

THE INSIDE STORY

NUMBER 30

THURSDAY, MARCH 6, 1980

CHOO-CHOO BLUES

If you've been feeling "railroaded" lately, you might be able to sympathize with Sandra Bradbury of Industrial Relations, who summed up her feelings in this poem:

"Southern Pacific, give us a break.
We've had about all that we can take!
We know this strike is not so fine
'Cause we have to drive through a picket line.
The hours are long, sometimes in the rain,
Then along comes a 200-mile train.

It's bad enough trying to come in,
Since no one wants to be late.
But it's even worse when you want to go home
And have to sit and wait.
Maybe Shell will build us a bridge
Over that Refinery track.
Then we can make it through this strike
Until our friends come back."

"NO PARKING"

These days, it often looks like a used car lot on the street in front of the Refinery Cafeteria--with cars jammed side by side in "no parking" areas. We concede it may sometimes be a problem finding a place to park. But that's nothing compared to the problems those vehicles cause to pedestrians who often have to stand in the street to see if traffic's coming. That creates a definite safety hazard. Red D. Worker says, "PLEASE COMPLY WITH NO PARKING RESTRICTIONS THROUGHOUT THE DPMC."

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

SERVE is looking for volunteers to help out at the annual Easter Seal Telethon, which will be broadcast from 7 p.m. March 22 to 6 p.m. March 23 on KRIV-TV, Channel 26. Volunteers, who will be expected to attend a 7:30 p.m. training session on either March 17 or March 18 at 3630 West Dallas in Houston, are needed to answer telephones, sort mail, serve as messengers and do other chores. For more information, contact SERVE at Head Office.

LUCKY DAY

Wednesday proved to be a lucky day for K. W. Hansen of Maintenance South whose badge number of 652 was picked by Red D. Worker. Today can be your lucky day if your badge number is 208. If you have this number, you can register for your prize at either the chemical or main refinery guard house.

FOR SALE

These days, it often looks like a car lot on the street in front of the refinery cafeteria--with cars jammed side by side in "no parking" areas. We concede it may sometimes be a problem finding a place to park. But that's nothing compared to the problems those vehicles cause to pedestrians who often have to stand in the street to see if traffic's coming. That creates a definite safety hazard. Red D. Worker says, "PLEASE COMPLY WITH NO PARKING RESTRICTIONS THROUGHOUT THE DPMC."

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

SERVE is looking for volunteers to help out at the annual Easter Seal Auction, which will be broadcast from 7 p.m. March 22 to 9 p.m. March 23 on KLV-TV, Channel 26. Volunteers who will be expected to attend a 7:30 p.m. training session on either March 17 or March 18 at 3630 West Dallas in Houston. As needed to answer telephones, sort mail, serve as messengers and do other chores. For more information, contact SERVE at Head Office.