. Burton gave his daughter in marriage. She wore an ankle-length white wool gabardine dress with white satin trim, fashioned with a pointed basque and full circular skirt. A cap of gabardine and satin held her veil of illusion. She carried a white prayer book topped with white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Perry H. Caldwell, Jr., was the matron of honor, and Russell Pooley was best man. Kenneth Pitts and Perry H. Caldwell, Jr. ushered. The couple are now at home in Houston.

Both have attended the University where Mrs. Howard was a member of Pi Delta. She was a beauty and was active in Varsity Varieties.

time saver are limitless, for cores will be analyzed immediately upon removal from the well, and results made known at once.

In the last ten months, employment at Embraco has increased 150% with the hiring of three full time laboratory technicians, all of whom are college graduates, two from the U. of H. Clyde V. Byers worked full time at Embraco while completing his work at the University and was graduated in June, 1949, a member of the first class of petroleum engineers ever graduated from the U. of H. John Burda received his degree in Mechanical Engineering from the U. of H., also in June, 1949. Thomas Day is a graduate in Chemistry from the 1948 class at Texas Wesleyan.

As if the University of Houston were not well enough represented at Embraco, both Mrs. Cockrell, the former Mary Willie Greene, and Mrs. Sibley, Nee Ruth James, are ex-students.

Besides their work on core analysis, which sometimes runs their stay at the laboratory into the wee small hours of the morning, and more often from one day into the next, Cockrell and Sibley found time to work diligently on the sale of season tickets for the U. of H. football games this fall. They were among the top salesmen on the list.

Yes, to those who feel that the age of ingenuity, of free enterprise, of the self-made man is dead and buried, they need mourn no longer. At Embraco Production Laboratory, 4928 Griggs Road, a couple of hard working guys have exhumed the body and have breathed a bit of life and hope back into the tattered old corpse.

Dave "Ubangi" Yipp and Carolyn Richter practice one of their many original acts in photo 3. All this and more too will be presented on December 2 and 3, at 8:30 p.m. in the Music Hall. Tickets for the show may be bought at Holt's Sporting Goods store or at Bonds in downtown Houston. Ducats are also on sale on the campus. Reserved seats are $1.45 and unreserved seats are $1.00.

Varsity Varieties, All U.H. Talent Show To Be Held In Music Hall On Dec. 2, 3

By PHILIP BROCHSTEIN

Varsity Varieties of 1950, the annual all-student musical review, will open a two-night run at the Music Hall, December 2.

This production will be the ninth presentation since its inception in 1941 when Jack Valenti, Gene Cuny, and Velma Galny decided to offer the student body a show that would give talented people an opportunity to perform.

The proposed review would also give The Cougar a chance to obtain money to establish a scholarship fund. Among other things the show would sponsor a Varsity Venus, the queen of Varsity Varieties.

The army, navy, and other military branches were arriving on the campus, and Varsity Varieties would act as means of promoting spirit between them and the civilian students.

The first show was held on the Metropolitan stage December 5, 1941, two days before Pearl Harbor. Jack Valenti employed his ability as a master of ceremonies when he acted as director of "Vox Pop", one of the features of that show.

Subsequent reviews were presented on the Music Hall, with the exception of Varieties of 1948, which was offered at the Red Masque playhouse. The two following shows were presented at the Hall.

The 1950 edition will probably end the off-campus productions, for with the completion of the 1800-seat auditorium, the review will find a permanent place on the campus. Very appropriately, next year's show which is the tenth, will be the first Varieties to be presented on the new auditorium stage.

It was during the war years that Varieties gained stature. Frontier Fiesta, the other all-student activity, had to be discontinued, and students gave their attention to the review.

The drama department shared co-partnership with the journalism department. Some of the shows had the cooperation of the music department, and student government.

Varieties of 1950 will be sponsored by the journalism and drama departments. George Durbin, who directed last year's production, is repeating his chore.

Unlike last year's offering, this review will be a series of musical numbers, presenting dancing, singing, and comedy.

The Varieties committee is offering a plaque to the campus club selling the most tickets.

The climax of the review will be the presentation of Miss Varsity Venus. Six girls, from a field of 24, each representing a recognized campus club, are vying for the honor.

An innovation will be established in the presentation of Venus, when she received a gold statue.

A precedent will be established when Miss Venus is awarded a gold statue. She will also be the recipient of a course in modeling and charm from Kay Corderman.

Tom Clark is handling publicity; Billye Jean Taylor is choreographer, and Charlie Snyder is assistant director.

Tickets are now on sale at the Student Activities office on the campus, and at Holt's and Bond's.

Hard Head Helpful Says Coach Lee

Coach Clyde Lee and Center Ivis Rister got in a little extra skull drill as they collided on the football field recently.

Lee ordered the center to run straight at him and he would do all the dodging. Rister, former Reagan high school center, did what he was told but Lee didn't dodge quick enough. Lee and Rister knocked heads with a very solid note.

Lee got only a slight bruise and a scratch above his right eye, but Rister was sent to the trainers room bleeding under his left eye.

As if the Cougars don't already have enough injuries among them. Coach Lee has to go around sidelining them by knocking noodles!

IN WEATHER THAT MIGHT BE CHARACTERIZED AS COLD, the Cougar football team pose in front of the Zippo Manufacturing Company, in Bradford, Pennsylvania. The Cougars were en route to Olean, N. Y., where they met the St. Bonaventure eleven. Through the courtesy of Howard Yates, Zippo sales manager, and Dave Miller, Houston (and Texas) representative of the company, the entire team and coaching staff were presented with Zippo lighters, with their signatures engraved.

Pasche Anxious To Meet Nation's Top Hoopsters

The Cougar basketball squad, still confining workout to the study of fundamentals, is looking forward to meeting such opponents as Bradley Tech's Indians later in the season, Head coach Alden Pasche said this week.

The basketball mentor mentioned the Indians specifically. He explained that one of the nation's top cage coaches, Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, had recently predicted that Bradley Tech would be basketball's "Team of the Year," this season.

Pasche expressed disappointment at the performance given by his squad in its first scrimmage game against the local amateur team. "We should improve with practice, however," he said.

A bright spot on the Cougar team so far has been the improvement of Dick Berg. The 6-foot 2-inch center, who was second-team all-conference last year, has shown great improvement in his workouts this year, Pasche said. "Dick will probably not score as many points this year as he did last, simply because I have switched him to a position on the foul line," Pasche said. "But I expect much better overall performance from Berg."

Yea! Cougars---Beat St. Louis U.

Congratulations to Coach Clyde V. Lee and his coaching staff on a successful football season.

Good luck, Cougars, in your game against St. Louis University on Thanksgiving day.

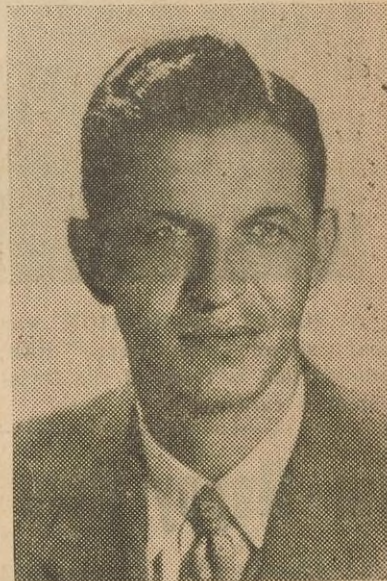

U. OF H. BEATS TRINITY

GENE SHANNON, COUGAR halfback, is away on a long gain against conference opponent, Trinity University. The Cougars, behind 21 to 0 in the second quarter showed real spirit in downing Trinity 28 to 21.

A 'SOCIAL OBLIGATION' was fulfilled recently when scores of University students returned the recent visit of "victory happy" Rice students to the Cougar campus. The University students held a mass demonstration in front of the Owls' Administration building after arriving on the campus in a police escorted automobile caravan.

Win-Happy Rice Students 'Invade' University Campus For Pep Rally

A jubilant delegation of 200 Rice students, flushed with their recent victories over strong elevens, swarmed over the University campus and held a victory pep rally recently.

In what looked like a minor invasion to observers from campus classrooms, the excited group swept across the campus and rallied at the improvised bandstand west of the reflection pool. Included in the group were Rice cheerleaders and members of their band who led the happy visitors in Rice victory chants and yells.

Glenn "Pappy" Bond, student association president, met the "invaders" and welcomed them to the campus.

The Rice student yells were heard as far as the Recreation building and many students reflected that maybe there were some disloyal Cougar supporters on the campus.

University students reciprocated one week later by holding a pep rally on the Rice campus. Some 500 students invaded the Rice campus to participate in the rally.

UH Ends Season Turkey Day Against Underdog St. Louis

The Cougars will be playing their last game of the season when they meet the underdog St. Louis university Billikens in St. Louis Thanksgiving Day, November 24.

The Billikens have 12 letterman from the 1948 team, coached by Joe Maniaci, former Bainbridge N. C. high coach.

Maniaci, who coached Charles' (choo-choo) Justice at Bainbridge, has said of Ed McClusky, 180 pound Billiken halfback, "He is the finest back I ever coached."

St. Louis began playing football in 1887 when a group of students challenged Smith academy, another St. Louis School, for a game.

When the St. Louis players arrived for the game, they found the Smith players already scrimmaging in a queer alignment that spectators called, "a line and a backfield."

The St. Louis representatives also found that the soccer ball they had brought along was not to be used.

Worried by their foes' superior knowledge, the St. Louis team but-tonholed George Garneau, a St. Louis graduate recently returned from Yale.

Garneau took the St. Louis crew to the opposite end of the field and gave them instructions. He also put them at ease by saying that he had just done the same thing for the Smith team. Smith academy won the game 5-0.
