Fall enrollment drops by over 2,500 students

By MIKE MONSON
News Editor

Enrollment at UHCC for the fall 1981 semester is officially 28,156 — down 2,536 from fall of 1980 — according to figures released Tuesday morning by Director of Institutional Research Don Norris.

The reasons for the decline vary according to which campus official is asked. Many officials questioned, however, blamed it on the unusually high enrollment for fall of '80.

Bob Brashear, associate director of admissions said, "Fall of '80 was an analogous year." Brashear explained that last fall, 3,500 students were enrolled conditionally. Under the provisions of conditional enrollment applicants who were missing any items in their application package at the time of registration would be enrolled. When the missing items arrived, the applications would be reviewed. Students whose completed package was inadequate would not be readmitted for the spring semester.

Brashear said that the requirements for conditional enrollments were tightened the following spring, summer, and fall semesters because of protests raised throughout the campus.

By fall of '81, according to Brashear, a student seeking conditional enrollment had to have at least one official credential in, be in the top half of his high school graduating class, and have an SAT score of 900 or higher.

Thus, in the fall of 81, according to Brashear, approximately 700 students enrolled conditionally, a figure that is 2,800 less than last year. Brashear points out that in the fall of 1979, a semester with no conditional enrollments, enrollment was 28,414 — 258 more than this semester.

Associate Provost for Enrollment Services, Peter Jackson, mentioned that fewer people applied this year than last. He offered the approximate statistics of 14,600 for fall '80 and 13,500 for fall of '81. The number of returning students is 6,646 — down 2,074 from fall of 1980.

Jackson added, "This year we did not do any ads over the radio or on billboards as in previous years because we didn't have the resources."

Jackson said the issue was too complex to offer one answer. He said the decline was not alarming and that, "Anywhere from 28 to 30,000 students is the appropriate range for this campus. So, we're doing all right."

Senior Vice Chancellor Robert W. Lawless also felt the issues too complex for one answer but admitted, "I'm sure they (conditional enrollments) had some effect."

Lawless added, "There is nothing wrong with admissions figures from 25 to 30,000, but we'd rather not have the 'up and down effect.'" Lawless said the way enrollments have been fluctuating prevents accurate planning and funding protections.

An effect of the decline that can be seen already this semester is in Student Service Fee Fund Allocations. According to Assistant Vice Chancellor Dean of Students Connie Wallace, projections for this year's SSF allocations were made based on last fall's high enrollment.

Since the decline, those projections are unrealistic. Wallace says she is now considering cutting SSF funded units by 10 percent.

Egyptians defy bombings; vote taken

Cairo, Egypt (AP) — Millions of Egyptians, not deterred by fatal bomb blasts at Cairo's airport nor a gunbattle between police and Moslem extremists in Giza, voted Tuesday in a referendum to confirm Hosni Mubarak as successor to slain President Anwar Sadat.

No violence was reported at the polling stations, guarded by heavily armed soldiers and police. Although security was tight, it was not considered unusually strict. Egyptian media broadcast reports of the airport bomb blast and the shooting near the pyramids throughout the day.

Mubarak, the country's vice president and the only candidate, was certain to win approval from Egypt's 12 million eligible voters.

The Interior Ministry said the time bombs exploded on an Air Malta flight from Libya shortly after it landed at Cairo International Airport and discharged its 93 passengers.

Police said a baggage handler was killed, and another baggage handler, an Air Malta stewardess, and two security guards were wounded. They said three of the wounded were seriously injured but did not say which ones.

Airport officials said none of the passengers on the Boeing 737, mostly Egyptians who work in Libya, was hurt. The plane originated at Tripoli, Libya's capital, and made a stopover in Valletta, Malta, the airport officials said.

Police said the first bomb exploded while on a baggage cart below the plane. They said a second blast exploded 14 minutes later.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the blasts.

An Interior Ministry statement said the bombs had been timed to explode inside the airport terminal, but detonated during unloading because the flight was 15 minutes late.

Earlier in the day, the ministry, which controls the country's police, said that authorities seized five heavily armed Moslem extremists after a dawn shootout near the Giza pyramids, Egypt's top tourist attraction southwest of Cairo. It said two policemen and one soldier were injured.

The ministry said two of the five captured men were ringleaders in the fundamentalist assault on security men in the southern city of Asyut on Wednesday. Security officials said 118 persons, nearly half of them policemen, were killed in the two-day battle. The three other captured men were said to be accomplices.

Despite the violence, officials said voter turnout was heavy for the referendum on Mubarak, a 53-year-old war hero and fighter pilot whom Sadat chose six years ago as his successor.

Long Sadat's closest collaborator, Mubarak was unanimously endorsed for the presidency by Egypt's National Assembly and the ruling National democratic Party a day after Sadat died in a balze of gunfire while reviewing a military parade last Tuesday.

"He is our hope now. We must be all together for the future of Egypt," Sadat's widow, Jihan, said when she and her four children voted at a polling station near their Giza residence.

As the voters entered the polling stations, they were handed a slip of paper bearing Mubarak's picture and two circles — a red one for "yes" and a black one for "no." Few voters made any attempt to conceal themselves as

TATFLA Core Committee meeting concerns new unionizing activities

By DAN GRANNEY
Writer for The Daily Cougar

The Core Committee of the Teaching Assistants, Teaching Fellows and Lecturers Association whose organization of two "sickouts" last spring forced the administration to grant higher pay for graduate instructors, conducted last night its first organizational meeting since the group voted to unionize last May.

The members voted to join the Texas United Faculties, the collective bargaining local of the American Federation of Teachers in Texas, which is affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

The aim of the meeting was to familiarize TATFLA department heads with the advantages and mechanics of joining the local.

The meeting was closed to the press but Core Committee Members, Nancy Ford, Cynthia Santos and Chris Domino, were available for comment afterwards.

"Besides the small pay raise, granted by the administration," Ford said, "that basically the grievances with the UH administration of the past years remain the same."

Ford said nine departments and four colleges were represented at the meeting and 20 of those attending have signed union cards and paid their dues.

Both Ford and Santos said they expect the membership to include at least 150-300 part-time faculty.

Among the grievances the TUF will address are: Medical benefits, which at present do not exist for UH TATFLA members, but are available to TA's at the University of Texas.

Tuition and fee waivers.

Academic freedom, which Chris Domino describes as "teaching responsibly."

A formal grievance procedure, which at present, "does not exist," added Ford.

When asked about future sick-outs as a means of arbitration, Santos said, "a sick-out is certainly not excluded, nothing has been excluded." Ford added,

Two men charged with hubcap thefts

UH Police Department officers arrested two men Monday afternoon on charges of stealing hubcaps from cars parked in Lot 4A between the Communication Building and Elgin Blvd.

The two suspects, identified as "non-students" by UHPD, have been charged with felony theft and evading arrest, according to Sergeant F. Sempa.

Officers G.L. Newell and T.J. Welch responded, in an unmarked police car, to a report of the theft in progress. The suspects recognized Newell and Welch as police officers and escaped in a tan station wagon.

The officers chased the suspects through the parking lot, onto Cullen Blvd. and to the end of Anita St. off Cullen behind the King Apartments. The suspects fled their vehicle but were apprehended by Newell and Welch with the assistance of a Cougar Patrol member.

The officers found six sets of hub caps, valued at $200 per set, in the back seat of the station wagon. All hubcaps had been stolen from General Motors cars. A small pellet pistol also was found beneath the driver's seat.

The no-price stamp

The United States Postal Service is asking its customers to run out and buy up the 5.3 billion 20-cent "C" stamps it put on sale yesterday. The stamps will be needed when the unauthorized two-cent increase in first-class postal rates goes into effect Nov. 1.

The Postal Service issued the stamps two weeks early so mailers can have a jump on the expected long lines at the post office. How civic-minded of them.

The Postal Service has discovered the perfect way to raise the price of mailing a letter without having to get permission from those Scrooges on the Postal Rate Commission. From now on, all they have to do is change the letter printed on the stamp. No one will be the wiser.

They are also going to issue a special commemorative version of the stamp so all the philatelists won't be disappointed. The stamp will commemorate the simultaneous screwing of 250 million Americans.

Mark Russell

No sooner did the Postal Service announce the two-cent rate increase than the greeting card companies filed suit. Do they believe people are so nasty that they won't go the extra two cents for a card for mom on her birthday?

Is there a law against the greeting card people competing with the Post Office in starting their own service? What a revolution — little pink and blue trucks delivering the baby announcements.

Wedding invitations would be transported in a white bridemobile with tin cans dangling from the bumpers.

A Hallmark mailorama boutique would be lots more fun than the drab old U.S. Post Office — especially with clerks dressed as little Bo Peep and Old Mother Hubbard.

Clerks dressed as elves would certainly break the monotony of standing in line during the Christmas rush.

Cheaper rates at the boutique would make a lot of people happy. It would also make a lot of people unhappy. That's when it would be nice to send a sympathy card — to the telephone company.

The MX missiles will be located in Arkansas, Kansas and Arizona because the holes which will contain them have already been dug — true or false? False. These three states were chosen because they are expendable.

Arizona was also chosen because a direct hit by a Russian ICBM could do to the environment in a minute and a half what would take the Interior Department six months.

Letters

We didn't really want to print this

To the editor:

I have come to expect an abysmal level of literacy on The Daily Cougar, but you and your staff have outdone yourselves by publishing Sig Christenson's pathetic "Swamp Addlers bring alive Dark Man's promise."

What, may I ask, is a "Swamp Addler"? Sig's later reference to a serpent hanging from a tree probably means that he thinks it's some sort of snake. If so, don't you think he should have used the word "adder"? "Addler," if the word exists — and I can't find it in any dictionary — would, by analogy, mean "one who addles," i.e., confuses, a fitting description of Mr. Christenson.

If this were the only error in Sig's essay, I wouldn't have bothered to write, knowing, as I do, how little this sort of criticism affects you and your copy editors. But there's more: "assult" for "assault," "halocaust" for "holocaust," "Israeli" for "Israeli" (twice), and "Abagail" for "Abigail." Some of these could be typographical errors, but I don't think so. I think you and your editors do not know the difference, and I am sure you will come up with a cute reply to show that you not only don't know the difference, but you don't care.

W.E.B. DuBois has a better way

To the Editor:

Bill Beauchamp's criticism of Debra Jennings' letter protesting the showing of "Birth of A Nation" illustrates graphically the chasm between black and white world views. "Considering that in today's very small world, at least three-quarters of the people are 'non-white' and that the totality of the 'non-white' majority population is subjected to domination over the entirety of their lives, either directly or indirectly, by a tiny minority of the world's people who classify themselves as white, racism (white supremacy) is revealed as one of, if not indeed, the most important observable phenomenon in the world today...!"

How anyone can say, as Beauchamp does, that the film "Birth of a Nation" "represents not the racist factor but the film industry's and America's accomplishments..." is truly amazing!! The entire theme of the movie was a virulent and violent anti-black racism.

In regards to Beauchamp's quote from Booker T. Washington, I suggest he read another point of view—that of W.E.B. DuBois!!

Egyptian vote goes ahead

they marked their cross in the red circle.

In the countryside of the Nile Delta, north of Cairo, voting was relaxed and casual with few security men or police in sight.

"All votes were for Hosni Mubarak," said a poll captain in the village of Manshad Ganzour, where all the 1,300 registered voters among the 4,000 inhabitants had cast their ballots by noon.

In another polling station, a Western photographer who went to take pictures was handed a ballot. When he said he did not want to vote, he was arrested and released — with apologies — only after he had been taken to the local police station.

The state-run television aired film clips to remind viewers of Mubarak's command of the Egyptian air force in the 1973 Mideast war against Israel and his career as Sadat's deputy. The war had erupted on Oct. 6, 1973, and it was a victory parade celebrating the eighth anniversary of that day.

when Sadat was murdered by an army lieutenant and three civilians who were disguised as Egyptian soldiers.

Officials said the murderers are members of a fanatic Moslem sect dedicated to killing Moslem leaders who do not live up to its standards of fundamentalism.

Mubarak, who is expected to take stern measures against religious extremists, voted near his home in the Cairo suburb of Heliopolis under strict security.

Sudanese President Mohamed Gafaar Nimeiri, who has held honorary Egyptian citizenship for years, also cast a ballot. Nimeiri told reporters he asked Egyptian authorities for permission to cast a ballot to express his love for Egypt, "which is my second fatherland."

Sudan, a half-Arab, half-black African nation, was ruled jointly by Britain and Egypt until 1956. Nimeiri is one of the few Mideast leaders to continue to support Sadat after Egypt signed a peace treaty with Israel.

U.S. to supply Sudan arms

Washington (AP) — The Reagan administration intends to accelerate shipment of defensive military assistance to the Sudan, in part because of "increased threats from Libya." White House spokesman David Gergen said Tuesday.

Gergen said a technical team of U.S. military personnel would accompany the equipment "for a relatively short stay" to familiarize the Sudanese with the equipment.

But, he added, "This is quite different from and should be distinguished from the whole idea of military advisers."

He provided no details on the types of military equipment that would be sent, or on the number of American personnel involved.

"These arms are being provided to help the Sudanese defend themselves," he said.

AP picks Owls' Calhoun

(AP) — During Rice University's first four football games this season, quarterback Michael Calhoun had been a time-bomb threatening to explode.

Calhoun finally blew up in the face of the TCU Horned Frogs Saturday night, throwing four touchdown passes and rushing for 111 yards as the Owls scored a 41-28 upset victory with its biggest point production since 1976.

Calhoun came to life in the second quarter after Rice had fallen behind 20-6. He completed 11 of 28 passes for 188 yards and rushed 19 times to earn the Associated Press Southwest Conference offensive player of the week honors.

Texas defensive tackle Kenneth Sims, a key figure in the No. 1-ranked Longhorns win over Oklahoma, was named AP SWC defensive player of the week.

Calhoun and the Owls, off to a 0-3 start, got their first victory two weeks ago against Tulane and really hit their stride against the Horned Frogs.

"In our first three games," Calhoun said, "I thought I knew everything, but then I'd get in the game and start getting shaky. I would miss my keys, throw too quickly. I was just kind of in the dark. Now I know what to look for and I feel comfortable.

Cougar Notes

Texas is soon, but SMU is next

Students who hold ticket coupon books, especially those students interested in seeing the Cougars battle the No. 1-ranked Texas Longhorns on Nov. 7, should take note of when tickets will be made available for the game.

Students can begin exchanging their coupons for tickets at the UH ticket office in Hofheinz Pavilion on Oct. 19. The coupon exchange will continue until Oct. 22.

There are also 1,000 full-priced tickets available for students on a first come-first served basis. Each student can purchase one additional ticket for $10.00 (cash only) per each athletic book, as long as the supply lasts. A maximum of four ticket books can be redeemed at the ticket window during each transaction.

UH Ticket Manager Mike Mullis stresses that in order for students to be guaranteed UH-Texas tickets, coupons must be exchanged at the ticket office during the following hours:

- Oct. 19-20 between 8:30 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.
- Oct. 21-22 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Dynamic pair

The Cougars homecoming game against SMU Saturday in the 'Dome will feature SMU's dynamic pair of rushers, Eric Dickerson and Craig James. But, Dickerson and James haven't had much luck in the past against the Cougar defense.

The Mad Dogs have held them to 59 yards on 36 carries in the teams' last two meetings.

Dickerson has gained 107 yards or more over the last seven games, while James has had a streak of five games over 102 yards broken against TCU when he picked up 90. Dickerson has scored 12 touchdowns on the run and James has eight to his credit.

The Cougar defense, though, has been hard on some highly-touted rushers this season. Baylor's Walter Abercrombie and Dennis Gentry totaled just 34 yards against the Mad Dogs. Texas A&M's big shots, Johnny Hector and Earnest Jackson, were small potatoes. They gained 146 yards combined.

What do former Cougar football players do with their free time? If you're former UH fullback John Newhouse (above), you pursue the martial arts. Newhouse, who gained 1,003 yards during his UH career (1978-80), competed in the 21st National Martial Arts Championships at Rice University on Oct. 10. He holds a yellow belt in karate.

Kim Soo, UH karate instructor, officiated some of the matches, which included some of his past and present students.

(Right) James Bethany, middleweight champion the last two years and a holder of a black belt, didn't play football for UH. Instead, he obtained a fine arts degree in 1978.

Guatemalan theatrical company to perform in AH Auditorium II

By CORINNE JIMENEZ
Writer for The Daily Cougar

In conjunction with the Guatemala Teach-In scheduled for Oct. 20 at the Catholic Newman Center, the Teatro Vio, a small Guatemalan theater group, will give a performance on Oct. 15, in the Agnes Arnold Auditorium II at 8 p.m.. Tickets are $2.

The performance is part of the group's first U.S. tour. The tour kicks off with the UH performance and will run through Nov. 15.

Sponsors for the event are the Guatemalan Scholars Network, Council of Ethnic Organizations, Mexican American Business Student Association, Concilio, Teatro Ganas, and Latinos Catolicos.

The members of the group are natives of Guatemala but because of the way in which they have presented their work and the content of their work they now live in self-imposed exile in Costa Rica.

The group's performance consists of four works: "Pisto," a voyage through the world of money; "Tzulumanachi," a work of action and music of the Guatemalan musician Joaquin Orellana; "Some and Others," about the need to search for a real justice which will bring peace and "The World of Burros," which depicts the dehumanization towards which society is heading.

Monty Tidwell of the Guatemalan Scholars Network said the Teatro's tour is part of an effort to educate the American public on the situation in Guatemala.

"Part of the function of the Guatemalan Scholars Network is to do away with very simplistic analysis of the situation — such as the communists are causing everything," Tidwell said.

Vietnam vet asks commission to reject plans for memorial

Washington (AP) — A decorated Vietnam veteran asked the government Tuesday to reject the stark design selected for a memorial to Americans who died in Vietnam. He called it a "black gash of shame and sorrow" that would humiliate those who fought in the war.

Thomas Carhart, a West Point graduate who led an infantry platoon in the 101st Airborne in Vietnam, told the Fine Arts Commission the design commemorates the war "as some ugly, dirty experience of which we were all ashamed." He wore his two Purple Hearts — awards for those who are wounded — on the jacket of his suit.

"One hundred years from now, long after we're all dead and gone, visitors to the Mall will see only one thing — a black wall in a trench with a random scattering of names on it, such that the name of a brother, father, friend or loved one could never be found," he said.

The commission, which approved the design in July, heard

Carhart out in silence but took no action on his request. Members said no reconsideration was called for.

The design was selected by a jury of architects, sculptors, landscape designers and an architecture writer from among 1,420 entries in the largest design competition ever staged in this country. It is the work of Maya Ying Lin, Yale University architecture student.

Her plan is in the form of two long walls of black marble shaped in a "V." The walls are to begin at ground level and slope 10 feet below ground. Viewers would descend into an excavated area to see the names of America's 57,692 Vietnam war dead inscribed on the walls in the chronological order in which they died.

Carhart, now a civilian lawyer working at the Pentagon, said other monuments to war dead in Washington are heroic "and then we have this proposed design for the Vietnam Veterans, a black gash of shame and sorrow."

Commission Chairman J.

Carter Brown defended Miss Lin's plan. He said it conveys "an extraordinary sense of dignity" and needs no "corny specific references" to the war and no "bits of whipped cream on pedestals."

"People will always react to these things, what they read into them," he said, but many professionals feel the monument has "every earmark of extraordinary success."

The memorial, to be built near the Lincoln Memorial with $6 million in funds contributed by citizens, is the idea of Jan Scruggs, who was wounded as an infantryman in the 199th Light Infantry Brigade and came home to buttonhole congressmen until they approved his idea.

Scruggs said he felt Carhart's dismay was an expression of frustration over the war and the way it was regarded in America.

"There's a lot of anger and there's a shortage of things to show your anger about," he said. "We get some of that misdirected anger."
