Federal Reserve

Senate bill could cost Texas banks millions

By BRIAN FORD
Staff Writer for The Cougar

Banks could lose $3.5 million if a bill sponsored by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., designed to solve problems with Federal Reserve System is passed by Congress, according to the chief assistant to Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., of the Senate Banking Committee.

Anthony Cluff, Tower's assistant, spoke Wednesday at a luncheon of the UH Banking Symposium at the Continuing Education Center.

Cluff said Congress is considering bills dealing with the problem of decreasing bank membership in the Federal Reserve, nicknamed "Fed" by bankers and economists.

The Fed serves as a "central bank" for its member banks and carries out the monetary policy of the federal government. It regulates the supply of money and sets rules and guidelines for member banks to follow.

Both bills would require all banks to make deposits in the Fed, but would not require them to be members of the Fed, Cluff said. The senate bill, sponsored by Proxmire, would affect 36 non-member banks in Texas and cost them $3.5 million, he said. Cluff added this bill would cost non-member banks in Proxmire's home state of Wisconsin only $47,000.

The basic problem, said Cluff, is the question of whether or not the Fed can sufficiently control economic policy without the money it receives from its member banks.

Cluff said Tower plans to introduce a bill of his own that would deal with the membership problem. Banks are not joining the Fed because of the substantial membership fee required, he said.

Tower's bill would reduce membership requirements. The bill would put membership on a voluntary basis for most banks and would allow the Fed to obtain information it presently cannot get from non-member banks. The bill would also allow bank deposits in the Fed to accrue interest, Cluff said.

The major problem with Tower's bill is that the Treasury Department would lose $500 to $600 million which it presently receives from the Fed, Cluff said. Losses of more than $200 million are unacceptable to the Treasury, he said.

Campus police board stymied; members note lack of students

By DENNIS PORTERFIELD
Staff Writer for The Cougar

There are three student positions currently vacant on the Police Advisory Board, and according to the board's chair, this lack of student participation has hindered the board's effectiveness.

"I really feel bad about it (the lack of student participation)," said Sol Tannenbaum, chair of the Police Advisory Board. Lack of student participation last year kept the action of the board unofficial, he added. Jerry Coy, student court justice, was the only student representative.

Scott Curtis, Students' Association director of student life, said apathy and lack of student time are the problems.

"We have very few applicants who have the time to serve on committees, specifically the Police Advisory Board. It is a very demanding job, timewise, on the student," Curtis said. "I feel that the reason for this justifiable apathy is a lack of understanding and sensitivity to students' needs," Curtis said.

"The two most important goals now are to stimulate student representation and to get a clerical staff representative," Tannenbaum said. "However, we definitely need student input as well as representatives to help meet the growing problem of parking on the UH campus."

"Students must understand that all universities have parking problems," said Pam Braunig, assistant to the director of Campus Police. "Most universities issue permits only to upperclassmen. This would cause even more problems."

Joe Wicks, student prosecutor for the Student Traffic Court, said the lack of student input hurts the student.

"This lack of participation causes an unfair situation for the students; the board would like that to change," Wicks said.

Faculty members of the Police Advisory Board for this semester are Jack Larks, associate professor of technology; Sol Tannenbaum, associate professor of sociology; Nancy Morino, associate professor of Spanish and other languages; Michael Williams, associate professor of music; and Edgar Crane, professor of marketing.

Tom Penett, assistant for the residence halls, is the only administrative representative. George Hess, chief of Campus Police, is an ex-officio member. Coy is the only student representative.

Officers for the Police Advisory Board include chair Sol Tannenbaum and vice chair Jerry Coy. The board's bylaws call for a student to fill at least one of these positions. Crane serves as board secretary.

Communication between students, campus security and the faculty was the reason for creating the committee, according to Crane.

"In practice, we should act as a communicative device between the faculty and police, and between the students and police," Crane said.

"We help counsel on the policies and the practices of both traffic regulations and other security matters under what is now the Campus Police Department," Crane said.

"Unlike most committees, the members of the board were not hand-picked by the administration. The administration does not dominate the board since it has only one member," he said.

"The committee was created by the actions of the students of SA," he said.

Henley seeks another trial

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A pretrial hearing is scheduled Feb. 8 in the retrial of 22-year-old Elmer Wayne Henley. Henley's six murder convictions in the 1973 Houston sex-torture mass slayings were reversed last December by the state appeals court.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled Dec. 19 that State District Judge Preston Dial should have allowed Henley's attorneys a chance to present evidence supporting a change of venue from San Antonio.

The highly-publicized 1974 trial had already been moved from Houston on a previous change of venue.

In 1974, a Bexar County jury convicted Henley, then an 18-year-old high school dropout, of six of the 27 slayings and sentenced him to six consecutive 99-year prison terms.

Henley was arrested after he telephoned police in the Houston suburb of Pasadena and told them he had shot and killed Dean A. Corll, head of the homosexual torture ring.

Dorm election scheduled

The Residence Hall Policy Board election will take place Feb. 5 and 6 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Moody Towers and the Quadrangle, according to Suzanne Demchak, election commissioner.

In the Moody Towers, Podd Hudran and Nestor Hayes will run for position one, Diane Huntington for position two and Roy De Loach for position three.

In the Quadrangle, Mark Rankin and Keven Walker will run for position one and John Doody, Steven Evans and Mike Bewly for position two.

The Students' Association established the RHPB last fall to provide student input into residence halls, rules and regulations.

The candidates are required to be currently enrolled in classes, current residents of the dormitories and a dorm resident as of fall, 1978.

Editorial:

Students don't have to take such abuses

One of the most effective techniques used by feminists in consciousness-raising is role reversal. Men seldom realize the circumstances and problems women face until they "walk a mile in their shoes."

Although few people put it in this particular light, students at UH are treated like women.

Sounds a little bizarre? Think about it the next time you get a parking ticket from a system that counts on your timidity and lack of time or ability to stick up for yourself in order to make money. It leans on these weaknesses to extract money from pockets where there is none to begin with.

When you go to the bookstore and are told your books can only be bought back for less than half price, consider the parallel between yourself and any woman who is taken advantage of by service or managerial personnel. Neither she nor you have any recourse or advocate to stand behind you.

Or, when students apply for financial aid. The administration holds that 'You don't need the money this week,' you can wait the two weeks to a month needed to process the funds. If you are a student you have parents to support you as a woman has (or should have if she's normal) a husband. The powers that be determine you can 'just manage.'

And the frustrating thing about it is that the personnel in departments and offices all over this university work for you. Yes, believe it or not, their salaries are paid by your tuition and taxes. They are all in your employ.

What's more, you as a student do not have to accept the kind of abrupt, rude, uncalled for and totally inexcusable treatment students are dished daily.

Your greatest defense in instances like this is simple and should be used by students, women or anyone who finds themselves in just such a situation. This single phrase can change a lot of things pronto: "May I speak to your supervisor please?"

Once record clerks, sales and service personnel, registration officials and other such employees learn that simply because you are a student, you do not intend to be taken advantage of, things shape up radically.

As consumers we should not allow this type of bullying to occur. We should expect as much from these public employees as our own employers expect from us.

Book prices: bad all over

The price of college textbooks is high on every campus, and the sad news to the bookstore becomes a chorus of financial woe when joined by the strained voices of other students throughout the state.

An informal survey of other Texas college bookstores shows only a slight variance in textbook prices. Some of the differences result from the unawareness of bookstore employees to price increases and some schools' offer of discounts and rebates. But even with these small breaks, students are usually left holding a hollow wallet.

According to Dudley Schroen, director of the UH Bookstore, textbooks are the most expensive of books to begin with. They are printed in limited editions, can be sold only to specific markets and many are very technical in nature.

Textbook prices are determined by the publishers. They sell to the bookstores at a price that is about 20 percent less than what students pay. This 20 percent difference is what Schroen calls the "textbook margin" or the amount of gross profit.

Schroen said this 20 percent textbook margin is uniform throughout the state and a few phone calls bore him out. Baylor, Texas Tech, Rice, TCU, SMU and UT all have this arrangement with book publishers.

However, small price differences do occur and students at some universities receive discounts that others don't. UT has a "co-op" system and students there will receive a six percent rebate on the books they bought this semester.

Across town at Rice University, students receive a flat five percent discount on their books.

One- and two-dollar differences in the price of the same book can occur at different campuses. For instance, the second edition of "Intermediate Accounting" by Kieso and Weygant costs $18.95 at UH. Last week, before a price increase from re-ordering the book was discovered, a student at Baylor could buy the book for $17.95.

"Advanced Engineering Mathematics" by Ray Wylie costs $21.50 at UH and SMU, $20.50 at Texas Tech and can be snatched up for $20.42 by a Rice student using his discount.

Bookstore directors across the state agree that prices usually rise on any given book when it is re-ordered. When this happens, many stores will raise the price of any old copies of the re-ordered book that still might be on the shelves. This practice increases the textbook margin on the older copies when they are sold.

"I just would not do that," said Mildred Hedges of the SMU

Bookstore. She is in the minority, however, and the practice is common at UH and elsewhere.

"We will take the extra dollar," said director Schroen, adding that there are probably thousands of dollars in price increases that could be added to books currently on UH shelves. "We just do not know about them," he said.

According to Schroen, the UH bookstore makes most of its profit from frill items such as clothing and school supplies. The profits from book sales are pretty well eaten away by expenses. The bookstore pays the UC $125,000 per year in rent, a pro-rated electric bill and, of course, there are salaries and maintenance fees.

In 1976, the last available figures, the bookstores made a net profit of about $300,000. Such excess money goes into the general coffers of the university. Some of it goes to a scholarship fund. But never is it reflected back to the bookstore. She is in the minority, however, and the practice is common at UH and elsewhere.

Nuclear power dangerous

To the Editor:

At the Program Council sponsored on Jan. 25, I had to leave for another debate with one important point about the safety of atomic plants uncompleted.

The point was the chance of power excursion accidents in modern atomic power plants. I stated that an early (1954) reactor had unexpectedly burst during a power excursion experiment with great violence. The Westinghouse group replied that the fuel in it was much more potent than the fuel in Westinghouse reactors like those about to be installed in Bay City. True, but the early reactor experiment had been predicted to be far less dangerous than it was.

Later, the government set up an melting and steam explosions using power excursions to melt the fuel. These experiments had problems, such that the experimenters decided they could not conclude power excursions could be done safely, beyond a very narrow limit of surplus fissioning.

No reason was ever given why the problems were not corrected and the experiments redone.

In addition, a report of an experiment where neutrons were injected into a core to give a very mild power excursion was kept inside the government from 1966 to 1975. That report showed the computer program used to predict the results of a power excursion in a reactor like that in Bay was in gross error.

So, what? From 1966 to 1975, two-thirds of all atomic plants and all of the large ones were licensed, and the government made a new computer program.

MEXICO CITY—Pope John Paul II, winding up his visit to traditionally anti-clerical Mexico, formulates a policy of conservatism in doctrinal matters mixed with strong lacking of the rights of peasants and workers.

(AP)—Grocery bills increased more than twice as fast in the first month of 1979 as they did in the last month of 1978, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—House floor action on bills implementing the "Tax Relief Amendment" should start about March 1, Speaker Bill Clayton said Monday.

Clayton said that was the date he and Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, chair of the House Ways and Means Committee, had set as their target.

"If we are going to get school finance settled by the end of the session, we have got to get it out of the way," Clayton told reporters following a 22-minute session of the House.

He said Davis told him March 1 seemed practical but "it wasn't any particular deadline. I just wanted a date we felt like could be met."

Davis told the House his committee would begin hearing next week on bills carrying out the amendment, which voters added to the Texas Constitution in November.

Sundry School, a rapidly-developing program at UH, offers non-credit courses in a variety of areas to UH students, faculty, staff and alumni, as well as the greater Houston community. Registration for spring classes will be Feb. 7-13 and classes begin the week of Feb. 26.

Sundry School was established in the spring of 1974 and is currently in its fifteenth semester. Classes are conducted three times a year.

The program started with 50 classes and now offers close to 350 classes, according to Paul Szczesiul, assistant activities coordinator. This semester, more than 60 new classes have been added, including Disco Hustle, Bellydancing, Hang gliding and Filmmaking.

Sponsored by the Campus Activities Department, Sundry School is designed to provide enjoyment as well as opportunities for learning and development, according to Szczesiul. The size of the Sundry School administration, along with the instructors, has grown to more than 130 people in the last five years, he added.

Master Charge and Visa are the newest services available this semester. "For the first time, people can charge their registration fees, making registration easier," Szczesiul said. In the past, registrants not enrolled or employed at UH had to pay by cash and this made it too difficult for many people, he added.

Classes have always had good turnouts and trends are very noticeable, Szczesiul said. "After 'Saturday Night Fever' dance classes were filled," he said.

Sundry School will continue to grow. The number of classes will remain around 350 because it would be difficult to accommodate much more, but new courses are constantly being substituted for old ones.

The number of faculty will stay about the same although there is a certain amount of turnover each semester. "We have a very qualified staff. Some have been with us from the beginning in 1974," Szczesiul said.

Last spring, Sundry School started a senior citizens program which entitled people over the age of 62 to enroll during regular registration for free--on a limited basis. Once a class has reached its quota of free entrants, senior citizens must pay the course fee.

Most of the Sundry School classes are on the UH campus however, in an effort to expand the program, some classes are offered at other locations throughout Houston. A complete list of all meeting places will be available during registration.

A once per semester registration fee of $2 will be charged to UH students, faculty, staff and alumni. The fee to all other persons except senior citizens is $4. There is also a course fee listed with each course description and this is paid at the time of registration.

Classes also require a materials fee but this is not collected at the time of registration. This fee is printed to allow the potential student to know the maximum cost of materials for the course.

Early registration will begin Feb. 7 from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Houston Room, UC. Regular registration will follow from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and continue through Feb. 13. A validated spring ID or staff card will be required to register.

Cowgirls seek to halt cheerleader porno flick

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders filed suit Wednesday to prevent the showing of "Debbie Does Dallas" described as a pornographic film that falsely represents that its star was an ex-member of the famed group.

The film's unnamed star wears a uniform "virtually identical" to those worn by the subsidiary organization to the Dallas Cowboy Football Club, it was claimed in a complaint filed in U.S. District Court, Manhattan.

The star and other performers are shown in numerous "explicit and lewd" sexual acts and the film is advertised as "X-Dallas Cowboy Cheerleader," the complaint added.

The synchronized dance and cheerleading group complained that the film was made without its authorization and was being shown at the Pussycat Cinema on Broadway and 48th Street in violation of trademark law.

The court was asked to bar distribution or screening of the movie to prevent "irreparable harm" to the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders and for an unspecified monetary damage award.

UH loses to cellar-dwelling TCU, 77-71

By P. MICHEAL MADDEN
Sports Writer for The Cougar

At the start of the current basketball season, Coach Guy Lewis had hopes for a first division finish in the SWC this year. Those hopes were buried last night at Fort Worth, where hapless TCU won its first conference game of the year, beating the listless Cougars 77-71.

The Cougars have now lost 11 games this year, the most defeats a Houston team has had since the 1962-63 season, when they finished 15-11. Also, with a tough schedule remaining, Houston must start improving fast or they will be the first team to end the season with a losing record since 1958-59, Lewis' third season as head coach at UH. That team ended up with a 12-14 ledger.

In the first half of last night's horror story, TCU established one important fact: the Cougar press, which ate them alive in the first meeting between the two teams this year, was not going to be a factor in the ball game. TCU guards showed poise belying their tender years (both starters are freshman) and had little trouble breaking the Cougar press for easy baskets in the first half.

Meanwhile Houston was forced to rely on its pattern offense which has been fizzling more than flourishing this year. Shooting only 39 percent, the Coogs trailed TCU 34-32 at halftime.

In the second half, TCU jumped in front quickly but a Cougar rally cut the Horned Frog lead to 51-50 with 11:35 remaining and Houston hopes for a victory soared.

However, the Cougars forgot how to score points for the next three minutes. TCU didn't, and led 59-50 with nine minutes left.

Houston mounted another rally to cut the Horned Frog lead to 64-61 and it looked as if the young TCU team was folding under Cougar pressure.

But TCU didn't fold. Their young guards ignored the pressure and set up teammates for easy baskets. TCU stretched the lead to eight and survived a last-ditch Houston rally to beat the Cougars for the first time in four years.

UH coach Guy Lewis said afterwards, "We didn't expect it to be easy. I've been here before with good teams and it hasn't been easy. TCU played aggressively and did what had to be done."

"Our shooting was poor again, but we played pretty well offensively. We got the shots we wanted but we just didn't make them."

Houston's poor shooting was led by "Juice" Williams, who made only 6 of 20 shots. Williams never seems to have a middle ground. Either he's red-hot, as he was against SMU when he scored 41 points, or he's ice-cold.

TCU head coach Tim Somerville said, "It's been tough for our freshman coming into a situation where we haven't been a winner in a while, but they've been mentally tough. They believe they can win."

Houston was led by George Walker and Vic Ewing, who scored 22 and 20 points respectively. However, they were matched by their forward counterparts on TCU, Ed Wineinger and Jon Mansbury. Wineinger was the game's leading scorer with 23 points while Mansbury chipped in with 19.

Houston's conference record now stands at a 3-7 on the season and 11-11 overall. Houston must still play A&M, Arkansas and SMU on the road while home opponents include Texas Tech, Baylor and Rice. To finish respectably in the conference, Houston needs to win at least four of these games. This would probably give them a home court advantage for the first round of the SWC tournament in late February.

The Cougars' next game is at College Station Saturday against A&M.

A&M edges lady Coogs, 68-61

By JACKIE MOSCARELLI
Sports Writer for The Cougar

A weary UH women's basketball team lost a close game to Texas A&M Wednesday, 68-61 in College Station.

It was the Coogs fifth road game in seven days, and as UH coach Dot Woodfin said, "The kids were awfully tired. Last week was a hard week, playing two nationally-ranked teams back-to-back" (Stephen F. Austin, 3rd, University of Texas, 2nd).

It was also UH's third game of poor shooting. In the past three games, UH has had throwing percentages of 34, 24, and 36.9. In Wednesday night's game, they shot 34 per cent from the field and shot 65 per cent of their free throws.

"There was no excuse - we had the shots tonight," Woodfin said. "We forced a lot of shots we shouldn't have been taking."

Despite ankle injuries suffered by both players in the University of Texas Basketball Classic last weekend, Ann Moon led UH's scoring with 11 points, and Cheryl Gardley had 10. Kip Anderson had her usual game in double figures with 10 points.

A&M's leading scorer was Peggy Pope with 18 points, and Margary Byrne had 10. Although A&M only shot 42 per cent from the field, they made 20-22 free throws (91 per cent).

"A&M is a hard team to beat on their own court, but we should've won," Woodfin said. "We played better than we have in a while as far as concentration."

"We got into foul trouble, though, and it kind of broke down our concentration," she added.

The Coogs will get their well-

Respect for reporters

Well, it's time for my annual women-in-the-locker-room-column. This is a subject I have taken on in print with regularity since the subject became so controversial.

Also, when most people find that I'm a sportswriter, they inevitably ask, "Have you ever been in a men's locker room?". I always take that question to mean, "Have you ever interviewed a nude male athlete in the locker room?"

No, I've never been in a men's locker room, much less interviewed a male there.

I think both male and female sports reporters should give male and female athletes their privacy to cry, laugh, scream or whatever they wish to do in the locker room.

There are solutions to what to do with the women-in-the-locker-room situation. First of all, coaches and players should realize women sports writers are growing in numbers and coming to the forefront. (Who would have thought the New York Times would hire a woman sports editor, which they did recently.)

The coaches who have flatly stated they would never allow a woman near the locker room, much less in one, are thinking antiquated thoughts.

If someone closes the door to one thought, a door can be opened to another thought, which means there are solutions.

The solution I favor is the one being successfully used by the Dallas Cowboys, and some teams in other sports—that of having a room or area next to the locker room where the players are sent out to the reporters.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach wrote a guest column for the Houston Chronicle about it and said the new area-reporter situation was working out real well.

As far as I know, the Astrodome and the Summit do not have a room of that nature. Hofheinz Pavilion has rooms next to the locker rooms which could be used for that purpose. UH basketball coach Guy Lewis talks to reporters outside of the locker room.

I laud the Cowboys and those other teams for recognizing the situation and doing something about it.

It shows respect for a female reporter's deadline and respect for that person. It also shows respect for the athlete and his privacy.

Everybody benefits and nobody loses.

'Wiz' gives medium musical tedium

By H.N. GRAHAM
Amusements Writer for The Cougar

THE WIZ
Director: Sidney Lumet; writer: Joel Schumacher; based on the play, book: William F. Brown, music and lyrics: Charlie Smalls, which was based on the book "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," by L. Frank Baum; producer: Rob Cohen; a Universal release of a Motown production; running time: 133 min.

"The Wiz" is a sloppy, misdirected and mis-edited film. It had a lot going for it, but it is just too sloppy to qualify as anything other than a waste of time.

It was a highly successful New

Richard Pryor

York play that took the basic story from the "Wizard of Oz" and turned it into an all-black musical. Turning it into an urban fantasy was a weird idea, but the people involved managed to make it work. All the old familiar characters and places were there, but transformed into funny urban equivalents (the Emerald City became the World Trade Center, poverty-stricken Kansas became modern Harlem, and so forth), the performances were bright and energetic, and the music and lyrics were enjoyable.

The first place the film craps out is in its pace. Half of that is the fault of the director, and half of that is the fault of the editor. The director, Sidney Lumet, usually zips through his assignments as if he were asleep, but this time he outdid himself.

Entire musical numbers bop along as if no one's in charge of them, and you get tired of them long before they're finished. The musical number on entering the Emerald City, for example, is six minutes long, but the whole thing could have been taken out and it wouldn't have made any difference. As a director, Lumet's biggest talent seems to be his consistently getting work.

The editing is terribly slack, and that's a surprise, as it's the work of Dede Allen, who is a very superior editor ("Bonnie and Clyde," "Dog Day Afternoon" and "Jaws" are among her credits). There's not a shot in the film that isn't a half-second too long. With about 1,500 separate shots in the film, that's more than 10 minutes too much length that most people won't even perceive as anything more than a general tiring quality. The film is very tiring.

Then there are the performances. Diana Ross leads the pack with an amateurish, unconvincing performance as Dorothy. Ross seems to believe her own press releases describing her as a STAR, and comes to the conclusion she doesn't have to do any work anymore.

The rest of the performances stumble along without making any notable impression, with the momentary exception of Richard Pryor as the Wiz. Everything else is uninspired and unmoving.

There is one thing I liked about the film—the production and costume designs of Tony Walton. This one touch of some imagination in the movie was like an oasis. The flying monkeys become a motorcycle gang, the yellow brick road paves the Brooklyn Bridge and the sun rising over the Emerald City is a big apple. It's theatrical and showy, but a constant joy nevertheless. And joy, for the most part, was what this movie lacked.

INTRAMURALS

Sigma Alpha Epsilon making a strong bid to finish high in the Fraternity division polished off a tough Phi Sigma Kappa team 35-23 this weekend. The SAE's used the balanced scoring attack of Young, Kotler and Blomberg to counter the J. Werfs led defense of the Phi Sigs. Elsewhere in the Frat 14 Mike Fabacher and Jacob Efherton led the Pikes over a scrappy Phi Kappa Theta team 34 to 30. The game was a see-saw battle until P. Lewis of the Pikes tipped in an errant field goal with seconds left to secure the game. The Phi Kaps' were led by J. Neagle with 14. Kappa Alpha was paced by Tom Westerman who had 23 in the K.A.'s 66-12 route of Beta Theta Pi. Lambda Chi Alpha raced past Delta Upsilon 55-13. The Lambda Chi Alpha's used the hot outside shooting of J. Reendez and T. Ivers to counter the shot blocking of Paul Clewis of the D.U.'s. Clewis blocked 19 shots. Sigma Nu beat Kappa Alpha Psi 38-25. Holloway and Murphy led the Nu Nu's with 17 apiece while Elrick Brown had 13 for the losers.

Jumping to the Pro Club division, the Corneahuskers focused by Jim Sosnowski and Ken Krivicac held on for a 38-34 win over the HRMS team. HRMS led by Mark Noneman with 14, just didn't seem hungry enough to pull this one out of the fire. ASCE who brought retired All-American Jerry Rogers out to play didn't have enough structure to stay with Mr. Meanor. Mr. Meanor was led by Munsch with 23 and Hostetter with 14. The final Mr. Meanor 57, ASCE 38. Another Law School team, Tulsa trounced the Zeros 68-23. Tulsa was led by Butch Ceronsky with 18 and J. Ferrell with 17. Mark Marsh had 17 for the Zeros. In what was probably the best game of the weekend, Optical Illusions slipped past APX Architecture 33-31. The game which was tied at half was settled by a controversial 3 point play by Mike Todd at the end of regulation time. Todd swished the Freebie which iced the game for the Eye/men. Also in the Pro Club HPER beat Phi Delta Chi 69-37. Paper Chasers crushed Theta Tau 45-31, Fighting Iris blurred Delta Sigma Pi 79-14, Assault & Battery lost a squeaker to Chemical Engineering 40-36 and Kappa Psi eased past Ragin Retinas 33-26.

In the Dorm 10, LTD came on strong, the results of a stong recruiting year, and destroyed the Faquads 58-22. Ron Thomas led LTD with 16 while every player on their roster scored. Mark Pickering paced the FA's with 10 while Bob Kornisch led the team in technicals. The LTDs seem a potent challenger to the favored HUH?! men. Elsewhere in the Dorm 10, 11th Floor took the favored dark horse spot with their 45-35 win over 9th Floor. 11th Floor using a tight zone defense kept the hot shooting 9th Floor's Brent Munson from being effective. Gary Reece led the Elevens with 17 while Dennis Greenwalt added 12.

The women's division had a light schedule with just the Sorority 6 going at it. Delta Zeta led by their floor leader Wanita Hodges polished off Phi Mu 28-9. Hodges had 11 while Karen K. had 16 for the DZ's. Gigi Solazar was the only effective Phi Mu, she had all 9 of the points. Alpha Chi Omega, a prime contender for the Sorority 6 crown raced by Delta Gamma 26-4. The Alpha Chi's were led by that perennial All-Star June Engblom, she had 15. Chi Omega eased past a tough Zeta Tau Alpha team 23-12. Debbie Mitchell paced the Chi O's with 15. The Chi Omega squad is picked to win the Soro 6 division again this year.

At the Intramural Managers' meeting, Friday in the San Jacinto Room of the U.C., entries will be due for singles, doubles, and co-rec table tennis along with billiards. Soccer entries are also due this Friday with games starting the weekend of February 10, 1979. Everyone interested is encouraged to sign up and participate. If there are any questions, please call or come by the Intramural Office.

'T'n T' duo fizzles in 'Moment'

By H.N. GRAHAM
Amusements Writer for The Cougar

MOMENT BY MOMENT

Director, writer: Jane Wagner; producer: Robert Stigwood; a Universal release.

Tomlin and Travolta get syrupy on the beach

"Moment By Moment" is a major disappointment; not just because it stars two major talents, Lily Tomlin and John Travolta, but because it stars them and is so terribly bad. It's a film so bad you can't understand why it was made in the first place; no one involved with it seriously thought it was any good, did they?

In the film, Tomlin is a 40-year-old housewife, upper-middle class, who is bored with her life. Travolta is a 22-year-old drifter. They get involved, fall deeply in love and try to stay together despite the difficulties.

The film is plotted like a Harlequin Romance, and there's a new crisis every 10 minutes. After a while they all seem to run together, like when Tomlin is driving around looking for Travolta to see him urgently—for the second time. It's nice if you like location shots of Los Angeles, but dramatic interaction? Forget it.

The character Travolta plays is named Strip, which is appropriate, as that is what he does in most of the movie. If all you want are shots of Travolta in a succession of bikini briefs, you will find something you want in this film.

The film was written and directed by Jane Wagner, who is a friend of Tomlin's, and has co-written and directed her TV specials and one-woman shows.

That this obviously talented woman could produce such a terrible script here, and not show the slightest directorial control, is mystifying.

The film is a total bomb, with not a single performance capable of making you believe in the characters, who are poorly written stereotypes anyway, and in a plot that's absurd and only fuzzily motivated, at best.

Roberts leads poor film in 'Gypsies'

By JOHN ATKINSON
Amusements Writer for The Cougar

KING OF THE GYPSIES

Writer-Director: Frank Pierson; color; multiple locations.

This film has several things going for it, and has about half again as many things coming around its flanks and through its rear echelons.

It is the celluloid fruition of the book by Peter Maas about a super-gypsy (Eric Roberts) who nevertheless thinks gypsy-ing is strictly from nowhere and goes out and gets himself a red-head (Annette O'Toole) who stands around with her mouth open every time his mother (Susan Sarandon) pops in with some new dirt that hubby (Judd Hirsch) is doing.

You now have an item on each side of the fence. They are:

1. It is a fair cast doing. . .
2. A lot of dumb stuff that should be at least mildly amusing since this film is about one of the more unusual groups of people, the gypsies.

Gypsy-dom has a good many Eastern European customs for newcomer Roberts is the progeny of Hirsch who is the son of King Zharko (Sterling Haydon) and Shelley Winters.

They marry and Roberts, the super-gypsy, is the result. He is better at all the gypsy grifts than the others but he thinks them foolish and decides that being a singing waiter is better than bamboozling people on phony insurance claims or tea leaf reading.

Roberts leads the way in the performances with a strong debut. Some of his fellows have problems though, particularly Shelley who's the pated queen is nauseating and Brooke Shields whose beautiful little 30-year-old face pops in every now and then to deliver a few delightfully plastic lines.

Haydon hands over the reins of the gypsy kingdom to Roberts, which makes Hirsch very angry, so the last quarter tries to be tense, but you somehow know that the annointed one will pull through.

Economic indicators go down for second consecutive month

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's index of economic indicators declined for the second consecutive month in December, giving support to predictions that a recession may not be far off.

The index declined 0.5 percent in December, the same as in November, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The figures "appear to be consistent with the slower growth of the economy, which we expect for this year," said Courtenay Slater, the department's chief economist. "I certainly would not leap to the conclusion they are forecasting an actual recession," she added.

In the past, a three-month decline in the so-called composite index of leading indicators has been interpreted as one sign of an impending recession.

The figures were released as Labor Secretary Ray Marshall expressed new optimism for success of President Carter's anti-inflation program and Budget Director James T. McIntyre defended the administration's fiscal 1980 budget.

At the same time Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said the administration remains poised to act again to prevent unwarranted attacks on the dollar in foreign exchange markets.

The Commerce Department report was sure to fuel new speculation about the direction in which the U.S. economy is headed. Many private economists have predicted at least a mild recession will occur this year because of government efforts to slow the economy. And administration officials have acknowledged in recent weeks that such an economic downturn is a definite risk.

But Ms. Slater said she would reject the interpretation that the index is pointing to a recession, even if it slides again in January. It had increased in October by 0.4 percent.

The administration is forecasting overall economic growth of about 2.2 percent this year, down from 4 percent last year. While that would be enough to avoid a recession, government officials also expect an increase in the unemployment rate, to 6.2 percent of the workforce, compared with the current 5.9 percent jobless rate.

TI Programmable 58

A Texas Instruments programmable calculator can make a big difference in the way you work this semester ... and in the years to come. And if you buy a TI-58 or 59 between January 1 and February 28, 1979, you can take advantage of a special money-saving offer.

Choose 2 FREE software Specialty Pakettes — a $20 value — when you buy a TI-58. Choose from:

- Electronic Engineering
- Civil Engineering
- Fluid Dynamics
- Blackbody Radiation
- Oil/Gas/Energy
- 3-D Graphics
- Mathematics
- Statistical Testing
- Marketing/Sales
- Production Planning
- Astrology

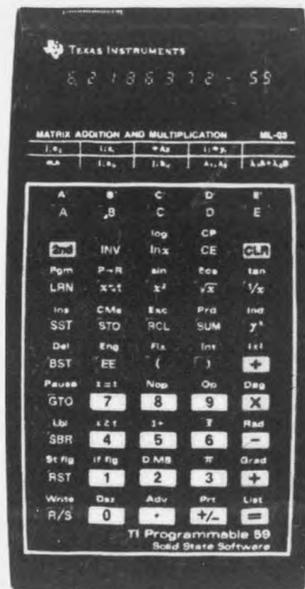

The economical TI-58 key-programmable provides up to 480 program steps or up to 60 data memories. TI's Specialty Pakettes can help extend its usefulness with ready-to-use programs written by professionals in a wide variety of fields. Each pakette contains step-by-step program listings, applications notes, instructions and sample problems.† Just key-in the program you need and you can put it to work right away.

Get a $10.00 rebate when you buy a TI-59.

Extra savings on the most advanced handheld programmable calculator ever made. Up to 960 program steps or up to 100 data memories. You can store the programs you write on handy magnetic cards. Additional ready-to-use programs are available through TI's Professional Program Exchange (PPX-59).

The TI-58 and 59 are versatile, computer-like tools specifically designed for solving complex problems. They can get you into programming quickly and easily — allowing you to concentrate on learning while they find the solutions. Both feature Solid State Software™ libraries with plug-in modules containing up to 5000 steps of prewritten programs. The Master Library is included with each calculator — an instant "tool kit" of 25 programs in key areas. Twelve optional libraries are available.

See the TI-58 and 59 at your dealer today and take advantage of one of these limited time offers.
