IT'S TOO LATE TO WARN ABOUT LOSING THE COLD WAR BECAUSE WE'VE ALREADY LOST IT

American People Are Guilty of Criminal Negligence In Their Duties As Citizens

In pondering the pitiable State of the Union, we can but wonder what the American people are thinking of to have allowed the once strongest, most powerful and invulnerable nation on earth to descend to the low status to which it has dropped.

Originally, we were a proud, patriotic and independent people deeply grateful to a beneficent Creator for endowing us with the richest blessings within His power to bestow and would have fought to the death to keep them.

And yet we have now become so brainwashed by anti-American propaganda which has deluged the nation for a quarter of a century that we have allowed midget-brained politicians in Washington to fritter away our priceless rights and freedoms, dissipate our substance and intimidate us to the point where we actually seem afraid to fight back in defense of the precious heritage which is rightfully ours.

We had the greatest form of government ever devised by human mind, a Constitution conceded to be without peer among governing documents of the world and more freedom than was ever accorded to a sovereign people in the history of organized government.

But we have let pin-headed intellectuals and pipsqueak politicians who have no practical knowledge of anything and who would starve to death if pried loose from the public teat and forced to earn a living in a competitive field, take over the administration and policy-making functions of government and wreck our free enterprise system, mutilate our Constitution and rob the citizen of those inherent rights and freedoms without which he has no dignity, no self-respect and no manhood.

There should be a National Day of Atonement set aside in which the American people go down on their knees and ask forgiveness of the Divine Creator for their criminal negligence as citizens and seek to make restitution by pledging their word to begin anew and clean-out the cess-pool of corruption in Washington, sweep out traitors in the three branches of government and bring about a return of sanity, morality and common sense in the transaction of the nation's business.

OUTLOOK FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN MATERIALLY IMPROVED

Association with great men automatically enriches those who enjoy such association and on this basis, we are sure that the President of the United States is now in better position to discharge the heavy responsibilities which attend his high office as Chief Executive of the nation because of having recently been permitted to bask in the presence of a man whose life has been a model of propriety and good citizenship and who is a noted authority on matters of government.

Press reports informed us that the President had the rare honor of entertaining a renowned celebrity on his yacht recently who no doubt was able to give Mr. Kennedy much valuable advice and wise counsel in affairs of State and make suggestions of inestimable benefit to the Republic in the

'POOR WHITE TRASH' ARE FAR SUPERIOR TO 'RICH WHITE TRASH'

As long as we can remember the "poor white trash of the South" have been the objects of scorn and abuse and have occupied a very low estate in human society.

But changing events of modern history have taken most of the stigma off this segment of our people and transferred it to another class of Americans who have demonstrated their right to first place in gutter society.

They are the "rich white trash of the North" whose utter lack of pride, self respect and personal fastidiousness in choosing their associates and in flouting convention and violating color lines, automatically relegates them, in the eyes of decent people, to the bottom of the social heap.

The celebrity was Mr. Frank Sinatra of Hollywood.

It is a heart-breaking experience when a country has been defeated by the enemy but if its people have stood solidly together and fought with their last ounce of blood, sweat and tears in its defense, there is something ennobling and glorious even in defeat. But when a nation is betrayed and overthrown by its own leaders, shame, dishonor and despair are added to the humiliation of its conquered people. If the danger to the United States were posed only by guns, tanks and nuclear missiles in the hands of the enemy, there would be less to fear because American fighting forces and equipment are vastly superior to the military resources of the Soviets in spite of all the spurious and blustering claims to the contrary. We could easily whip the foreign enemy but domestic foes are doing us in. For years we have been engaged in a Cold War which was being fought with lies, propaganda and treason and the Soviets have won it. So, let us talk no more about winning the Cold War because we've already lost it. Instead, let us now declare another Cold War led by the people of the United States to recapture our lost sovereignty and freedom. But in order to win this one, we will first have to whip Washington and it will then be duck soup to defeat Moscow.

No nation has won a war, Hot or Cold, which has lost its freedom and we are losing ours, day by day.

We first started losing the Cold War on the day when we accorded recognition to the Soviet Police State and since then, we've been losing it, battle by battle, right up to this good hour.

We lost a battle when Presidents of the United States started combing the ideological dregs of human society for their advisers, drafting the services of every wild-eyed Marxist in the country and turning them loose with full authority to start chiseling away at the magnificent governing structure of a Republic which had inspired the envy and jealousy of every weak and decadent Socialist country in the world.

We lost another when the Executive, Judicial and Legislative branches of the American government were persuaded to relinquish their Constitutional authority and surrender it into the hands of Invisible Rulers allied with the World Conspiracy against the United States and without whose sanction no high-ranking national leader dares to take official action.

We lost another when members of the United States Senate, with two exceptions, walked blindly into an enemy trap by approving the Charter of the United Nations, conceived in Moscow, executed in San Francisco by Soviet agents and diabolically planned to serve as the medium by which the American Republic is to be dismantled, its sovereignty surrendered and its citizens conscripted as faceless slaves in a One-World Communist State.

We lost another when Communist propaganda was permitted to so thoroughly permeate the United States that our Chief Executives, lawmakers and other high governing officials were persuaded to abandon established American principles in favor of Marxism; when a heavy percentage of the nation's newspapers began slanting their news and editorial views in the interest of pro-Communist ideology; when thousands of educators in our schools and colleges instituted indoctrination programs to sway American youth in the direction of World Socialism; when ministers of leading churches began preaching the Social Gospel of Karl Marx and highly organized religious groups decided to throw

Millions of Americans Think it — The Southern Conservative Says It

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE MUST FACE COMMUNISM WITH SPIRIT OF '76

"Adolph Hitler's propaganda technique was predicated upon the repetitious assertion of big lies; lies that they were so big and repeated so many times that they were accepted in Germany as fundamental truths," says Clarence Manion, noted radio commentator and recognized as one of the greatest Constitutional lawyers of this century.

"Fortunately for the misled German people, Uncle Sam forgets quickly," Mr. Manion added. "But our Communist conquerors will not be as generous with us as we were with the defeated Germans and Japanese. On the contrary, should the Communists take over the United States, the cruelties and tortures that will be inflicted upon us will be ruthlessly continued for a thousand years.

"We know ever so many things that aren't so about Communism and all of them are reflected in our stupid but stubbornly persisting foreign policy that continues to go from bad to worse, fueled by basic false assumptions concerning the nature of Communism and how to deal with it.

"For the political administrators of our foreign policy — Democrat and Republican — the evil of Communism has developed into an indispensable convenience which justifies gross mismanagement, wanton waste and a proliferating bureaucracy that operates under protecting screens of secrecy which are called security regulations.

"For power-hungry bureaucrats and starry-eyed One-Worlders who are determined to sink the last shreds of our national sovereignty into an unchartered sea of Internationalism, the menace of Communism has been a veritable God-send.

"But, for patriotic Americans, these officially perverted concepts of Communism are the polished instruments for self-destruction.

"The belief is held by many Americans — and the official foreign policy of the United States reflects it — that Communist governments are not necessarily a menace to the freedom of this country or to the peace of the world; and that it is entirely possible for such a Communist government to be a peaceful, orderly and constructive member of international society.

"If these fatal misconceptions are continued under the leadership and encouragement of the present, or any, Administration, then our early and complete surrender to the tyranny of International Communism is as certain as tomorrow's sunrise.

"The transparent falsehood of these popular and official misconceptions concerning Communism is now covered by a crust of complacent indifference on the part of a great majority of the American people. If we have deliberately lost the will to resist the Communist conquest of this country, then we should quit going through expensive motions to the contrary, which

'Little Washington' Is To Be Set Up In Heart Of Ft. Worth

As if they were not reminded enough of the curse of centralized government already, the people of Fort Worth are to have the blight of a "Federal Center" right in the heart of town.

The U. S. expects to spend $20,000,000 of the taxpayers' own money to build a vast edifice to house more than 2,000 government workers all in one building, this further carrying out the idea of "centralization."

It is not enough that they should be scattered all over town — they must all be gathered together in one imposing whole so as to impress the peasantry with the force of our powerful and far-reaching Federal octopus.

It is understood that the ultimate aim is to get these "Federal Centers" located in all principal cities of the United States.

May the Lord help us!

According to Inez Robb, patriots in fighting Communism are really opposing "the evolving and social economic system of the 20th Century that would insure a squarer shake for all citizens rather than a lucky few." Khrushchev describes Communism thus too but it sounds a little odd coming from a columnist drawing pay under the American free enterprise system. And the fact that such views are published in reputable American papers is alarming in the extreme.

One of the most frightening rumors afloat — and we pray that it is just a rumor — is that the American State Department has already prepared the terms of the surrender of West Germany.

Naturally, we should not recognize Red China but if it makes sense to continue to give recognition to Red Russia any more than to Red China, we can't see it. Both are outlaw nations built on human slavery and it is a disgrace that we should recognize either.

From a physician in Seattle: "Live a long time, Sis, and continue to keep the crooks uncomfortable."

only add the vice of hypocrisy to the surrender.

"But, before we do that we should frankly face the truth about the evil we are inviting to take over. A place to start this truth-facing operation is in a speech J. Edgar Hoover made to the National Convention of the American Legion. 'We are at war with the Communists and the sooner each red-blooded American realizes that, the better and safer we will be.'

"What shall we do about it? The first thing to do is to scrap our tranquilizing misconceptions about Communism and face this diabolical enemy with the courage and spirit of '76."

From an American in Suginami, Ku, Tokyo, Japan: "You are doing a great work there in presenting the true facts about the Communist conspiracy. All that I read about your work is encouraging."

From an Italian group in Rome, Italy: "We would be most grateful if you would give us information about 'Right' groups operating in the U.S.A."

the power of the church behind Moscow's plan for dominating the world; and when prominent individual citizens, large Foundations and other influential leaders of public thought including radio, television and movies, succumbed to the Communist line and set up a subversive transmission belt which has projected this poisonous philosophy into the home of every citizen of the United States.

We lost another when our highest military authorities in the Pentagon, backed up by the President of the United States, in effect, put a stigma on patriotism and proclaimed loyalty to the American Flag and the Republic for which it stands as a punishable offense by demoting Generals in the Army who zealously sought to defeat the Communist menace by informing their troops of all phases of this insidious foe and to inspire the men under their command with the high ideals of Americanism.

We lost another when the President of the United States perverted the original meaning of the First Amendment to the Constitution which provides for freedom of speech by removing censorship of Soviet literature coming into this country and thereby opened up the mails to a flood of Communist propaganda which is pouring in on the American people in such proportions that the postal services are reported to be swamped.

We lost another when elected officials sworn to uphold the Constitution of the United States dealt a body blow to this document and to Constitutional Government through a massed assault on the Rights of the States and, at the point of a sword, denuded these basic units of the Federal system of every vestige of authority in the conduct of their own internal affairs.

We lost another one when cowardly and yellow-livered politicians in both Houses of the Congress of the United States perverted and defamed the legislative process by voting labor union racketeers into a position of such powerful magnitude that they not only have a strangle hold on the national economy but can cause top-bracket government officials to tremble from those in the White House on down.

We lost another when members of the Congress of the United States were led into prostituting the taxing powers of that body which provide only that taxes shall be levied to support the legitimate cost of the American government and started financing outlandish projects in every corner of the earth from luxury hotels in India to outdoor privies in the Philippines. (This un-Constitutional and indefensible activity was undertaken under the name of "foreign aid" and on the specious theory that we were thus winning friends and influencing people when, as a matter of fact, there are not more than a half dozen countries which are being supported by American taxpayers who would not shoot us in the back at the drop of a hat.)

We lost another when our elected public servants discarded the basic principles of "government of the people, for the people and by the people" and set up a system of class legislation for the benefit of special groups whose votes they hoped to reap in their never-ending struggle to hold on to their seats in Congress.

We lost another when Washington turned its back on the Monroe Doctrine and allowed the Soviets to set up their government in Cuba, missile bases and all, within less than a hundred miles from American shores. (American taxpayers are being forced to help finance this Soviet government through donations of money which are being sneaked to Cuba by way of the United Nations.)

We lost another when the Supreme Court of the United States stepped down from its lofty position as an adjudicator of legal cases and an interpreter of legislative enactments and set itself up as an arbiter of social questions and as an agency for the dissemination of propaganda generated in Moscow dealing with racial mixing in the U.S. South.

We lost another when four consecutive national administrations refused to remove Communists and perverts from the State Department in the face of overwhelming evidence that that agency is honeycombed with subversives who have a major part in shaping American foreign policy and who, when the heat was turned on in such proportions that a few Communist agents had to be removed, gave them bigger assignments in American embassies abroad or in the United Nations.

We have lost another every time our striped-pants diplomats have engaged in conferences with the uncivilized gangsters from the Kremlin who are utterly lacking in reason, honor or morals and when our Presidents have lowered their own dignity and the prestige of their country by holding "summit conferences" with the arch criminals who head the Soviet Union.

All these and a thousand other battles of the Cold War were lost by the American people. They could have won in a fair fight but the deck was stacked against them and they couldn't whip the Soviets in Moscow and Soviet sympathizers in Washington, too.

In addition to losing these individual battles, we Unconditionally Surrendered in the Cold War when the President offered to turn our armed forces over to the United Nations and entrust American security to the mercy of an atheistic One-World organization completely dominated by the sworn enemies of the United States.

After Spending Billions For Defense President Would Scuttle Armed Forces

Thoughtful Americans were very properly alarmed at the passage of S. 2180 by the Senate of the United States on September 8.

This measure was called the "Arms Control and Disarmament Act" and if it did not set up the machinery which would grease the skids by which we slide into One-World government then the definition of the bill was very misleading. On page 17591 of the Congressional Record of that date, this definition of S. 2180 is given:

The phrase "Arms Control and Disarmament" includes the elimination, reduction, control, limitation, inspection, verification or identification of armed forces and armaments of all kinds under international control or to create and strengthen international organizations for the maintenance of peace.

The bill provides for the setting up of an Under Secretary of State for Arms Control and Disarmament "who shall serve as the principal adviser to the Secretary of State and the President on arms control and disarmament matters." It also provides for the appointment of a Deputy Director and four assistant directors and a General Advisory Committee of fifteen members, all to be appointed by the president.

When the measure got to the House there was a lot of oratory and a few teeth were pulled out of the bill such as changing its title to the "State Arms Control Agency" but it was passed also by that body and an appropriation of ten million dollars voted to finance the agency's first year of life and in conference committee the title was restored.

A proviso was finally added that no action toward disarmament "might be permanently concluded without the prior approval of Congress" which was meaningless since both Houses of Congress have indicated that they approve disarmament else they would have refused to even discuss disarmament at this time when the enemies' guns are practically pointed at us and billions of dollars have been exacted of taxpayers to put us in position of defense against this enemy. Certainly this is no time for the supposed "defenders of the Republic" in Congress to talk about disarming when they have been talking themselves hoarse, and very properly, about arming to the teeth.

A lot of people saw nothing worse in the bill than a new commission to be added to the festering bureaucracy in Washington which would give the President authority to appoint more people and spend more money. But the President's speech to the United Nations in which he advocated world disarmament and a treaty to this effect with other nations, (in the face of the fact that a treaty with Russia on any subject any time is not worth the paper it is written on), and further indicating we would be willing to trust our security to a Police Force within the United Nations, is cause for fearful apprehension in our opinion.

Only a nation which is fully prepared and fully armed is a strong nation and we should have learned this from our experience following World War II when we allowed our enemies to persuade us to disarm while other countries went right on building up their military might.

No people can be secure who live in a Fool's Paradise and are willing to trust gangster nations to keep the peace and respect the rights and freedoms of others, treaties or no treaties.

Great Religious Denomination Should Repudiate Its Subversive Affiliates

With the United States facing the greatest peril confronting it in history, many pro-Communist groups in this country have had the judgment to temporarily suspend their propaganda activities on the theory, no doubt, that they will elicit more disgust than approval, right at this particular time.

But not so the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity of Atlanta, Georgia. We hasten to add that this group in no way represents the majority of the high class Americans who compose the membership of the great Episcopalian Church but are rather the black sheep in that denomination.

However, this segment of that religious group is highly organized and active and capable of reflecting vast discredit on the denomination which tolerates its off-brand behavior.

Recently this society put out a blasphemous plaque which was widely circulated in church circles showing a picture of the Christ with a White boy kneeling on one side and a Negro on the other, together with a statement of purpose of the organization urging social practices which are calculated to gag a vulture, such as:

"Praying daily that the church may be rid of all divisions based on race, color, national origin or class and that a more just social order be established."

"Mutual support amongst this society for all clergy and laity who, in seeking total participation in parish life for all, find themselves at odds with accepted social mores."

"Elimination of criteria based on race, color, national origin or class for applicants to church, camps, conferences, schools, colleges, hospitals or other institutions or agencies which the church may operate in any way."

A fair sample of those on its Board of Directors is The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike of California who is atheistic in his religious views and pro-Communist in his social and economic pronouncements.

Lately the Episcopal Church as a whole has indicated a desire to

Negotiating With The Forces Of Darkness Humiliating And Futile

Aid To Schools Would Concentrate Power In Washington Bureaucracy

(San Francisco Call-Bulletin)

The Kennedy Administration's aid-to-education program appears to be foundering on the private school aid issue. This issue is not enough, of itself, to block action, but it is swinging the balance against this costly, controversial and potentially dangerous legislation.

The school aid plan is dangerous because it presages loss of authority by local school boards and concentration of such power in the Washington bureaucracy. Any such intention is elaborately denied, but when the federal government puts up the money it is bound to specify how it shall be spent. Washington dictation on local expenditures for relief is a good example of how this system works.

Aside from that, the legislation proposes an ill-disguised handout to the states—the rich ones as well as the poor ones. The expense would be added to a budget deficit which threatens renewed inflation in the cost of living. And the need for such handouts, even if the money were available, has not been demonstrated.

It is stated the nation needs 600,000 more classrooms in the next 10 years. Without federal help, classrooms are being built at a rate which would produce 700,000 in the same period.

A shortage of teachers is predicted. Yet a comprehensive survey, last year, by the committee for economic development, indicated that, in the 10-year period from 1949 to 1959, teaching staffs had grown faster than student enrollments. The survey reported teachers are progressively better trained, with the proportion of men teachers highest in half a century. Salaries have grown on an average faster than the average level of national earnings.

We think that the plea of the private schools, mainly Roman Catholic parochial schools, to be cut in on the proposed subsidy, is unsound for the simple reason the basic proposition is unsound. Congress will be well advised to let the entire matter drop.

From a San Antonio business executive: "For two years I have followed closely and with interest all of your editorials and I feel certain that yours are the views of the majority of free-thinking American patriots."

clean house by criticising the National Council of Churches and demanding that that national organization quit projecting its own political, economic and social views in the name of Episcopal Church members and, in some notable cases, by withdrawing from the NCC altogether.

The parent body of the church could remove much of the corruption which has built up in religious circles around the racial issue by disavowing any further connection with the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity.

As hurricane Carla, one of the most violent assaults of nature ever hurled against the United States, was ripping across the coastal area of the country and destroying hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property and which except for excellent evacuation facilities would have taken at least a quarter of a million human lives, a rival force of destruction was being staged in another part of the world.

In the Soviet Union, the agents of death and annihilation released one atomic test after another as if to prove that the hand of man could vie with the elements in the mass killing of the human race and the destruction of property.

And at the same time, headlines proclaimed that President Kennedy was ready to hold summit conferences with the forces of darkness in the Soviet Union "if they were willing."

We suppose there is no way to dissuade American Presidents from repeatedly engaging in these humiliating and farcical discussions each one of which strips more dignity and prestige from the weak and wavering representatives of this great Republic, who seem utterly incapable of meeting the dire situation with forceful action and to whom "negotiation" means further appeasement, surrender and retreat.

To deal with the Soviets is treating with the minions of Hell, and nothing but evil can come from further association with those who only bear outer resemblance to men and who are on a moral and spiritual level with swine.

Neither Political Party Provides The Full Answer

The argument that Communism can be whipped by changing the complexion of Congress from Democrat to Republican has no validity in the face of the facts. Treason in Washington is bi-partisan since there are patriots in both parties, and likewise traitors.

For instance in the case of the situation in Africa where the United Nations forces have been fighting on the side of the Communists, Senator Dodd of Connecticut, a democrat, is putting up the hardest fight to expose this situation of any one in the Senate while Jake Javits of New York, who calls himself a Republican, is all for it.

Whatever the answer, changing from Democrat to Republican or vice versa is not it.

The American people are supposed to have enough intelligence and plain horse sense to vote for men who are Americans first, last and all the time, when they choose their representatives in Congress and the fact that that body is shot through with Communist sympathizers is nobody's fault except the electorate's.

Party labels are no longer authentic and the wise American will disregard it when he goes to the polls and select the man who most nearly measures up to his conception of what an American statesman should be.

Mystery Of Hammarskjold's Death Will Probably Remain Just That

There has perhaps been no incident in recent times which is more confusing than the case of Dag Hammarskjold, late Secretary General of the United Nations who met a tragic death in the wilds of Africa recently.

In the first place, his death is going to be set down as an accident and so effective is modern propaganda that the American people will actually believe that this is true. For the real truth to be made public would reflect on the Communists and we can't have that of course.

Why the Soviets would want to get rid of Mr. Hammarskjold as they indicated at the last session of the U. N. that they intended to do, makes the situation all the more confusing for undoubtedly it is hard to see why they would not have been friendly toward him. Certainly in the Bang-Jensen tragedy he did nothing to offend them and at the time of his death he was in Africa with U.N. troops who were engaged in fighting anti-Communist forces there.

But the Communist mind is dark and devious and it is hard to follow their line of thought.

At any rate, they felt their interests could be better served with Hammarskjold out of the way so he is out of the way.

Atlanta, Dallas and New Orleans Schools Are Integrated Under Police State Proceedings

Addle-brained advocates of racial mixing who can see no further than the big nose on their faces, are bragging their heads off about the mixing of white and black children in Atlanta, Dallas and New Orleans schools in September "without incident."

The left-wing press has drained the contemptible proceedings of every possible ounce of publicity which can be extracted from the situation but as usual they have taken liberties with the truth.

They made no mention of the fact that in each of these cities the police department was stationed at the schools to be integrated with guns and blackjacks handy and with U.S. marshals standing by ready to go into action.

They didn't tell of the arrangements beforehand which practically amounted to martial law in which no white citizen was allowed in the vicinity of the schools with the exception of parents accompanying their children to classes. They didn't tell how any interested observers were herded away from the scene like cattle and prevented from even looking on as Federal rule was substituted for State authority in the conduct of local schools and carpetbag tactics of the Sixties revived for the enforcement of a Communist-inspired court ruling.

They didn't tell of the frail diabetic youth in Atlanta who merely stopped to look and was snatched up by police and thrown in jail where he almost died from lack of insulin treatments. But he was only a white boy, so he didn't count.

They didn't tell how scallywag school board members and sneaky politicians in the cities affected had been secretly conferring with the Attorney General in Washington and his agents for months beforehand planning the procedures by which white Southerners were to be intimidated into staying away and prevented from being present while a centralized national government over-rode State authority through brute force and set up a Federal dictatorship over the educational system of the South.

Neither did they call attention to the fact that the integrated pupils were helpless babies in the first and second grades because authorities were too cowardly to force this indignity on tougher teenagers who might have offered some embarrassing opposition to the disgraceful proceedings.

As we go to press, the public schools of Memphis, Tennessee, were integrated under exactly the same Police State conditions.

Yes, it was all peaceful and serene and there were "no incidents." Resistance, under the circumstances, would have been about as futile as would have been the case had the proceedings been taking place under the iron hand of Khrushchev in Moscow.

Trouble Up North

(Ft. Worth Star-Telegram)

It grieves us, right when the U. S. North is so roundly applauding the further integration of public schools in Southern cities, to read that Chicago, of all places, is involved in a lawsuit against alleged segregation practices in the public school system there. It is embarrassing and it suggests that there is more than a little hypocrisy in the advice and admonitions the South has been getting.

In Chicago, the parents of 32 Negro children from five elementary schools are seeking a declaratory judgment and permanent injunction against the school board and superintendent, who are accused of drawing school district boundaries along racial lines.

A federal district court is asked to declare the "neighborhood school" policy illegal and unconstitutional and to require the transfer of the children from predominantly Negro schools to others less crowded.

The superintendent and board are accused of having "periodically altered the school district lines for the purpose of containing the children and other members of their class within a prescribed school district."

New Rochelle, N. Y., it will be recalled, had a similar complaint, and a federal judge ordered the Negro pupils transferred. It is beside the point that in so doing

HATE-MONGERING GROUP IS VOTED TWO MORE YEARS OF LIFE

As was to be expected the Civil Right Commission, the group which has done little else than encourage hate-mongering and disension on racial matters, is to be inflicted on us for two more years.

This outfit was set up during the Eisenhower Administration and among its membership were two persons who had been connected with the Institute of International Education, an organization which has been named as a part of the Communist apparatus.

The thing would have expired in November but nothing bad is ever allowed to expire in Washington and so the Senate voted it two more years of trouble-making activity.

This was accomplished by tacking the proposition onto an appropriation bill which was of course dishonest but what isn't where tricky and scheming politicians are concerned?

Mike Mansfield of Montana and Everett Dirksen of Illinois were the bell wethers who led the sheep to vote 70 to 19.

the court assumed the perogatives of locally elected school authorities. The point is that Northern cities have done by subterfuge what the South has done openly and still have the arrogance to judge the genuineness of the South's compliance with the "law of the land."

Federal Judiciary Plunged Further Down Into The Mire

The Federal judiciary which has been the football of dirty politics for many years was dragged further down into the mire when the President named Thurgood Marshall, chief bell-wether of the hate organization, NAACP, as a member of Second Circuit Court of Appeals of New York.

There was, of course, no justification for the appointment of Marshall from any angle except that of political gain and the hope that more Negro votes would thereby be garnered for the New Frontier Party. Marshall's only claim to distinction in the legal field is that he argued the case for integration at the time the Supreme Court yielded to the pleas of Communist Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden and handed down a ruling ordering the mixing of the races in public schools, thereby reversing previous decisions of real judges on the court and violating the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution.

It goes without saying that Marshall has a Communist front record, but this is expected to in no way serve as a deterrent to his confirmation by the United States Senate. It never does.

Appendix IX, part 2, page 795, lists Marshall as having been affiliated with the International Juridical Association which was cited as "an organization which actively defended Communists and consistently followed the Communist Party line", by the Committee on Un-American Activities 1944.

He is also listed as having been affiliated with the National Lawyers Guild in House report No. 3123. This organization has been cited as a Communist-front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, 1944.

Paul Harvey, columnist, says that the current crisis in Berlin has been blown up out of all proportion to the specific threat and that the belief in many quarters is that a campaign slogan for 1964 is being made to order: "He kept us out of war". Like Roosevelt, eh? Well, there is so much high-level dishonesty, deceit and treachery that we wouldn't doubt it. Let us add that there are those who think the "crisis" in Berlin arose as a result of a desire that the public mind be taken off Cuba — something that would be pleasing to both Mr. K's.

In connection with the official punishment meted out to the great American General Walker, let us try to imagine for a moment the President of the United States in World War II relieving an American army officer from command for telling his men that Nazism was bad and Hitler an enemy of this country. The imagination won't stretch that far, will it? This being true, intelligent citizens can't help wondering WHY it is true.

Left-wingers in Washington used to taunt patriots with the charge that they were looking for a Communist under every bed. The jibe worked in many cases until it was discovered that while there may not be one under every bed, there is one behind far too many desks in the nation's capital.

Prayer Before A Red Firing Squad Uncensored Communist Propaganda Clogging Up United States Mails

(Reprinted from An Editor's Notebook by John D. Lopp, Auburndale, Florida, Star, May 4, 1961.)

Dear Lord—With the rattle of firing squads roaring in our ears, we come to you for the last time to ask your forgiveness — not so much for that which we have done as for that which we did not do.

As we sit here awaiting our summons to the bullet-pocked wall where we shall breathe our last breath and look for the last time upward into the blue that only yesterday canopied a free, a strong and a vibrant nation, we think of that bulwark of freedom that we once enjoyed and we ponder.

What have we done to permit such a thing as is now happening to happen?

And then, in the same breath, we answer our own query.

We let America fall because we, and millions like us, were too busy, too selfish and too unconcerned.

"It can't happen here," we told ourselves as free nation after free nation vanished behind the swelling tide of a godless philosophy of enslavement and degradation and annihilation.

But it has happened at last to us, just as it happened to the peoples of China and Poland and Korea and to the Hungarians and to those of Laos and as it happened in Cuba.

It happened because we, and all too many Americans like us, refused to see — because we closed our eyes to the sure and certain pattern of deceit and of betrayal — because we listened, hopefully, and each time with believing, as the same old lies were propounded and repeated, time after time, while new victims vanished behind that curtain that marks an end to all things that a free people hold more precious than life itself.

We hoped—we temporized—we whistled in the dark.

We cringed before world opinion — an opinion made articulate and blatant by the voices of those who served the forces that sought, and have now accomplished, our destruction.

We cringed, also, from voices from within—many, perhaps, misled, but others serving those who plotted our enslavement and planned it all too well.

We ignored our glorious heritage — we forgot those who dared defy a despotic monarch to risk and, by that risking, to create a shrine of freedom along the fringe of coastline of a new and unexplored continent.

We forgot the men that followed, those who pushed westward with long rifle and powder horn to span the Mississippi and the mountains and the plains and the deserts.

We forgot the ringing phrases that inspired a budding nation. We forgot "Don't Give Up The Ship," and "Millions for Defense But Not One Cent for Tribute."

We forgot Nathan Hale and his regret that he had but one life to give for his country. We forgot the squint-eyed musketeers crouched behind crude barricades at Lexington and Bunker Hill. We forgot the suffering at Valley Forge.

We ignored the heroism of those who again fought the British in 1812 to guarantee our independence. We forgot that they too faced tribulations and despairs — that they saw their cities bombarded and their capitol burned.

We forgot that they did not falter any more than did those of both The Blue and The Gray when called upon to defend those things, those principles that they held dear.

And we forgot the Maine and that charge up a sun-baked hill. We forgot those that fought in the mud and muck of the trenches in World War I, just as we forgot those who followed the Stars and Stripes to every corner of the globe in another world conflict against the tyranny and the lust and the hate that we as a nation could not countenance or permit to blossom unchecked and uncontrolled.

We forgot all those glorious sacrifices that earned our nation the respect, the admiration and the envy of all less fortunate people.

We forgot because we became apologetic for our wealth, our power and our concept of freedom. We listened to those who scoffed at America — those who belittle us — made fun of us as money grabbers — as a nation grown soft with luxury.

We believed those who told us that we would fail as a leader of nations unless we raised all people to our standards and in almost the same voice ridiculed our way of life, our patriotism, our once-deep-rooted conviction that our land was divinely guided and divinely inspired.

We listened to those who scoffed at our concepts of morality — at our respect for, and confidence in, the sanctity of the home and of marriage. We followed those who corrupted our literature with sex and hate and ugliness.

We shouted down those who attempted to awaken us — we ridiculed—or at least permitted others to ridicule — and often silenced the voices of those whose warnings we blithely ignored.

Partly, we ignored the voices of those who dared to speak because we were too busy with horse opera and sick comics and installment payments to pay attention — but, largely we ignored them because we were afraid.

We were afraid of a new and powerful force that might well annihilate a nation in a handful of seconds. We trembled at thoughts of our cities in ruins and farmlands devastated and contaminated, our civilization destroyed in the twinkling of an eye.

But mostly, we quaked at fears for our own safety, for our own full bellies and for our automatic washing machines and chrome-plated automobiles.

Like so many ostriches, we buried our heads in the sands of obliquity hoping that if we ignored

When an attempt was made in Congress recently to increase postal rates, the New York Times quoted the President as "unhappy" because recommendations for the increase did not hit third class publications hard enough. He wanted a high rate on this class of mail.

Third class postage applies to publications that are mailed in bulk and which are classified by the master minds in Washington as "junk mail." Incidentally, we operate under a third class permit so the Southern Conservative is "junk mail," yet.

If the President's wishes had been carried out and third class postage raised, many publications would have had to fold up especially patriotic publishers who want to preserve the American form of government and who are poor as church mice and it does not take much to knock them out of the running. They don't get tax-exempt Foundation support.

It is hard to understand this feeling on the part of the President and especially in view of his action in removing all censorship of Communist mail coming into this country and which has so clogged the mails as to help make the need for an increase necessary in the first place.

This Communist propaganda mail is prepared in Moscow, South America, the Orient, and East Germany and shipped to the United States in ton lots and delivered free by the United States post office. Authorities report that there is such an influx of this propaganda that three control points had to be set up, one in San Francisco, one in New Orleans and one in New York, to deal with this subversive literature from its originating points in Communist countries.

It takes a lot of doing to figure out why the President would order censorship removed from this Communist mail and yet be "unhappy" because Congress refused to slap additional postage on third class material from patriotic citizens of the United States.

The situation has become so grave that a bill to amend the Subversivities Control Act was introduced in the House of Representatives providing that such propaganda be labeled or otherwise notifying recipients of this mail of the nature of its contents.

Defended by Congressman Francis Walter of Pennsylvania, Congressman Glenn Cunningham of Nebraska and a score of other patriotic Americans in the House the bill was passed by that body with only two dissenting votes. We are not sure whether or not the Senate took similar action but the chances are that it did not. The only two voting against the bill in the House were John V. Lindsay and William Fitts Ryan, both of New York although there were 64 members who did not vote.

Morris Ryskand writing in the New York Herald, August 27, about the team of amateurs who are helping President Kennedy put over his New Frontier program said: "For my money, this is the biggest collection of stumblebums ever gathered together since the days of the old Brooklyn Dodgers who used to make a specialty of having two runners sliding into second base together." Flatterer!

We admit without shame or apology that we are a hard-core, card-carrying and flag-waving American and that we are not even remotely concerned in the economic, social or financial welfare of any other nation on earth so long as our own country is in peril. When the American people get back their lost freedom, Constitutional Government is restored and American patriots are at the helm of the Ship of State once again, we will start worrying about the troubles of other countries, not before.

the ever expanding menace of the rising Red tide it would go away.

We vacillated — we temporized — we voiced high-sounding but meaningless phrases in the world councils, as the Red tidal wave ripped through once-free lands, engulfing state after state and nation after nation while we prattled of peace.

Even after the crimson avalanche pushed across the oceans to our very doorstep we vacillated — debated — feared the clamor of world opinion which echoed only the Judas-babble of those who would betray us.

And then — at last — it was too late.

No nuclear blasts wiped out the freedom won by Washington and John Paul Jones and Daniel Boone and Admiral Dewey and Black Jack Pershing and Bull Halsey and Blood and Guts Patton and all the others who led, or were lead, as America grew and became omnipotent.

Our nation fell because we stopped believing in our destiny—because we apologized for being rich and powerful among all nations.

And, because we were afraid, we refused to read the all-too-plain handwriting on the wailing wall of inevitability.

We, who were once strong, permitted ourselves to become weak with timidity. We who were once daring became over-cautious with doubts of our divinely ordained mission. We, who were once boisterously loud in shouting the praises of our system of free enterprise and free men, became mute and hushed as we apologized for that which our sacrifices and our labors, and the sacrifices and labors of those who had gone before us, had made possible.

For that, Oh Lord, we ask your forgiveness as the tramp of the executioners pounds up the corridor of our cell door.

Forgive us, and the tens of millions like us, who could have raised our voices when there was yet time to be heard — but who, instead, remained mute until it was too late — until it was far, far too late.

Unvarnished Truth About The Foreign Aid Program

The corrupt Foreign Aid racket came into being following the end of World War II in 1945 with the launching of the first "Rob Americans for the benefit of foreigners" program in American history and which was known as the Marshall Plan.

Contrary to a widespread belief, the Marshall Plan had nothing to do with altruistic objectives of helping other countries toward recovery. That was merely incidental, and as most of the funds were misapplied, it didn't help them any way.

The real reason back of this give-away program was the redistribution of wealth in accordance with the wave of International Socialism which swept the globe at that time the backwash of which almost completely inundated the United States during the national administration which was then coming to a close with Roosevelt's death.

The national income which was at a high level during the war continued but there was no longer any need to spend it on national defense and a potential surplus in the National Treasury threatened.

This was unthinkable to the Socialist squanderers in charge of government and something had to be done to "level off" the American way of life to conform to the rest of the world.

It never for a moment occurred to them to apply it to the national debt, to reduce high taxes or repeal war-time levies. This would have been a concession to the theory of self-protection. "America First" was as abhorrent to the spenders then as now, so they hatched up the Marshall Plan. The joke of the century was that the Marshall Plan was to be a temporary arrangement to tide war-torn countries over the hump.

That was sixteen years ago and a program which was to be launched as a temporary emergency measure is now a permanent policy of government with Kennedy demanding the biggest lump for this purpose yet dreamed of and with practically every country in the world as a beneficiary even though each and every one of them with a dollar in their Treasury are better off than the United States.

This planned and organized betrayal of the people of this country is enough to make the great patriots who founded the Republic turn over in their graves.

The joke of the year concerns a statement in the press attributed to The Rt. Rev. Chandler Sterling of Helena, Montana, Montana Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who is quoted as saying: "The United States is presently in a patriotic panic together with an unfortunate trend toward Nationalism." We're in a panic all right but the panic is the result of too much treason and not too much patriotism and while patriotism is apparently a dirty word to the Rev. Mr. Sterling, loyal Americans do not feel that way and would welcome a permanent "panic of patriotism" and a strong wave of nationalism to the end that Communism may be banished from our institutions, including many of our churches.

Dovetailing Network Of Subversion Keeps Americans Thoroughly Confused

Communist propaganda which is inundating this country like a tidal wave has many subtle, complicated and devious facets and is so interwoven with apparently harmless, even beneficial, activities that it is all but impossible for the average busy American to even recognize it, much less keep tab on it.

For instance, let us take the following apparently unrelated facts, tie them together and see how we come up with inter-locking subversion and how propaganda detrimental to the United States and its institutions is circulated throughout the world.

First, there is the recently published book called "The Un-Americans," a perverted and distorted attack on a legally organized committee of the Congress of the United States devoted to the exposure of Communist agents and their activities in this country. This book is the pride of eggheads and other assorted subversives and is being widely circulated free and especially to the universities and colleges which, as is generally known, are the prime targets of Moscow in its campaign to "bury" the American people.

According to this vile book, the House Committee on Un-American Activities represents "hate in action" and its staff members are all figures "in a gallery of hate." The intent of the book is, of course, to curb the investigation into Communism and to take the heat off the enemy agents who are boring into the foundation of the American governing system.

The author of the book is one Frank J. Donner, described in the foreword of the book as a "constitutional lawyer" with no further information concerning his background provided.

Mr. Donner cannot be blamed for writing the book because he was one of those caught in the net of subversion woven by the Committee. His reason, therefore, for publishing the volume was not only to give aid and comfort to the enemy but to seek revenge on the Committee for turning up his own unsavory record.

On February 16, 1959, this same House Committee on Un-American Activities presented evidence in a report titled "Communist Legal Subversion; the Role of the Communist Lawyer" that Donner himself was a member of a Communist cell "comprised of lawyers employed by the National Labor Relations Board in Washington, D.C."

Herbert Fuchs, former Communist organizer, among others, of this cell in 1937 testified under oath that Frank Donner was one of the NRLB lawyers who joined his Communist group. Mortimer Reimer, another former member of this Communist cell testified under oath on December 14, 1955 to this same effect. On March 1, 1956, Harry Cooper, another ex-Communist identified Donner as a Communist. (See Speech of Hon. Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania, in the House of Representatives, Monday, July 17, 1961, appearing in the Congressional Record of that date.)

So it is understandable why Donner wrote the book since, as a hit dog, he would naturally howl but from there on, there are some things which are not understandable.

For instance, the book was published by Ballantine Books, Inc., of New York which had a perfect right to publish it although it might be open to question as to whether or not a reputable concern would put out the work of a man with Donner's record and in which he attacks a legitimate Committee of Congress for fighting Communism and exposing Communist agents.

So much for that.

Now let us turn to page 12606 of the Congressional Record of July 26, 1961 where George A. Smathers, senator from Florida, praises extravagantly the appointment of Roger W. Straus, Jr., as chairman of something known as the People-to-People program set up by President Eisenhower in 1956 and which proposes "to distribute up to a half million copies of American books overseas." Senator Smathers praised the appointment of Straus to this position and had inserted in the Congressional Record of that date an article from the left-wing magazine New Yorker which was highly laudatory of the project.

Now let us turn to "Who's Who in America" and find the listing of Mr. Roger W. Straus, Jr. In this volume we find that Mr. Straus who, as chairman of the People-to-People program is going to select a half million books to be sent overseas, is a director of Ballantine Books, Inc., which published "The Un-Americans."

To sum it up:

"The Un-Americans" is a subversive book brutally attacking a committee of Congress for exposing Communists. It was written by a man who was turned up by that same committee as having been a member of a Communist cell following testimony to this effect by three former Communists.

The book is published by Ballantine Books, Inc., one of whose directors is Roger W. Straus, Jr. Roger W. Straus, Jr. has been named head of the "People-to-People" program which will distribute a half million American books overseas.

Does anyone think this book "The Un-Americans" won't be among those half million which go overseas? And when the people overseas read this slanderous book assailing a committee of Congress for fighting Communism what impression will they get of our attitude on Communism?

But above and beyond this, think how many set-ups and tie-ins of a similar nature American patriots have to combat in trying to beat back the enemy which is destroying not only American rights and freedoms but Christian civilization all over the world.

CASTRO INSULTS U.S. AND GETS BY WITH IT

How this country allows even a dirty little punk like Cuba's Castro to insult us and get by with it was revealed in the testimony of former Ambassador to Mexico Robert C. Hill who appeared before the Subcommittee of the Committee of the Judiciary of the United States Senate recently.

Mr. Hill told of an incident in which one of the vice presidents of the Export-Import Bank went to Cuba to seek remuneration for the companies who had had their property appropriated by the bearded outlaw.

He had an appointment with one of Castro's henchmen named Guevara to inquire about the intentions of the Cuban government regarding $39,000,000 worth of loans to Cuba and to inquire if Castro was prepared to repay the United States Government.

Guevara's impudent reply to the representative of the bank was:

"We have no intention of repaying this money. I suggest that the American companies who have derived so many profits out of Cuba and the Cuban people repay the loans. Good-day, sir."

And that was that.

There was a time when we had courageous Americans administering the government of the United States that this little squirt of a Castro would have been dispatched in double-quick time for thus insulting the American Republic even if we had had to strangle him with his own beard.

We do not anticipate that Washington, under present conditions, will mend its ways but we believe the day will come, unless we have gone entirely soft and decadent, when the American people themselves will tire of being pushed around by such human rats as Khrushchev, Castro, et al, and will do something about it.

Another Boom Is Lowered On Anti-Communist Discussion

A Major from Fort Sam Houston was scheduled to make the principal address to the Fall meeting of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce which met in Waco recently.

Shortly before the meeting was to convene, the Commandant at Fort Sam Houston wrote the Junior Chamber saying that the Major would be unable to fulfill his scheduled engagement to make the address. The excuse given by the Commandant was that "because of internal developments all instructors are needed now more than ever", which didn't explain anything at all because Fort Sam Houston is located near San Antonio only a short distance away from Waco and only a few hours are required to make the trip.

The affair was puzzling and quite a disappointment to those attending the J.C. meeting, until they remembered that:

The officer who was to speak had selected as his subject "Anti-Communism and Moral Decay of the American People."

Then it was recalled that Army officers are no longer allowed to discuss Communism. And isn't that just dandy?

More Work Is The Answer To Juvenile Delinquency

The Juvenile Delinquency problem continues to hold the public interest as well it should.

Young Robert Kennedy the Attorney General recently appeared before a Congressional committee to discuss the problem, but, like all others who have undertaken its solution, he is guessing wrong concerning the cause of the increase of crime among youngsters and its cure.

He blames lack of educational opportunity and recreational facilities for the demoralization among modern youth. The truth is that young boys and girls have too much leisure and the way they are employing it bears out the old adage that an "idle brain is the Devil's workshop."

Juvenile delinquency started on a large scale in this country when meddlers and do-gooders began passing laws to prevent young people from working and it was the child labor legislation of forty years ago which put the idea in the minds of youngsters that there was something evil about work and that leisure was the answer to everything.

This idea has been continued and extended in our national legislation as work hours have been decreased by law and pay increased. The idea is less work and more pay and the day may not be far distant when the working week will be 4 days.

This is all wrong and like all customs which are based on unsound philosophy, nothing but evil will come of it.

Wholesome work for boys and girls after school hours and during vacation would go a long way toward taking their thoughts off of switch blade knives and killing innocent victims for the thrill of it.

The President ran true to form when he named Mrs. Sarah Hughes of Dallas as a Federal judge, and kept the standard he has maintained in his appointments up, or rather down, to par. Mrs. Hughes is a New Dealer from way back and nobody leans any farther left than this Dallas lady.

A comparison of hurricane Carla which wrought three hundred million dollars worth of damage and the foreign aid program which cost even more has been made by William V. Hoyt of Yoakum, Texas, who says: "We should take our representatives in Washington over the debris-strewn scenes of heartbreak and devastation and ask them why they perpetrated upon our nation a political devastation ten times greater."

From a patriot in Houston: "I really believe that you must have divine help to keep writing like you do." Probably not. It's just hard digging into the record and reporting what we find.

The filthy tabloid publication "Oveseas Weekly" which is responsible for the dastardly attack on General Edwin A. Walker is owned and directed by John Dornburg, Marion von Rospach, Johanna Pyrm, Sigfried Naujocks, Eugene Bernard and Harold Melahn!!!

Darkies Who Will Soon Boss United Nations Are Living It Up In Style

The black boys from the jungles of Africa are living it up.

One Arsene Usher, an Ambassador to the United Nations from the Ivory Coast, one of the "underprivileged" areas into which we have poured millions, blew into New York recently with his wife, three children and a slew of servants and settled himself into a $90,000 mansion on Long Island with 42 rooms.

It probably seemed like a slum to the Ambassador, however, in view of the fact that the President of the country he represents, one Mouphouet Boigny, has just built himself a little dump back home in Abidjan which set somebody back the neat sum of $11,000,000.

Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, president of Ghana, another "under-privileged" country and who is taking money from both the United States and the Soviet Union, brought his entourage over here recently to attend a session of the United Nations at which time he took 40 suites at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel for his 70-member staff.

Not only are they living high on the hog and basking in luxury but they are moving right in on the white folks.

All we've got to say is that the people in Long Island, even though they may not object to living alongside of Negroes, had better watch out and stay inside on dark nights or they are liable to wake up some morning and find themselves all cut up and tossed in their neighbor's stew pot.

Communism In The Churches Revealed In Research Report

The strong hold which Communism has acquired on religious institutions of the United States was illustrated in a recent issue of Editorial Research Reports, widely distributed among church groups which asserted that "Religious bodies are frankly acknowledging that Christian Brotherhood implies acceptance of interracial unions." The reports are signed by one Helen B. Shaffer, and appeared in the Denver Post.

According to this person the following churches subscribe to the depraved and obscene practice of marriage among Whites and Blacks:

"The Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity petitioned the House of Bishops on July 10 to study the question of interracial marriages and to state the position of the church. It was the view of the Society that laws forbidding racial intermarriages were contrary to Christian teaching."

"In its 'Credo on Race Relations' the Reformed Church said: 'We believe that the church misconceives its functions when it actively hinders, forestalls or decries the marriages of any two people who, loving Christ, love each other.'"

"A 'Statement on interracial marriages' issued by the Congregational Christian Church upheld the virtue of such marriages by saying that 'fellowship based on respect and good will for people is the divine purpose' and that physical differences between the races were 'superficial.'"

"The growing willingness of church leaders to assert the acceptability of interracial marriage was evident in the responses of Presbyterian clergymen and lay leaders to a question posed not long ago by a church publication: 'Would you want your daughter to marry a Negro.' Nearly all said they would."

When such unspeakable, unnatural and degenerate policies as this are condoned by any sector of a religious group it is indication that we are nearing the end of Christian civilization in the United States and reverting to the dark ages.

Listeners Can Clean Up Television If They Want To

The investigation of violent programs on television and their effect on juvenile delinquency seems to have quieted down and nothing will probably come of it.

There is no doubt that all the gory murder and shooting on those programs very definitely contribute to juvenile delinquency and nobody but adult delinquents would present such programs to the public.

But if the only alternative is to have television programs dictated by an agency of the Federal government, that would be worse because we would get a solid barrage of propaganda on social and economic questions, so perhaps we had just as well let the shoot-em-up programs continue.

Every American could settle the problem right quick if they wanted to. Personally, we have done just that and we never turn our television on except for special programs from which we know what to expect. We would not any more turn the thing on and take pot-luck than we would turn a rattlesnake loose in our room.

Let a few million Americans do the same thing and the ratings would fall so low that the degenerates who plan these violent programs would have to offer more decent entertainment.

Certainly Federal interference is not the answer to that or anything else.

Who Says That Modern Politics Does Not Pay?

A sort of political Horatio Alger story was emphasized in two recent news releases in the press.

One of these releases told of Vice President Lyndon Johnson selling his television station in a South Texas town for "more than a million dollars."

Another related his purchase in Washington of the former Perle Mesta home at a figure estimated to be near a quarter million dollars.

The Hatch Act Should Apply to All or None

When Mr. McNamara, Secretary of Defense, was testifying before members of the Armed Services Committee of the United States Senate concerning the disgraceful treatment accorded General Edwin A. Walker, he stressed the fact that the General had violated the Hatch Act.

The Hatch Act, as we understand it, is a Federal law which prevents those on the government payroll from taking an active part in partisan politics.

According to the evidence in the Walker case, so far revealed, General Walker merely told his men to inform themselves as to the records of those candidates for public office on whom they would vote and to act intelligently in the matter. There was nothing partisan about that and nothing political.

What we would like Mr. McNamara to explain is this.

The President is certainly on the payroll of the Government in a big way.

So, is it a violation of the Hatch Act when he talks to members of the House and Senate and threatens to withhold patronage and withdraw military installations in their district if they do not vote for the Marxist legislation which he has been trying to ram through Congress?

It is an act of sacrilege to permit a politician to occupy a pulpit and it is a perversion of his high calling for a minister of the gospel to make political speeches.

Strong efforts are now being made to change the title of the Hollywood "Rat Pack" to that of the "Clan." Chief obstacle to the plan is that the Ku Klux Klan is objecting to this infringement and is threatening to sue, according to rumors.

Charles H. Keating, founder of Citizens for Decent Literature has a forthright remedy for correcting the situation: "Selling filth is against the law. So arrest whoever sells it and put them in jail just as you would a sodomist or a rapist."

So far as we can find out, American flags have never been placed at half mast for the death of any foreigner until Mr. Kennedy ordered this honor extended in the death of Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary General of the United Nations.

We closely listened for some mention of the most dangerous situation of all — Cuba — in the President's speech to the United Nations but if he said anything about it, we didn't hear it.

Nobody can hurt our feelings by calling us "prejudiced." We are proud of the fact that we are deeply prejudiced against some things. For instance, we are glad we are prejudiced against the flood of subversive propaganda which has flowed into this country in a continuous stream for the past twenty five years changing our sound and time-tested social, economic and political views.

Let Russia Pay Up Or Get Out Of United Nations

Mrs. A. M. Goldstein of Waco is a member of an old pioneer Texas family, a lady in the finest sense of the word and an American patriot to her finger tips.

When she recently received a letter from Eleanor Roosevelt asking for a financial contribution to activities connected with the United Nations, Mrs. Goldstein did not reach for her check-book. Instead she took her trusty pen in hand and wrote the following letter to the woman whom dedicated Americans regard not as "The First Lady of the World" but as the nation's No. 1 pain-in-the-neck:

First may I express regret of the fact that it was necessary for you to visit the hospital, and pleasure that news reports state you are feeling well.

In reply to a form letter under your name requesting financial aid for the United Nations may I say that many people, like myself, are now aware of the fact that the U. N., is actually a detriment to the United States, tying our hands where actual self-preservation is concerned, restraining us from the courageous and independent action we once knew. The United Nations is a tool of Communism to force the United States into a world government dominated by the U. S. S. R. At the same time, while our country has paid in $146,200,000 to the U. N., Russia and its satellites owe 45.5 millions and more than 3½ millions for dues for 1961. Under the U. N., Charter, the penalty after two years is the loss of voting rights. Russia is in default since 1959. Why hasn't this rule been enforced?

Russia also owes $20,088,000 for Congo operations and $10,225,000 to the Economic and Social Council (UNESCO). So the letter received here should have been sent to Mr. Khrushchev and he should have been told to pay his dues if he wants to vote, and either to do so or get out. If he would pay what he owes, the U. N. would not have to ask the people of the U. S. A. to come across with more.

I am for the Connally Amendment! I am for the House Un-American Activities Committee! I'm for the Monroe Doctrine! I'm for the U. S. A.! And we are getting pretty tired of being pushed around.

Scripps-Howard staff writer Charles Lucey remarks in his column of the remarkable spirit of friendship between Dwight D. Eisenhower and his successor, John F. Kennedy. We see nothing remarkable in the mutual attachment. They have almost identical political and ideological views. Both are dedicated One-Worlders; both have an apparently greater concern in the welfare of foreign countries than in their own; both believe in the policy of spending the American Republic into bankruptcy and both have a wholesome contempt for the American Constitution and especially that portion of it which sets out the Rights of the Sovereign States. We think it perfectly natural that they should be congenial.

A FEW RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ON THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER

Southern Governors, the most of whom have been politically castrated by Washington, held a session of the Southern Governors Conference at Nashville on September 24-28 where they didn't do any good or any harm. They shied away from official discussion of Civil Rights like a country colt at a circus parade. They finally got around to denouncing the importation of foreign oil and textiles which is ruining American industry but failed to express regret that they heartily support Washington politicians who favor such ruinous competition.

The Attorney General of Louisiana has put the finger on one of the most dangerous and un-American groups in the United States by ruling recently that membership in the National Education Association is illegal and that any teacher associated with that organization is subject to removal by the local school board. He said NEA policies conflicted with Louisiana law.

Old Communists in the State Department never die — they just get kicked up stairs and usually turn up in the United Nations, in American embassies abroad, in Africa to assist in helping the Soviets get settled in or in South America where they have charge of the planning of projects financed by American foreign aid.

In Ankara on September 17, Turkey's premier for a decade was hanged for, of all things, "violation of the Constitution." What's the matter with the Turks? Are they crazy or something? Don't they realize that Constitutions are relics of the dark ages and have no standing in modern statecraft? If they ever decide to hang violators of the Constitution in this country, they're going to run out of rope before they get started good.

Most thoughtful Americans concede that the United States is in deadly peril and is facing perhaps the darkest period in American history. They tremble at the unstable, faltering and weak leadership in Washington which is responsible for our shaky position in world affairs. We agree but we can offer one comforting thought. The situation could be worse. We could have Nelson Rockefeller for President.

According to a Washington press release, little Bobby Kennedy, the Attorney General member of the family, has resigned from an "exclusive" Washington social club because the management wouldn't let him bring Negro guests to dinner. If you ask us, this club could not be very "exclusive" or it would not only bar Negroes but would be more discriminating in the selection of its white members.

According to press reports little Caroline Kennedy will not go to a regular school with the peasantry but will have a kindergarten set up for her and some of her little friends in the White House. This is a natural and normal arrangement for the lovely little daughter of the President. But we make bold to suggest that Mr. Kennedy had better work in a pickaninny or two or else he will run the risk of having his little brother file suit against the White House kindergarten for violating the Supreme Court ruling on segregation.

Perhaps the greatest joke of modern times was the solemn declaration of the Soviets that they were going to resume nuclear testing and the blind acceptance by the American people of the myth that they had ever stopped in the first place. Equally amusing are the claims of the Communists of some feats in outer space which are gradually being revealed by intelligent scientists as about seventy-five per cent bluff employed by the Bolsheviks to scare us and goad us into spending more billions.

A modern miracle can now be recorded. One nation to which the United States has given foreign aid has actually come out openly and declared its friendship for this country and its intention to stand by us, come what may. President Manuel Prado of Peru said boldly in Washington that in the fight against Communism "you will find my country at your side." The only catch to the proposition is that when it comes to fighting Communism, Mr. Prado may find himself fighting alone while the United States' defenders are off somewhere "negotiating" with it.

Neutral countries are like a kept woman who is being supported by two men — they are taking money from both the United States and the Soviet Union and are playing both ends against the middle to their own advantage.

Slap-happy Southern Conservatives who think changing political affiliation and joining the Republican Party is the answer have short memories. Remember Little Rock? Under their present leadership both the Democratic and Republican Parties are Socialist through and through and the sorry record of debt, inflation and corruption was not written by either Democrats or Republicans but by both. The answer will come only when American voters start at the precinct level and elect patriots instead of traitors to Congress, regardless of party.

HORRORS! GENERAL IS FOUND TO BELONG TO PATRIOTIC SOCIETY

In the "investigation" of General Edwin A. Walker following disclosures that he had been trying to inform his men about the technique of Communist infiltration, it was revealed that he was guilty of being a member of the John Birch Society.

Isn't that a heinous crime and isn't it awful that a General in the American army should belong to a patriotic society? This was one of the offenses for which he was humiliated and relieved of his command.

Now where General Walker made his mistake was in not joining Americans for Democratic Action, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People or even the Communist Party in which event there would have been no commotion and no complaint.

In fact he might have been advanced with such rapidity that in no time at all, he would have been an adviser to presidents and a military authority of the highest rank.

A man can't be too careful of what he joins these days if he wants to get ahead in Washington.

Soviet Mind Cannot Be Punctured With A Pick-Axe

It should have come as no surprise to the President that his sweetness and light speech to the United Nations fell on deaf ears so far as the Soviet Union and its satellites are concerned.

He might just as well have been talking to a stone wall and Gromyko's speech on the following day proved that there would be no retreat from the Communists' repeated insistence that all concession must come from the other side.

The Soviet mind is closed and hermetically sealed on one subject and that is that they are going to take over the World, the United States included, and further talking with them on this or any other subject is wasted breath.

Those who do not believe that the mental health movement is being used for propaganda for One-World Government are asked to consider this statement from Dr. Brock Chisholm, a Canadian psychiatrist and former Director-General of the World Health Organization and now President of the World Federation for Mental Health and which was issued by the latter organization following the London Conference on Mental Health in 1948: "Principles of mental health cannot successfully be furthered unless there is a progressive acceptance of the concept of world citizenship. This can be widely extended among all peoples through the application of the principles of mental health."

From a couple of Easterners now living in Hollywood, California: "We may never see your face but we know what is in your heart. You have our admiration and our love. God bless you and keep you always."
