WORKMEN have been digging feverishly to put the finishing touches on the UC expansion; 45 trees and shrubs are to be planted before they are through.

UH action awaited on A&S proposal

A proposal splitting the College of Arts and Sciences (A&S) into three colleges is awaiting action from the Coordinating Board for the Texas College and University System.

The proposal, sent to the Coordinating Board following unanimous approval by UH Board of Regents, might be acted on as early as March 8, an A&S spokesman said Thursday.

The A&S reorganization, approved by the University Council following a study made by the Reorganization Study Committee,

International Week events

Schedule of events for International Week:

Sunday: UH Pres. Philip G. Hoffman's reception for the Consular Corps and UH International students, 3 to 5 p.m., Houston Room, UC. Film Festival: "Mondo Cane" from Italy; deals with unusual customs around the world. OB Hall, 7 p.m.

Monday: International Fair, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 4 to 10 p.m., Houston Room.

Karate demonstrations, noon, UC Arbor. Film Festival: "Mystery of the Himalays" concerns a U.S. mountain climbing expedition in the Himalayas. O.B. Hall, 7 p.m. divides the college into three separate entities. They are named the College of Fine Arts and Humanities, the College of Social Sciences, and the College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

Included in the proposal sent to the Coordinating Board is the creation of a dean's position for each of the three colleges, and abolition of the Graduate School and its dean.

The deans of the new colleges will be responsible for graduate programs with university-level supervision of graduate studies coming from Dr. Emmett B. Fields, dean of faculties. They will also handle curriculum, admissions, degree requirements, hiring, firing and tenure of their staffs.

An Undergraduate Council, composed of faculty and students, is also proposed under the A&S reorganization. The Council will be chaired by an undergraduate administrator who will report to Fields and will provide a Council staff.

UH Pres. Philip G. Hoffman said the proposed A&S split will "further strengthen the academic fabric at the university," and praised the work of the Reorganization-Study Committee chaired by Dr. Shalom E. Vineberg, psychology professor.

Vineberg said the proposal would not be "intrinsicly harmful to liberal education," adding liberal education is a university issue no matter what the structure.

Fiscal policy concerns presidential hopeful

By GORDON HAIRE
Cougar Staff

Jim Magee, Students' Association (SA) presidential candidate, said the most important issue in the upcoming election is revision of the SA budget.

"I want to reduce the salaries of the SA president, treasurer and speaker," he said.

"These funds should be re-allocated to help promote student activities," Magee said. Student government is concerning itself with national and international issues instead of serving student interests," he said.

"When elected, Donna Peterson (journalism, junior) and I will provide the leadership to channel the SA activities back to the campus," Magee said. "SA has an obligation to direct student activities toward a common goal—a good education, academically and socially, and to insure all students that absolutely no arbitrary action will be imposed on them by the university."

Magee expressed concern over student apathy at UH and blamed the SA administration and the Daily Cougar for not informing the Student body.

"I have attended SA meetings and witnessed inadequate coverage by the Cougar. The issues are not explained and some issues brought up at the meetings are omitted in the paper," Magee said.

"The students should be informed and I will see that SA is accessible to them," Magee said. He said an open forum should be established, where a student could voice complaints, suggestions and opinions or ask questions. Magee plans to have the open forum at least once per month. The forum would be established in heavy traffic areas on campus and manned by members of SA.

"Donna and I will see that pending legislation is posted on conspicuous bulletin boards in every building on campus prior to the meeting at which the legislation is to be considered," Magee said. "Students are paying student services fees and deserve to know what the SA is doing with the money."

Greater student representation is needed in all facets of the academic community, Magee said. He promised to work to have more students on the University Council and to increase student membership on all educational policy committees.

Magee said programs directed toward the average student should be pursued. He cited the day care center and a veterans' counseling office as programs that should be adopted to serve married students and commuters.

Veterans represent a large portion of the student body and receive very few services from the SA, Magee said. "They get the runaround at the Veterans' Administration office downtown and have no one on campus to turn to," he said.

The child care center would contribute greatly to the married student's ability to receive an education, he said.

FOUR SPEAKERS

World issue talks

The World Council and the Students' Association (SA) will sponsor a conference to discuss and increase students' knowledge of various world problems, said Steve Claiborn, chairman of the World Council.

Claiborn said the theme for this year's meeting will be "Power Elites in a World of Crisis." The theme is based on the theory that small groups of powerful businessmen, industrialists and military men, not the politicians and statesmen, make the policy decisions for the nations of the world. This small group of elite, in effect, run the world.

"We hope to provide a conference with speakers who will increase the students' awareness of world affairs," Claiborn said. "It is easier to intellectualize in a conference atmosphere."

Traditionally, four or five days of discussion and debate comprise the body of the meeting. This year, however, the meeting will span a two week period, Claiborn said.

Claiborn said the Council has four main speakers for the two week meeting, including Dr. Andreas Poppandereau, economics professor at the University of York in Ontario, Canada, and Dr. Bill Domhoff, sociologist from Santa Clara, California. Also speaking will be attorney Mark Lane, whose investigation of the John F. Kennedy assassination led to the movie "Executive Action" Claiborn added.

Claiborn also said the Chinese ambassador to the United States is tentatively scheduled to address the conference. Another tentatively scheduled speaker is Pulitzer Prize winner Harrison Salsburg, Associate Editor of the New York Times.

There will be six films dealing with the subject of elitist power in the United States, Greece, China, Africa, India and several other nations.

Claiborn said there would be several afternoon luncheons in which the keynote speakers will open the floor to questions from the audience. Luncheon tickets will be sold on a first come, first serve basis.

AHMAD HAIDAR, Biology junior, gulped 14 bananas yesterday in JRELB's banana-eating contest in the UC Arbor.

("JRELB" are the first letters of the names of a group of students who sponsor several such insanities.)

Cough it up

It's almost impossible these days to listen to a news broadcast or to read the front page of any newspaper in the country without being blasted with the enormous problems created by the energy shortage.

Each new story heightens the panic which is gripping the gas consumer. Station owners are threatening to go on strike because of a federal price freeze on gasoline and a newly enacted ban on sales to regular customers only. The American Automobile Association (AAA) says that 38 per cent of service stations in the Houston area are already out of gas for this month and by February 23 over 70 per cent will be dry.

The most interesting stories, however, are not on the front pages but cleverly inserted as full page advertisements on the inside pages of the larger newspapers or strategically placed as commercials in the middle of our favorite television program. In the midst of one of the severest crises in our nation's history the oil companies are trying to advertise their way into our hearts. In some cases, they are actually spending more to tell us about the crisis than they're spending to solve it.

The companies pledge to the consumers that they are doing everything they possibly can to help us through these troubled times. "Together we can work it out" and "we want you to know," they promise. With the rash of commercials of this sort came long overdue congressional investigations into just how much the companies did want us to know. Not much as it turned out. An investigative committee found that the profits of the five major oil companies had risen dramatically. Not so, claimed the companies. Profits are still not at an "acceptable" level.

When they could not convince the committee of their sincerity, they sought out Fifth Avenue advertising whizzes to indoctrinate the consumer. Now we see complicated balance sheets in every oil company advertisement trying to justify the outrageous price of gasoline.

In a recent ad, Gulf Oil claims to have made only 1.5c per gallon off the 55 billion gallons of petroleum products they sold last year. What they don't tell you is that six months ago the average price of regular gasoline in Texas was only 29.9c. The price average price now is 43.9c. Even if their profit was in truth only a cent and a half, this adds up to over $800 million. And the percentage of this that they pay in income tax is sizeably less than the percentage paid by the average school teacher.

The obvious purpose of the oil companies in this advertising campaign is to make more money selling less gas, while trying to convince the congress and the people that their profits are not excessive. But the people are finally becoming aware of this scheme and the congress is not far behind.

Congress must give the Federal Energy Office the power to completely oversee the discovery, refining and storage policies of the oil industry. Congress must act soon to create an excess profits tax law which would insure that the companies carry their fair share of the tax burden.

Our progressive tax system was founded on the principle that those most able to pay would pay the most. This means the multi-million dollar oil industry, not the hard-working consumers.

Soviets borschted it

Alexander Solzhenitsyn is free in West Germany. The Soviets deported him from his homeland and have stripped him of his citizenship by order of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet. Solzhenitsyn comes out of this a hero. The Soviets come out of it with borscht on their faces.

Solzhenitsyn had to choose between death and his principles in his decision to remain in Russia as long as he did. He has survived the

For Solzhenitsyn, it was not a choice of self-imposed exile or death. He wished to remain in his homeland for the rest of his life. For the Soviets, this could not be.

Solzhenitsyn is now staying at German author Heinrich Boell's farmhouse. He will horrible confines of Soviet labor camps. He has survived cancer. And he has survived the Russian government.

There was no doubt in this man's mind that the regime under which he lived was one of the most brutal and oppressive in history. He chose to remain against all odds. He was the thorn in the paw of the great Soviet bear. For them, he was intolerable.

The Soviet government has but one thing to fear. That is the free flow of information to its people. History has shown that it takes only one articulate voice to bring a regime to its knees.

Solzhenitsyn could never have brought the Soviet government down alone. But because of him, millions of people around the world have become convinced that socialism is not not answer questions from newsmen or disclose his future plans.

Perhaps it is significant that he is at Boell's house. Only 30 years ago, Boell was an eloquent voice against the Nazi's rule of Germany. Now, Nazi Germany has faded into history while Boell remains a prominent, Nobel Prize winning author.

This will be the fate of Solzhenitsyn. We can be assured that long after the Soviet government has fallen, Solzhenitsyn will remain as a genius who saw beyond history, a supreme and passionate intellectual who knew the true meaning of freedom.

America has had its problems with intellectuals in the past. Let us not fall into the same trap that the Soviets find themselves in—that of repression and ignorance.

I've just finished Elizabeth Ashton's review of "Zorba." Whether or not one agrees with her assessment of the production, one thing is clear—Ashton can write. Each paragraph of the somewhat lengthy article made me want to read on. Her style is refreshing and she is able to criticize without being obnoxious. I hope to see more of her work in the Cougar.

To the Editor:

In the past, student politics has never reached the necessary level of maturity required to maintain a campus of some 27,000 students (with very few exceptions).

It is our expressed hope that students who are chosen by the majority to serve as representative liaisons will take their job seriously enough to rise above the pettiness and internal personality conflicts which have plagued them in the past.

But maybe we are too optimistic. We've seen promises of commitment dissolve to frustrated anger, but we can only hope that maybe once, sincerity will win out over egos and disappointing setbacks which seem to be the result of the same old campaign promises every year.

To the Editor:

Re: "On the ball." In this article, Norman Grundy says that a larger amount of students will suffer than will benefit if the mandatory PE requirements are dropped, and that some students are able to use HPE facilities free after 5 p.m. because of the $10 fee paid by others taking the course. This reasoning is faulty and obviously unfair. Nearly every student who enrolls in day classes at UH is forced to take PE before graduating. This is a considerably greater number than the dorm residents and other users of the HPE facilities. These people use the gym at the expense of students who resent mandatory, unconstitutional PE requirements at a supposedly liberal university. A great majority of the people I have talked to are against these rules and hope to have them abolished. PE is senseless and a waste of time and money to all who don't plan to major in it. How can you use something like field sports in a major such as sociology or business?

After the course is completed, people forget about it and never use it again, so what good has it done?

Let the ones who like HPE take it and pay their $10, but let us with no interest in PE have the choice of not taking it and using those six hours and $20 for other classes which will help in our majors.

Budget plans under scrutiny

The proposed University Center (UC) budget for 1974-75 is $1,030,665, of which $666,865 will come from student service fees.

Budget proposals from the UC and Program Council were tabled Thursday, during a UC Policy Board meeting.

Program Council's budget is $124,074 an increase of $27,455 over last year's budget.

The policy board voted to hold the budgets for examination by the board and Dr. Harry Sharp, vice president, dean of students. The budgets will be voted on during the next policy board meeting Feb. 28.

The board also delayed a request by Dr. Harold Lenz, German professor to reserve a room in the UC Satellite everyday for students with an interest in German.

In his letter to the board, Lenz said the room would be used for informal discussions in German about German magazines and other publications. Lenz said the room would be open to all students with the stipulation they must speak German while in the room.

Jerry Dooling, manager of the UC Satellite, told the board there are only three meeting rooms in the satellite, and by granting Lenz's request, "One group would monopolize a room."

Louis LeBlanc, policy board chairman, appointed Debbie Danburg as chairperson of the UC space allocation committee. The committee will begin to evaluate office space in the UC and make future office allocations.

A discussion was brought up on a motion passed at the previous meeting to authorize check cashing stations to be open until 10 p.m., Monday through Friday. Presently they are only open until 8 p.m.

William Scott, UC director, said the extended hours will mean more personnel and $1,000 more than appropriated in the budget. Scott said he would take the board's request and try to implement it. He added he would not guarantee when the service could be started but said he would check out all options as soon as possible.

His running mate is Donna Peterson, journalism junior. "We will strive to serve all the students when we are elected and will work to make the SA more responsive to individuals as well as organizations," Magee said.

"The best way to achieve goals to benefit students is to work closely with the faculty and administration," Magee said. "We want to protect the students' rights but we don't want to buck the administration just for the sake of conflict. We are adults and if we conduct ourselves as such, we will be treated accordingly."

Magee said he wants to see more polling places and have the location of the polling places well-publicized. "I heard several complaints after the last election: one was that the only voting place was difficult to find; the UC is not accessible to everyone; and third, some people were unable to vote because all the ballots were used," Magee said.

PE requirements officially abolished

The Physical Education subcommittee of the University Academic Committee voted 3-1 to abolish all PE requirements at UH, Debby Collier, subcommittee member, said Thursday.

The PE subcommittee was created to research and recom-

The committee will take the matter up at a meeting later this month.

LOWER FINES

Book fee study

The reduced library fines and student library court proposals are being studied for recommendation to Philip G. Hoffman, Stephen R. Salmon, Director of Libraries said Thursday.

The reduced fine proposal is currently being studied by Harold Scott, UH controller and Douglas G. MacLean, vice-president of financial and management services, Salmon said.

The library sent a memo to Scott, who met with MacLean Thursday to study the proposal, he added.

"We look at the fines as a way to get books back, but the financial people regard it as revenue, and therefore a matter for the administration," Salmon said. Hallie Barrow, circulation librarian, said the university collects $22,000 annually from library fines.

"We do not look at the fines as a way to make money," said Scott. "I have no quarrel with the recommendation to lower the fines."

Scott said he wants a "clarification" of procedures for committees in setting fines. "We need to establish some policy that provides administrative review of these committees," he added.

Hoffman must also approve the student library court proposal being studied by the university library committee. A copy of the proposal has been circulated to committee members for consideration at the February 20 meeting of the committee, Salmon said.

NEWS BRIEFS

Soviets threaten Solzhenitzyn trial

MOSCOW UPI—Soviet authorities threatened to bring Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn to trial for treason during interrogation following his arrest, friends of the writer's family said tonight.

Treason is punishable by execution in the Soviet Union. It carries a minimum sentence of 10 years in prison and confiscation of all property.

The family friends gave no other details but said the threat was made when authorities questioned Solzhenitsyn at Moscow's Lefortovo Prison following his arrest Tuesday night. The next day, authorities stripped him of citizenship and exiled him to West Germany.

The Soviet press resumed its campaign against Solzhenitsyn today and said the Soviet people "unanimously" approve the decree against him.

Gas stations threaten shutdown

WASHINGTON UPI—Angered by the Federal Energy Office's (FEO) failure to approve price increases, many gas station owners around the nation are considering selling all their gas and shutting down, an industry official said today.

Charles Binsted, executive director of the 70,000-member National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, charged the government "has broken its promises" to allow gas station owners to boost prices to offset reductions in gasoline allocations.

The FEO announced in January it would set up a formula to allow station owners to raise prices, but no action has been taken so far.

Kissinger quiet on embargo

WASHINGTON UPI—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told Republican congressmen today of accomplishments during this week's 13-nation energy conference but cautioned against expectation of any immediate lifting of the Arab oil embargo.

"I cannot say anything about it the embargo now," Kissinger told reporters after meeting in closed session with about a third of the GOP house members. "I'm sure the Arabs are studying the problem."

Hearst blasts Saxbe

UPI—Newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst said today U.S. Attorney General William Saxbe's remarks that he should not meet the demands of his daughter's kidnapers were "damn near irresponsible."

Speaking to newsmen in front of his suburban home on the 10th day since his 19-year-old daughter was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment, Hearst criticized the statements made by Saxbe at a Washington news conference.

"A statement like that is antagonistic," Hearst said. "I don't think it has a place in the negotiations we are trying to conduct out here."

Nixon keeps evidence

WASHINGTON UPI—Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said today President Nixon has formally refused to provide anymore documents or tapes to prosecutors.

Lawyers for one of Nixon's former top aides, John D. Ehrlichman, say they will make a new court move to subpoena the President to testify for Ehrlichman in criminal proceedings on the west coast.

FESTIVAL PLANNED

International Week opens

By JAMES MURPHY
Cougar Staff

The International Students' Organization (ISO) will present International Week beginning February 17.

The week has been proclaimed as International Week by Mayor Fred Hofheinz's office, it was announced Wednesday.

The theme this year is "Internationals Building a Better World." The fair will open Sunday with a "President's Address" from UH Pres. Philip G. Hoffman. Representatives from forty-five countries will attend the address in the Houston Room, UC from 3 to 5 p.m.

Throughout the week, 22 booths will be on exhibit in the UC. Various activities for the UH students are planned, including internationals' presentations on folklore, music and art through dances, songs and short dramatic interpretations. A film festival featuring such directors as the Russian Sergi Eisenstein and the Italian Antonioni will be presented. The climax of the week comes with a Grand International Ball on Friday and a "Night Around the World" on Saturday.

An important event is the Mr. and Ms. International contest. The winners will represent all UH foreign students at functions throughout the year. International organizations from most Houston area colleges will participate in the fair.

ISO's new president, Seng Ien Ong, said he believes ISO will expand to include various activities in the coming year. Ong said International Week is a joint effort on the part of internationals to contribute, in some part, benefits they have received from American universities.

Ong, electrical engineering junior, from Malaysia, assumed the post last week following the resignation of Ivan Garcia. He served from April, 1973, as president. Garcia stated he feels it is time to let new internationals take a leadership role in the organization.

Last year, Garcia did extensive work to improve the image of ISO. "When I came into office," he said, "someone sarcastically remarked the ISO was a 'phantom organization only good for International Week.' Now that has changed radically. I leave a strong and healthy organization with an approved budget well over $4,500."

Ong said Garcia created ties with the National Association for Foreign Student Affairs (NAFSA) and International Institute of Education (IIE). ISO is now a member of both organizations, Ong said.

When Garcia first took office as president, his first concern was the orientation of new internationals, he said. He believes his encouragement has spurred more student involvement in ISO affairs.

Yolanda Forero, the new director of information for ISO, has spent the last year and a half at UH. She is a journalism student from Colombia. She explained that students of various nationalities receive money from ISO funds. "This is an effort to make ISO something more than just a sponsor of International Week," she said.

International Week is in its sixth year. Because of its sponsorship of the week ISO has received awards from Reader's Digest and IIE. The IIE award is given once each year to the outstanding international student organization on a campus in the U.S., Forero said.

Internationals make up about seven percent of the students at UH, representing some 76 countries. A weekly newsletter, Rendezvous, is published by ISO.

Energy shortage hits close to home

By STAN IRISH
Cougar Staff

Unless service station operators begin limiting sales of gasoline and people stop hoarding what fuel there is left, Houston may find itself in the midst of a crippling gas crunch.

Rusty Uresti, president of the Greater Houston Service Station Association (GHSSA), made this prediction, adding the city might be totally out of gasoline by the end of the month.

Uresti, operator of a Texaco station, explained the shortage here, saying Houston is relatively well-stocked with fuel compared to northern and eastern parts of the country. He quickly added, however, that "the lines are getting longer and an acute shortage of gas may occur as soon as Feb. 23."

Presently in Houston, 30 percent of the approximately 1500 service stations are closing on Saturday, while some 96 percent are closed on Sunday, Uresti said. And many of the stations such as his are limiting customer sales to $3 yet this is not enough to ease the pinch of the shortage.

Uresti explained how the stations are allotted gasoline by the Federal Energy Office (FEO). FEO uses the 1972 base sales for the oil companies to decide how much fuel the stations should be given, Uresti said.

Some oil companies have higher allocations than others, Uresti said, because of higher 1972 sales. Such companies as Gulf Oil, he added, are now being forced by FEO to sell their crude oil to companies having lower allocations, at prices lower than those originally paid for the oil by Gulf. "That is called socialism at its highest," Uresti said.

His Texaco station received a February allocation of 60,000 gallons and thus far has sold half of it. He has placed a $3 limit on sales, and speculated he might be able to hold out until the end of the month.

"I've got to make it till the end of the month. My eight employees, like so many other people, rely on that weekly check to live on.

Yet there are some service station operators who take a completely opposite view of the situation. One Gulf dealer said, "The people need gasoline to get to their jobs, and as long as I have it available, I'm going to sell it," he said. His station is open on the weekends, and there is no limit to the amount of gas that can be purchased, he added.

Uresti said these operators should take a closer look at the severity of the problem and realize that the city might come to a standstill unless preventive measures such as limiting sales are enforced.

Gas hoarders haven't helped the problem either Uresti said, telling how people have brought "boats and every kind of receptacle possible" to store the precious gas. However, they go away empty-handed from his station once they reach the $3 limit, he said.

"When people come into my station, they must think hooray for

Dear Steven,

As you know, your mother and I have made great sacrifices to send you through college. The very idea of you asking us if we can send you to Europe this summer is outrageous. The nerve! Your mother and I haven't had a vacation in the last 5 years.

But knowing you, you'll get yourself to Europe someday or other. Well to show you we do want you to enjoy yourself like the other kids, I've sent this STUDENT-RAILPASS coupon your mother clipped out. Because you're a student under 26, you can get unlimited second-class rail travel in 13 countries for up to 2 months for only $165. The trains are clean, modern, punctual, fast, and comfortable. So once you get over there you can see Europe as cheaply as possible.

By the way get your STUDENT-RAILPASS here; you can't buy it in Europe. It's a great deal Steve—tax free and one beautiful way to beat currency fluctuations.

HIGH JUMPING Sidney Edwards (44) returned to classic form last night as the Cougars bounced Biscayne 99-63 before 3,500 fans in Hofheinz Pavilion.

Baldwin quits post

UH freshman football Coach Bobby Baldwin has resigned to accept a job at the University of Kansas.

Baldwin, a Cougar staff member since 1965 and a former UH football player in the '50s, will be the offensive coordinator and backfield for Coach Don Fambrough's Jayhawks.

Baldwin, 41, coached seven seasons in the high school ranks in Texas before joining the Cougars in 1965.

"Bobby did an excellent job for us," said Cougar Head Coach Bill Yeoman. "We certainly wish him the very best at KU."

An offensive coordinator, Baldwin will take on additional responsibility at Kansas and he is looking forward to it.

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate the opportunity Coach Yeoman gave me to get into college coaching. I'll miss the university, but I'm looking forward to installing the veer offense at Kansas."

Baldwin will be joining another former Cougar star on the Kansas staff. Ex-UH quarterback Jimmy Dickey is the defensive coordinator for the Jayhawks.

"We have already decided on the replacement for Bobby," said Yeoman. "However, it will be 10 days to two weeks before we will be able to release anything."

Baldwin's freshman teams at UH played the same type of wide-open ball that has made the Cougar varsity famous. Baldwin's teams averaged nearly 30 points per game and close to 400 yards of total offense per contest.

cats. "Mr. Inside" (Birdsong) and "Mr. Outside" (Hayes) forced thirty Biscayne turnovers, while combining for 21 points and nine assists.

Senior Randy Green and Eddie Riska also proved to be big factors in Houston's 13th win of the season. Lewis wisely shuffled the back court quartet in and out of the contest to "speed up" the action, and to prevent Biscayne from slowing down the ball for the high percentage shots.

Green scored six points while Riska tallied eight.

Maurice Presley, David Marrs, Dave Chapman, Jim Perry, and Shine Nevils also got into the scoring act.

Presley bagged 12 points, while Marrs scored six. Chapman totaled four points, while Nevils and Perry hit two points each. Perry's bucket came on a beautiful arching shot from 35 feet at the final buzzer.

The next outing for the Coogs will be Saturday night, when they battle Northeast Louisiana in the Pavilion. Game time is 8 p.m. with the Cougar Rollers-Easy Riders wheelchair basketball game to precede the contest at 6:15 p.m.

Full agenda for UH teams

A full sports card is on tap for Houston athletes this weekend. UH will have busy competitors in five sports and another waiting in the wings.

Coach Paul Christian's tennis team, impressive in winning the Pan American team tourney last weekend, will open its home schedule today in a 2 p.m. match with Pan American at the Hoff Center on the UH campus.

Lee Merry was the singles champ at the Pan Am tourney, and teammates Bob Ogle and Ross Walker combined to beat Merry and Dale Ogden for the doubles title.

UH's last home swimming meet of the season will be at 7 p.m. tonight. The Coogs will meet the Red Raiders of Texas Tech.

Coach Phil Hansel's team will travel to Austin Saturday for a 2 p.m. meet with the Texas Longhorns.

National powerhouse golfers from UH will be competing in the Pan American International Intercollegiate Tournament in Monterrey, Mexico.

Coach Dave Williams has entered a five-man team of Keith Fergus, Robert Hoyt, Bob Allen, Bobby Brow and Elroy Marti, Jr., in the 54-hole event at the Campestre Country Club.

Coach Johnny Morriss, originally scheduled to travel to LSU, will compete in an outdoor practice meet at San Jacinto JC, while the Cougar basketball team entertains Northeast Louisiana in Hofheinz Pavilion Saturday at 8 p.m.

Gripping 'Dolphin' explores clash between man' nature

By SHEILA BALLARD
Cougar Staff

If you can forget your inhibitions, the mockish attitude this decrepit world has bestowed upon us, you will thoroughly enjoy "Day of the Dolphin," starring George C. Scott and Trish Van Devere, now showing at the Galleria Cinema.

You see, Scott, portraying Dr. Jacob Terrill, talks to dolphins. No, seriously, he really does. That's his job.

But, if that isn't enough for you, they actually talk back to him.

One in particular, Alpha (or Fa for short), is a four-year-old dolphin born and raised in captivity in a highly-specialized laboratory off Key Largo in Florida.

Terrill's days are spent training Alpha to imitate human sounds and phrases and to obey commands. Although this may sound like a routine scientific thriller, it is much more like a love story. You won't leave the theatre with a smirk on your face, but rather with a furrowed brow—for a monumental message comes ringing out loud and clear.

"Day of the Dolphin" is a compelling story of a great man dissatisfied with the ugliness of his world, who foolishly attempts to create a better one through the use of the dolphin. Noble as this may be—it is indeed foolish as we see at the close of the movie—no one can change the entire world, only his place in it.

Charles Delerive's musical score carries the film to great heights of soaring emotions as we get the first glimpse of Scott's relationship with Alpha. Alpha takes the place of the child Terrill never wanted to sire in a world he believed to be plastic and unfeeling.

More than being a great scientific breakthrough in communications and animal behavior, Alpha represents the free spirit each of us possesses which is so often muddled by the mucus-filled world in which we are chained.

One is devastated by the outstanding photography and scenic presentation that capture Scott's sincere appreciation of a sleek body strewn with muscled flesh created by God and untouched by man, as he plays with the dolphin in a thermostatically controlled underwater paradise. It's eerie to watch Scott's demonish features melt into warmth and thick compassion.

Of course, the earth turns on and the big bad world enters to disrupt Terrill and his make-believe castles. Enter the evil middle-aged, money-hungry businessmen who want to use the dolphin's intelligence to assassinate the President.

It is such a shame that the simplicity of the words, "Fa loves Pa" as Alpha often gargles, could not withstand man's pressures. Instead of developing a miracle happening, Terrill is forced to return his "son" to the sea so that the world may never again know an innocence of love.

B.W. STEVENSON ("Shambaya," "Oh, Maria") will be appearing tonight through Sunday at Liberty Hall. Showtimes are 8 and 11 p.m. tonight and Saturday and 8 p.m. Sunday.

KPFT to talk porn

UH Sociology instructor Sheila Sheinberg will appear on Thorne Dreyer's talk show, "The Briarpatch," at 7 p.m. Sunday on KPFT-FM to discuss the movie "Deep Throat."

Sheinberg was a witness for the defense on the recent "Deep Throat" obscenity trial.

Also appearing on the program will be Father Bruce Kelly, priest and attorney, who testified for the prosecution.

"The Briarpatch" is a weekly interview and telephone call-in show on KPFT, radio 90. KPFT welcomes listeners to call 224-4000 during the program to ask questions or make comments.

Have you ever seen debutantes made of celluloid stripping?

No? Well, then come to Program Council's (PC) "The Virgin Film Festival" Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights to witness the debuts.

"The festival provides local amateur film makers an opportunity to show their works as well as offer entertainment at a relatively low price to the viewer," Robin Hurley, co-coordinator of "The Virgin Film Festival," said.

Nine films of varying subject, length, style and quality will be shown and subjected to audience rating each night. The ratings will be tallied to determine the most appreciated "virgin" film. PC will award plaques to the film maker whose films score first, second and third places.

Two of the films, "Five-Fingered Love" and "The Thinker Knows," represent the film making ability of two UH students—Gary Warwick (Pol. Sci.-Jr.) and co-coordinator of the festival and Robert Rees (RTV-Sr.), respectively.

The premier performance of these "virgin" films begins at 7:30 each night in the Coffeehouse, UC Basement. Tickets are $1 and are also good for the Coffeehouse concert of George Ensle and Eric Taylor at 9:30 p.m.

Russian to perform

Russian pianist Vladimi Ashkenazy will appear with the Houston Symphony Orchestra at 8:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in Jones Hall under the baton of Lawrence Foster. Music director Foster is returning to the podium after guest appearances in Munich, Berlin and Israel.

Pianist Ashkenazy will play Prokofiev's Concerto No. 2 in G Minor, Opus 16.

Ashkenazy was born in Gorky in 1937. In 1945, he entered the Central Music School in Moscow where he studied for 10 years with Anaida Sumbatian.

In 1965, he gained international prominence when he was chosen unanimously over 59 other pianists to win the Queen Elizabeth Competition in Brussels.

Ashkenazy now resides in Iceland. He has played with the Houston Symphony once before, in November, 1968.

Tutors chisel away illiteracy

By CAROL HAMES
City Editor

ILLITERATE?
Write Now For Free Booklet!

It's an amusing line, perhaps, but twice a week in Room 5 of Blacksheare Elementary School, illiteracy is no joke.

Sandwiched in by such celebrated titles as "Barney Beagle," "Timothy Turtle," and "Uncle Bear's Pancake Party," Marilyn Hansen can be found

The Census Bureau defines a functional illiterate as a person with less than a sixth grade education, while the U.S. Department of Education describes an illiterate as someone with less than an eighth grade education.

The Harris Poll indicates 20 percent of America is illiterate. Some 11 percent of all Texans are illiterate. In Houston alone, there are 200,000 functional illiterate people.

While the inability to obtain a between starving and eating.

"Blacksheare provides our students," Guy Davis, an elementary school teacher and UH Area Coordinator for BALC, said. "Students are never a problem."

Tutors, however, are a problem—a very big problem. In order to establish a literacy center like Blacksheare (located at 2900 Holman), Hansen usually requires at least 15 volunteers. This particular 4-night teaching session, which will end February 18, had only 8 tutor trainees. Since the Laubach method demands that students be taught on a one-teacher-to-one-student basis, diligent tutors are hard to find.

Tutors usually come from the ranks of those in high school all the way up to octogenarians. There are no educational requirements save the ability to read.

"It's much more important that a tutor be dedicated," Hansen said.

Hansen finds most of her volunteers are white, anglo-saxon protestant women, and it is often difficult to train them to work with impoverished people of minority groups.

"It's part of our sensitivity training to present alternating lifestyles," Hansen said.

There are three types of students which NALA seeks to help—English speaking illiterates, non-English speaking illiterates, and students who are in school but require extensive reading tutoring.

Tutors are taught to become friends with their students, and to cut "no!" out of their vocabulary. "Insert laughter into the lesson wherever possible," the lesson plan says, and "offer your help and encouragement as if you were a willing servant of royalty."

However, the willing servants of royalty must stay with their students until they have learned to read, which may take as long as six months, depending on the abilities of both student and tutor. Volunteers who do not feel they can remain with a student until he reaches his independent reading level are discouraged from volunteering.

The independent reading level is defined as the level at which a student makes two or less reading errors in a 100-word passage and comprehends at least three-fourths of the main ideas.

Those interested in "teaching a man to fish so he will feed himself and his family all his life," may contact Hansen at 353-1044 or Guy Davis at 641-1037 after 5 p.m. There is a $5 registration fee to cover the cost of teaching materials.

HANSEN

If your project is for a year, sow a seed.

If it is for ten years, plant a tree.

If a hundred, teach the people.

If you reap once only — it will be a one time thing.

Planting a tree, it will be tenfold.

Teaching the people the result is hundredfold.

If you give a man a fish,
he will be nourished once.

If you teach him to fish, he will feed himself and his family all his life.

standing in front of her easel in Room 5 every Monday and Wednesday night from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. As public relations chairperson of the National Affiliation for Literacy Advance (NALA), she came to Houston from Baton Rouge's Operation Upgrade to train volunteer tutors for the Bay Area Literacy Council.

"You can see how humiliating it is to be faced with something you can't make heads or tails of," Hansen said as she pointed to the easel in front of the volunteers on which appeared some Russian alphabet characters. "You see, Russian letters can be made to look like objects, and this is the same method used to teach English illiterates," she added.

"Is everyone on the same page? This sounds very patronizing, but it's very important to make sure everyone is on the same page to begin with. Otherwise it will make for built-in frustrations," Hansen said, as she asked the volunteers to look at their teaching materials.

Hansen uses what is known as the Laubach method of teaching illiterate people to read. It has been in use since 1930 and has helped illiterates in 105 countries and has been taught in 315 languages and dialects—more have learned by this method than any other. Hansen calls it a key picture-word association. "It goes from the known to the unknown—a methodology," she said.

Rape investigation often humiliating

Rape is a traumatic experience but often the police investigation and trial are more humiliating than the assault.

Sharon Moline-Vincent of the Harris County Women's Political Caucus (HCWPC) and UH Women's Advocate, Allison Korn, hope to help change the situation.

The formation of a rape investigation division staffed only by women was a main topic when Korn and HCWPC met with Houston Police Chief Carroll Lynn recently.

"We found Lynn very receptive to our problems," Korn said. "He agreed to form an advisory committee for matters of affirmative action."

Korn said she feels few rapes get reported because women are reluctant to go through the degrading investigation by male detectives.

"Rape victims," Moline-Vincent added, "are often asked questions like 'Have you ever had sexual intercourse before? What did you do to entice the act?' A woman feels she is on trial."

Houston Police Homicide Division's Lt. Breck Porter said the three women detectives in homicide investigate nearly 100 per cent of all sex-related crimes.

"That just can't be true," Moline-Vincent said. "There were 503 rapes reported in Houston last year. It is impossible to believe three women could investigate even a majority of them."

More women detectives is a step toward the solution of the problem. "Homicide is crying for more women. The only barrier is passing the promotional exam for detective," Porter said.

Presently out of 2100 policemen in Houston only 44 are women. Korn said all the police recruitment ads have a masculine slant making it unlikely any women would respond.

Another positive step would be the formation of a rape crisis center. Moline-Vincent is spearheading an operation to create a counseling service available for rape victims who need it.

"There is a great feeling of isolation and loneliness after a woman has been assaulted," Moline-Vincent said. "Our victims tell us they would like a service that would help combat the emotional shock of the act, investigation and trial."

A third step could be to have rape classified as felonious assault. Moline-Vincent feels it would de-emphasize the sexual overtones and result in more justice to the victims.

GAS — —

(Continued from Page 5) me and to hell with you. Those are the kind of people that raise my fur," Uresti said. However, he has noticed that citizens are taking the shortage more seriously now that a total shortage is a near-possibility.

And the boost in gas prices is making people travel less, Uresti said. In Houston, the average cost of a gallon of regular gasoline is about 44 cents, he said, with premium running about 47 cents. Uresti speculated the price of a gallon of gas will probably taper off at 50 cents.
