• Foreword •

---

*“I have a book of thoughts and dreams,
In which I read at times,
Where many a long past joy gleams,
And hosts of singing rhymes.”*

College life may not be logical or classified, but it is easier to read and understand in that fashion. So The Houstonian endeavors to classify the events in 1937-38 so that the reader can more clearly imagine the whimsicalities that existed in the scenes of this unique year.

It is not our purpose just to present a beautiful design or book to meet the requirements of a theme—we give a true portrayal of the University of Houston, its inner workings, its faculty, its students and its aim.

Perhaps in years to come this Houstonian will bring back pleasant memories.

Houston U

Houston U, we pledge allegiance true.

Here's to the scarlet and the white;

For you we'll sing, we'll cheer, we'll fight.

Sweethearts, friends, your bounty never ends.

So here's to University; we pledge eternal loyalty

To Houston U.

Let's Go—Houston

Proudly the colors, scarlet and white,
O'er Houston U shall fly day and night;
Through the Southland chant her fame.
Houston forever, cheer the name!

Lift high the pledge to dear Houston U.
We pledge allegiance, we will be true!
Shout her praises to the sky—
Let's go, Houston! Do or die!

Algerine Allen, Editor
The Houstonian
The University of Houston
Austin and Holman Streets
Houston, Texas.

Dear Editor:

It has been a pleasure to select the eight most beautiful girls at the University of Houston for the Vanity Fair Section of THE HOUSTONIAN.

I wish all the contestants could have won, but as this is not possible, I have devoted considerable time and attention to personally judging the qualifications of each candidate, realizing that the outcome may be important to those involved.

It is rather difficult to judge from single re-touched photographs, as not infrequently the two sides of the human face depict quite different characteristics.

However, all sixteen of the candidates are very lovely and my decision is based on the material submitted.

Please extend my congratulations and best wishes to the winners and all of the candidates.

Sincerely,

Cecil B. deMille
