ISO charter passed; ends fall probation

By CALVIN SPEER
Staff Writer

The International Student's Organization was removed from probation Feb. 9 after UH Organizations Board unanimously approved its new constitution, ISO President Urooj Hussain said Monday.

Organizations Board began an investigation of ISO last November after Yrama Roman D'Alisera, who ran for ISO president in September, filed a complaint stating the election was not conducted in accordance with ISO's constitution.

While investigating this charge, Organizations Board found that ISO's constitution was not in accordance with Organizations Board's guidelines.

On Nov. 10, 1977, ISO was put on probation for the remainder of the fall semester.

An ad hoc committee, headed by campus activities advisor Eve Varellas, was established to draft a new constitution. The organizations that make up ISO were polled to determine if the September election results should stand.

Hussain, who was elected president, said he would freeze the committee and form one of his own with people from as many different countries as possible.

Organizations Board was at fault for the illegal constitution, and it was up to them to check on the constitution of each organization, Hussain said.

Norhon Holiday, Organizations Board secretary, said that it is not the board's job to check constitutions. Organizations Board receives complaints and judges whether or not an organization is in violation of university, state or federal law governing organizations on campus.

It would take a full staff and many man-hours to review every constitution filed since 1968, Holiday said.

The results of the poll taken by the board showed that the other organizations are in favor of upholding the September elections.

Solar energy plan to heat, cool house

By JAN RICH
Asst. News Editor

Members of the professional architectural fraternity, Alpha Rho Chi, are installing a new solar heating and cooling system in their fraternity house at 5012 Calhoun.

"We are going to see how much energy we can provide to the house—what percentage of their (heating) bill can be cut," Ronnie Grogan, a graduate architecture student who designed the system, said Monday.

He predicted the new solar system will save the fraternity house 25 to 50 percent on heating bills.

The new system is being installed on the roof and walls of the house's side porch. The system consists of two layers of transparent plastic separated by six to eight inches of dead air space. Grogan said the new system is "passive, meaning it doesn't take energy to run."

Sunlight will come through the transparent plastic and rise to the roof of the porch. Three upstairs windows below the roof of the porch will be open to let the heated air through the house. This utilizes thermal siphoning," Grogan said.

Since hot air rises, the upstairs windows will be closed during the summer and a vent in the roof of the porch will let hot air out.

Fraternity members decided to construct the solar heating and cooling system because the side porch of the house needed repairs. "The side porch of the house needed repairs and this will provide a study of installing the system into an existing structure because most systems under study today are designed for houses which are being built," he said.

Candidates forum

A panel of candidates for the presidency of Students' Association will present their platforms Thursday.

The UH Political Science Organization has invited the seven students seeking SA's top job to participate in the panel from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the World Affairs Lounge, UC Underground.

Dr. Ross Lence, assistant professor of political science, will moderate the program. Each candidate will give a five-minute presentation in the order they appear on the ballot.

With the resignation last week of Harold W. Scott as controller of finances, UH saw the third recent departure of a high-ranking officer in the university's financial structure. These exits came at a rather dubious time in UH history—in the midst of a major financial scandal involving millions of UH dollars.

Of course, the administration and its public relations officers claim the investigation into the university's short-term investments is unrelated to the resignation of Scott, the early retirement of treasurer J. Treadway Brogdon or the phasing out of Douglas Mac Lean, vice chancellor for financial and management services. But to put it bluntly, we don't believe this is the case.

Piecing together the actions of the administration and statements from Chancellor Barry Munitz, it becomes apparent that there is a relationship between the investigation and the changes in personnel. The relationship, however, is an indirect one.

The investigation did not cause these personnel changes. But both the investigation and the personnel changes came about because of the state of chaos which infected the financial division of the university.

When Munitz took over as chief administrator of the Central Campus, he began examining the university's student, academic and financial divisions. He discovered the Ginnie Maes pyramid of financial analyst Samuel Harwell, along with the fact that there was much disarray and dead weight in the financial division.

The investigation and dismantling of UH's intricate involvement in the high-risk government securities market began soon afterward. Simultaneously, Munitz began removing what he considered some of the dead weight.

Brogdon's early retirement was probably completely unrelated to the investigation. As treasurer, Brogdon was a UH System officer, not directly involved in the detailed daily financial operations of the Central Campus. Also, he had been planning an early retirement for a long time prior to the investment scandal.

Mac Lean and Scott, however, were the top two administrators over daily financial operations. Munitz and others use mumbo-jumbo phrases to describe what happened to these two, but when those phrases

editorial

Munitz: pushing a broom are translated into English, Munitz got rid of Mac Lean and Scott.

Improvements are certainly needed in the financial division. Neither Scott nor his staff would allow the public complete scrutiny of the records he kept, even though by law they are in the public domain.

A former secretary in the controller's office once said the reason no one was allowed to go back themselves to look at the financial records was that the office's record-keeping system was too complicated, and the staff "just didn't have the time to take people back there." This hardly resembles free access to information. If the financial records at UH are this disorganized, a change is certainly warranted.

This is just one indication of why Munitz is removing the dead weight in the financial division. It will be a long time before we know whether the new blood will be any better. But a change is certainly in order.

Letters:

Review, 'Throat' rapped

To the Editor,

I am writing this letter to comment on the review written by the Arts and Amusements Editor, John Atkinson, of the play "Echelon." (Cougar Jan. 27). The play in its simplest form is designed to give the audience an idea of how war affects the lives of women and children. The loss of husbands and fathers as well as the evacuation of refugees are the critical points the author is stressing to the audience.

The Cougar editor said, "Alley's production of 'Echelon' misses the train." I, as well as anyone I have talked to this week, definitely disagree. The play did a very good job of portraying the critical issues of war. Mr. Atkinson also stated that the play "moves with all the pace and conviction of an episode of Marcus Welby." How can this be said of a play that ends with the train being bombed and several of the occupants being wounded or killed? Now, how many times has someone died on Marcus Welby? I believe that John Atkinson must have been the only person to leave during the performance as he evidently did not see the complete play. I would also like to suggest that he read a professional's review before he influences, perhaps wrongly, the majority of the people who enjoy the "fine arts" at the University of Houston.

Wallace St. John

P.S. I do not know anyone directly or indirectly related with this play or the Alley Theatre.

To the Editor:

I would like to protest the showing of the film, "Deep Throat," on our campus. Yes, I realize the Policy Board sanctioned it, also that many of my inquisitive classmates shucked some bucks to see it.

But, I want to register my disgust at the exploitation of women which this film, and others like it, represents.

Come now, aren't we getting a bit old to gleefully watch couples copulate, or even worse, go through other physical gymnastics done in the name of sex?

What happens to those who get their kicks from this type of thing, but then begin to experience the law of diminishing returns that creeps across their empty hearts? What new and more degrading acts will need to take place to fulfill them?

National Review (Nov., 1976), succinctly points out the new trend in pornography as evidenced in movies like "Deep Throat": "Naked breasts alone must not suffice to sell copies anymore; the emphasis is on the genitals, with the suggestion of female degradation and depravity abounding. The woman in the new porn exists not to be glamorized but humiliated."

I can almost hear the yelps from those against censorship, but who will dare to stand up for true righteousness and the sanctity of the human body? Where are the "rights" of the common, decent person who is offended by blatant sexual displays, yet becomes an object of written and verbal abuse when he protests?

Centuries ago, these words were spoken, "The good person expresses good from the good that is stored in his heart, and the evil person expresses evil from the evil that is stored in his heart. For from the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks." In-criminating, eh?

BSU's opposition 'misjudged'

Two members of the Black Student Union have complained that their opposition to the showing of "Roots" on campus was misrepresented at a recent meeting of the UC Policy Board.

Valda Combs, a member of BSU's project committee, said Monday her group resolved its scheduling conflict with Program Council prior to the Policy Board meeting, and no formal complaint was ever filed.

Combs said the original conflict occurred when one of BSU's Black History Month events, a showing of the film "Malcolm X," was scheduled for Feb. 23, the same day "Roots" was being presented by PC.

But the times of the showings were rearranged, and "Malcolm X" will be shown at 1 and 7 p.m., while "Roots" will be shown at 5 p.m., Combs said. UC Policy Board chair Allen Youngblood told the Cougar Friday that several members of BSU had complained to Bill Scott, UC director, about the PC program. That is the way many complaints come to the board's attention, he added.

'Deep Throat' rakes in cash

"Deep Throat," the pornographic film which attracted so much national attention that it was one of the highest grossing films in history, did the same when it was brought to the UH Central Campus Jan. 31.

Program Council sponsored the film. PC treasurer Martin Cominsky said Monday that "Deep Throat" grossed $1,900 in the five showings which sold out. PC will net $950 from the film, he said.

PC originally scheduled three showings but as the showing began to sell out and more students showed up to buy tickets, two other showings were scheduled.

Cominsky said PC would consider another showing of the film, but could not bring it back until next semester.

Cougars blast SMU, 95-55

By DAVID MUNDY
Sports Editor

The Houston Cougars scored 16 consecutive points before Southern Methodist University ever made a dent in the scoreboard and coasted to a 95-55 victory over the Mustangs last night in Hofheinz Pavilion.

The win, SMU's worst loss in history, moves the Cougar record to 19-7 on the season and 9-5 in conference, assuring them home-court advantage in the opening round of the Southwest Conference tournament.

UH's hustling press attack, anchored by Ken Ciolli and Kenny Williams, sparked the Coogs to the 16-point lead they held with less than five minutes gone in the contest. SMU's Gordon Welch sank a pair of free throws for the first Mustang points in the game, then another basket by UH's Mike Schultz and a pair of freebies by Charles Thompson ran the score to 20-2. SMU never threatened after that.

Four Cougars scored in double figures, led by Cecile Rose's 23 points. Williams added 14 and Schultz and Thompson chipped in 13 apiece, with freshman Chuck O'Neill hitting eight in the final minutes. Eleven of the 12 Coogs seeing action scored.

Gordon Welch scored 10 for SMU, all in the first half, with T. J. Robinson adding an equal number of points. Reggie Franklin, who sank a last-second shot enabling SMU to defeat the Cougars Jan. 23 in Dallas, 76-75, was held scoreless in this contest.

The Cougars outrebounded SMU 71-39, with Rose pulling down 15, Thompson 14 and Schultz 13.

"We had all those big guys in there—Ciolli, Williams and Rose," said UH coach Guy Lewis with a grin.

UH placed fourth with 900 strokes at the Sixth Annual Pan American International College tournament in Monterrey, Mexico Feb. 9 thru 11.

Brigham Young finished first with 863 strokes, Oklahoma State second with 874 and Oral Roberts third with 897.

David Edwards from Oklahoma

State won the individual championship with a total of 210.

UH individual performances were John Stark with 222, Fred Couples, 226, Blaine McCallister, 226, Chris Mitchell, 226 and Butch Girard, 231.

UH faces its third tournament against Lamar next Monday and Tuesday in Beaumont, Texas.

UH's Chet Thompson (44) and George Walker (34) tip the ball above the grasp of SMU's Gordon Welch in second-half action last night. The win puts the Cougar record at 19-7 for the season and 9-5 in the SWC.

Cougars win...

"There weren't any last-second shots tonight, were there?" Lewis commented. "When we went up to Dallas, we had to hang on to a five-point lead most of the game. There wasn't any hanging on tonight.

"Defense was the key to this one—there's no doubt about it," he added. "It was super."

Everything was super this night for UH. They could do little wrong. Although the Coogs hit only 20 of 49 shots in the first half, for example, SMU connected on a mere seven of 35. UH outrebounded the Mustangs 41-18 in the first half alone.

Another example could be the dunk shot by Cedric Fears at the 8:46 mark in the first half. The unfortunate Cougar had thrice been cited for offensive goaltending in previous games while attempting stuffs. This one, however, was good.

The Cougars led 45-21 at the half.

Women whip North Texas; Gardley, Anderson key win

By JACKIE MOSCARELLI
Sports Writer

UH's Cheryl Gardley and teammate Kip Anderson are on a "Juice" streak—that is, they're as hot lately for the women Coogs as Kenny (The Juice) Williams is for the men.

Monday night's game against North Texas State (NTS) was no exception, as Gardley and Anderson keyed in UH's defeat of NTS 73-66.

Gardley came off the bench late in the first half, and before the game ended, was UH's highest scorer with 22 points.

Anderson was UH's second highest scorer with 12 points.

Gardley and Anderson's performances were enhanced by Sharion Higgins' and Ann Moon's 10 points apiece, and Linda Holland came off the bench to make eight points.

UH didn't score until Anderson's basket with 18:24 into the first half. NTS, Texas' fifth-ranked team, didn't score until 17:23 into the first half.

The second half was a repeat of the first, with both teams scoring late and staying close.

Finally, UH took a lead and never relinquished it even when it appeared NTS would rally.

A pleased UH coach Dot Woodfin commented, "We're finally getting a well-balanced team. We've got five girls out there that have to be covered—and that's what we've been counting on."

UH won consolation in the City of Houston Women's Basketball Tournament held in Fonde Recreation Center this weekend.

UH began the tournament by beating Prairie View Thursday, 72-44.

At Fonde last Friday, UH beat Mississippi 67-59.

Saturday produced two losses for UH: one to Baylor 76-67, and a squeaker to Texas Tech 58-54.

UH's Brenda Lee and Sharion Higgins were selected to the tournament's All-Star team.

UH's Ann Moon (50) and Brenda Lee (32) battle North Texas State's Kathy Acker (44) for possession of a rebound in last night's 73-66 Lady Coog win.

Hill probing nursing homes

Texas Attorney General John L. Hill will be on campus Wednesday to conduct a public hearing on nursing homes in Houston and the surrounding area.

A nursing home task force, part of the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office, has examined the physical and financial conditions of over 100 nursing homes across the state.

Mrs. Sidney (Bert Kruger) Smith of the Executive Association of the Hogg Foundation, U.S. Rep. Bob Eckhart, State Rep. Mickey Leland and local consumer protection reporter Marvin Zindler are among those who have requested time to testify at the hearing. Proceedings begin at 9 a.m. in Krost Hall, UH College of Law, and will conclude at 5 p.m.

Paul McCoy, a task force coordinator, said there are open blocks of time for individuals who did not arrange to testify in advance but wish to do so. The attorney general's office is also accepting written statements from individuals who are unable to testify.

THAT WAS REALLY DEPRESSING.

Officer sues writer

TYLER, Texas (AP)—Author Thomas Thompson testified Monday that handwritten notes he used in writing "Blood and Money" contain a remark by Longview policeman John Raymer that Raymer had run people out of town.

Thompson was the first witness in a $1.5 million libel suit Raymer has brought against Thompson and North Branch Corp., a company headed by Thompson which holds the copyright for the non-fiction bestseller.

Raymer claims that a portion of the book dealing with his fatal shooting of Bobby Vandiver depicts him forcing people out of town without giving them due process.

Thompson acknowledged in cross-examination that it is "a serious matter for policemen to run people out of town."

The writer said he used his own comments and observations when writing a factual story to make the account "as vivid and interesting as possible."

Raymer contends he was exposed to ridicule, public hatred and financial injury in the portion of the book dealing with the death of Vandiver in an eating place during Raymer's attempt to arrest him. He seeks $500,000 for actual damages and $1 million in exemplary damages.
