THE METROPOLITAN INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION

PETER A. CARLESIMO, Executive Director

During Pete Carlesimo's tenure as Executive Director of the National Invitation Tournament, the NIT has enjoyed its most wide ranging popularity and success. A nationally-known toastmaster and speaker in the United States and Canada, Carlesimo was one of the best known athletic directors in the country during his ten years at the helm of Fordham's athletic department. Carlesimo is the past president of the ECAC and has held a variety of positions in prestigious organizations and committees. The Newark, New Jersey, native played football at Fordham in the glory days of the "Seven Blocks of Granite." After initially coaching football at his alma mater, St. Benedict's Prep, he moved to the University of Scranton where he coached football for 14 years as well as basketball and cross country. In 1968, he returned to Fordham to serve as athletic director. Pete Carlesimo has been at the helm of the NIT for nine years, although this will be his last as the NIT's fulltime Executive Director. However, Carlesimo will be continuing his ever popular after dinner speaking engagements.

JOHN W. KAISER, President

Jack Kaiser, Director of Athletics and Vice President of St. John's University, has been associated with the University for over 40 years, having entered St. John's Preparatory in 1940. A three-sport letterman during his days at St. John's, Kaiser joined the coaching staff at his alma mater in 1952, assisting in both baseball and basketball. In 1956, he took over as head baseball coach, a position he held for 18 years. His teams won six Metropolitan Baseball Conference championships and were invited to 11 NCAA Regional playoffs, winning their way to the College World Series three times.

Kaiser holds membership and has chaired a host of ECAC and NCAA Committees, and has served as president of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association for 15 years. He was recently inducted into the St. John's Athletic Hall of Fame.

DANIEL E. QUILTY, Vice President, Treasurer

Dan Quilty has been on the New York University campus as a full-time athletic member for 36 years, and for the past 15 years, he has served his alma mater as the Director of Athletics. Quilty played an instrumental role in the restoration of Violet basketball on the Division III level, returning the sport to NYU after a 13-year absence.

Quilty played basketball in the late '40's for the legendary Howard Cann, and upon graduation, he was named head freshman coach and varsity assistant for his former mentor. He served in those capacities for six years before being appointed academic affairs advisor and a professor of physician education. During that time, he was also the director of intramurals. Before taking over as athletic director, Quilty was the assistant athletic director under Ben Carnavale. In 1957 he was appointed chairman of the required Physical Ed. Dept.

JOHN J. POWERS

Long associated with the Jaspers of Manhattan College, Jack Powers now serves his alma mater as the Director of Athletics. Prior to his appointment in 1979, he coached Kelly Green basketball for ten years, posting a 142-114 record as he led the Jaspers to six post-season tournaments. His 1973-74 squad won the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Holiday Festival. Before returning to Manhattan, where he starred on the basketball court, Powers compiled an 89-44 coaching record at Mamaroneck High School. As a player for the Green and White, he led the Jaspers to two National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament berths and the 1957 ECAC Holiday Festival Championship. Powers is a member of the Executive Council of the ECAC and the IC4A's. Powers will take over as the Executive Director of the NIT in early July. He follows Pete Carlesimo, the current and only Executive Director the NIT has ever had.

FRANCIS X. McLAUGHLIN

Named as the sixteenth Director of Athletics of Fordham University last year, Frank McLaughlin, 39, is a native of the Bronx and a 1969 graduate of Fordham.

A standout player all four years and captain of the Fordham basketball team his senior year, McLaughlin led the Rams to the NIT in 1968 and 1969 and was drafted by the New York Knickerbockers.

The year following his graduation, Frank entered the coaching ranks as an assistant coach at Holy Cross before returning to Fordham as an assistant under Digger Phelps in 1970-71. That year, the Rams finished 26-3, earning a trip to the NCAA Tournament and a third place finish in the East.

McLaughlin's coaching aspirations took him to Notre Dame the following year where he worked as an assistant until 1977, when he was named head basketball coach at Harvard. Frank spent eight years with the Crimson compiling a 99-100 overall record; his 1984-85 team finished with a 15-9 mark. McLaughlin's tenure of eight years as basketball coach at Harvard was the third longest in the school's history and his win total also ranked third best. Frank presently serves as president of the Liberty Football Conference.

WALTER C. HAMELINE

A two-year member of the MIBA, Walt Hameline already owns the key to New York City and Staten Island's Medal of Honor. The second winningest (by percentage) Division III football coach in the nation with a 63-13-2 career record, the 36-year-old New Hartford, N.Y. native led Wagner to an NCAA Division III football title in December.

During his seven-year tenure as Athletic Director, he also has been largely responsible for putting the Seahawks' men's basketball program back on the winning track, and was instrumental in the development of the ECAC Metro Conference.

Hameline was named the NCAA Division III "Football Coach of the Year" by four different committees. Aside from his participation in the MIBA, he is an active member of the American Football Coaches Association, the NCAA Division III and ECAC Division III Football Selection Committees and the Kickoff Classic Board.

SCOTTY WHITELAW, Commissioner, ECAC

A graduate of Springfield College, where he was a three sport letterman, Robert M. "Scotty" Whitelaw has served as the Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, the nation's largest athletic conference, since 1972.

Upon graduation in 1950 with both a bachelor's and a master's in physical education, Scotty stayed on at Springfield for one year as a teaching fellow before moving to Phillips Andover Academy for two years. From Andover, it was on to Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he was the varsity basketball and baseball coach, and from 1955 to 1960 MIT's assistant director of athletics.

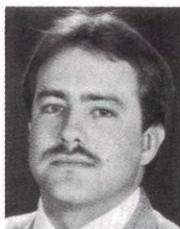

In 1960, Scotty joined the ECAC as assistant commissioner, a post he held until 1970, when he was named associate commissioner. Scotty serves in an advisory capacity to the MIBA.

GEORGE BISACCA

Bisacca has found success as both a coach and attorney. As a graduate of Georgetown University and its Law School, George has the distinction of being the youngest person to ever pass the Connecticut Bar. After his graduation, Bisacca spent seven years coaching at Fairfield Prep. While notching an 89-32 record, Bisacca was also practicing law. In 1958, he moved to Fairfield university where he coached the Stags to a 151-80 mark, still the best record in the school's history.

Presently, the Fairfield, Connecticut, resident heads the Collegiate Sports Law Group of the law firm Cummings & Lockwood.

PAUL CLARKE, Assistant Director

Paul Clarke, a 1984 graduate of St. John's University, has been the NIT's assistant director for three years. Paul handles all phases of NIT operations from arranging team travel to coordinating radio coverage for the Big Apple NIT as well as the post-season NIT.

CHRISTINE FALLON, Public Relations Director

Chris Fallon, a 1978 graduate of Manhattan College, has been associated with the NIT for seven years. Chris came to the NIT after a two-year stint as the Assistant Athletic Director and Sports Information Director at St. Francis College in Brooklyn.

THE SELECTION PROCESS

1. The following is the criteria used by the NIT Committee in choosing teams to compete in the Tournament:

Plus and minus points are granted on the basis of the following:

- Wins and losses
- Number of home games
- Wins at home
- Major wins
- Record on the road
- Strength of conference
- Plus losses
- Minus losses
- Common opponents
- Games vs. each other

2. The strength of schedule is an important part of the analysis with stress on the following:

- Division I opponents and their records
- Strong Division I opponents and their records
- Number of Division II opponents and their records

Everything being equal, the following become important and deciding factors:

- Strong second half of the season
- Outstanding performers
- NIT tradition
- Injuries
- National rankings
- Potential "Cinderella" team
- Margin of victory over quality opponents

The contents of all selection and pairings meetings are completely confidential and the Committee does what it thinks is in the best interest of the Tournament.

SITE SELECTION PROCESS

The following is the criteria used by the NIT Committee in the selection of game sites for Tournament contests:

1. Input is gathered from athletic directors, conference commissioners, coaches, arena directors and members of the media.
2. Availability and size of the arena.
3. NEUTRAL SITES are explored with stress on the following: rental charges; game expenses; distance from competing schools; current and past attendance records (regular and post season); ticket prices (regular and post season) and ticket printing. It is the policy of the MIBA that if the time element creates a problem, the MIBA will authorize preprinted undated tickets. If the site is not selected, the MIBA will assume the cost of printing the tickets.
4. CAMPUS SITES are explored with stress on the following: game expenses; current and past attendance records (regular and post season); ticket printing (same as neutral sites); student vacation periods; ticket prices for regular season and post season play. Host campus sites receive twenty-percent of the net revenue, with parking, program and food concessions additional host income.
5. Teams are seeded by the MIBA before the first round and after the second and third rounds. Everything being equal, this can be a factor in site selection.

NIT HISTORY

When the referee first tossed up the ball at center court 51 years ago, the floodgates opened and the National Tournament was immediately established as a major sporting event.

Originated by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Association in 1938, responsibility for administering the NIT was transferred two years later to local colleges, first known as the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Committee and in 1948, as the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association (MIBA), which today is comprised of representatives from the five New York City schools, Fordham, Manhattan, New York University, St. John's and Wagner.

The first edition of the NIT was played at Madison Square Garden, located between 49th and 50th Streets. The "old" Garden remained the Tournament's home for thirty years until 1968, when for the first time it was played in, as the late Pulitzer Prize sportswriter, Red Smith, pegged it "the most famous and glamorous arena in creation"—the Garden on 33rd Street. It is here that the NIT and the Garden continue their illustrious relationship.

In 1977, NIT Executive Director, Peter A. Carlesimo and the Tournament Committee implemented a plan that gave college basketball fans an opportunity to see their local favorites in tournament play. This innovation involved playing at different fieldhouses and arenas throughout the country.

"We took a chance when we experimented with the early round games on a regional basis and instant success followed," explained Carlesimo. The revised format, the most striking change in NIT history, is responsible for the tourney compiling record breaking attendance figures, including the 1981 tally of 326,466, the largest fan turnout in NIT annals.

The NIT's single game attendance record occurred in Lexington, Kentucky in 1979, when 23,522 spectators watched Clemson defeat Kentucky in overtime. The single game scoring record was set in 1977 by Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts University when he scored 65 points in a losing effort against the University of Oregon. Al Inniss of St. Francis (NY) holds the rebound record when he handled 37 caroms against Lafayette in 1956. Since the NIT's inception, 190 schools have participated in the NIT, with St. John's holding the record for most appearances with twenty-four. St. John's and Bradley share the record for most NIT titles with four.

A new chapter in the long and storied history of the NIT unfolds when Jack Powers takes over the reigns of Executive Director on July 1, 1988. Powers has been an integral part of the MIBA for ten years, serving on the NIT Committee as part of his duties as the director of athletics at Manhattan College.

"I am certainly looking forward to the challenges that lie ahead, although following Pete Carlesimo is no easy task. His accomplishments on behalf of the NIT are legendary and the solid foundation Pete has laid gives me great confidence that we can build an even greater NIT in the future," commented Powers, a 1958 graduate of Manhattan, where he was a basketball standout and Jasper captain his senior year.

For 51 years, the National Invitation Tournament has showcased some of the greatest talents in college basketball and although its role has changed during that time, the NIT will continue to play a vital part in collegiate athletics.

NIKE-NIT ALL STARS GO 6-3 IN SPAIN AND FRANCE

The NIKE-NIT All Stars coached by Fordham's athletic director Frank McLaughlin took part in an 18 day tour of Spain and France last summer where they won six of nine games, including two impressive wins over the Russian National Team.

"This was our eighth trip abroad with an All Star team and every year it is delightful to see the student-athletes enjoy the different cultures, food and peoples—it is an education they would never receive in a classroom," said Peter A. Carlesimo, Executive Director of the NIT.

The tour opened with a two day tournament in Seville, Spain where the All Stars faced stiff competition early—the National Teams of Cuba, Russia and Spain comprised the tournament's makeup.

The first round pitted the All Stars against the Russian National Team and paced by New Mexico's Charlie Thomas' 20 points, the Americans held on for a 85-84 victory. Johnny Johnson of Virginia followed with 14.

In the second round, the All Stars faced the Spanish National Team and playing before a boisterous crowd, they lost to the host club 93-77. The teams were separated by five points at the half, but Spain came out blistering in the second stanza and cruised to the victory.

"The Spanish club was very physical and they were much older than our kids. I thought we played well, but they just wore us down," commented McLaughlin, who, before coming to Fordham coached at Harvard for eight years.

The All Stars were led by a hot shooting Mike Vreeswyk (Temple) who connected for 18 points. Derrick Sanders (Illinois State) contributed 17.

Upon the completion of the Seville Tournament, the All Stars flew to Madrid, where they took in the sights before heading to Toledo and another tournament.

Things were not going to get any easier in Toledo—not only were the Spanish and Russian National Teams waiting to greet the Americans, but the powerhouse Italian National Team was also on the welcoming committee.

The first game was a rematch with the Russians and the All Stars paced by double figure scoring from four players went on to a strong 98-76 win. Randolph Keyes, the 1987 NIT MVP led the visitors with 19 points and 11 rebounds.

In the second round, the Spanish National Team was again an ungracious host as they handed the All Stars a 93-80 drubbing. The frontcourt tandem of Keyes and Shelton Jones teamed up for a combined 31 points and 15 rebounds in the losing effort.

The All Stars were to lose one more game on European soil before going on a tear and winning their last four straight games. The Italian National Team, one of the best in Europe, overwhelmed the younger All Stars 98-85.

"Again, playing against older more mature teams who play all year long is a real challenge," explained McLaughlin. "The style of play is much more physical and there's obviously no home court advantage," he added.

After a brief stopover in Madrid, the travellers left Spain for France. Four days in Paris, the "City of Lights" was first on the agenda. The visitors did some sightseeing, shopping, a lot of eating . . . and, they managed to squeeze in a game against the Chinese National Team.

It was a close contest throughout, but the All Stars behind Jones' 29 points and 11 rebounds held on for a 87-83 win. Keyes followed with 16 while Johnson and Seton Hall's James Major chipped in 10 points apiece.

The final leg of the journey found the touring team in Gravelines, a bustling town outside of Paris. Gravelines was the host team in a six team tournament that included the Chinese National Team and top club teams from Spain, Brazil and France.

The All Stars broke the century mark as they cruised to a 100-85 victory over Orthéz, one of the top club teams in France. The Americans had five players in double figures, and were once again led by the Keyes-Jones combination. Keyes finished with 21 points and 10 rebounds while Jones collected 20 points and 9 rebounds.

In the second round, the visitors broke 100, beating Caja Bilbao, a team from Spain, whose top scorer was a former St. John's player, Jeff Allen. However, Allen's 26 points was not enough to overcome another balanced scoring attack by the All Stars who had six players in double figures. Johnson led all scorers with 18 points while Jones had 16 and Major followed with 15.

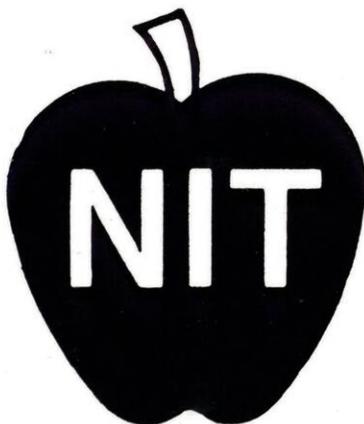

The championship game proved to be another easy win and another 100 point game—the All Stars spoiled Gravelines bid to win their own tournament by defeating them handily, 100-72. Major, Jones and Keyes each scored 18 points, while Vreeswyk followed with 13.

"We were very pleased with the way the student-athletes conducted themselves. They represented themselves, their institutions and their country in an exemplary fashion and we were very proud to have been associated with such a fine group of young men," commented Carlesimo, the man behind the trips.

NIT PICKINGS French food must have agreed with the All Stars . . . The team went 4-0 on French soil compared to 2-3 in Spain. . . . Wil Perdue of Vanderbilt provided valuable board help off the bench . . . He averaged just under five rebounds a game . . . Tulsa's Tracy Moore and TCU's Jamie Dixon rounded out the team . . . Players were chosen from teams that participated in the Big Apple NIT and the post season NIT. . . . Because of the early time of the trip, some players were chosen whose teams played earlier tournaments
