Tow—but not far

It's bad enough to go out to your car and find a ticket neatly affixed to the windshield. More students, however, are beginning to discover the horror of finding an empty parking space where their cars had once been.

University Security (UHS) is cracking down on parking violators with less pussyfooting and more towing. Blocking a legally parked car or parking in a space designated for handicapped students constitutes a flagrant violation of traffic and safety regulations and a prime candidate for towing, according to UHS.

Students who have had their cars towed away do not believe they are the only ones in the wrong, however. Campus towing is done by independent towing companies, and it is enough of a challenge for students to find which company has their car. And their chance of getting the car back without a ding or dent on it are slight.

We strongly urge UHS heed the recommendations of the Security Advisory Board, which has proposed that UHS do its own towing and have an impoundment area on campus.

Since campus traffic violations are treated separately from city violations, why should cars with UH stickers be towed off campus to some impoundment area in the hinterlands?

There are several sites on campus which can be used as impoundment areas, such as the area behind Jeppesen Stadium. Also, the independent companies who do the towing would probably respond to a warning that either they be more careful with cars they tow on campus or lose UH business.

We are not siding with the parking violators. These rascals have turned their cars into obstacles and deserve to pay the penalty. But since this is a campus problem, UHS should deal with both the means of towing the cars and the end of impounding them.

No bikes yet

To the Editor:

Ernest Maldonado's commentary in March 3 Daily Cougar certainly was one in which a great deal of dreaming went into.

However, that dream did not include very many realities.

For example, couldn't you just picture a mother of three, peddling away to carry one child to school, the other two to day care center and then pushing onward to work.

Another laugh would be the service or repair people, imagine them trying to carry their tools of the trade in a knapsack on their back?

Maldonado has some good points as far as accidents are concerned. But before everyone takes to bicycles, there needs to be a lot of changes.

It is far more unsafe for a bicycle to be ridden down a street than a car for the same reason he expressed in his letter, they're too slow! I know it really aggravates me to drive down a two lane street, come upon a bicycle to far out in the lane to pass; and because of oncoming traffic I cannot get around.

I feel that until some major changes and laws come about (such as separate bike lanes to the side), the bikes should stay off the road. After all, if a car hits a bike, the bike will be going to the hospital (maybe even the morgue, not the car.

Mitchell illogical

To the Editor:

I read Alex Mitchell's letter in Tuesday's March 8 Daily Cougar with shock and anger. I could not believe that in a free society like the United States there are people like Mitchell who are so ignorant and illogical in their thinking.

First of all let me make myself clear. I was born in Uganda and had to flee the country because of Idi Amin. Uganda came to power in January 1971 via a military coup and was never elected as stated by Mitchell.

When he came to power Amin promised he was going to return the power to a civilian government in five years. Instead, he appointed himself as the president for life and awarded himself all the medals of Uganda.

Uganda, "a jewel of Africa" was reduced by Amin from a prosperous black nation to bankruptcy, from a sugar exporting country to a sugar importing country. And worst, he and his Nubian mercenaries have slaughtered at least 300,000 people. Right now he is in process of eliminating the Langi and the Acholi tribes.

Every known intellectual not belonging to Amin's tribe is either killed or have fled the country. Amin's own brother-in-law, Wanube Kibedi, (Amin's former foreign minister) is in exile. Uganda's chief justice Benedicto Kiwanuka was killed by Amin's goons in 1972.

These are just a few examples. But what does the world do about it? Countries like Libya, Russia and Cuba help him with arms and money. Thank God for a country like the United States, and its president, Jimmy Carter, that will publicly condemn him. I wish they would use some force.

Well, Mitchell if you still don't believe this then why don't you make a trip to Uganda since you and Amin have much in common.

If your head is not chopped off when you are there, go to the Makiyende prison, Mbira forest, Lira and Gulu and see for yourself. I am sure you will not come out alive. Do not worry about discrediting your book because Amin will have already fed it to crocodiles in River Nile.

Bell rings false

To the Editor:

I would like to know where T. Edward Bell received his musical training, that he could take one of England's most sophisticated rock groups and systematically take apart every album they've done since 1971.

I would be very interested in learning whether or not Bell has even played a Jethro Tull album more than one time or if he has even bothered to finish Thick as a Brick or Passion Play.

Admittedly, many of Jethro Tull's albums are difficult to understand the first time heard; however, given the chance (of a few more playings), the combination classical-rock sound that brought Jethro Tull into prominence emerges and totally enraptures the listener.

Contrary to Bell, Songs From The Wood is not a regression back to the Aqualung days, for it distinctly follows the pattern set by every preceding album released and fits into its slot perfectly.

Also, Bell should try to do more research on the history of a group if he wants to insult it. What does he mean by "the return" of Barre, Evans, and Barlow? They have never left the group for any amount of time, so how could their "return" improve the group?

Also, his statement that these three "sidemen" were "the heart of Jethro Tull's sound during the time of Stand Up, and Aqualung," is totally absurd. Neither Evans nor Barlow played on Stand Up at all, and Barlow didn't even join the group until Thick as a Brick, the first album that Bell panned.

So, if one of your "reviewers" wants to do some serious reviewing, go right ahead. But, if Bell wants to keep on making irresponsible statements and juvenile insults with nothing constructive to say, then I, for one, sure won't be wasting my time reading his reviews.

One more thing, if T. Edward Bell, the music expert, in his own defense, could even begin to explain the real meaning behind Passion Play (without the typical "16-year-old dead girl" stuff) to me, I may concede that he is not totally brainless.

In the loins

To the Editor:

The March 15 letter by Jane Marshall claimed "in our hearts we know" Geneva Brooks is right. That this catch-phrase reached popularity in connection with Richard Nixon puts Geneva Brooks in fitting company.

Marshall may know in her heart that Geneva is right, but in my loins, I know she's wrong.

What is needed is an end to sexual repression. When public nudity is legal and sexual intercourse between consenting persons is as accepted as a game of tennis, pornography, a child of repression, will miraculously disappear from the face of the earth. Hopefully, by that time, so will Geneva Brooks.

Legislature readies for bills

By MIKE PETERS
Cougar Staff

Two pieces of student legislation sailed through the House Higher Education Committee in Austin Wednesday. If approved by the full House and then the Senate, the bills would establish loan guarantees and the establishment of service fee committees at state universities.

Rep. Arnold Gonzalez, D-Corpus Christi, secured passage of his loan guarantee bill despite opposing testimony from Kenneth Ashworth, Texas commissioner of higher education. Ashworth said the bill warranted further study.

Texas Students' Association lobbied heavily for the bill, presenting committee members with "a wealth of information and an analysis of the bill Monday," Ed Martin, TSA public information officer, said. Martin is a former SA director of state affairs at UH.

The bill will make more money available for student loans, make it easier for students to get them, and cut the interest rates on such loans, Gonzalez wrote in a letter to TSA officers last week.

"If we don't create this program, Texas will lose approximately $500,000 per year. It will also face the possibility of losing control of our state loan program to another state and face the possibility of a decrease in the total amount of funds available for student loans," Gonzalez said.

The student service fee bill would not greatly affect the system of fee allocation at UH, according to Sen. Susan Borden, chair of the SA External Affairs Committee.

"The bill would institutionalize a committee in every state university pretty much like what we have, with a majority of its members students. Some universities do not have this," Borden said.

This bill was also prepared by TSA, and introduced by Rep. Sarah Weddington, D-Austin. The part of the bill Borden called most significant for UH states, "If the governing board (regents) of the institution rejects the recommendations of the advisory committee, the board shall submit a written statement of the reasons for the board's rejections . . ."

Borden urged students to contact legislators to support these and other student-oriented bills. The SA office, UC Underground, can provide information on these bills and the procedure for contacting lawmakers.

UC Policy Board to reschedule film

By JACKIE MOSCARELLI

The UC Policy Board voted 9-3 Thursday to delay the campus showing of the X-rated movie "Deep Throat." The film was to show April 22 but will now be rescheduled for a later date.

Pat Bailey, UH legal counsel, addressed the board on the legal ramifications of showing "Deep Throat" on campus. Bailey gave background on obscenity laws and warned that any law enforcement agency could make arrests for the film's showing.

Bailey pointed out that people arrested for viewing "Deep Throat" could be charged with a misdemeanor, carrying with it a $1,000 fine, six months in jail or both.

"We're sitting in a situation that we don't know what the answers might be," Bailey said.

Rick Brass, former Policy Board chair and present Students' Association treasurer, and Pete Williamson, director of the Student Protection Agency, defended the scheduled showing of the film. Both said they talked to officials in the district attorney's office and the vice squad of the Houston Police Department.

Williamson said the DA and vice squad officials assured him there would be no arrests made of persons viewing "Deep Throat" at UH, but that could change by April 22.

Brass suggested the alternative of not showing "Deep Throat" for entertainment purposes but as an educational medium for obscenity issues. He said the film has been shown three times on campus previously for that purpose.

Williamson pointed out that the UH administration would not want to ruin their chances of obtaining more funding from the Texas Legislature by showing such a controversial film.

SA President Joel Jesse defended the administration's viewpoint.

"UH should not deviate from certain good standards. 'Deep Throat' doesn't merit jeopardizing our position with the legislature. It would be damaging to UH if it is shown on that date. Later would be fine," Jesse said.

Program Council had booked the Houston Room, UC, for the showing of "Deep Throat" in anticipation of a large turnout for the film.

Black-out!

A burnt-out circuit breaker at the UH Power Plant caused a temporary black-out in most of the buildings on campus at 11:45 a.m. Thursday.

Auxiliary power came on in a few buildings shortly after the power failure, and maintenance personnel said electricity in the rest of the buildings on campus was restored at about 3 p.m.

Power Plant Supervisor John Barrett said the chance of such failures happening in the future could be reduced if the plant could shut down for two days once a year to clean the high-voltage circuits.

"You just can't touch the 13,000-volt systems when they're hot," Barrett said. "But the problem is that the university can't shut down for two days."

Names due

The deadline for applications to the Top Ten contest has been moved to Thursday, March 24.

The contest is sponsored by the UH yearbook, The Houstonian, to select the 10 most outstanding students on campus.

Selection is based on service to the university, academic record, personality and an interview with a judging panel, said Cherry Leediker, Houstonian editor.

Interviews will be held March 29. For more information contact the Houstonian at 749-4141.

Houston Grand Opera

Students given opportunity

By PAT HURT
Cougar Staff

Eight out-of-state students with stars in their eyes will enroll in graduate school at UH next fall to participate in a unique learning experience.

According to Carlisle Floyd, M.D. Anderson professor of music, UH and the Houston Grand Opera (HGO) will join efforts in presenting the Houston Opera Studio to a selected few. "This co-venture is a first," Floyd said.

Floyd and HGO Gen. Manager David Gockley are codirectors of the studio, which is presented at no cost to the students.

Floyd and Gockley spent February auditioning 600 applicants across the country. Floyd said no UH graduates are among the finalists. The average age of the eight finalists is 24, but none of the finalists' names have been released yet, he said. Floyd said he expects the announcement will be made at the end of this week by Gockley.

The Houston Opera Studio will be an extended training program at UH for professionals, Floyd explained. Voice lessons, language study and acting are among the areas in which these students will be getting individualized coaching.

Each student will receive a stipend of $7,500 annually, Floyd said. UH and HGO will share this expense, he added. Students will sign a contract for 40 weeks of free training and can renew it every year for three years. "And then as vacancies occur, we will audition students only for replacements," Floyd said.

"HGO will be offering performance and job opportunities to students in the studio," Floyd said. He said the chosen singers for the studio have "excellent young voices."

"The response to the free training program gave us a great number to select from," Floyd said.

In addition to this program being "a dream come true" for the participants in the studio, Floyd said UH students have something to gain from it, too.

Drama productions and singer concerts will be performed on campus for students to observe. Also, UH undergraduates will have access to the group discussions. "And the public relations has set up a close tie between UH and HGO," Floyd said.

Camelot manuscript found among notes

AUSTIN (AP)—The unpublished final chapter of the book that inspired the musical "Camelot" has been discovered among the papers of novelist T. H. White at the University of Texas.

The last chapter of "The Once and Future King" was omitted by the publisher in 1941 because of the wartime paper shortage, said Archer Mayor, special projects editor for the UT Press, Thursday.

UT Press will publish it this fall. Entitled "The Book of Merlin," the chapter tells of Merlin taking Arthur underground where the animals of Book I are waiting to talk to him so that he may discover what can be learned from animals about the abolition of war.

According to some accounts, White struggled with the decision of whether he would volunteer for the armed services at the beginning of World War II or become a conscientious objector and wrote the final chapter at the time.

"While the story may not be true," Mayor said, "I've been told that the irony of that situation was that after the long struggle within himself, White decided to go to war. Then they wouldn't accept him."

UT acquired many of White's papers for its Humanities Research Center after his death in 1964. The center has a large collection of original manuscripts by 20th century British and American writers.

Yearbook facing possible extinction

By PATSY FRETWELL
Cougar Staff

A controversial yearbook published in 1972 caused the "Houstonian" to lose student service fee funding. "And four years later, it's still struggling to become self-supporting," Cherry Leediker, 1977 "Houstonian" editor, said recently.

The 1972 yearbook contained no captions and very little copy. But it did have poems and fictional stories. One of the stories was entitled "The Hoffman Mystery," which questioned the president's whereabouts because of his lack of public exposure on campus.

"If more students were involved with the yearbook—by being in it and by working on it—its financial problems would be solved and the yearbook would be self-supporting," Leediker said.

"If some type of academic credit was given to students working on the book, like the credit students get in news reporting labs for working on The Daily Cougar, more people would become involved in the book. The end result would be more interested students who would also buy yearbooks," she said.

The "Houstonian" staff today consists of only six paid employees, including the editor. They are responsible for filling approximately 400 pages with pictures and copy that highlight the school year, Leediker said.

She also said more people would take notice of the yearbook this year and possibly buy one because of the football team's success in winning the Cotton Bowl.

"But then again, if any other major sport is losing, people might say, 'We don't want to buy a yearbook with losers in it,' and we're back to where we started from," Leediker said, sighing.

"We tried to get more students to come in and have a class picture taken free. A fee was charged for pictures in the past. I guess it worked because we got more than 1,500 students in this year for class pictures, compared to 1,000 last year," she said.

Leediker cites other reasons for the book not attaining financial self-sufficiency. The low percentage of student organizations buying space is one. She attributes this to a lack of participation within the groups themselves and possibly the cost of space.

"Only about 15 campus groups out of over 250 recognized student organizations bought space this year. Most UH student groups only meet once a month, and they are not closely knit as groups," she said.

"Most groups, because the majority of members are part-time students and commuter students, rarely sponsor money-making events. So all the money they have in their treasury is received from dues.

"Unless they collect a substantial amount for dues and have a large number of members, they just can't afford the cost of a page ($60) or even a half-page ($35)," she added.

If the "Houstonian" failed to publish this year, Leediker said some people would miss it.

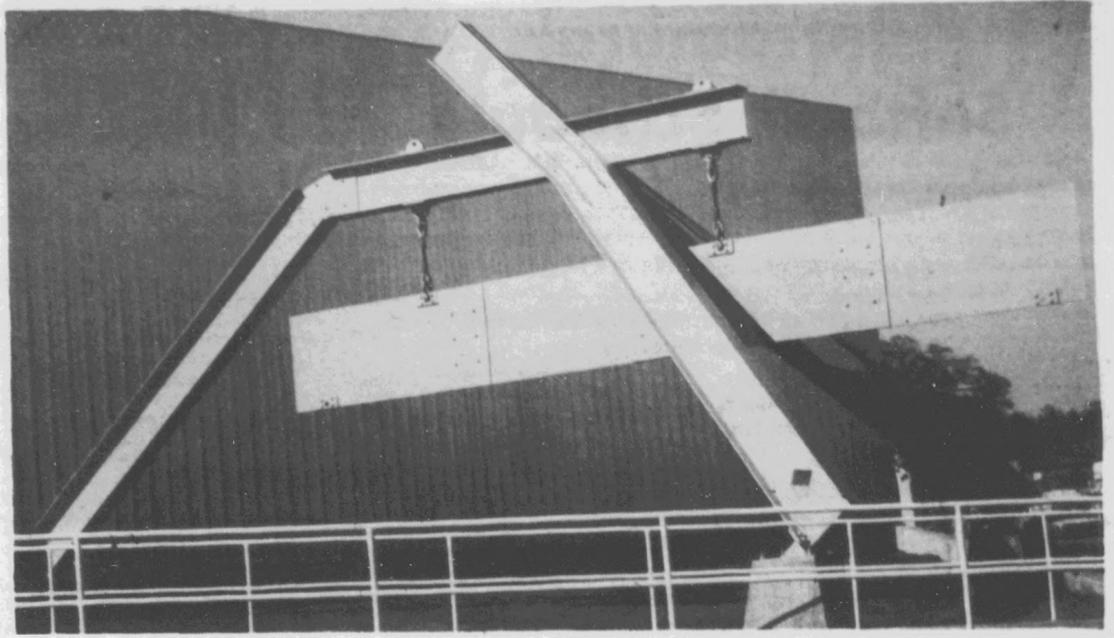

"Many people look forward to seeing the 'Houstonian.' The purpose of the yearbook is to record events of the school year. Without it, there will not be a permanent preservation of UH history," she said.

Graduation

The deadline for applying for spring graduation is Tuesday. Graduation forms may be picked up in Room 109, Ezekiel Cullen Building.

Candidates for graduation should make sure all requirements are completed by the end of the semester.

Applicants should verify grade changes, waivers or required test scores with the college concerned and send any address changes to the graduation office to insure diploma delivery.

Wright on!

NEW YORK—Well, here we are in the semi-finals of the National Invitation Tournament, and there's one thing I've been wondering about. Who in New York gives a hoot about seeing UH play Alabama in basketball?

The official attendance record released for Monday and Tuesday night's quarter-final games weren't too bad, but people who were there say 5,500 would be a liberal estimate.

Of course, there will be a lot more people from Houston and Alabama, as well as from Villanova and St. Bonaventure, up for the weekend knowing that no matter what the outcome of Thursday's contest all four teams will still play Sunday.

As for whether the people of New York City will support games between out of town teams, one must realize that in this part of the country, basketball is what football is to Texas.

And, with a population of over 7 million people, even if only a small percentage decide to come to the games, it would be enough to fill the Garden.

As big as this place looked from the air, a lot of New Yorkers probably think Houston and Alabama are suburbs of the city anyway.

One thing which may compete with attendance Thursday night is the St. Patrick's Day party going on at McAnn's Bar, across the street from the Garden.

It seems that everyone who walks by is absorbed by the mob of people who are already drunk, and it's only 3:30 in the afternoon. I am going to be afraid to cross the street to the hotel after the game for fear of being killed, if I'm lucky.

We expected to see some weird stuff going on here and these celebrators have already come through. There are a couple hundred people below our hotel window and things are starting to get hairy.

It's 4 p.m. now, and it's getting so good I'm going to give you a running account of what's going on 11 floors below.

The people have been jumping on cars for the last half hour, stopping traffic for a mile. One guy gets in front of every car and moons the driver. Some people just pour beer on the windshield.

Six police cars just drove up with their sirens on, but all New York's finest are able to do is keep the crowd contained on one side of the street.

This sure is fun to watch, but it's getting to be time to leave for the games.

Hold everything!
Here we are in the Garden for the Villanova-St. Bonaventure game, and guess who is in their student section.

Right. It's the human riot from McAnn's Bar, and if you think you've seen an unruly crowd in Hofheinz Pavilion, you ain't seen nothin'.

With the first Villanova score, the court was resurfaced with streamers, forcing a time-out while the referees tried to find the court.

After the action I've seen these fans put on today, and some of the things heard during the game, all I can say is the people in the East have a lot of gall calling Houston crowds the most unruly in the nation.

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Jimmy Young stunned the boxing world Thursday night by beating George Foreman, who was carried from his dressing room on a stretcher about an hour after the fight and taken to Presbyterian Hospital in an ambulance.

By JUNE ENGBLOM

Intramural basketball finished its last weekend of play. Nine teams remained to battle for all-school titles Wednesday and Thursday. All games will be played at Jeppesen Field House.

Softball, a 94-team field compared to last year's 71 teams, began last weekend. The ten run rule ended many games, and home runs were the fashion of the day.

Second Floor Moody iced over Cools Fools 12-2, behind the home run hitting of Berman, Lindgren, and Brown. Bad Attitude beat the Titans, 12-2, and fighting Iris pitching ace, Paulson, fired a shut-out, 10-0, over ROTC as well as knocking out a home run. The Inseminators defeated 4th Estate, 10-4 in 7 innings.

The Hardballers' 9-run third inning lifted them to an 11-1 victory over the Old Milwaukee D.A.'s. OB clean-up man Bob Ireton went two for two at the plate with a homer and a single as the Gangbangers beat 14th Floor, 11-1. VSO beat the Peanut Butter Squad 10-4, and Theta Tau shut out the Bio Grads, 11-0.

Delta Sigma Pi defeated the Printing Staffers in extra innings, 10-9. Mish Mash beat the Rogues 11-5, as Stramler went four for four at the plate and scored each time for the Mash.

Quas defeated the Desperados 26-1 in a one inning contest. Delta Sigma Phi upended Delta Upsilon, 8-2. JD's beat the Sweathogs, 12-2 behind the home runs of Poulard and Bates. Big Ten beat Blue Fire, 15-7, and the Unregistered Pharmacists handed the Percolators a 15-2 loss. Alpha Epsilon Pi got by Phi Sigma Kappa, 7-6, and the Pikes won over Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 11-5.

In the women's division Quad Squad II handed Moody 8 an 11-7 loss. A fourth inning rally by Phi Mu locked up their victory over Zeta Tau Alpha, 8-4. Ms. Feasance rolled past Los Aztecas, 12-6. Tower of Power zoomed by the Bad News Chicks, 16-2.

Co-rec bowling championships will be decided Sunday. Semi-finals are at 4:30 p.m. and all-school matches will be played at 7:30 p.m. at the Cougar Lanes. Archery entries are due at this Friday's meeting.

Cougars drown Tide; Bonnies next

Cedric Fears muscles against TCU

By MIKE MADERE
Asst. Sports Editor

NEW YORK—The Houston Cougars came one step closer to capturing the National Invitation Tournament championship by conquering 11th-ranked Alabama, 82-76, in a physical semi-final match in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Although plagued by 25 costly turnovers on the night, the Coogs out-hustled and out-muscled the Tide, thus advancing to the NIT finals. UH and St. Bonaventure will battle it out for the tourney crown at noon Sunday. Bonaventure advanced to the finals with an 86-82 victory over Villanova.

Both the Cougars and the Tide experienced the frustration of cold shooting performances, especially in the first half.

"We weren't running our offense in the first half," said UH coach Guy Lewis, "but we did better in the second half. Chet (Thompson) started putting in those inside shots for us."

And what a game it was for Thompson. Showing poise and strength under the boards, Thompson pulled down 12 rebounds and took honors as the game's leading scorer with 20 points.

"The refs let the game get physical, but I think the game should be played that way,"

Thompson said. "It allowed me to play better, but then I was overdue for a good game."

Unfortunately for Alabama, the Tide was without the services of 6'6" forward Reginald King in the first half. King is the Tide's leading scorer and rebounder on the year.

Injuring his ankle half a minute into the game, King was forced to sit out the remainder of the first half. However, King did see some action in the game's final 20 minutes.

"I know King's injury didn't do anything to help Alabama out," Lewis said. "You've got to give him credit, though. That guy came in there and played pretty good in the second half."

Although the Cougars would pile up as much as a five-point margin on many occasions in the first half, they just weren't able to extinguish the Tide's flame. Alabama rallied in the fading moments of the first stanza and held a 40-39 advantage at the midpoint.

"We knew we had to come out in the second half and set up our offense," said guard Ken Ciolli. "We got our passing game going and were able to beat their man-to-man defense."

Alabama increased its one-point halftime lead to five points, 46-41, with 18:58 left in the game. Then the Coogs reeled off nine consecutive points and coasted to a 50-46 lead at the 16:44 mark.

But the Tide kept rising and with 8:29 remaining Alabama claimed a 66-65 lead.

On the Coogs' next possession, George Walker hit a field goal to reclaim the lead for UH.

The score was all knotted up at 74-74 with just 2:41 left, but Otis Birdsong's baseline jumper gave the Coogs a lead they were to keep this time.

Cedric Fears scored next to put the Coogs up by four, but things became tighter as 'Bama's Rickey Brown hit two foul shots with 1:18 left in the game. Brown's two free throws narrowed the gap to two points.

With 1:03 remaining, Walker hit the front end of a bonus situation and moments later hit two more from the line to insure a UH victory.

Rounding out the scoring for the Cougars were Birdsong (18), Cecile Rose (11) and Mike Schultz (10). Fears added nine points while Ciolli pitched in seven.

Alabama was led by T. R. Dunn and Robert Scott with 17 and 16 points respectively. The injured King contributed six points.

For Lewis, it was his 400th career win as a collegiate coach. "I just hope No. 401 comes Sunday," he said.

In looking forward to Sunday's championship bout with St. Bonaventure, Lewis sees another physical ballgame.

"They're (St. Bonaventure) a strong rebounding team, but we can be strong on the boards when we get jacked up," Lewis said. "It's going to be a battle of the boards."

Bonaventure survives scare

By ROBIN WRIGHT
Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Glenn Hagan erupted for 22 second half points Thursday night to lead St. Bonaventure to an 86-82 victory over Villanova and put the Bonnies into the finals of the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Villanova never led in the game and was on the verge of being blown away early in the second half when Bonaventure took a 59-46 lead on a stuff by Greg Sanders with 14:53 remaining.

The Wildcats were not quite ready to pack up for home, however, and cut the lead to four just five minutes later, outscoring the Bonnies 13-4 during one stretch.

From then on, it was a matter of holding on for dear life as Bonaventure coach Jim Satalin kept his team in a tight zone defense, forcing Villanova to take the outside shots.

"I was scared shitless," Satalin said after the contest. "But Glenn (Hagan) held us in the game. Some players have better games against certain teams. He just plays best against Villanova."

In a meeting earlier this season, the 6-1 Hagan led the Bonnies to a 10-point win over Villanova with a 25-point performance.

Satalin was also pulling his hair during the closing moments of the first half when a pair 6-6 starters, Sanders and Essie Hollis, each drew their third personal fouls during the half's final 28 seconds.

"I thought we might have lost the game in the last minute of the game," Satalin said. "Getting into foul trouble forced us to go into a zone in the second half and that hurt us."

"We committed some dumb fouls, but we've done that all year long. The key is that we shot better than they did and controled the boards."

In the first half, Bonaventure shot a blazing 67.9 per cent from the field, hitting 19 of 28. Hollis and Sanders led the Bonnies in the half with 14 and 12 points respectively.

Although Bonaventure was burning the nets in the first half, neither team was impressive. Villanova looked more like a team from a playground as the players ran a run-and-gun game a la Nevada-Las Vegas, only the Wildcats' shots were bouncing off the rim instead of dropping through it.

Whitey Rigsby led the Wildcats with 21 points while Larry and Keith Herron added 20 and 18 respectively.

Defensively, the Bonnies' Hollis dominated with 10 rebounds and three blocked shots before fouling out with 48 seconds to play.

A total of 16 points were scored during the last minute of play, but Bonaventure's eight-point lead proved to be insurmountable. Villanova coach Roland Massimino said his team's poor shooting percentage was not due to anything special. It was just one of those things.

"They played zone and we were getting our shots," he said. "They just weren't going in. We never had a good stretch like six or eight consecutive points."

"We didn't have trouble getting inside, either. We just had easy shots from the wing which we missed."

Bonaventure will meet UH in the finals at noon Sunday and Satalin sees a tough match coming up.

"I don't know if we'll be able to run with Houston," he said, "but our guys have come this far and we're not about to get tired now."

The Bonnies go into Sunday's game with a 23-6 record, while Villanova takes a 22-10 mark into its 10 a.m. (CST) third-place game with Alabama.

WORLDS IN COLLISION

Critics called it "an outrage!" It aroused incredible antagonism in scientific and literary circles. Yet half a million copies were sold and for 27 years it remained an astounding bestseller.

Velikovsky's theories of cosmic cataclysm challenged the accepted notions of evolution and virtually rewrote ancient history. But the moon landings and space probes of recent years have caused scientists to take another look at Velikovsky—today, many of his ideas are accepted as fact. Worlds in Collision was found lying open on Einstein's desk the day he died... the cause célèbre once thought to be unbelievable is now seen as ahead of its time.

Worlds in Collision has been unavailable in paperback for years. Now, finally, here it is!

Actor to speak

Big day for campus films

By LOUIS PARKS
Amusements Staff

A personal appearance by film and stage comic Robert Morse, plus two comedies and a couple of shorts are being presented by Program Council Films today.

"The Loved One," the black comedy with "something to offend everybody" plays at 1 p.m. in the UC and at 7:30 p.m. in Agnes Arnold Aud. I.

"What's New, Pussycat?," scripted by Woody Allen, is the free movie at 10 p.m. on the hill behind the UC tonight. Joining "Pussycat" are "The Music Box," an Academy Award winning Laurel and Hardy short, and a section of "Fantasia."

Since it appeared in 1965, "The Loved One" has become something of a cult classic, due to its pointed, irreverent humor. What starts as a satire on funerals and funeral parks expands to encompass just about everything weird about American culture. It's seldom at a loss for subjects.

The highlight of the 1 p.m. show will be a visit from the film's star, Robert Morse, who will discuss the controversial comedy after the show. Morse is currently starring in the Windmill Theatre production of "Play It Again, Sam." He has also starred in several other films including "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." The showing will be in the Pacific Room, which only seats about 65 people.

The film also stars Jonathan Winters, Rod Steiger and Roddy McDowall. Winters, in half of a dual part, plays the super-hype evangelist owner of Shady Acres, a monstrous cemetery modeled after L. A.'s Forest Lawn. He's all holy and sweet until he gets a woman alone in his private chambers, then all his angelic statues strip to the nude.

As the chief embalmer, Steiger is a lumbering, effeminate artist, who considers all his "works" masterpieces. His idea of a date is to take the woman home to meet his tremendously overweight mother and watch her eat. It's an incredible scene.

Before the whole thing is over, Robert Morse is running a funeral parlor for pets, and Winters is launching the first burial in space on national TV.

Other actors appearing include James Coburn, Milton Berle, John Gielgud and, in a terrific bit as a casket salesman, Liberace. Tony Richardson directed.

Peter Sellers, Peter O'Toole, Ursula Andress, Paula Prentiss

and Romy Schneider join Woody Allen in his first screen appearance to make "What's New, Pussycat" a wild, hit-and-miss comedy conglomeration. When the film is clicking it includes some of the funniest bits Sellers has ever done. Even O'Toole proves adept at the slapstick by playing an exaggerated version of his confused ladies' man against the excesses of Sellers and Allen.

Near the end, the film turns into rough-edged slapstick, but the road getting there has plenty of juicy bits, from Allen learning to drive in Paris, to Sellers trying to give himself a Viking's funeral in the Seine. And be sure to watch closely to spot such notables as Vincent Van Gogh, Toulouse-Lautrec, and, really, Richard Burton.

The "Fantasia" segment is the creation sequence with Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring."

Burke to hold UH seminar

Kenneth Burke, dean of American letters, will read some of his poetry and lecture on criticism at an English department seminar, 2 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, March 23, in the third floor lounge of the Roy Cullen Building. The Department of English will be honoring Burke on that occasion as he approaches his 80th birthday.

As an author, critic and poet, Burke has moved easily between journalistic criticism, scholarly criticism, creative writing and college teaching during most of his 80 years. For his UH visit he will discuss "Language as a Theory of Action," and read from his most recent poetry.

Burke calls himself simply "an author," but his topics include short stories, poetry, translations, book reviews, music criticism and the works of which he is best known, books on the theory and practice of literary criticism. He holds honorary doctorates from a number of colleges and universities, and has been a visiting professor at several more. His honors include a Poet of the Year award in 1968 and membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Among Burke's many significant publications are "Language as Symbolic Action" (1966), "Collected Poems, 1915-1967" (1968), a book of short stories "The Complete White Oxen" (1968) and "Optimism and Development" (1972).

Electric Light Orchestra will perform at 8 p.m. Monday in the Summit. Also appearing on the bill will be Elliott Murphey. Tickets are available at Warehouse Records and Tapes and Musicville on Memorial.

SEA LEVEL
By Sea Level
On Capricorn Records

Three former members of the Allman Brothers Band team up with a new lead guitarist, so their music must sound like warmed-over versions of Dickie Betts' favorites, right? Wrong.

But when Chuck Leavell, Jai Johanny Johanson, Lamar Williams and Jimmy Nalls got together to form "Sea Level," they had a style of their own in mind. It's anything but "Southern Fried Boogie."

Not surprisingly, Leavell's superb keyboard work is the high spot of the group's debut album. The first cut, "Rain in Spain," gives Leavell opportunity to utilize his talents, and he takes full advantage of the free rein. This song, like four other cuts on the album, is strictly instrumental.

However, Leavell does not monopolize the instrumentals. Proof of this is the tune, "Tidal Wave," a fast, smooth interplay between individual solos. The music is alive. It has a heartbeat in the place of rhythm.

The album does have its weaker points. "Shake A Leg" is one of these. A mixture of repetitive vocals and reggae overtones makes the song very inconsistent with the tone of the other cuts.

"Grand Larceny" can best be described as tropical jazz. Leavell trades his piano for an organ, and creates an effective aura, a kind of Carribean rock. Lamar Williams' bass guitar carries the weight of the song quite effectively.

If there is any Southern influence at all on the album, it has to be in "Country Fool." Leavell's vocals, combined with the slippery, sliding guitar of Jimmy Nalls, is the only way to tell that these guys once played alongside the Allman Brothers. Don't get me wrong, though. It's still a long way from "One Way Out."

Anyone who thinks that Leavell can't get laid back needs to listen to "Scarborough Fair." It will definitely change their mind. The mood of the song comes across entirely different than the original Simon and Garfunkel tune, partly because this cut too is all instrumental. But don't let that bother you. It really doesn't need any vocals.

HEAT TREATMENT
By Graham Parker
On Mercury Records

In the tradition of Southside Johnny and other blue-eyed rhythm and blues performers, Graham Parker has created an album of solid music.

It is a sound characterized by pushy keyboards and a staccato horn section which runs roughshod over the whole thing. And of course, there's Parker's voice. It all combines to make an album without moral or pretense, very refreshing.

It must be said that this is music for special tastes. If you like everything clean and sophisticated, this is not for you.

Best cuts are the title track and "That's What They All Say."

Arbor swings amid black-out

CAROL SHUGART

With sufficient aplomb and a dash of oomph, Cindy Van Epps, unspecified natural sciences freshman, sways to the music of the Camp Cougar Dance-a-Thon in the UC Arbor. The marathon continues until 1 p.m. today.

By JILL THOMPSON
Cougar Staff

The beat went on at noon Thursday in the UC Arbor, untouched by the campus black-out, as the 1977 Camp Cougar "Dance-a-Thon" got underway. The 25-hour fund-raising marathon will benefit Camp Cougar, a summer camp for mentally retarded children held on the UH campus.

Twenty-three teams representing UH fraternities, sororities, dorms, clubs and other organizations kicked off the event, which is scheduled to run until 1 p.m. today. Sponsors of the teams have agreed to contribute a certain amount of money to Camp Cougar for every hour danced by team members.

One team is being sponsored by a Houston restaurant for $10 an hour.

Bobby Brownstein, co-organizer of the dance with Janet Chandler of Chi Omega sorority, the event's sponsor, said they hope to raise $1,500 to $2,000 for the camp.

Trophies will be awarded to the team that brings in the most money and to the team that dances the most hours, Brownstein said. Awards will also be given to persons dancing the entire 25 hours, he said.

There were about 50 dancers at the start of the marathon, some of them drinking the green beer served by the UC Coffeehouse in honor of St. Patrick's Day. As the event progressed, more teams entered, and the Arbor became jammed with dancers, some dancing on the steps and the benches. Brownstein said he expected a total of about 400 to 500 persons to participate in the event.

The dancers got a five-minute break every hour, and were even provided with television sets to watch the UH-University of Alabama basketball game last night. Local TV personalities and radio disc jockeys were also on hand through the night to help.

Dance-a-Thon t-shirts are being sold in conjunction with the event, and contributions are solicited from onlookers via a big plastic bucket in the middle of the dance floor.

"It's a good cause. We're trying to raise as much money as we can," said Eric Richman, hotel and restaurant management senior, who plans to help for the entire 25 hours.

Plant blows

PORT ARTHUR (AP) —Fire sparked by an explosion ripped through a gas stabilizer plant of the Texaco refinery in this Southeast Texas city Thursday, injuring 22 persons, at least three of them seriously.

Texaco officials said the explosion and fire occurred shortly before 8 a.m. in the No. 1 plant of the giant refinery. Other units were sealed off and the fire was brought under control by company firefighters in less than one hour, Texaco representatives said.

The injured were first taken to St. Mary's Hospital at Port Arthur.

Later, eight were taken to the John Sealy Hospital in Galveston and five were moved in Army helicopters to Hermann Hospital in Houston. All suffered severe burns.

Army helicopters were used also earlier in the day when they transported medical personnel and supplies to the Port Arthur hospital after a civilian helicopter turned back because of heavy fog.

Discussion plugged

By RHONA SCHWARTZ
Cougar Staff

Author and humorist John Henry Faulk met Wednesday with other members of the Committee for Artistic and Intellectual Freedom in Iran (CAIFI) to publicize the upcoming panel discussion about atrocities they believe are being committed by the Iranian government. The discussion will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Houston Room, UC.

Faulk, who was blacklisted during the McCarthy era, said he was proud to be a member of the CAIFI along with "other responsible Americans who take a dim view of our CIA backing and supporting a repressive government.

"If Americans demanded the Shah straighten up and fly right, he'd straighten up and fly right," Faulk said.

Faulk was joined by fellow member Gertrude Barnstone, who once served on the Houston Independent School District school board. She stressed there needed to be a peaceful atmosphere for the panel.

"The conference will be sort of a teach-in to tell people about the torturing and repression that is going on in Iran. Americans have to be aware there is a continuing relationship between our CIA and the Shah because of military sales," Barnstone said.

The panel will include Daniel Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon Papers to the media; Reza Baraheni, former Iranian political prisoner and noted poet; Banak Zahraie, CAIFI national field secretary; James Calaway, Texas American Civil Liberties Union president; Barnstone and Faulk.
